Bison And Longhorns Repeat In AP Polls

Early reports out of the Associated Press in New York indicate that North Dakota State University and the University of Texas have retained their number one ranking among college and university football teams in the nation.

Texas dropped Indiana 27-12 while NDSU whipped South Dakota State 41-13. Last week it was the first time a North Dakota team had been accorded the honor of being ranked number one among small college teams.

The Bison are averaging 43 points a game, after beating the University of Milwaukee 59-20, University of Minnesota-Duluth 55-8, State College of Iowa 20-7, and last week's defeat of South Dakota 41-13.

Bond Issue To Be Tested

A friendly suit testing the constitutionality of a proposed $5 million bond issue to help cover building costs in North Dakota colleges and universities is expected to come before the Supreme Court next week.

Harold Shaft, Grand Forks attorney for Dr. Oscar C. Nord, who is filing the friendly suit, said they were unable to bring the suit to court last month as planned simply because the time was too big for the time planned. Shaft explained that a friendly suit is a device used to test the legality of an issue. He added that no one is mad at anyone and that it is strictly a test case.

Dr. Nord is in a position, Shaft said, to test the constitutionality of this particular issue because he has two sons in college. Nord, a Grand Forks dentist, declined to comment when asked why he was bringing the suit.

Kenneth Raschke, Commissioner of Higher Education in North Dakota, commented, "We don't want to take a negative attitude about the friendly suit, but if the Supreme Court rules it unconstitutional we will return the money to the students."

This means approximately $100,000 would be returned to North Dakota college students. This figure is based on the projected enrollment of North Dakota colleges, which is 20,000.

Enthusiasm Runs High After Release Of Ratings

Students at North Dakota State University literally and physically went up in the air Thursday evening after the Associated Press had named the Bison as the top small college football team in the nation.

Approximately 400 men and women students paraded to the top floors of Dinan and Burgum Halls during a snake dance that covered a major portion of the campus.

The group also toured the Memorial Union, Weible and Stockbridge Halls, but were content to restrict their demonstrations to the main floors of these buildings.

The demonstration, which generally was quite orderly, gained its first momentum at fraternity and sorority houses. Many members were still at their houses, having barely finished their dinner hour. The rest of the crowd was routed out of the dorm rooms by shouts and songs heralding the newly acclaimed power of small college football.

Although a great number of students did make the long trek through buildings and across campus, there was no damage done according to Dean Scott, assistant dean of students.

Scott spoke to leaders of the demonstration Monday morning.

He commented, "No disciplinary action was taken, nor will there be any regarding the demonstration Thursday night. We recognize fully that there was an intense feeling of spirit and pride, and we encourage this. What we don't encourage is going through the residence halls. We don't want this spirit to generate into something negative."

A demonstration like this should have been registered in advance, according to Scott. However he added that this would have been difficult because such a spontaneous affair couldn't have been registered.

HOME COMING

Preparations Well Underway

Homecoming Oct. 15-16 will climax the 75th Anniversary of North Dakota State University. Preparations are well underway to make this gala event successful. Posters went up Monday announcing the major events of the week.

Highlighting the event will be the dedication of NDSU's new $4 million Engineering and Architecture Center and a 75th Anniversary Awards Banquet on Friday, Oct. 15.

Formal dedication of the five new buildings now comprising the NDSU College of Engineering and Architecture will be outside, weather permitting. An open house will follow.

Recipients of the annual NDSU Achievement Awards will be announced at the Anniversary Awards Banquet Friday night. Invitations are being extended to alumni and faculty and friends of the University. The banquet will be held in the Memorial Union Ballroom.

The Homecoming itself will officially open Friday morning Oct. 15 with alumni registration and the annual Homecoming Convocation. An honored alumnus will be selected as keynote speaker and will also serve as parade marshal. Homecoming queen candidates will be presented at the evening convocation.

In keeping with the culmination of the 75th Anniversary observance, campus tours for alumni and guests Friday will include historical exhibits and visits to new buildings and services. Alumni classes of 1940 and 1955 will be honored at an Alumni Luncheon. A Pharmacy Reception Dinner for the classes of 1940, 1950 and 1960 will also be held.

A giant pep rally is scheduled for dusk on Friday, Oct. 15. Snake dances beginning at several points around campus will initiate the event. Later Byron Bollinger, AG 4, will introduce the coaches and players of the number one rated team in the nation. The Pep Rally will close with a tremendous bonfire. For this Pep Rally, dinner hours for the food center will be changed.

