Friendly Suit

Tests Bond Legality

A friendly suit will be brought before the Supreme Court within the next month to test the constitutionality of the proposed $5 million state-backed bonds to help cover building costs in North Dakota colleges and universities.

The Board of Higher Education established a special student fee of $15 per academic year and $5 for each summer school student to go into a fund to amortize the proposed bonds.

Kenneth Raschke, commissioner of higher education, said, "I do not know how the Supreme Court could find this issue of bonds unconstitutional, unless they considered the bonds to exceed the amount of public debt the state of North Dakota can legally entail."

North Dakota legislators, in the last session, passed another measure in case the bond issue was declared unconstitutional. This bill makes $2 million available for college construction out of general funds.

The North Dakota Planning Commission has already approved federal grants totaling $579,077 and $1,174,152 from the state to carry out four college construction projects in the next biennium.

* $416,667 in federal money to be combined with $833,333 in state funds for a mathematics and physics building at the University of North Dakota.

* $75,000 in federal funds to be combined with $150,000 in state money to add a third floor to a science-mathematics building at Minot State College

* $55,000 in federal money to be combined with $126,000 in state funds for an addition to a library-science building at Mayville State College

* $32,410 in federal funds to be combined with $64,819 in state money to construct a 400-seat science classroom in the proposed Little Country Theatre at North Dakota State University

Dr. Raschke said that if the Supreme Court holds the bond issue unconstitutional there will be no more college construction this biennium except the four above mentioned and possibly a building at NDSU, which will be discussed at the July meeting of the commission.

NDSU has requested $400,000 in federal funds to be combined with $800,000 in state money to construct a biological science building. The $1,174,152 already allocated and the $800,000 to be considered would take care of the $2 million to be used for

Agricultural Club Disbanded For Failure To Comply

Failure to comply with university regulations has meant the disbanding of the American Farm Economics Club on campus.

According to Daniel Leasure, dean of students, the club failed to bring their constitution up to date. Leasure remarked that the club was asked to do this work as long as a year ago. Leasure also said that a final letter was mailed to the club on March 4 of this year asking for their revised constitution by April 15 or they would no longer be recognized by the administration.

Wayne Puppe, former club president, said that he had received no such information regarding a constitution.

Dave Lee, secretary of the club, explained, "Communications between the administration and our club was definitely lacking and I think the disbanding was unjust."

However, Leasure said, "The club did not realize the importance of a constitution, so upon the request of the Board of Organizations and Activities the club was dissolved. However," he went on to say, "if the club makes a new constitution and petitions again for re-organization they will be in the good graces of the administration once more."

Economics Prof Selected As 'Teacher Of The Year'

Thor Hertsgard, assistant professor of agricultural economics, has been selected as "Teacher of the Year" by Alpha Zeta, national honorary agricultural fraternity.

The selection is made annually from the agricultural instructors at North Dakota State University. The announcement was made at the annual Alpha Zeta banquet May 11. Hertsgard was presented an inscribed plaque by Eddie Dunn, president of the fraternity.

Featured speakers at the banquet were Vic Sturlaugson, superintendent of the Langdon Experiment Station and Joe Milton, a rancher from McLeod, N. D. Sturlaugson spoke on citizen responsibility in our state. Milton's topic dealt with citizen responsibility at the community level.

Sturlaugson and Milton were initiated as associate members of the NDSU Dakota Chapter of Alpha Zeta.

Burdick Comments

Congress Helps Education

"The fruits are coming to bear," said Senator Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., commenting on education. The $599,077 in federal aid approved for North Dakota college construction is a result of legislation passed by the 88th (education) congress. With major emphasis on higher education last session major emphasis this session has been on primary and secondary education.

Senator Burdick was the senate representative to the meeting of the International Committee for European Migration (ICEM) in Geneva, Switzerland last week. The committee is an effort of the Allied and Latin American countries to locate and relocate skilled-displaced people from all over the world. Australia has been a major recipient of this program because of its shortage of skilled people. The costs of the post-war program have been declining because the program has been transformed from a gift program to a loan program. Under the new plan the refugees sign notes which are repaid after they get back on their feet.

Senator Burdick left Geneva, Switzerland at 2:30 p.m. on Friday arriving in Fargo at 10:00 p.m. that evening to attend the WDAY band festival and Shari-var on Saturday.

Department Exhibits Judged; Sharivar Awards Announced

Attendance at the 1965 Sharivar has been set at 18,765 visitors by Beth Rochefort, Sharivar faculty advisor. Friday visitors to the campus numbered 3,069; Saturday 13,467 visitors were counted, and 2,229 visitors were recorded on Sunday.

The College of Agriculture was judged by a 14 member panel as having the best college exhibit. The College of Pharmacy was named as second place winners in this classification.

Best department exhibit winner was the department of pharmacology in the College of Pharmacy. Selected as second place winners in this class was the soils department of the College of Agriculture.

North Dakota State University Air Force ROTC won first and the Army ROTC won second place honors in the ROTC drill team competition with the University of North Dakota.

The Sigma Nu trophy for a department contributing the most effort toward Sharivar went to the soils department, while clothing and textiles in the College of Home Economics received second place rating.

