Bison And Longhorns Repeat In AP Polls

Early reports out of the Associated Press in New York indicate that North Dakota State University have retained their number one ranking among college and university football teams in the nation. Texas dropped Indiana 27-12 while NDSU whipped South Dakota State 41-13. Last week it was the first time a North Dakota team had been accorded the honor of being ranked number one among small college teams. The Bison are averaging 43 points a game, after beating the University of Minnesota 50-0, University of Minnesota-Duluth 59-8, State College of Iowa 20-7, and last week's defeat of South Dakota 41-13.

Bond Issue To Be Tested

A friendly suit testing the constitutionality of a proposed $4 million bond issue to help cover building costs for the newly acclaimed power of North Dakota colleges and universities is expected to come before the Supreme Court next week. Harold Shaft, Grand Forks attorney for Dr. Oscar C. Nord, who is filing the friendly suit, said they were unable to bring the suit to court last month as planned simply because the job was too big for the time planned. Shaft explained that a friendly suit is a device used to test the legality of an issue. He added that no one is mad at anyone and that he doesn't want to take a negative attitude about the friendly suit, but if the Supreme Court rules it unconstitutional we will return the money to the students.

This means approximately $100,000 would be returned to North Dakota college students. The proposed bond project included the entire re-erected enrollment of North Dakota colleges, which is 20,000.

NDSU's Homecoming:

Bighorn, a 5-7-12, was too big for the time planned.
Seven Coeds Chosen To Represent Colleges In Queen Contest

Candidates for the title of Homecoming Queen have been chosen at North Dakota State University.

One of the seven candidates will be selected as queen on Friday, Oct. 15, in a campus-wide election. She will be crowned that evening at a program in the University Fieldhouse.

Vying for the honor will be Karen Dietrich, Sara Gildersleeve, Jeannine Hansen, Georgia Jonasson, Janna McCoy, Wendy Pile, and Siri Spong.

Selection of the seven candidates was made by a nominating committee composed of students and faculty members. To qualify as a candidate, a coed must be a senior with a 2.0 (B minus) or better grade-point average, be known to two-thirds of the nominating committee members, and rank high among her classmates in terms of personality, appearance, poise and contributions to the university.

Go-Ahead Is Given To Obtain Funds

North Dakota State University President H. R. Albrecht received the go-ahead last week from the State Board of Higher Education to seek funds for the purchase of 22 acres of the Fargo Fair Grounds. According to President Albrecht the fair site is ideally suited for future expansion, especially married student housing. In his talk with the board he stated that the area "is far away from the noise and path of the planes using Hector Airport than present married housing. At this time the main problem is in the real estate sale is securing the necessary finance." President Albrecht said the land is owned jointly by the people of Cass County and the Cass County Fair Association. He went on to say the owners have shown interest in selling the tract to the University, but bids would have to be taken. A price in the neighborhood of $120,000 has been mentioned.

The State Board of Higher Education suggested that President Albrecht approach the state Emergency Commission for the necessary funds to purchase the grounds. Late last year the NDSU Alumni Association considered buying the land, but they have discovered that not enough funds are available.

The Emergency Commission will be petitioned for the necessary amount because the Board of Higher Education has no funds appropriated for such an extensive purchase.

Guest Editorial:

Tuition Tax Credits Urged
To Help Pay College Costs

by Dr. O. C. Carmichael, Jr., president
Citizens National Committee for Higher Education, Inc.

A plan designed to ease the financial burdens of parents of college students and to create new sources for the establishment of scholarship funds in public and private schools and colleges is being supported by both educators and legislators.

The idea of granting tax credits for some expenses of higher education has had bipartisan backing in both houses of Congress for more than a decade, but so far without much success. The basic reason for this is that a tuition tax credit measure may pass in the current session of the 89th Congress.

In 1964, a bill introduced by Senators Abraham Ribicoff, D., Conn., and Peter Dominick, R., Colo., and co-sponsored by thirty-five senators and forty representatives by the narrow margin of 48 votes to 45. The bill has been reintroduced in the present Congress.

During recent weeks added support for tax credit legislation has come from such groups as the Young Republican Federation and the House Republican Conference.

The tuition tax credit concept stems from widespread concern over the mounting costs of tuition and fees at both public and privately supported colleges and universities. Proponents of the measure note that costs have been rising at an increasing rate, and that all evidence indicates that they will continue to do so.

The reason, they point out, is that increased enrollments, necessary increases in faculty salaries, and general increases in expenses have forced annual operating budgets sharply upward. The increased budget figures have been far out of balance in the cost of a college education to the student and his family.

Tuition tax credit would reduce the financial pressure on persons paying for college educations and to reduce the threat of students being priced off the campus.