Students are already working on parade floats. Although final statistics are not in, Chairmen Dave Wahus and Dave Bakken report that approximately 20 floats and ten to twelve bands will participate. Convertibles will carry dignitaries and queens, including guests from the University of North Dakota.

The traditional Homecoming Parade will occur Saturday morning Oct. 16, followed by the football game between the Bison and University of North Dakota Sioux at 1:30 p.m. at Dacotah Field. Open houses in all residence halls and fraternity and sorority houses are scheduled following the game. The Homecoming Dance will be held that evening in the Fieldhouse with music by the Buddy Morrow Orchestra.

Tickets for the Homecoming dance with Buddy Morrow's Orchestra providing the entertainment will go on sale today at the Information desk in the Memorial Union and at all fraternity houses, at charge of $2.00 per couple.

Colds Hit Campus In Full Force

The ancient nemesis, the common cold, has hit the North Dakota State University campus in full force. NDSU health center officials report an above average number of people for this time of year requesting treatment for respiratory ailments.

According to Miss Myrtle Johnson, head nurse at the health center, the sudden outbreak of colds can be attributed to unusually damp, rainy weather, and the beginning of the new school year. She explained that nervous tension associated with beginning a new quarter lowers student's re-

SITTING AROUND talking over intellectual problems are Dr. Evan Pepper and other participants in the Campus Leader's Retreat.

Retreat Workshop Offers Problem Solutions

At a secluded lakeshore in the wilderness of Minnesota a pilot group of North Dakota State University "campus leaders" met this past weekend to discuss campus problems and possible solutions. Delegates from approximately 35 campus organizations voiced their opinions in different discussion groups that were designed to bring out problems as student leaders see them. Coaching students and acting as chaperones, faculty members Dr. Evan Pepper and Dr. Arif Hayat encouraged students to think creatively and dare to act on their convictions.

Each discussion group was assigned topics which related to problems on the NDSU campus. Some suggested by the group include the following:

- The student at this University has the right to know what the courses he is taking involve, and what professors are going to teach him. Each department should be required to list the teachers that will teach the different sections of the course well in advance of registration.

- There is far too little interest in reading outside the classroom. A list of the "top ten" books read by the students on campus could be published each month in the Spectrum.

- Competition should be developed among campus organizations for a common goal.

- Cultural opportunity should be provided by each student's curriculum.

- Groups should place more emphasis on those activities which provide lasting effects or learning experiences.

The first Campus Leaders' Retreat adjourned with a motion that another workshop with a self-evaluation clinic be held this coming spring.

Seven Coeds Chosen To Represent Colleges In Queen Contest

Candidates for the title of Homecoming Queen have been chosen at North Dakota State University.

One of the seven candidates will be selected as queen on Friday, Oct. 15, in a campus-wide election. She will be crowned that evening at a program in the University Fieldhouse.

Vying for the honor will be Karen Dietrich, Sara Gildersleeve, Jeannine Hagen, Georgia Jonasson, Janna McCoy, Wendy Pile and Siri Spong.

Selection of the seven candidates was made by a nominating committee composed of students and faculty members. To qualify as a candidate, a coed must be a senior with a 2.5 (B minus) or better grade-point average, be known to two-thirds of the nominating committee members, and rank high among her classmates in terms of personality, appearance, poise and contributions to the university.

Co-chairmen of the homecoming coronation committee are Joan Clairmont, H. E. 2 and Joyce Nelson, H. E. 2.

Peace Corp Workers On Campus

Malaysia, Nigeria and Guatemala are three countries many NDSU students are more familiar with after Peace Corps workers visited the campus recently.

The Peace Corps is sending Martha Hann, Nancy Whiteman and Lynda Sanderford to universities and cities throughout the United States to acquaint citizens with the work and value of the Peace Corps.

Nancy Whiteman, from W. Va., worked in Cono, Nigeria, a small country in West Central Africa with a population of one million.

Political and religious head of Nigeria is a man the people call Sardauna. He controls the Nigerian parliament. Beneath Sardauna is a group of men called "Emirs" who are selected by a council of five men the natives call "king makers."

"Emirs can be chosen from only three families," commented Miss Whiteman.

In Nigeria there are some 250 tribes and each has its own territory and individual language. In Cano the language is Hausa," said Miss Whiteman.

Martha Hann, who is from Iowa, worked in Malaysia, a small country located on a peninsula in southeast Asia. She worked in a village known as Pasir Putih, which has a population of approximately 3,000.