History Of Graduate School Reviewed

by Alan Cecil

In the amalgamated self congratulatory speeches that are popping up all over campus during the 75th Anniversary one arm of the University community tends to be missing . . . the Graduate School.

Graduate students were enrolled for the first time in 1895 and according to the Graduate School Bulletin it awarded the first Masters degree in 1899. Since the number of programs open to the graduates were limited the school had no more than three participants until 1923— That year the enrollment rose to eleven. On July 1, 1954 the graduate school was given the formal approval of the North Dakota Board of Higher Education.

It was at this time that the present Dean of the Graduate School, Dr. Glenn Smith, initiated his administration of the graduates. Dr. Smith stated that the Graduate School offers advanced degree programs in all departments of the six colleges.

"The Chemistry graduates tend to make a large portion of the distinguished graduates," said Dr. Smith, "probably because of the excellent opportunities afforded them by the North Dakota State University chemistry staff."

Dean Smith went on to explain that "NDSU is one of the few universities in America where an entire college of chemistry exists."

Many undergraduates are often unsure of the life of the advanced student. Dr. Smith says that graduate students are more serious about their work because they are studying in a field that they are interested in and have less of the bothersome "required" courses to take. Some characteristics of the Graduate School are:

- * There are more advanced areas of study.
- * A "B" average is required.
- * Students are more interested in their work.
- * The work is much harder.
- * There are fewer diversions.
- * Many students are married and have children.

As of September, 1964, the Graduate School has awarded 1,095 Masters Degrees and nine Doctor of Philosophy Degrees. Fall quarter showed an enrollment of 445 in all areas of graduate study.

New System Counselor Duties Outlined

More good counselors should result from a new counselor system for the men's residences, according to Dean Scott, assistant dean of students.

The new system, which will go into effect next fall, will replace one-half of the present number of counselors with assistant counselors. This would result in having one counselor and one assistant counselor on each floor.

"After the first year we will be able to choose our counselors from the most satisfactory assistants," Scott explained. "This will give us at least one year to train the assistants in the philosophies of the administration, and to prepare them for the responsibilities of a counselor."

Don Dell, counselor-coordinator, outlined the duties of the counselor under the new system as follows:

* He will be responsible for advising floor government.

* He will be responsible for all administrative detail required by the university that concerns his floor.

* He will be responsible for discipline and maintaining an atmosphere conducive to study on his floor.

* He will be responsible for in-service-training of the assistant counselor on his floor.

* He will be responsible for personal counseling and referral of students on the floor.

Dell said the limitations the counselors must meet are:

* No counselor shall hold any additional outside employment.

* No counselor shall enroll in more than 15 credit hours per quarter without special permission from his counselor-coordinator.

* The counselor must have attained at least Junior standing in the University and must have served at least one year as an assistant counselor.

Dell explained the duties of the assistant counselors as:

* He will assist the counselor in personal counseling of the students on his floor.

* He will assist the counselor in maintaining good study conditions and discipline on the floor.

* He will be responsible for posting pertinent information and keeping the floor bulletin board up to date.

Dell said the primary limitation of the assistant counselor is a sophomore standing in the University.

Dell concluded, "This system will give the assistant counselor a chance to attain experience without the pressure of full responsibility."

Air Force ROTC has now been updated to fit into today's busy undergraduate schedule.

Here are the facts about the new two-year AFROTC Program.

Who is eligible for two-year AFROTC? Any male undergraduate who still has two years remaining in college. It's an especially good break for junior college students who plan to complete their baccalaureate requirements at a four-year institution.

What's the curriculum like? It's been thoroughly revamped. You won't find pat answers and traditional ritualized solutions to problems. New instructional methods teach the student to arrive at his own conclusions, and to test them against those of his classmates and instructors. Symbolic of the change is the new title - Department of Aerospace Studies.

How will students for the new program be chosen? First, you must pass the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test and have a medical examination. Then you meet with the interview board of senior Air Force officers, who will decide whether you are to be selected to attend the Field Training Course. This will be held during the summer before your junior year. Its purpose is two-fold; to let the Air Force judge you and to let you judge the Air Force. Only after you are both satisfied will you be enrolled in the program. So you see, you have everything to gain and nothing to lose by applying now. But you must act fast—applications will be closing for next year's juniors. Forms are available from the Professor of Aerospace Studies, or from Headquarters Air Force ROTC, Maxwell AFB, Alabama.

As an AFROTC cadet, will I receive pay? Yes, you will be paid for the Field Training Course which will amount to approximately $120. During the school year, you will be paid $40 a month, and you will also get free uniforms.

Will I have a chance to fly while I am in AFROTC? Senior graduates are eligible for the Flying Instruction Program. This involves 36½ hours of flight training and 35 hours of ground school. Successful completion earns you a civilian private pilot's license.

Proposed Fee Inequality Deemed Not Traditional

Due to the inequitable parking permit charges between staff members and students which have been proposed by the Campus Committee of University Senate, we feel it necessary to put forth a new proposal concerning the situation.

With the increased growth of the University, parking is becoming more and more of a problem. The ultimate goal is paved lots for everyone, hence the $15 parking fee for students. Last year two faculty lots and the Memorial Union visitor's lot were paved; the cost of these projects depleted funds accumulated from parking fees and fines and required additional money appropriated from other funds.

