SAC Reports:

Organizations Urged To Update By-Laws

Dr. Fred Taylor, chairman of the Student Affairs Committee, recently announced a Uniform Constitution and By-Laws Committee to submitting new or revised constitutions and by-laws of student organizations.

"Copies of the procedure," he said, "will be sent to all organizations. We hope that this may not be too much for some, but it is a suggestion for new consti- tutions and by-laws for student organizations.

The SAC has the job of approving all campus organizational consti- tutions and their changes. Taylor said he hopes the four points suggested in the procedure will give them information enough to write a standard constitution. He added that some organizations have made no changes in their constitutions or by-laws for twen- ty years.

Vending Machine Policy

In other action, the group decided to continue an accumulated fund year 1963-64. The provisions now in effect for distribution of pro- fits from campus vending ma- chines. Although the Student Union bought all machines last year, student organizations which owned them previously will con- tinue to receive all profits after electric bills have been subtracted from gross receipts.

All profits from machines own- ed and operated solely by the Uni- on, return to a general fund. In the future, student organizations or other campus agencies may re- quest from the SAC funds to spon- sor social or cultural activities or organizational projects for their constituents. The requests will be considered on individual merit.

With the intent of putting "we" into the policy on student solicitors or salesmen of any kind re- quest from the SAC, they will be required to submit an application and a letter of recommendation from the director of Communications, Robert Crom, chairman of the Student Conduct Subcommittee.

SAC reports that they will be submitted this week to the SAC, said Dr. Taylor, and after approval, be sent to the president's office with the recom- mendation that they be implement- ed wherever feasible," he said.

Dates Announced

For One Act Plays

Performance dates have been set for eight productions to be presented this month at North Dakota State University.

Three one-act children's plays will be performed on Friday after- noon at 4 p.m. and Saturday at 17 and 18. "The City Mouse and the Country Mouse," directed by Joan Scott, will feature children in the balcony; "The Golden Goose," directed by Marilyn Mann, will have one child in a bit part, but will feature NDSU stu- dents in the major roles. "Fun-in-Boots," under Mary Walrath's di- rection, will have an all-college cast.

Performances of these three plays, designed for children six to twelve, will be given in the Little Country Theater at 4 p.m. on Fri- day and again at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Two internationally-famous au- thors will have their (Continued on page 12)

POLIO CLINIC TODAY

The last of three oral polio vaccine clinics is being held in the NDSU Fieldhouse between the hours of 7-9 p.m. on Wednesday, May 19.

Type IIB vaccine is being ad- ministered.

There is a $10 charge for each sugar lump, but anyone who cannot pay will not be embarrassed or turned away. A signed parental permission if one has not been given for one of the two previous clinics. They need only bring the registration form received at one of the past clinics. Everyone must fill out a regis- teration form however.

Commencement Ceremonies To Honor Four North Dakota State Students

Four leaders in research, government and education, who graduated from NDSU, will be honored at the commencement ceremonies June 2. They will receive Distinguished Achievement Awards from R.R. Blackwell.

The four recipients are: Dr. Harald Benson, chairman of biology, Life Sciences Division, Stanford Research Institute, California; Dr. Kent Darrow, associate professor of pharmacology, University of Illinois; and Governor William Guy.

Two of the recipients take part in the morning Commencement exercises and two in the afternoon. As this year NDSU will have two ceremonies. Governor Benson and Dr. Halcrow will partici- pate in the morning ceremonies. The afternoon ceremonies will be included in this program.

Dr. Darrow and Dr. Benson will receive their awards in the afternoon ceremonies.

The Achievement Awards are to four former students at NDSU. They recognize their outstanding achievement in the field of their study.

Dr. Benson

Dr. Benson was chosen for his role in the development of several drugs, including some of the sulfonamides, isonicoty- nine derivatives, PAS and morphinans. He received his pharmacy degree from NDSU in 1939 and earned a Ph.D. degree from the University of Florida before going on to receive his M.D. and Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin.