"Malaysians control their country politically, but the Chinese control Malaysia economically. The economic control which the Chinese exert over Malaysia creates much Malaysian resentment toward the Chinese," said Miss Hann. "The Chinese also own most of the rubber plantations that were owned by British."

"The British," said Miss Hann, "for the last 12 years have been fighting a war very similar to the war the U. S. is fighting in Viet Nam. Jungle warfare, utilizing guerilla tactics, is employed against the Chinese."

Lynda Sanderford, who hails from No. Carolina, worked in Guatemala, located in Central America. She lived in the village of Barberna, Santa Rosa, which has a population of 3,000 people.

"Women in Guatemala," said Miss Sanderford, "are put on a pedestal. In the upper class when a girl goes out with a boy she always has a chaperon until such time when she becomes engaged."

"For many years in Guatemala," said Miss Sanderford, "there was no middle class, but slowly a rising middle class is appearing in the lower class. However, there is still a problem with stealing and illegitimacy. The upper class looks down on the Peace Corps because they stand for improvement of the lower class."

Go-Ahead Is Given To Obtain Funds

North Dakota State University President H. R. Albrecht received the go-ahead last week from the State Board of Higher Education to seek funds for the purchase of 32 acres of the Fargo Fair Grounds.

According to President Albrecht the fair site is ideally suited for future expansion, especially married student housing. In his talk with the board he stated that the area "is farther away from the noise and path of the planes using Hector Airport than present married housing. At this time the main problem in the real estate sale is securing the necessary finances."

President Albrecht said the land is owned jointly by the people of Cass County and the Cass County Fair Association. He went on to say the owners have shown interest in selling the tract to the University, but bids would have to be taken. A price in the neighborhood of $120,000 has been mentioned.

The State Board of Higher Education suggested that President Albrecht approach the state Emergency Commission for the necessary funds to purchase the grounds. Late last year the NDSU Alumni Association considered buying the land, but they have discovered that not enough funds are available.

The Emergency Commission will be petitioned for the necessary amount because the Board of Higher Education has no funds appropriated for such an extensive purchase.

Students Urged To Obtain Free Mitchell Trio Tickets

North Dakota State University students are urged to pick up their free Mitchell Trio tickets by Friday, Oct. 8. Activity cards may be presented at the information desk in the Memorial Union to receive free tickets to the Mitchell Trio concert coming up Oct. 15 at 8:15 p.m. in the Fieldhouse as a part of Homecoming.

Since all tickets to the concert are for reserved seats, those who receive their tickets early will have the choice of the best seats. Tickets will be available to students at the Memorial Union through Oct. 15 and at the door the night of the concert.

If an NDSU student wishes to purchase a ticket for a non-NDSU student, he may do so when he receives his free ticket. However, no other tickets for the general public will go on sale until Friday, Oct. 8, in order to give NDSU students first choice in seating. These tickets will be available for $1.50 at Daveau's in downtown Fargo and in the Memorial Union on campus.

The coronation of NDSU's 1965 Homecoming Queen will take place that evening in conjunction with the concert.

Tuition Tax Credits Urged To Help Pay College Costs

by Dr. O. C. Carmichael, Jr., president
Citizens National Committee for Higher Education, Inc.

A plan designed to ease the financial burden of parents of college students and to create new sources for the establishment of scholarships is receiving increasing attention and support from both educators and legislators.

The concept of granting tax credits for some expenses of higher education has had bipartisan backing in both houses of Congress for more than a decade, but has never been enacted into law.

Now there are signs that a tuition tax credit measure may pass in the current session of the 89th Congress.

In 1964, a bill introduced by Senators Abraham Ribicoff, D., Conn., and Peter Dominick, R., Colo., and co-sponsored by thirty-five senators of both parties failed passage by the narrow margin of 48 votes to 45. The bill has been reintroduced in the present Congress.

During recent weeks added support for tax credit legislation has come from such groups as the Young Republican Federation and the House Republican Conference.

The tuition tax credit concept stems from widespread concern over the mounting costs of tuition and fees at both private and publicly supported colleges and universities. Proponents of the measure note that costs have been rising at an increasing rate, and that all evidence indicates that they will continue to do so.

The reason, they point out, is that increased enrollments, necessary increases in faculty salaries, and general increases in expenses have forced annual operating budgets sharply upward. The increased budgets have been mirrored almost universally in alarming rises in the cost of a college education to the student and his family.