This year, at the suggestion of a member of the Board of Higher Education, the committee discussed permitting faculty members to park free as was done at the University of North Dakota.

As members of the press attending this meeting, we voiced our objections by stating that such inequitable treatment of students is not traditional at North Dakota State University. We also commented that it would have a demoralizing effect on students and would most certainly strain student-faculty relations. It is our opinion that student-faculty relations are much better at NDSU than at many other universities.

Therefore we submit that space is simply space in the matter of parking and whoever uses that space should pay accordingly for its use.

We believe that equitable policy will build a favorable attitude among students that will reflect in the alumni program when they graduate. R.G.

Spring Gala Successful; Editor Suggests Research

North Dakota State University's Big Spring event is over. On the basis of total people on campus, Sharivar was a success. Based on the amount of work that students, faculty and staff put into the promotion, it indicates cooperation; but not all voices are happy.

A person can find all sorts of opinions on campus regarding Sharivar's success or lack of it.

Since this is a University where research is a systematic tool, we think that this great combined effort deserves better than to be put to the meaningless "It's good - "It's bad" argument, which only proves that there are opinions. Isn't now the time to gather some facts?

Before plans are made for next year's Sharivar, a composite group of the University should get together and analyze NDSU's problems. On the basis of this, a program should be set up to solve the problem - using whatever techniques, channels or other devices available and at a cost that the University can afford.

The program arrived at should be carried out for a period of time and then re-evaluated. From the evaluation, changes in the program should be made accordingly. If no changes in content are needed the program can always be modernized.

We admit we do not know whether Sharivar is worth the trouble or not. We do know that we would like to see some facts gathered scientifically. Such facts would reinforce the lusty cries of "Yes" and perhaps silence all others.

NDSU's basic problem, as we see it, is lack of adequate funds. Money is needed to increase the physical plant, bring faculty salaries to a competitive level with other states and to add faculty and staff members to handle the projected enrollment figures.

A question needs answering - What is the best way to get the University's needs across to the people of this state? If Sharivar, a four-day promotion, is the best way to promote NDSU - then it should be continued. If not, it should be dropped.

We feel that an analysis of the problem will find that a concentrated program, on a year-wide basis is needed. The story of a university and its workings can not be told in four days, yet it needs to be told. Taxpayers need to know that their money is spent wisely.

Again, let us say that we do not know whether Sharivar is worthwhile or not considering the time spent. But, we would like to see an evaluation of the University's problems and ways to solve them studied and carried out.

Dignitaries Congratulate President

To the editor: North Dakota State University's image was undoubtedly brightened two weeks ago when, Army Chief of Staff, General Harold K. Johnson and many other dignitaries visited our campus. The announced purpose of their presence here was to congratulate President Albrecht on his recent appointment to the position of civilian advisor to the Secretary of the Army.

With Congress currently in session and the world moving from crisis to crisis, there is certainly enough to do in Washington to keep General Johnson, Senator Burdick and Representative Andrews sufficiently busy. Therefore whatever draws them away from the capital must be significantly important.

Every day men are appointed to positions comparable to President Albrecht's without more than a routine press conference and a round of laudatory speeches. What then was so significant about Albrecht's appointment that it drew so many high officials to Fargo to personally congratulate him?

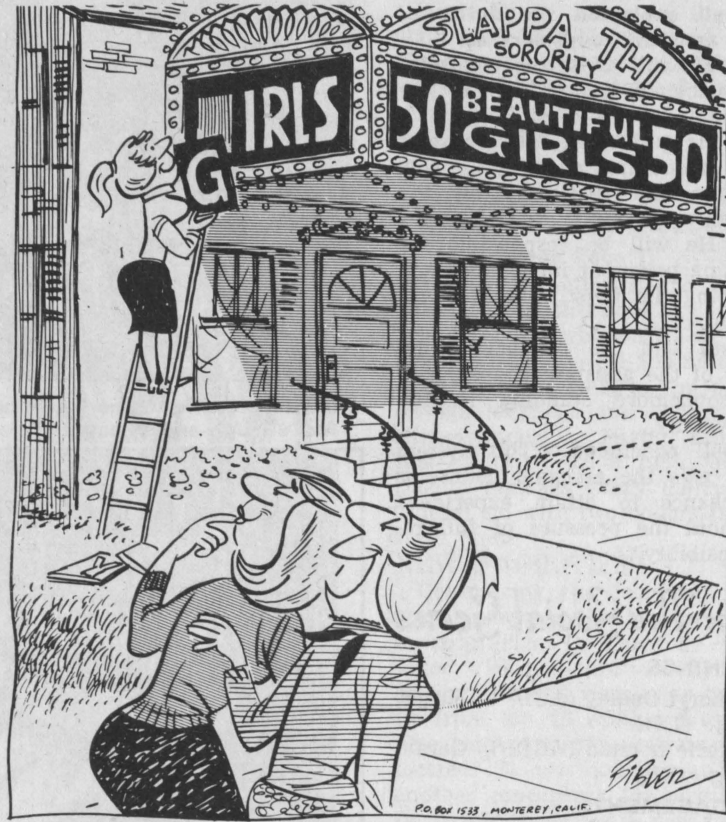

During the brief ceremony at the Memorial Union the General, after his formal speech, spoke candidly about the importance of the Reserve Officer Training program to the Army. From ROTC, he explained, the Army recruited about 85 per cent of the officers which it needed every year.