While at Wisconsin he was a recipient of the Borden Medical Research Award. He worked for Hoffman-LaRoche, a pharmaceutical manufacturer for two years as a senior pharmacologist and later chairman of the pharmacology department.

Dr. Halcrow

Dr. Halcrow is an authority on government and public finance. He taught at North Dakota State College for 21 years and then received his M.D. degree at the University of Minnesota, where he received his M.D. degree in 1946, following his service in the Navy.

Summer vacation is just around the corner and naturally all of you are going to Europe. Perhaps I can offer a handy tip or two. (I must confess that I have never been to Europe, but I do have a French puppy and a German shepherd, so I am not entirely unqualified.)

First let me say that no trip to Europe is complete without a visit to England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Liechtenstein, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Poland, and Austria. However, the tourist to France, Germany, Estonia, Russia, Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania, Crete, Sandiego, Italy, Hungry, Rumania, Bulgaria, Lapland, and Andorra. Let us take up these countries in order. First, England.

The capital of England is London—or Liverpool, as it is sometimes called. There are many interesting things to see in London—chiefly the changing of the guards. The guards are changed daily. The old ones are thrown away.

Another “must” while in London is a visit to the palace of the Duke of Marlborough. Marlborough was the Duke of Marlborough, but pronounced Marlboro. English spelling is very quaint, but terribly disorganized. The late George Bernard Shaw, author of Little Women, fought all his life to simplify English spelling. They tell a story about Shaw once asking a friend, “What does go-to-i spell?”

The friend pondered a bit and replied, “Goatee.”

Shaw sniggered. “Polah,” said Shaw. “Go-to-i does not spell goatee. It spells fish.”

“Now that’s what I call the friend.”

Shaw answered, “Oh, as in goatee, o as in goatee, in as in position. Put them together, you get fish.”

This was very dear of Shaw when you consider that he was a vegetarian. And a good thing he was. As Disraeli once remarked to Guy Fawkes, “If Shaw were not a vegetarian, no lamb chop in London would be safe.”

But I digress. We were speaking of the palace of the Duke of Marlborough—or Marlboro, as it is spelled in the United States. It is called Marlboro by every smoker who enjoys a fine, rich breed of tobacco, who appreciates a pure white filter, who likes a soft pack that is really soft, a Flip-Top box that really flips.

The reason for this is the fine, rich, tobacco which makes for a soft, smooth burn. The guards at the Tower of London are called Beefeaters, and this is not merely a name. The guards have leaders, scholars, and have equal chance to join a fraternity. The Greeks, in defense, point out that they are parties to a dying age on this campus. They fail to realize that NU students can get along without them, although this is not particularly true in the past.

The Greeks, in defense, point out that their members hold most of the high positions on campus. They go as far as to say that the school couldn’t get along without the leadership of the fraternities and sororities. Any fool should be able to realize that this is a fallacy.

A good many schools manage to provide a adequate education and a lively social life for their students without any Greek organizations.

The reason is that leaders are developed before they come to college. Just because they prefer to join fraternities and sororities when they are available, they would still be leaders on any campus.

Thus the idea that NDSU can’t get along without the Greeks is a laugh. As far as providing a place to sleep and study, the Greeks are going to be replaced by large dormitories and contract feeding.

The Greeks on this campus have been lucky in the past because this school has a poor range of social fraternities. A man can come from the farm, for example, and have equal chance to join a Greek letter organization. Thus are cheaper in comparison to many other campuses, and the social life is not as demanding. However, one has to be rich and an exceptional student to be a member of the fraternity.

For this reason, the Greeks are not unprofitable or richer than the average Joe College. In the future, the fraternities are going to have to push more with more in order to be the most popular.

If you are planning to go to Europe, make sure you have some idea of what you are going to see and what you are going to do. Necessary travel must include the major cities of Europe, such as London, Paris, Rome, and Greece.

Dear Reader:

I would like to thank the student body and the people of the State of North Dakota for their support of the Athletic Program for the past seven years.