Tuition tax credit was conceived to relieve financial pressure on persons paying for college educations and to reduce the threat of students being priced off the campus.

The measure would permit a credit against the Federal income tax of persons paying for tuition, fees and other essential expenses of college students.

Advocates of the plan emphasize the difference between a tax credit and a tax deduction. Each dollar of credit would reduce a person's tax by one dollar. If a taxpayer owed $1,000 at the end of the tax year and had qualified for a $400 tax credit, he would owe the Federal Government only $600 in income tax. A $400 tax credit would save exactly $400 for the individual whether he earned $5,000 a year or $20,000.

A deduction, on the other hand, would save a $20,000-a-year man more tax dollars than a $5,000-a-year man.

The Ribicoff-Dominick measure—typical of the many tax credit bills put forth by members of both houses in recent years—is based on the first $1,500 paid for tuition, fees, books, and supplies per student at an institution of higher learning.

The amount of credit would be 75 percent of the first $200 spent, 25 percent of the next $300 and 10 percent of the next $1,000. The maximum credit allowable would be $325.

The tax credit would come to everyone—student, relative, friend or benefactor—paying the educational costs. Broad assistance in support of the most needy students could, therefore, be generated by the colleges and universities themselves.

In addition, scholarship-holding students from middle-income could reduce their scholarships to the extent that they received tax credits. This would permit institutions to make more generous and more selective use of increasingly inadequate scholarship funds.

Opposition to tuition tax credit has come from several quarters. Much has been based on a lack of understanding about differences between a tax deduction—which would tend to favor higher-income taxpayers and a tax credit—which would save the lower and middle-income taxpayer a higher proportional share of his income.

Similarly, some opposition has been based on the fact that the measure would not help those with incomes too low to necessitate payment of Federal income taxes. Advocates point out that just because a measure helps many people does not imply that it hurts others, that other methods exist to help low-income people, and that, in fact, millions of dollars of scholarship money could be both liberated and generated by the measure to help students of limited means.

Finally, there has been some opposition on the grounds that benefits would be greater for students at higher-priced private colleges than at the lower-cost state universities. The percentage of relief would be higher at the publicly supported institutions, which are, in any case, increasing their own tuitions and fees dramatically, and are frequently charging out-of-state students nearly as much as private colleges.

Increased understanding of the merits of tuition tax credit is reflected in the results of the continuing CNCHE survey. Of 3,248 respondents to the initial mailing, 2,895 indicate that they favor the principles of the measure.

Reader Analyzes Christianity

To the editor:

It seems that the difficulty which most college students have with Christianity today is with the words, concepts and methods of presentation rather than with the validity and relevance of the religion.

The Church does not reach the young intellectuals of today because it is behind in its theology. If theology is rightly defined as "a set of cognitive beliefs about the way the world is, and the way of discovering how it is," then theology must move at the same speed man is increasing his knowledge about the world in which he lives.

In most instances, the Church still attempts to explain this new world with the same language the Apostle Paul used to explain his world in 65 A.D. In other words, the Church is trying to do a "new math" problem with an "old math" mind. This might account for the confusion college students encounter in Christianity.

Thought in the Church has been divided into the conservative and the liberal schools. The conservatives are those who prefer to do "new math" with an "old math" mind, and the liberals are those who prefer to use a new mind for a "new math" problem so to speak. The so-called "liberals" would prefer to restate the Gospel in terms which are relevant to our day and meaningful for the people to whom Gospel is directed.

Bishop John A. T. Robinson in "Honest to God," and Bishop James A. Pike in "A Time for Christian Candor," have come to the rescue of the college student. Both men have upheld the demand of the college student for use of modern language and concepts in the Church.

Bishop Pike for instance, declared the doctrine of the Trinity as "something contemporary Christianity could get along without." He said the concept of three divine persons—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit united in one. "Godhead"—came into Christianity not via the Bible but from the philosophical categories of the fourth and fifth centuries. It baffles and repels modern man, who misses the nuances of the Greek in which the doctrine was formulated and therefore concludes mistakenly, that Christianity preaches a kind of polytheism.

I agree with Bishop Pike that nothing essential would be lost and much would be gained if Christians were to abandon traditional trinitarian terminology and simply speak of God acting as the creator and sustainer of the Universe, revealing himself in the person of Jesus Christ or dwelling with men as a holy spirit.

The young man on the campus today is a pragmatist. His mind is secularly oriented. He prefers a clear goal that he can carefully plan and reach in this world, to putting his hope in the world hereafter (which he probably doubts). He prefers marching in the streets of Chicago and Selma for equal opportunity to marching in a Salvation Army parade down town.