It seems more than coincidental that the appointment of Dr. Albrecht and the visit of the General came only a week after the University Senate decided to discontinue the present two year compulsory ROTC program on this campus. The local Army detachment has fought the abolition of the status quo because they feel that only by continuing with the present involuntary indoctrination will they be able to fill their quota of advanced cadets. The Air Force, on the other hand, saw no reason to continue with the present program.

If the Army thinks that it will be unable to meet its obligations without the compulsory basic program, and if ROTC is as important to the Army as General Johnson indicated it was, could it be that he and the other officials came to NDSU in a subtle attempt to influence the Senate.

Could it be that the Army hoped that Dr. Albrecht and the Senate would be flattered by the publicity and would reverse their recent decision? Could this hope have been the event of significant importance to draw the officials from Washington?

Let us hope that President Albrecht and the University Senate will not be so stunned by our newly brightened image so that they will blindly follow general Johnson and the Army back to the compulsory program. Tanfield Miller, AS 1

Student Reprimands Lawyer; Recommends Further Study

To the editor: In last week's issue of the Spectrum, the letter to the editor "Congress Not Following Constitution" by Robert Dresser deserves careful study. His letter attacks the current Federal Voting Bill being considered in Congress.

Dresser, as a lawyer, feels the bill is unconstitutional because it takes away certain rights of states in administering voter requirements.

I recommend that Dresser take another look at his law books concerning constitutional law. The writers of the Constitution state very plainly that the Federal Constitution is the law of the land and will take precedence over any state law that might conflict.

Keeping the above fact in mind, let's look at Dresser's statements on the 15th amendment. Congress feels it has the power to make the new voting bill and draws its authority from this amendment. Dresser very ably cites Section I of the amendment in support of his argument that "Neither in this amendment nor elsewhere in the Constitution is there any limitation upon the rights to determine the qualifications of voters . . ."

For some unknown reason, Dresser fails to cite Section II of the same amendment which states, "The congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

The power to make the new voting bill is being drawn from Section II because a majority of the congressmen feel that some states have misused their power in order to keep certain minorities from voting. Dresser is right when he says the Constitution doesn't limit the state as to voting requirements in those exact words.

What students realize after studying the Constitution is that most laws and limitations drawn from the constitution have been interpreted by our congressmen and Supreme Court. The Constitution is a very excellent document because of its great generalities which the writers used when putting it together. The writers knew they couldn't write detailed laws and regulations if the document was to withstand the changes and growth sure to come about in this new country. The Constitution then is a living document that will continue to be interpreted with the years when necessary. Nick Jones, AS 3

Dean Describes College Aims

(I.P.)—Declaring that "chaos and triviality characterize too many curricula today," Dean David B. Truman of Columbia College recently added: "They will not easily be eliminated, but their hold on educational programs must be reduced, lest our society demonstrate the wisdom of these words of A.N. Whitehead—written nearly a half century ago:

'In the conditions of modern life, the rule is absolute: the race which does not value trained intelligence is doomed . . . there will be no appeal from the judgment which will be pronounced on the uneducated.'

"We are in danger of producing a generation that has spent more years than its predecessors in educational institutions but has not gained the kind of literacy that was once regarded as the mark of an educated man," Dean Truman explained.

The immediate urgency of this problem, said Dean Truman, lies in the response that in many quarters is greeting the new achievements of the secondary schools. "I am certain," he said, "of the value of the advanced placement movement, of efforts such as Physical Science Study Committee physics, the 'new' mathematics, and the new emphasis on foreign languages. They are bringing secondary education to a higher level and providing a base for more intensive work throughout the college curriculum.

Unfortunately, this is an opportunity that is too often ignored. The tendency is, rather, toward a preclusive and hence premature specialization. This will not happen at Columbia College.

"Our aim is to give the budding molecular biologist, the aspiring poet, the self-announced lawyer or doctor (and these career goals change frequently as a result of experience in liberal education) the equipment to begin to meet the needs of an age that cries out for comprehending generalization."

Our Mailbag Runneth Over

Support Claimed For Model UN Meet

To the editor:

I wish to call your attention to an article entitled "Student Finance Commission Rejects Model U. N. Proposed Budget," published in last week's Spectrum. I would like to clarify certain misconceptions regarding the proposed Model United Nations Assembly at North Dakota State University.

According to Lionel Estenson, the budget was turned down because "the sponsors had not shown any 'concrete evidence' that such a conference would arouse enough interest on campus." In the same statement, Estenson mentioned "the unanimous endorsement given the project by both the University and Student Senates." I wonder what was meant by "concrete evidence?" I also wonder why, at the time the budget was discussed, there was no question asked regarding student support?

Had the commission bothered to ask, it would have discovered that, to date, the project has been strongly endorsed by the Governor of North Dakota; Dr. H. R. Albrecht, Dr. James Nickerson, Dean Seth Russell, Dean Daniel Leasure and Rev. Robert Siberry have all agreed to involve themselves directly by serving on the Board of Directors.