My family and I have enjoyed Fargo and the State of North Dakota. Everyone who has lived, and our associations with the University have been excellent.

I hope that my successor will be able to place a strong, successful body and the people of this state a high caliber type of program which the University and the State so badly need.

Sincerely,

L. Les Luymes
Director of Athletics & Student Activities
North Dakota State University

From the Sports Desk:...

North Dakota State University Athletic Director L. Les Luymes resigned last week.

Mr. Luymes reported at NDSU in 1966 as head football coach and athletic director. His gridiron machine gave NDSU their first winning season since 1992. He was given the North Dakota "Coach of the Year" award by the state's sportswriters for amassing the most wins.

Mr. Luymes came to State from St. Cloud Teachers College where he was head basketball and baseball coach for eight years.

With the announcement of his resignation, the NDSU athletic situation over the athletic situation here. People will all agree there is definitely some confusion.

With the main area that needs building at the present time is along the line of the campus library. The student body has decided upon, would promote prices three if not more changes. Changes.

Fourteen delegates from the NDSU Newman Center attended the Fifth Annual Minkota Province Convention in Grand Forks this weekend of April 29-30.

NDSU Delegate Chosen For Province Office
Ronald Kiedrowski, AAS Jr., was elected Province 1st Vice Chairman in charge of Extension at the Plenary Session Saturday morning. Ron’s duties as Extension Chairman include supervision of membership programs throughout the province, aiding in the establishment of new Centers, and setting up an alumni program. Chief among his duties next year will be aiding the four Regional Directors in the Province.

NDSU Student Heads North Dakota Newman Centers
Dennis Sohstak, Ag Jr., was elected Regional Director of the Province at the Regional Meeting May 1st. The Region I comprises all of the Newman Centers in North Dakota and Moorhead State and is the largest region in the province in number of clubs, members, and voting power. As director, Dennis will preside over the regional meeting scheduled for November in Dickinson.

The convention attracted about 380 delegates from Newman Centers in North Dakota, South Dakota, and Minnesota. Father Richard Butler, the National Newman Federation Chaplain from Chicago was the keynote speaker. In his opening remarks Friday evening, he emphasized the importance of leadership, charity, and participation in the Newman movement. The keynote speech was followed by the meeting of the Provincial Executive Council, held concurrently with a dance for the delegates-at-large.

Saturday morning, the plenary session of the Province Convention elected new provincial officers and discussed amendments to the constitution. This session ended at noon with a mass offered by His Excellency, Leo F. Dzwonok, Bishop of Fargo.

The banquet held that evening was celebrated by the program of lecturers on Saturday afternoon. He was followed by Sister Anne of St. Mary’s College, Brother Basil from Winona, and Father Sullivan of St. Louis University. Father Butler summed up and closed the Saturday afternoon sessions.

The banquet Saturday evening highlighted the convention for the majority of the delegates, who were privileged to head a welcome from Dr. Starche, President of UND. Chris Hernandez, the outgoing Council of Religious staff, presented his farewell address and introduced Dick Mallows, the Chairman-elect from South Dakota State College.

A local committee for arrangements and conduct of the program is headed by Dr. Arthur B. Ward of the University staff. Program details for the Institute are being worked out by A.I.C. President J. K. Stern of Washington D.C., a national planning committee, Nebraska co-ops, and faculty members of the University of Nebraska.

"We are making special plans to dramatize Nebraska's agricultural and historical features for the Institute visitors," according to John Edam, president of the Omaha Bank for Cooperatives and chairman of the Institute.

The program will cover the latest developments and trends in farm marketing, production, credit and services offered by cooperatives, according to Edam. Nearly 200 leading farm business specialists and educators from all over the country are being scheduled as speakers.

In addition to the adult program, there will be four days of youth educational activities expected to draw some 1,000 farm youth. Details for the Institute are being worked out by a special youth program committee.

