

360 Women, 840 Men Enter As Freshmen

Largest enrollment in North Dakota State University's history has crowded campus housing.

Burton B. Brandrud, director of admissions and records, expects a total enrollment of about 4,300 students. He estimates that this year will bring the largest number of new students to campus. There are about 1,200 freshmen and over 300 transfer students enrolled.

There are no vacancies in dormitories and students are assigned to temporary staging areas. These areas consist of dormitory floor lounges and basements of Burgum and Weible Halls for women and the basement of Churchill Hall for men. Students will stay in these areas until expected cancellations are made.

Norman Seim, director of housing, stated that all students would be moved out of the staging areas by the end of the first week of classes.

Seim added that all married student housing is designated for assignment. This means the waiting list is longer than the vacancies available. Dorms have waiting lists of 30-40 students. Seim explained that he could not be more exact about the lists because the number is constantly changing by students finding other housing and by late registrations.

Brandrud said that official enrollment figures would not be available until the end of the third week of classes. About 30% of the freshmen class are women.

THE NEW FOOD COMPLEX begins its first year of service to NDSU. Located by Reed-Johnson residence halls, the food service is operated by Frank Bancroft, director of university food service. Bancroft is in the white shirt in the upper middle of the picture.

New "Formal Wear" Restaurant Is Memorial Union Attraction

A dress-up restaurant with menus and waiters is now available to the public in the newly-remodeled Memorial Union. The Dacotah Inn is located on the second floor.

Other new features of the Union include a music listening room, information booth and duplicating and poster room. Several areas were expanded in the remodeling that doubled the size of the Union.

The Dacotah Inn stemmed from an idea by James Thomas, director of the Union, who said he had seen it used successfully on other campuses.

The restaurant will serve lunch and dinner five days a week. Prices will be moderate but slightly higher than cafeteria prices, Thomas reported. Reservations for luncheon and dinner engagements may be obtained through the food service department.

Special dress is required for admittance. Luncheon requires tie and dress clothes and dinner is coat and tie with comperable dress for women.

Waiters will be men hired from the student body. They will wear uniforms while serving. Restaurant hours are still tentative.

The record listening room offers 500 records with a choice of classical, jazz, or folk music. There are seven turntables with earphones for private listening.

Opening date for the Inn and the listening room is still undecided since the rooms are incompletely furnished.

The Union provides a poster and duplicating service. The Poster and Duplicating Room is open daily from 12-4 p.m.

The room contains an electrostat, mimeograph, line o'scribe poster machine and stencils. Paper and posters are provided at an extra charge. Persons bringing their own paper pay half price. Andrew Buskho, associate director of activities, said the price for this service is nominal to cover costs.

Traveling art shows will be exhibited in Hultz Hall. This is one of the new lounges on the second floor which Buskho said will be used for everything from "lectures to dances."

Other expanded areas are the game room, book store and eating rooms.

The game area includes new pool and ping-pong tables and a card playing area. There is a bowling alley in the old area. Several parlor games are provided; there is a charge for all equipment used.

The bookstore was expanded to house a larger book selection. The store now includes a reading area and a party supplies area. A section has been reserved for fraternity and sorority supplies.

Bison, State and Valley Rooms are eating areas. The Bison Room is primarily for small orders, the State Room provides breakfast and lunch and the Valley Room is equipped with vending machines.

Student organizations may use these rooms for meetings. The only permanent student offices in the Union will be the Spectrum, Bison Annual and KDSU.

Card playing in the Bison Room is prevented by smaller chairs. This is to relieve congestion in the cafeteria. The game room provides an area for cards.

WORKMEN add another girder to the central round building of the new engineering complex being constructed north of the Memorial Union.

"Lord of Flies" Discussed During Orientation Week

Freshmen were asked to read the novel "Lord of the Flies" as part of a new feature of their orientation week. The book was then discussed under the leadership of upperclass students and faculty.

gram and functions of the counseling center. They were also given tours of the campus and a chance to meet informally the deans of their respective colleges.