More than 50 students, within the first week after the project was announced, agreed to work actively in the program, most of them unsolicited. This number includes four student senators and the President of the Student Body. I think that this response, judged by any standards, is obviously indicative of interest in the project.

Dr. William Dinusson, finance commission advisor, made the statement that "there was little active support in the University Senate." I find his statement strange and uncalled for. The resolution to endorse the Model United Nations Assembly was introduced by Dr. John Hove and seconded by Dr. Donald Schwartz, then passed unanimously. If Dr. Dinusson expected that the members of the University Senate should have given a standing ovation or pounded on their desks (there were no desks available) to show their active support, then I would have to agree with his statement.

For the last two decades the UNO has been serving to alleviate international strife, providing vital international services, and enabling people around the world to enjoy a more meaningful way of life.

The purpose of the Model United Nations Assembly is education through participation. Student delegates who attend the proceedings will acquire an increased knowledge of world affairs, international diplomacy, the structure and function of the UNO, and the use of parliamentary procedure. I believe this kind of program to be most fitting to an institution of higher learning.

Alumni Contacts

Association Maintains Address Records

"Keeping current and correct records of alumni is just one facet of our work," said Jerry J. Lingen, alumni director of the Alumni and Former Students Association. "We now have correct addresses of over 12,500 alumni."

The association receives donations and contributions, of which two recent ones are a $500 donation by Paul Horn and a $6,000 gift by Mrs. Elsie Stark Martin.

Mrs. Martin directed that the money be used "For the purpose of establishing a perpetual annual scholarship for qualified and needy students who desire to pursue a course of study in home economics at North Dakota State University."

Dues are also collected from alumni, which this year totaled $8,250. Other contributions from alumni brought in $1,540.

Lingen stated, "The money received is used to keep records of the alumni, to publish a magazine, to finance local alumni meetings, to make contacts and to maintain the office."

Also, $6,000 in scholarships have been given by the association in the last year. This includes 18 for $300, one for $250, one for $200 and two for $100.

This year $500 was used to help finance the trip to the Mineral Bowl Game at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

One thousand dollars was used to help feed band members who were on the NDSU campus May 8 in conjunction with the WDAY Band Festival. This project was financed in conjunction with the Fargo Chamber of Commerce.

Pedestrian Survey Made

First results of a pedestrian survey under the direction of the Student Senate indicate that a stoplight between Twelfth Avenue and Thirteenth Avenue on University Drive is impractical.

The survey was under the leadership of Tanfield Miller, commissioner of legislative research. Miller said that statistics show that one-fourth of the students crossing University Drive at the intersection of that street and Thirteenth Avenue. Miller stated that the most densely crossed period was between the hours of 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Student senators were positioned, on a two hour rotating basis, at observation points between the corner of Twelfth Avenue and Thirteenth Avenue.

University Drive is both a city and state highway. In planning any sort of traffic regulating device on this road both governing bodies must be consulted.

Miller says that any action taken will occur within the next two weeks. Two proposals to be presented by Miller and Marvin Skodje, associate professor of civil engineering are:

* Laying white pedestrian strips across University Drive.

* Erecting of yellow crossing lights to warn oncoming cars of the walkway.

Transferring Student Problems Discussed With NDSU Deans

The student transfer situation between Bismarck Junior College and North Dakota State University is fine, according to Ralph Werner, dean of BJC.

Werner and several of the BJC faculty members were on campus May 6 to discuss the transfer problems with the deans of the various NDSU colleges.

President H. R. Albrecht said that NDSU deans and faculty members often visit other campuses to discuss curriculum but this was the first time that a college group had come to NDSU campus to discuss the transfer matters with all the college deans.

At present a student can take up to 50 per cent of the required graduation credits at BJC and transfer to NDSU with relatively little problem of losing college credits.

Werner said that the meeting was primarily held so that faculty of BJC could get acquainted with faculty members of NDSU. This way they could give their students transferring to NDSU more help, because they would personally know the faculty the students would be involved with.

Werner also pointed out that in the past year more BJC students had transferred to NDSU than to any other college or university.

Top Students Recognized

The five top-ranking scholars in the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes have been announced at North Dakota State University. The 20 students were given special recognition by President H. R. Albrecht at NDSU's annual Honors Day Convocation.

The top five seniors are Mary K. Groth, Kathryn Loseth, Merlin J. Shelstad, John Bjornholt and Karen Dietrich.

Juniors are Robert Campbell, Dennis Cornelius, Hans Ronnevik, William Campbell and Janice Gangness.

Homecoming Dates Scheduled

Homecoming, 1965, is tentatively scheduled for Oct. 15-16.

The dates were announced by Randy Buresh, chairman of the homecoming central committee for 1965.

Buresh announced that two big attractions for Homecoming 1965 will be the appearance of the Chad Mitchell Trio on Oct. 15 and the football game between the University of North Dakota Sioux and the North Dakota State University Bison Oct. 16.

According to Roberta Drake, assistant chairman of the homecoming central committee, some of the proposed changes for homecoming include extending the festivities to three days instead of the usual two, making the queen coronation more formal, increasing the size of the parade and holding the pep rally sometime other than the Friday before the game.