Dr. Lana Seeks To Produce Redder, Hardier Tomatoes

by Mary Breithaupt

A Navy Seabee, a stamp collector, a teacher, a researcher - these are some of the activities underwritten by Dr. Edward L. Lana.

Dr. Lana, chairman of the horticulture department, is a part-time teacher and part-time reseacher, as are the majority of his staff. Horticulture includes studies of fruit, vegetables, and ornamentals.

Before coming to North Dakota State University in 1960, he did his initial research staff assignments at Iowa State College where he was working with his specialty, plant breeding. This he did mainly with tomatoes and other vegetable crops.

The research that he does now is more general. Two projects he is carrying on are potato and tomato breeding. He hopes for a disease resistant potato and a better tomato with a redder color.

Research is carried on with tomatoes because of environmental conditions of North Dakota. At one time in North Dakota it was very difficult to grow tomatoes.

He continued to say that when in the past 35 years, seventeen varieties of tomatoes have been developed. When tomato varieties were released, that was an improvement over the standard imported types made available to the grower.

Now they are more particular and they may turn down selections which were not as many are being released as in the past.

A native of Minnesota, Dr. Lana attended the University of Minnesota where he obtained his B.S. in 1942, M.S. in 1943 and his Ph.D. in 1948. Intersecting his college career, World War II came and Uncle Sam called him into the navy.

Almost two years of his military career were spent in the South Pacific on the New Hebrides Islands. He was with the Navy Construction Battalion and in charge of a malaria control unit.

About his job there he commented: "I got a chance to get out and visit with the natives so I saw more of the average person has a chance to see."

In his spare time he is a stamp collector, a hobby he started as a boy. Among other things he collects old cars and has his family join him on his fishing excursions.

The "we" he is referring to are his wife, Roberta and their children, Catherine, John and Peter. Catherine is a student at NDSU.

Dr. Lana's pet peeve is people who gripe about the weather. "If it's cold you hear them gripe. If it's hot you hear them gripe. As long as his car starts in the morning I'm happy," he commented.

Dr. Lana feels that a possible solution to the suitcase student is the Saturday classes. He remembers the class that he taught at Iowa State from 11 to 12 p.m. that was attended by the Saturday classes.

Bison Baseball Team Wins Three Conference Games From South Dakota State---First Place In NCC

by Dave Pollock

The NDSU baseball team swept into first place in the North Central Conference after weekend victories. The Bison beat South Dakota State in doubleheader action Friday and in single action Saturday.

Pitching played a key role in the Bison's victories. Dick Clementson pitched a sharp two-hit game and was played with many victories. The Bison beat South Dakota State in doubleheader action and sloppy fielding. The pitching played a key role in the Bison's success.

The Bison got all the runs they needed in the first inning of South Dakota starter Mel Ott. Al Breuer led off with a walk, stole second, and then crossed the plate on Jerry Rivin's double. Propp struck out and McKennedy singled and Rivin scored, to put the Bison 2-0.

Heinz fell into trouble one time in the sixth when he loaded bases with two outs, but the sharp little right-hander struck out the next man to assure his victory with a score of 5-1.

The Bison got all the runs they needed in the first inning off South Dakota starter Mel Ott. Al Breuer led off with a walk, stole second, and then crossed the plate on Jerry Rivin's double. Propp struck out and McKennedy singled and Rivin scored, to put the Bison 2-0.

Coach of the Bison team Roger Shelstad related it was the first two runs in the opening innings that helped the Bison on to victory. "We put the pressure on from the start," commented Shelstad.

This is the first time in several years that NDSU has had a baseball team on top of the NCC. This weekend will be the second of six conference games for the Bison.

In the game on Saturday, sophomore pitcher, Jim Heinz, pitched the victory for the Bison. He went smoothly through nine innings, not allowing a run.

The Bison have to win two of three games to stay on top of the NCC.

Larry Exel, 1962 graduate of UND, has been named freshmen basketball and baseball coach for the Bison in a recent announcement by Les Leyens, athletic director. Exel will begin his duties in those positions September 1.