Perhaps this is the main reason why the philosophy of existentialism appeals to him more than the Gospel today. Existentialists are stealing the show from the Christians by giving recognition to men and, moreover, by offering man something definite to do—"involvement" or active participation in human affairs.

If Christianity is to regain its vanishing prestige on the college campus, it must offer something as concrete as that offered by the atheistic existentialism of Sartre and others. It must stress that an appreciable amount of good work ought to go along with man's faith in God if man is to be of any value to his neighbor and the world.

In order that Christianity may be meaningful to the Twentieth century college student, I suggest the following:

1. That the Christians find a non-religious way of expressing God. This suggestion of separation of God and religion seems reasonable if one thinks of the great number of denominations and sects within Christianity, each with its own interpretation of the Bible and God.
2. That Jesus of Nazareth be regarded as truly human with all the limitations of a mortal man, and therefore be called the greatest hero who has ever lived, rather than God. If for instance, I call Jesus my hero, he is closer to and I feel related to man to man. Hence I compare to those qualities had. If on the other hand take Him as God, all I can do is awe Him. He becomes mighty, all powerful, supreme, etc. and that is too much ambition for me.

3. That emphasis be reduced on the literal meaning of the virgin birth of Christ and the like.

Perhaps the humility and practical approach to teaching of the Gospel were characteristic of Jesus. I tell us more about him the concept of his birth. Perhaps His call to wash one another's feet has more to offer to the world than the doctrine of the Trinity. Perhaps the "faith" of Jesus of Nazareth (faith here defined as life in spite of sequence rather than in spite of evidence) led Him to sacrifice His life to demonstrate that truth is worth dying for, brings more meaning than the belief that He was God.

This is my view, what is yours?
Olu Osiname,

UN Participants Are Praised

To the editor:

The faculty, administration and student body of North Dakota State University is proud to sponsor our first Model United Nations. We offer both a warm welcome and high praise to visiting students and campus participants in this study and practice of one of the most important tools of international law.

Our efforts to create a structure of world law seem feeble in the face of present anarchy. We see a world struggling to grow beyond national sovereignty, struggling to develop means to reconcile or accommodate the disparities and diversities of national ethnic groups, of markets, and proud heritages.

This dedicated effort on part of students toward an understanding and improvement of the United Nations, the principal organizational tool for world order available to man today, is not only deserving of the praise of all of us, but offers hope for the continuation and adaptation of the United Nations as a principal bulwark against crushing freedom-destroying anarchy.

Our Mailbag Runneth Over Model UN Conference Is Frowned Upon

To the editor:
That letter about the Model United Nations Conference did my heart good to read. Mrs. Daniel Dillon AS3, deserves a medal for standing up against the "Commsymp" on campus who dare to expose our students to what I call "The UN Menace".
No self-respecting American is informed on Communism who would think of participating in the Model UN Conference.

Our fore-fathers who built this great nation of free men would probably be turning over in their graves right now if they knew about all of the Model UN Conferences that are being held this year in American universities. (After all, where would this nation be without this great country of ours?) Students are actually expected to represent the member countries' positions.

According to the Model UN bylaws it is illegal to stick up for their own country, America, if they are not representing her.

The "Commsymp" who organize these meetings say that their purpose is to give a greater understanding of other nations' positions, but DON'T YOU BELIEVE IT! Their real purpose is to destroy the American Way in the minds of students.

For me, the American Way is good enough, and I don't want it challenged by a bunch of intellectual nuts who are against everything our country stands for.

Patriotic Americans arise! Remember. "Patriotism pays because patriotism is approved by people who act."

Dean Of Students Favors UN

To the editor:
In an era when the forces of destruction can oblivate an entire country, or indeed, the entire civilization, it seems urgent that citizens of all nations should understand and support an institution through which countries can attempt to solve differences by means other than those of warfare.

State University is aimed at learning about the real institution through devising a structure that resembles the real one. The learning will occur both through observation and participation.

I urge your cooperation and participation.

The United Nations is such an institution.

RECRUITING STARTED

Placement Seeks Registrants

Graduate and undergraduate students scheduled for graduation this year are urged to register with the Placement Office at the earliest possible date.

Job recruiting began Oct. 4, at North Dakota State University and continues throughout the year.

The student placement office directs guidance and preparation for interviews, helps the student assemble employment credentials, personal references and academic records.