The purpose was to give freshmen a chance to express themselves and to show them how academic subjects are discussed at North Dakota State University.

Last Thursday freshmen met individually with their advisers. They were given a chance to hear a lecture by Ashley Montagu, famous anthropologist, and from 2-4 p.m. they held group discussions on "Lord of the Flies." Nominations for class officers were held in the evening.

The freshmen orientation program began Tuesday, Sept. 8, with testing in the Fieldhouse during the day and a President's convocation in the evening. On Wednesday new students were learning registration procedures, study drills, facts about the ROTC pro-

Friday the freshmen registered, elected their officers and were shown the variety of organizations on campus. Friday evening freshmen class officers were presented at an inaugural ball.

EditorialEditor Urges Frosh To Mature Quickly

College freshmen are in a unique position.

They have the opportunity to put their past behind them and to start a new slate. Past mistakes and accomplishments are not relevant to their position as college students. Here they either make the grade or fail; background and family importance are no help in passing courses.

North Dakota State University is a college of relatively little history or prestige, but it is fast becoming one of the top schools in the Upper Midwest. Buildings are being constructed rapidly; Dr. H. R. Albrecht and his staff are introducing long-needed changes.

Freshmen can either adapt themselves to this society of change or stand the chance of being lost in the shuffle. Academic pressure has increased in the past four years and consequently social life has taken an obvious backseat. Students who ignore this fact will soon find themselves on the bottom of the grading sheet.

The Memorial Union has increased its "fun room" facilities to handle freshmen who find pool more inviting than classroom lectures. Although no one has taken a survey, it is safe to assume that poorer students are chief users of the game room. It is interesting to note that the balls are rarely racked up by the same men two years in a row.

Social life is worthwhile on a college campus but it never replaces the educational purpose of a school.

We urge all freshmen to settle down to a disciplined life in which they budget their free time to get their studying done. A word of caution—don't become overconfident if you find school easy the first quarter because you are repeating high school courses. The second and third quarters of algebra, trig and chemistry are not review.

NDSU needs new students and you need the University. Take advantage of your opportunity.

Letter to the Editor

To the editor:

The counselors and Mrs. Burrill of Ceres Hall would like express their appreciation to the administration for the warm welcome that greeted us on our return to NDSU. A special thank-you goes to Mr. Bancroft and the food service for the delicious picnic supper and continental breakfast served to us.

The grounds keepers here at NDSU are also to be congratulated on the beautiful face given to the campus. We feel certain that the new students will find it just as welcoming as we did.

Annual Pictures

Yearbook pictures will be taken Sept. 21-Oct. 2 from 10-5:30 p.m. in Room 203 of the Memorial Union. Dan E. Olson is official photographer selected by the yearbook staff.

Appointments may be made tomorrow from 10-5:30 p.m. and Friday from 10-12 a.m. in the Union lobby. Appointments may be made thereafter in Room 203 of the Union.

Students will receive four poses for $4. These proofs will be ready in a week. Each student must make his choice and return it to the photographer. Mr. Olson will then make a glossy print and deliver it to the yearbook staff.

Olson recommends that women wear blouses or sweaters with plain necklines; and that men wear light shirts, plain jackets and ties.

Students may go to any photographer in Fargo-Moorhead but must meet photograph specifications of the Bison staff and must be responsible for delivery of their own pictures. The picture must be a 3" x 4" glossy print with a light gray background.

9-12 Saturday

Scrambling for the ball are Bison footballers Bill Sturdevant, Andy Knudson and Tom Holmgren with Dragon's Malcheski, Berg and Hegna. The Bison were victorious 20-13 in Saturday's contest.