The measure would permit a credit against the Federal income tax of persons paying for tuition, fees and other essential expenses of college education. The credit would be a dollar for dollar to reduce a person's tax by one dollar. If a taxpayer owed $1,000 at the end of the tax year and had qualified for a $400 tax credit, he would owe the Internal Revenue Service $600 in income taxes. If the $400 credit would save exactly $400 for the individual whether he earned $5,000 a year or $50,000 a year.

A deduction, on the other hand, would save a $20,000-a-year man more tax dollars than a $5,000-a-year man.

Advocates of the plan emphasize the difference between a tax credit and a deduction. A deduction would save a $20,000-a-year man more tax dollars than a $5,000-a-year man.

The Ribicoff-Dominick measure typical of the many tax credit bills put forth by members of both houses in recent years is based on the principles of saving for students, fees, books, and supplies paid for each year at a public or private school.

The amount of credit would be 25 percent of the first $200 spent, 25 percent of the next $300 and 10 percent of the next $1,000. The maximum credit allowable would be $250.

To the editor:

Tuition tax credits are one of the biggest problems that people have with the philosophy of education here in the U.S. It is a problem that the government is trying to solve, but it is not an easy problem to solve. The government believes that education should be free for all people, and that is a goal that everyone should strive for.

The government has introduced a bill to give tax credits to parents who pay for their children's college education. This is a good step in the right direction, but it is not enough. The government needs to do more to help students pay for college.

I hope that the government will continue to work on this problem and that they will come up with a better solution. It is a problem that affects everyone, and it is important that we find a way to solve it.

Sincerely,

KDSU Is On The Air Nightly; New Program Series To Begin

Campus radio is operating at North Dakota State University. The 40 watt station, bounded by Federal Communication Commission regulations prohibiting them to transmit beyond campus, broadcasts from 6-11 p.m. Monday through Friday. Frequency is 7:50.

People in Reed Johnson, Walble, Stockbridge, Dinan and Burgum, shouldn't have any problem receiving the KDSU air waves according to station manager Tom McAllen. He added that satellites have been set up in these dorms to supplement the main transmitter in Festival Hall.

McAllen explained that people in Churchill and Ceres may still receive the station but reception may not be as good because there isn't a transmitter in either of these dorms.

KDSU programming consists mostly of folk, big band, jazz or easy listening music.

This week KDSU will initiate a series of tapes dealing with literary items and music. The recordings which are put out by the Inter-Colligate Broadcasting system, will feature such programs as "Authors Bookshelf *Shakespeare Ratings *Just Jazz *Great Music-Great Moments in the America Theatre.

Around Jan. 1, KDSU's power will be expanded to a maximum of 25 miles.

Top Ranked Bison Score Six Majors

Bison gridironers rolled to a 41-13 victory over the South Dakota State University Jackrabbits Saturday in their debut as the No. 1 small college team in the nation.

North Dakota State University improved its season record to 4-0 and ran its unbeaten streak to eight games although they played the Augusta Vikings to a 14-14 tie.

A strong running attack netted the Bison 319 total yards and the continued fine play of the defensive line sparked the NDSU victory. Bison defenders tossed Jackrabbit backfield man for 52 yards loss. Ron Meyer, Jackrabbit quarterback, was thrown for losses while dropping back to pass.

Vance Connor and Ken Rota supplied the bulk of the Bison running power. Connor, a junior halfback, gained 133 yards in 13 attempts, Rota, a sophomore, carried 18 times for 53 yards. Connor broke away for an 80 yards scoring run midway in the third quarter.

The Jackrabbit's all North Central Conference quarterback Meyer kept the Jacks in contention throughout the first half while hitting on two touchdown passes. The 6'3" quarterback finished with 20 completion in 42 attempts and had one pass intercepted.

Bob Ercolani, 200 pound sophomore tackle, opened Bison scoring in the first quarter when he recovered a Meyer fumble in the Jackrabbit end zone. In the second period Ercolani recovered a second Jackrabbit fumble which led to the second Bison touchdown.

Ercolani's play earned him the Spectrum's Player of the Week award.

Head coach Darrell Mudra summed up the game with: "It was probably our poorest performance, our attack didn't seem to get going in the first half. We could have passed more although there was a 25 mile an hour wind."

Terry Hanson, Bison quarterback, hit on one touchdown pass while hitting on four of nine pass attempts. Rota teamed with Hanson on a 28-yard touchdown pass.

Offensive line coach Buck Nystrom stated, "We were pleased although our team did have trouble getting yards in the first half, Benson gave us a real strong performance in the line. Rich Mische showed his form of last year in a fine effort."

Rota and Mische each scored two touchdowns. Rota has scored nine touchdowns in the four Bison games and leads in small college collegiate scoring.