"Homecoming 1965 will mark the end of the 75th Anniversary celebration," stated Buresh. "Much of the publicity will feature the anniversary, the anniversary slogan and the anniversary colors which are blue and white."

Advisors for homecoming will be Andrew Bushko, assistant director of the Memorial Union and Beth Rochefort, communications and university relations assistant.

Being an Army officer is a challenge. Officers must be leaders . . . able to take responsibility . . . get important jobs done.

It isn't easy to win a commission as an Army officer. But if you are taking the Basic Course in ROTC you're well on your way—provided you can measure up to the high standards required for admission to the Advanced Course.

As a student in one of the 247 colleges and universities offering senior ROTC training, you are in a privileged group. There's no better way for any college man to get the training and skills needed to be an Army officer than through the on-campus program created specifically for that purpose—ROTC.

Here you learn to be a leader . . . to develop the qualities that add a vital plus to your academic training . . . qualities that will pay off for the rest of your life in whatever career you choose to follow.

There are other advantages too. Pay, at the rate of $40 per month during the Advanced Course plus allowances for summer training and travel. Fellowship and social activity. The chance to work with modern Army equipment, and perhaps to qualify for Army flight training if it is offered at your school. And then gold bars and a commission as an Army officer.

Knudson Lends Power To Bison Baseball

One of the brighter spots on the North Dakota State University baseball scene this season has been the power hitting of Andy Knudson, 220-pound Bison catcher. While the Bison are having a mediocre 8-9 season, Knudson has hit four home runs and has been the deciding factor in many games.

The switch-hitting Knudson recently powered the Bison to a sweep of a North Central Conference doubleheader against Augustana by hitting two home runs and having four runs batted in. Knudson finished the day with three hits in five trips.

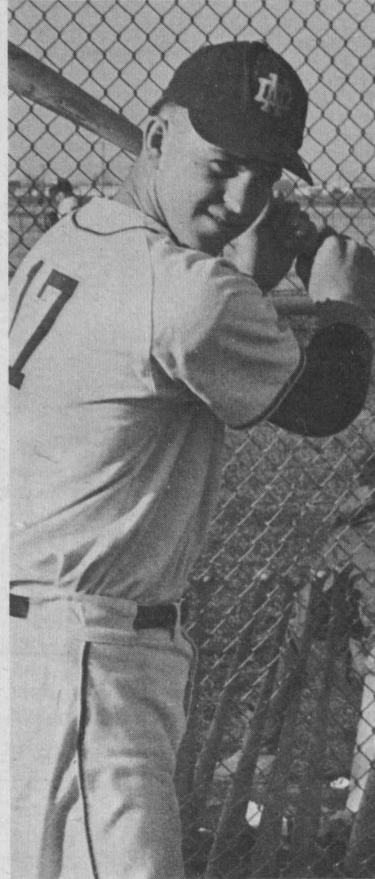

Knudson's athletic ability has been demonstrated in other yellow and green uniforms. He is probably best known for his outstanding end play on the Bison's NCC championship football team.

Assistant Football Coach Buck Nystrom said, "His size and speed give him the qualities necessary to play both the offensive and defensive phase of the position." Knudson played tight end both ways throughout the season after earning a starting berth during fall workouts.

"He played as many minutes as anyone on the team," stated Nystrom. "Knudson should be an important cog in our attack again this year, but we won't play him both ways, if we can find a replacement."

Knudson hopes to play professional football after graduation.

While a freshmen Knudson played basketball for NDSU but dropped the sport so he could concentrate on football and baseball. This past season he played on the Churchill Hall team which won the intramural basketball championship.

The University of Minnesota-Morris fell victim to Knudson's latest show of power Saturday as the Bison beat the UMM 13-3 to split a doubleheader with the Minnesota school. Knudson teamed with second basemen Dave Perry to supply the bulk of the Bison power.

Perry tripled home two runs after Knudson hit a solo home run in support of the two hit pitching of Russ Auen and Gary Pender. Auen gave up three runs in the first inning but shutout the losers until relieved in the fifth.

Ten Bison errors hampered NDSU in both contests but were greatly offset by five Morris miscues. The Bison stand 2-2 in the NCC with eight contests remaining.

Weigandt And Rota Star In Scrimmage

Strong running by halfback Ken Rota and a tough defense lead by linebacker and team captain Ardell Wiegandt highlighted the football scrimmage held Saturday afternoon at Dacotah Field.

Rota, a freshman, showed viewers some fine open-field running with many long gains. Freshman halfback George Kallenbach, was termed by the coaches as "the biggest surprise on the team."

Coach Ron Erhardt, commenting on the workout, said that backs Rich Mische, Vance Conner, Ted Ash and Mike Belmont "looked good." In the line, veteran tackles Walt Odegaard and George Lansing along with freshman Bob Hunter blocked well and played good defense. Ends Ron Hansen and Rudy Baranko showed promise with fire play according to Erhardt.