The placement office also helps the student make contacts by mail and will arrange travel to companies when interviews to plants are necessary.

The task of keeping education parallel to industry's need is correlated through the employment office. Interviewers are among the best media for the college in finding the latest needs of industry.

The employability of the NDSU graduate is affected by problems different from graduates of industrial states. This is because of the specified variety of technical training provided by the university.

Many students will be employed by industries foreign to this area. Many students also are not oriented to some of the industrial processes, such as, large aircraft plants or chemical companies.

"We schedule interviewing representatives to come on campus and arrange half-hour interviews for students," said Placement Director Gale Smith.

Placement Opportunities

KDSU Is On The Air Nightly; New Program Series To Begin

Campus radio is operating at North Dakota State University.

The 40 watt station, bounded by Federal Communication Commission regulations prohibiting them to transmit beyond campus, broadcasts from 6-11 p.m. Monday through Friday. Frequency is 7:50.

People in Reed Johnson, Weible, Stockbridge, Dinan and Bur-gum, shouldn't have any problem receiving the KDSU air waves according to station manager Tom McAllen. He added that satellites have been set up in these dorms to supplement the main transmitter in Festival Hall.

McAllen explained that people in Churchill and Ceres may still receive the station but reception may not be as good because there isn't a transmitter in either of these dorms.

KDSU programming consists mostly of folk, big band, jazz or easy listening music.

This week KDSU will initiate a series of tapes dealing with literary items and music. The recordings which are put out by the Inter-Collegiate Broadcasting system, will feature such programs as *Authors Bookshelf *Shakespeare Ratings *Just Jazz *Great Music - Great Moments in the America Theatre.

Around Jan. 1, KDSU's power will be expanded to a maximum of 25 miles.

Top Ranked Bison Score Six Majors

Bison gridders rolled to a 41-13 victory over the South Dakota State University Jackrabbits Saturday in their debut as the No. 1 small college team in the nation.

North Dakota State University improved its season record to 4-0 and ran its unbeaten streak to eight games with the victory. The Jackrabbits are winless in four games although they played the Augusta Vikings to a 14-14 tie.

A strong running attack netted the Bison 319 total yards and the continued fine play of the defensive line sparked the NDSU victory. Bison defenders threw Jackrabbit backfield men for 52 yards loss. Ron Meyer, Jackrabbit quarterback, was thrown for losses while dropping back to pass.

Vance Connor and Ken Rota supplied the bulk of the Bison running power. Connor, a junior halfback, gained 133 yards in 13 attempts. Rota, a sophomore, carried 18 times for 53 yards. Connor broke away for an 80 yards scoring run midway in the third quarter.

The Jackrabbit's all North Central Conference quarterback Meyer kept the Jacks in contention throughout the first half while hitting on two touchdown passes. The 6'3" quarterback finished with 20 completion in 42 attempts and had one pass intercepted.

Bob Ercolani, 200 pound sophomore tackle, opened Bison scoring in the first quarter when he recovered a Meyer fumble in the Jackrabbit end zone. In the second period Ercolani recovered a second Jackrabbit fumble which led to the second Bison touchdown.

Ercolani's play earned him the Spectrum's Player of the Week award.

Head coach Darrell Mudra summed up the game with, "It was probably our poorest performance, our attack didn't seem to get going in the first half. We could have passed more although there was a 25 mile an hour wind."

Terry Hanson, Bison quarterback, hit on one touchdown pass while hitting on four of nine pass attempts. Rota teamed with Hanson on a 23-yard touchdown pass.

Offensive line coach Buck Nystrom stated, "We were pleased although our team did have trouble getting yards in the first half, Benson gave us a real strong performance in the line. Rich Mische showed his form of last year in a fine effort."

Rota and Mische each scored two touchdowns. Rota has scored nine touchdowns in the four Bison games and leads in small college collegiate scoring.

STATE TOURNAMENT

Dr. Popel Wins Chess Title

Dr. Stephan Popel of North Dakota State University won the North Dakota Chess tournament Sunday at the Memorial Union. He received $125 and the state chess title for his effort.

Dr. Popel was the only chess master to participate in the North Dakota event. The masters rating is the highest rank among chess players. Dr. Popel ranks 18th among 10,000 registered chess players in the United States.

James Young, Laszlo Ficsor

and Mike Halbrin tied for second place in the tournament. They split the $75 second prize money.

Halbrin, an NDSU student, won the President's award which is given to the student who plays the best in the tournament. Halbrin also won the class A competition.