Augustana Will Test Top Ranked Bison

The Bison's sudden rise to number one small college grid team in the nation came as a surprise to almost everyone. It was a "first" for North Dakota State University football.

A look at the statistics and recent Bison performances makes their choice for the number one spot less surprising. Since head coach Darrell Mudra came to NDSU, the Bison have steadily gained in football prominence. Mudra's teams have moved from a 6-4 record as head coach to a 10-1 record in 1964.

As Mineral Bowl champion and North Central Conference co-champion N. D. Bison football reached a peak. A strong running attack, accounting for a big part of his 1964 success, was lost through graduation. A fine coaching staff and new recruiting program found replacements for 11 graduates of the 1964 team.

Mudra calls his staff of Ron Erhardt, Carl Nystram, Walt Weaver, Dick Koppenhaver and Ev Kjellerson "one of the finest in the country." Certainly few staffs have found greater success, but there is other evidence for the Bison's number one rating.

Bison gridders blossomed early this season. Two big nights against the University of Wisconsin (Milwaukee) and the University of Minnesota (Duluth) boosted the Bison's prestige. Two 50 point performances helped wipe out Bison fans' worries about a weak offense.

The State College of Iowa Panthers probably gave the Bison their biggest boost toward the number one spot. A formidable opponent, like the Panthers makes a team play its best game. Bison gridders withstood the test both defensively and offensively.

Sophomore quarterback Terry Hanson calmly guided a fourth quarter rally which provided the Bison with two touchdowns, while the front wall held Little All-American Randy Schultz to 86 yards. Schultz performed well against a line which has allowed only 35 yards per game rushing to the Bison's first four opponents this season.

Mudra termed the Bison 41-15 victory over South Dakota State University Jackrabbits the team's poorest performance of the year. Most teams consider a 40 point game an excellent offensive display, but not Mudra. Mudra seems bent on a performance where neither the offense nor defense falters.

Such a performance may be necessary. The University of North Dakota Sioux provided their finest performance of the season Saturday when they defeated the SCI Panthers 34-6. U.N.D. quarterback Roger Grooters, the Bison's leading passer, was disqualified after finishing second in the meet because he left the designated track. This move helped the University of North Dakota move in behind the University of Minnesota in the team standings.

Cross country coach Larry Knoblich explained the action. "Roger couldn't follow the rule of the track because it was poorly marked. He had a real good time over the three mile course despite the disqualification." Knoblich expressed satisfaction in the performance of his team.

Roger Olson, a letterman of last year's team, recently joined the cross country team and ran in the Bemidji event. Olson hadn't been working with the Bison runners because of conflicting interests.

Brian MacLaren and Bill Haugen were the only two Bison to place in Saturday's event, discounting Grooters. MacLaren finished seventh while Haugen accounted for three miles in the 11th place. "The Bemidji event had so much of the finest running in the Upper Midwest entered either collegiately or unattached," Knoblich stated.
FALL SPORTS DAY participants receive encouragement from enthusiastic supporters.

Sports Day Winner Named

Bergum Hall teamed with Ceres Hall to win the Fall Sports Day team competition held on The Mall Saturday. Kappa Alpha Theta and Tau Kappa Epsilon won second place.

Richard Catallo, games area director of the Memorial Union, scored for an event which attracted 350 spectators. The Student Union Activities Board game committee sponsors a similar event every winter, called the Mauler Bowl. This event drew 900 spectators last winter.

Trophies were awarded to winning teams at the Fall Sports Day, held Saturday.

Catallo explained the Dinan-Ceres victory. "From reports the Dinan-Ceres team managed an impressive victory in the centipede race because they had practiced."

Also included in the events were the push ball race, crab race and bicycle race.

Tryota Plans Fall Workshop

Plans for a Tri-College Fall Workshop highlighted the first meeting of Tryota held on Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Tryota, a local professional home economics organization on North Dakota State University campus, along with home economics clubs from Minot State College and the University of North Dakota will meet for the workshop on Oct. 30 in Minot. Tryota is in charge of the program, and the Minot State College club will host the meeting.

The workshop will begin with a social hour and registration in the morning. The featured speaker, Dr. Catherine Cater, professor of English and philosophy at NDSU will talk on "The Creative You." Discussion groups will meet to discuss creativity and exchange ideas on how to improve the individual chapters.

Guests of Honor will be Governor and Mrs. William Guy. At the noon luncheon, Mrs. Guy will speak on "The Person You Want to Be," in which she will tell about some of her personal experiences.

The final speaker will be Dr. Mauderie Saunders, professor of special education and psychology at Minot State College. Dr. Saunders will speak of "The Inner You."