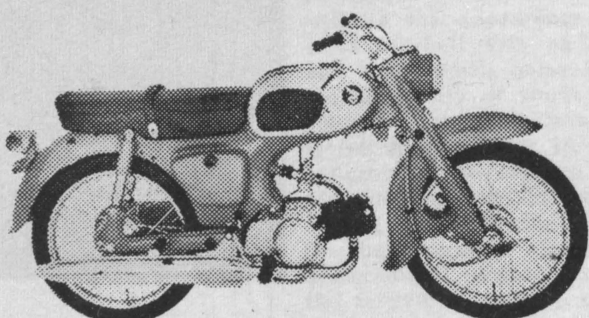

The intersquad game was played as a controlled scrimmage in conjunction with NDSU's Sharivar. Bison spring workouts will be concluded May 15 at 8 p.m. when NDSU's varsity meet the alumni.

Coach Nystrom To Play Alumni Game Is Set For Saturday Night

Fifteen hundred people are expected at Dacotah Field Saturday evening at 8:15 to watch the alumni-varsity football game. The game, which is sponsored by the Lettermens Club, will highlight the end of spring football drills at North Dakota State University.

Assistant Football Coach Buck Nystrom, who is handling arrangements for the game, reports that Assistant Coach Ed Jalbertson and Shanley High School Coach, Sid Cichy, will be defensive coaches for the alumni. Ross Fortier, former NDSU athlete and now assistant coach at Moorhead State College, will handle the offensive coaching duties.

Trophies will be given to the outstanding lineman and back on each squad after the game. Selections will be made by Chuck Bentson, Erv Kaiser, and Vern McKee from the athletic department, Sherry Bassin, alumnus, and Allan Peterson, Spectrum sports editor.

NDSU's football players will get a chance to show their talents first hand to two members of the coaching staff during the alumni game. Coach Nystrom, who played at Michigan State and Pat Novacek will be taking their football togs out of moth balls, to take a closer look at their lineman on the NDSU team. Nystrom will be playing guard and Novacek will be playing end on the alumni team.

NDSU's varsity squad is expected to be near full strength for the Saturday's encounter.

Finals Begin Monday In Intramural Softball

Intramural softball finals begin Monday, May 17, according to IM Director Erv Kaiser, as teams finish regular season games this week. "The IM program was greatly hindered by wet, cold weather and a three game record will determine which teams get into the playoffs," Kaiser explained.

In a number of brackets there will possibly be teams tied for the bracket title. These teams are scheduled to play-off Monday, May 17 for positions in the finals.

Bowling finals are being played this week with the champion to be decided Thursday. In IM board action Monday a dispute was heard over the number of forfeitures made by one of the bracket winners. Roger Werhle, Memorial Union games area director, agreed to look into the matter.

The annual IM track meet has been cancelled this spring. Loren Nett, IM secretary, stated, "Their just isn't enough time to hold the meet."

Only Mike Cichy who hurt his knee at the Mandan clinic will be definitely out; the question mark is Dan Loose, who sprained an ankle in last Saturday's inter-squad game.

Assistant Coach Ron Erhardt named a tentative starting lineup for the varsity: OFFENSIVE PLATOON - Center-Gene Gebhards, guards-Bob Sciacca and Ardell Weigandt, tackles-Bob Hunter and Gary Bentson, Ends-Rudy Baranko and Steve Irgens, Quarterback-Ron Carlson, Halfbacks-Ken Rota and Vance Conners, Fullback-Rich Mische.

MOVING IN FOR THE TACKLE is Gene Gebhards (in the white helmet). The action is from last Saturday's inter-squad scrimmage.

Bison Place Second In Meets

Dave Nammar, Bison tennis captain, won the singles competition at the Bemidji relays Saturday while helping the Bison to a second place tie in the Minnesota event. Nammar, while playing in competition for the first time this season, defeated Bill Peterson of Bethel 6-2 and 6-3 for the title.

St. Cloud College ruined Bison hopes of winning the meet in the first round when John Preibe and Jim Lerie defeated Bison doubles men, Rod Femrite and Jim Hinz. Preibe and Lerie went on to win the double competition sparking St. Cloud to the meet victory.

The Bison, North Central Conference champion, finished in a second place tie with the University of North Dakota. St. Cloud finished one point ahead of the North Dakota schools.

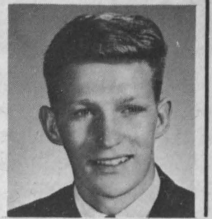

Bob Dahm, Bison golfer, won his second medalist title of the season in the Northern State College open Saturday while helping North Dakota State University take a victory in the event. NDSU finished 12 strokes ahead of second place UND in the 36 hole South Dakota tournament.

Al Peterson - - Mudra Offers Explanation

Like flowers and old soldiers the swimming pool issue has practically faded away. However, before it completely settles, some clarification is needed. In my last of several conversations with Athletic Director Darrell Mudra, regarding this project, he did give me this statement, "To set the record straight on the swimming pool, we the athletic department, must assume the responsibility for failure to complete the pool project. Dr. H. R. Albrecht obtained permission from the Board of Higher Education to complete the pool with funds that were to be raised by students and donations. This failed by a considerable sum." He continued, "No funds are available for this project through University appropriations at this time." AMEN

BASEBALL TEAM NOT OUT OF NCC RACE

NDSU's baseball team, with two wins and two losses in North Central Conference play, faces a crucial test this week. The Bison must win its three remaining doubleheaders to overtake conference leader, State College of Iowa. This week they meet the University of North Dakota Tuesday and the University of South Dakota in a doubleheader on the Bison home grounds Saturday starting at 12 noon. If the Herd wins this trio of doubleheaders, State College of Iowa, with only one conference loss, must still lose one game for the Bison to win the conference title.