Dr. Popel's wife won the women's division of the tournament according to tournament Director Richard Catulla.

UND Protects Nickel Trophy

Locked in a vault in the University of North Dakota fieldhouse is an 85 pound scrap of aluminum alloy measuring 35 inches in diameter. The students at UND intend to keep it there unless the North Dakota State University Bison win the football game October 16.

This hunk of aluminum alloy is the much sought after Nickel Trophy that originated in 1937.

On one side of the huge nickel is a Bison, and on the other a Souix Indian.

The Blue Key Chapters at UND and NDSU founded the trophy to increase competition between schools and to promote school spirit. It was originated with the understanding that the winning team in the annual UND-NDSU football game take possession of the trophy until the following year.

Twelve years have passed since the Bison have had it in their possession. The Nickel Trophy will be exhibited at the UND-NDSU football game at Dacotah Field Oct. 16.

Augustana Will Test Top Ranked Bison

Sophomore quarterback Gary Sandbo will lead the Augustana Vikings against the unbeaten Bison of North Dakota State University in Sioux Falls Saturday in Central Conference play.

The surprising Vikings upset the University of South Dakota Saturday for their first win. The top ranked Bison ran their unbeaten streak to eight games and improved their NCC record to 2-0 with their victory over the Jackrabbits of South Dakota State University.

Sandbo passed and rushed for 256 yards in Augustana's shocking victory over the Coyotes. The Coyotes were rated by some forecasters as contenders for the NCC title in preseason polls.

Augustana has one loss in NCC play, a 22-13 setback at the hands of the University of North Dakota. In other conference play the Vikings tied the SDSU Jackrabbits 14-14 to give them a 1-1-1 record in the NCC.

Freshmen coach Dick Koppenhaver scouted the Augustana-USD contest for the Bison staff. "The Vikings are a real strong team" he stated. "USD was never in the contest after the first Koppenhaver quarter. Sandbo is probably the best quarterback in the NCC. He runs well besides being a strong passer."

The Vikings' sophomore sensation has accounted for 732 yards this season, including 541 yards passing. Sandbo's attack varies,

Football Continues; Bowling Fees Due

Organizations interested in forming intramural bowling teams are asked to turn in their rosters and fees at the Monday meeting of the Intramural Board, according to Director Erv Kaiser. Kaiser stated, "This will be the organization's last chance to join this year's bowling program."

Touch football action continues this week. Many teams have missed games and consequently have forfeited contests.

Kaiser explained the grid rule involving a kicked ball. No ball kicked is in play if a receiving player touches or fumbles the ball.

The IM touch football scores to the past week were:

- Theta Chi (1) 12—Johnson Hall (3) 0
- Theta Chi (2) 7—Johnson Hall (2) 6
- YMCA (2) 12—Tau Kappa Epsilon (1) 0
- Alpha Tau Omega (2) 12—Johnson Hall (2) 6
- Kappa Psi (1) 20 — Theta Chi (2) 0

according to Koppenhaver. The frosh mentor stated, "Against SDSU he ran the ball well; against USD his passing game was most impressive."

Koppenhaver continued, "They have got a good balanced attack. Their young team has improved each week and last Saturday they really broke loose. We should have a real tough battle."

Mark Osthus and Terry Hinz are the Vikings' leading rushers. Hinz has averaged 5.8 yards a carry through the first three Viking games. Augustana's defense has allowed an average of 258 yards per game, according to their opponents.

Bison head coach Darrell Mudra gave his view of the game. "We expect a real tough game Saturday. They've just begun to reach their potential."

LINEMEN RUN INTERFERENCE for their teammates as the Theta Chi score a victory in intramural touch football action.

Herd Fourth At Bemidji Meet

A technical disqualification cost North Dakota State University a third place finish in the Bemidji Invitational Cross Country meet Saturday. Mankato College won the meet with a low score of 51.

Roger Grooters, the Bison's leading runner, was disqualified after finishing second in the meet because he left the designated track. This move helped the University of North Dakota move in behind the University of Manitoba in the team standings.

Cross country coach Larry Knoblich explained the action. "Roger couldn't follow the route of the track because it was poorly marked. He had a real good time over the three mile course despite the disqualification."

Knoblich expressed satisfaction in the performance of his team.

Roger Olson, a letterman of last year's team, recently joined the cross country team and ran in the Bemidji event. Olson hadn't been working out with the Bison runners because of conflicting interests.