The former Sioux athlete was outstanding in baseball at Roosevelt High School in Minneapolics. He led them to the state championship and earned an all-state award in 1956.

At UND he was named to the all-star NCC baseball team and served as Sioux captain for two years. He was also named to the all-conference basketball team in his senior year at UND.

"It looks like Mr. Exel may have some good qualifications for coaching athletics here. His record is certainly worth merit. Next year NDSU will have quite a few new faces in high positions, ranging from a new dean of men to union director to athletic director. wonder how we will fare? I would say we will fare in some major changes, good or bad no one knows, but it is an area of major interest to all students."

The Bison track team pulled down another victory—they won the Bison invitational by playing better than six other area colleges. In these positions September 1.
“Pajama Game” ticket sales chairman who received $25 each for their efforts in securing leading sales are, from left to right: Bill Ramussen, ATO, for first place in the men’s division; Nancy Avery, XKG, for first place in the women’s division; and Gerald Niits, TKE, for second place in the men’s division. Other cash awards were given to those individuals who sold 250 tickets, and to those groups which sold a minimum of $250 worth.

YM-YW Banquet Fetes Members

Men and women students at North Dakota State University received recognition for their work in the YMCA and YWCA at the annual campus joint banquet, May 1.

Eight men received awards as recognition of their service to the “Y” and student cabinet. C. O. Anderson, chairman of the board, presented the awards to Verlyn Anderson, chairman of the board, Richard Zaylskie, James Gullickson, Tom Feigum, Lee Grimerson, and Walter Mundstock.

Mrs. Thomas d’Errico, chairman of the YWCA board, presented recognition gifts to three seniors; Ann Bertelson, Stella Crary, and Judith Saunders.

Dave Nelson received a special award for outstanding service at YMCA president at NDSU for the past year. An intramural basketball trophy was also presented to the “Y” basketball team.

A special citation was given to David Lindstrom for his work as general secretary of the NDSU “YM” during the past year. He and his wife will serve as directors of the Work Seminars at the University of Minnesota next summer.

Dates Announced

(Continued from page 3) shorter works presented for adult audiences the following week. A trio of Tennessee Williams one-act plays will be performed on May 23 and 24. They include “The Strangest Kind of Romance,” directed by Charlene Herman, “Moxney’s Kid Don’t Cry,” directed by Teddy Kemp, and “The Case of the Crushed Petunias,” directed by Nancy Flatt.

Anton Chekov, the noted Russian writer, will be represented by two of his one-act dramas, “The Hour” and “Swan Song,” to be directed by Ken Hafner and Jerome Enzner, respectively. The Chekov dramas will be staged on May 23 and 24. Like the Tennessee Williams plays, they will be presented in the Circle T Theatre.

Each of the one act plays is being directed by a student from the Speech 310 Directing class under the guidance of the instructor, Miss Constance West.

NDSU and UND Air ROTC Units

To Train May 10

Air Force ROTC cadets from the University of North Dakota and North Dakota State University will be participating in a special period of intensive training May 10-12 at Wadena Air Force Station, Wadena, Minnesota.

As part of this Air Force ROTC training, all cadets go to a four week summer camp at a regular Air Base between their junior and senior years. This special period, to be held at Wadena, gives them an early taste of what to expect in their summer training.

Planning for this weekend training has been performed by a Cadet Joint Task Force of AFROTC cadets, working closely with the host unit at Wadena, the 7930th Radar Squadron, United States Air Force, Captain Eugene H. Hegland, of the AFROTC Detachment at North Dakota State University, is the advisor of this planning task force.

From UND, the following are members of the planning task force: Cadet Col. Vernon P. Gillipsie, Commandant of Cadets; Cadet Lt. Col. Loren H. Torkelson, tactical officer; Cadet Major Kenneth S. Roberts, tactical officer.

The sixteen juniors from North Dakota State University will depart the campus by Air Force bus Friday noon and return Sunday afternoon.