Leading hitter on the Bison nine thus far is first baseman, Ray Ellingrud. Ellingrud is rapping the ball at a 460 clip; Andy Knudson leads in homeruns with four.

DUCHARME LANDS COACHING JOB

Former NDSU tri-sport star, Pierre DuCharme has been named assistant football coach at Fargo Central High School. In addition to his coaching duties Pierre will teach English and speech. DuCharme earned seven letters while at NDSU and was partially responsible for much of NDSU's athletic success. Fargo Central will profit from NDSU's loss.

DuCharme will be playing one more game on the NDSU campus however, before he leaves. He will be sharing the quarterback duties with Frank Hentges, for the alumni, when they meet the varsity in the spring grid finale. The addition of DuCharme, Hentges, Coaches Nystrom and Novacek, along with some of the other outstanding graduates should make this a colorful and exciting game.

NDSU POSTS TOP MARKS IN 5 OF 17 NCC TRACK MEETS

NDSU thinclads have posted top marks in 5 out of 17 events featured in the NCC track championships to be held May 21-22 at Sioux Falls. Only the University of South Dakota owns more - six. Five other teams have the best times or distances reported this year in one or more events. Morningside and South Dakota are tops in two; defending NCC champs and this year's indoor champs, State College of Iowa, and the University of North Dakota have one each.

Bruce Airheart, NDSU sprinter, has run the 440 in :48 flat this year for the best time in that distance. Last year Airheart set a conference record with :47.4. Airheart also owns the best time of :21.6 in the 220 and is a member of NDSU's mile relay team which also has the best mark of any team in the conference.

Other Bison that have top marks are: Lowell Linderman 14'2" in the pole vault, and Ron Evenson who has run the 100 yard dash in :09.85.

Diplomat Speaks On World Affairs

Political science classes listened on Monday to a representative of the British Embassy lecture on "Britain's Role in World Affairs and Her Economic Policy."

D. M. Day, stationed with the British Diplomatic Service in Washington, D. C., explained Britain's position in modern world affairs. "Britain's role is dictated by outside factors—her past history, geography and alliances in the various parts of the globe."

Day pointed out that although the Empire no longer exists, Britain's commitments range far and deep into the world community. The United Kingdom is linked politically, historically and economically with the nations of the Commonwealth and shares a moral commitment with new nations such as Tanganika and Malaysia.

"A greater percentage of Britain's national product is spent on foreign affairs than is spent in the United States," remarked Day.

Day remarked that British economy is very sensitive to outside events, because the island nation is so dependent on international trade; as the third largest exporter in the world, 25 per cent of Britain's gross national product comes from world trade.

Scholarships Available

The University Scholarship Committee will be accepting applications for Cupler Foundation Scholarships. There are two $300 scholarships available for the 1965-66 academic year.

Scholarships will be awarded on the basis of character, ability, ambition and need. Preference will be given to students from the Fargo and West Fargo areas and to those who are planning to enter the teaching field.

Application blanks are available at the University business office and in Room 104 of the Agricultural Engineering Building.

"The reason for the United Kingdom's position is lack of food, raw materials and land," continued Day. "One of the primary concerns of the recently

Israeli Farmer

Exchange Delegate Arrives

Yoram Levine, the first of four International Farm Youth Exchange delegates, will arrive in North Dakota May 12.

Levine, a farmer from Kibbutz Negba, Israel, will spend the next three months in North Dakota. "Four IFYE's from the United States will visit Israel in the exchange," said Mrs. Gladys Hansen, associate state 4-H leader, who is in charge of North Dakota's program.

Levine, 27, has lived for 23 years on a 3000 acre farm, of which 1,000 acres are irrigated. He is especially interested in our irrigation methods, particularly in relation to potatoes, sugar beets and cotton production practices.

A past member of the Boy Scouts in Israel, Levine is also interested in amateur theatre. His native language is Hebrew but he speaks fluent English. Levine has completed six years of secondary school.

Before going to visit another state Levine will visit a number of different farm homes in North Dakota.

This year 33 countries will participate in the program with over 100 two-way exchanges. Anyone between the ages of 20 and 30 who is at least a high school graduate, is mentally and emotionally mature, is single and free from ties which cause separation problems, has a background of farm life and work, has a sincere interest in understanding other people, and is willing and able on return to devote time to speaking and spreading the influence of his experiences can be an IFYE delegate. A foreign language is not essential but is desirable.

"Delegates do not finance their own trip except for personal effects," says Gladys Hansen. Funds are secured from the National 4-H Foundation, state IFYE funds and voluntary contributions. No government money is used. Young adults interested in becoming an IFYE delegate during 1966 should have their application blanks in the county or state extension office by early July. Application blanks can be secured by writing their home extension office or the state 4-H club office.