Brian MacLaren and Bill Haugen were the only two Bison to place in Saturday's race, discounting Grooters. MacLaren finished seventh while Haugen completed the three mile course in 11th place

"The Bemidji event had some of the finest runners in the Upper Midwest entered either collegiately or unattached," Knoblich stated.

LOOSENING UP' is Roger Olson who recently joined the Bison cross country team.

Bison Deserving Of Top Rating

The Bison's sudden rise to number one small college grid team in the nation came as a surprise to almost everyone. It was a "first" for North Dakota State University football.

A look at the statistics and recent Bison performances makes their choice for the number one spot less surprising. Since head coach Darrell Mudra came to NDSU, the Bison have steadily gained in football prominence. Mudra's teams have moved from a 6-4 record as head coach to a 10-1 record in 1964.

As Mineral Bowl champion and North Central Conference co-champion N. D. Bison football reached a peak. A strong running attack, accounting for a big part of the 1964 success, was lost through graduation. A fine coaching staff and new recruiting program found replacements for 11 graduates of the 1964 team.

Mudra calls his staff of Ron Erhardt, Carl Nystram, Walt Weaver, Dick Koppenhaver and Ev Kjelbertson "one of the finest in the country." Certainly few staffs have found greater success, but there is other evidence for the Bison's number one rating.

Bison gridders blossomed early this season. Two big nights against the University of Wisconsin (Milwaukee) and the University of Minnesota (Duluth) boosted the Bison's prestige. Two 50 point performances helped wipe out Bison fans' worries about a weak offense.

The State College of Iowa Panthers probably gave the Bison their biggest boost toward the number one spot. A formidable opponent like the Panthers makes a team play its best game. Bison gridders withstood the test both defensively and offensively.

Sophomore quarterback Terry Hanson calmly guided a fourth quarter rally which provided the Bison with two touchdowns, while the front wall held Little All-American Randy Schultz to 95 yards. Schultz performed well against a line which has allowed only 35 yards per game rushing to the Bison's first four opponents this season.

Mudra termed the Bison 41-13 victory over South Dakota State University Jackrabbits the team's poorest performance of the year. Most teams consider a 40 point game an excellent offensive display, but not Mudra. Mudra seems bent on a performance where neither the offense nor defense falters.

Such a performance may be necessary. The University of North Dakota Sioux provided their finest performance of the season Saturday when they defeated the SCI Panthers 34-0. U.N.D. quarterback Corey Colehour has receivers Butch Lince, Ron Green and R. C. Olson, who constitute one of the best aerial attacks in the N.C.C., according to observers.

Oct. 16 looms as the day of the big game for Bison football gridders and fans. The Sioux are the only NCC team that Mudra's gridders haven't beaten in his two years at NDSU. Last season the Bison dropped a 20-13 game with the Sioux.

FROSH OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Bison freshmen gridders take their first step into intercollegiate competition tonight when they meet the Concordia junior varsity at Dacotah Field. The 7 p.m. contest is the first of a four game Bison yearly schedule.

Fresman grid coach Dick Koppenhaver stated, "We'll be fairly tough defensively, but our offense will be stronger running than passing. Ron Wick, a 230 pound tight end, will be the only freshman used offensively and defensively."

Four North Dakota prepsters earned spots on starting units. Orrell Schmitz, a North Dakota all-state basketball and football player, will start at split end. Also from North Dakota are Dan Olson, Ollie Cornelius and Tracey Clark.

Sports Day Winner Named

Bergum Hall teamed with Ceres Hall to win the Fall Sports Day team competition held on The Mall Saturday. Kappa Alpha Theta and Tau Kappa Epsilon won second place.

Richard Catullo, games area director of the Memorial Union, scored for the event which attracted 350 spectators.

The Student Union Activities Board game committee sponsors a similar event every winter, called the Mauler Bowl. This event drew 900 spectators last winter.

Trophies were awarded to winning teams at the fall Sports Day, held Saturday.

Catullo explained the Dinan-Ceres victory. "From reports the Dinan-Ceres team managed an impressive victory in the centipede race because they had practiced."

Also included in the events were the push ball race, crab race and bicycle race.

THE WINNER.

Tryota Plans Fall Workshop

Plans for a Tri-College Fall Workshop highlighted the first meeting of Tryota held on Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Tryota, a local professional home economics organization on North Dakota State University campus, along with home economics clubs from Minot State College and the University of North Dakota will meet for the workshop on Oct. 30 in Minot. Tryota is in charge of the program, and the Minot State College club will host the meeting.