Al Peterson Inconsistent Football Play Earmarks Bison Win

Inconsistent play earmarked the Bison victory against the Moorhead State Dragons Saturday. Reserve quarterback Pierre duCharme directed the Bison in their only good offensive showing in the third quarter. Frank Hentges, who was the North Central Conference leader in total offense last year, had difficulty directing the Bison into a dependable offensive attack. When Bison backs failed to move on the ground, Hentges turned to the air which again proved to be unsuccessful. No one could hold on to Hentges' passes although his throws appeared to be accurate.

Iowa Panthers will have an offensive line that will average 226 pounds, an impressive 23 pound gain over 1963. Both starting offensive tackles, Merle Masonholder and Phil Roberts, weigh a solid 245. Playing behind them are two 250 pounders. Coach of the Panthers, Stan Sheriff, is optimistic.

The defensive play, as expected at this stage of the season, was better than the offensive play. A definite improvement in the defensive secondary in comparison to last year's provided a bright spot for Bison fans, except for one defensive loss.

Defending champion South Dakota State again has to be considered for the conference crown. Ron Meyer, starting quarterback, as a sophomore, will be even more effective as a junior.

A victory cannot be belittled. However, it is evident that this NDSU football team will have to find a more workable offense if it is to make a respectable showing in the NCC.

While nuisance-type injuries have hit the University of North Dakota varsity football camp, Sioux Head Coach Marv Helling never-the-less is pleased with the work and progress of his 1964 squad. The Sioux have been working toward a defensive lineup that will contain the high powered offensive units of SCI, SDS, and our Bison. Currently the present defensive unit includes only two new men that weren't on the 1963 defensive unit that was the strongest in the NCC.

Morningside, Augustana, and the University of South Dakota will follow the four leaders but not particularly in that order.

Bison footballers are physically ahead of last year's pace. Continued improvement will be shown on every Saturday, but this improvement may not be enough to earn them a better finish than the fourth place they earned last year. Expected to give the Bison their toughest competition is favored State College of Iowa. The

Tri-Captains Will Supply Needed Leadership

Ex-marine Ardell Weigandt bolsters a strong defensive line from his linebacking position.

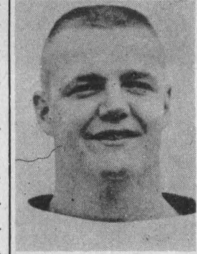

Weigandt's aggressive and determined play makes the other linebackers that more effective. The Larimore native has been called by Line Coach Buck Nystrom the greatest football player pound for pound that he has backed.

Weigandt

State football squad, is expected to lead the Bison in their most successful season of the current decade. Last spring and this fall seven pro scouts have shown an interest in Tom. He is expected to sign at the end of the season. Holmgren was instrumental in supplying leadership over the winter months when the players participated in voluntary isometric program.

Holmgren

tri-captains, carries on a family tradition of excelling in athletics.

Bill, the hardest working back on the Bison squad and one of the best in the conference, will push his running mate, Easy Ed Pflipsen for scoring honors in the NCC this season. This coming weekend, brother Terry may join Billy in the starting lineup.

Sturdevant

NDSU's tri-captains also are leaders off the field, as they pace the squad in the grade department. The trio of Tom Holmgren, senior from New Rockford, Ardell Weigandt, junior from Larimore and Bill Sturdevant, senior from Wahpeton, averaged 3.04 during the spring quarter.

NDSU Homecoming Set For Oct. 9 & 10

"A World of Difference" is the theme of the 1964 North Dakota State University Homecoming, October 9-10, according to co-chairmen Sara Gildersleeve and Frank Bernhoft.

Events will begin Friday, Oct. 9, with the convocation to introduce Homecoming Queen candidates to the student body. Queen coronation is that night.

The parade will be Saturday morning, Oct. 10, through downtown Fargo; the football game between the NDSU Bison and the Augustana Vikings will be Saturday afternoon at Dacotah Field.

The Homecoming dance and concert will be Saturday night.

Other events during 1964 Homecoming include open houses at dormitories and Greek houses, a bonfire and pep rally and judging of house decorations.
