Students are jeopardizing their college careers by stealing from themselves. Article placed in the Memorial Union to serve the students are being stolen. Coats, billfolds and purses have been taken from the Ballroom check room. The manager of the Varsity Mart and many students are reporting books and other articles missing.

Roger Wehrle, assistant director of the Memorial Union, has listed some of the items stolen since the beginning of fall quarter.

Three floor ash trays costing $20 apiece have been stolen. A $60 rug was taken from the base of the stairway leading from the south entrance of the Memorial Union to the hall running adjacent to the Varsity Mart. Two costs valued at $75 apiece have disappeared from the Ballroom check room and a number of billfolds and wallets have been rifled in the check room.

It should be noted that a theft of $50 or more constitutes a felony, and the gravity of such an offense should cause a potential thief to pause and reflect.

Since stealing of coats, rugs, etc., is considered a criminal offense by law, this will be the basis of our action on items stolen in the future."

Wehrle added that if the other articles that have already been stolen are quickly and quietly returned, no action will be taken.

Richard Kasper, manager of the Varsity Mart, reports an annual total of over $1000 worth of merchandise stolen from the store. Students have attempted, and at times succeeded, to steal anything from nickel pencils to expensive books.

Kasper remarked, "I don’t understand how a student can jeopardize his entire college career for a pack of cigarettes."

Kasper also mentioned that the Varsity Mart has had a measure of success in getting back stolen books. He urges any student who loses a book to report it.

"In the past, thieves have been caught trying to sell to Varsity Mart books that have been stolen from students. These books have been returned to the students. Kasper says students will continue to be helped in recovering their stolen books."

Letters to the Editor

Reader Dislikes Russian Role In U.N.

To the editor:

We pay the way; we want a say.

We are paying (or forcing our students to pay) $1,050 for a $200 handkerchief. The money would have brought home the students, who are the real benefactors of that handkerchief. It was not available. On Monday, Oct. 4, I received a copy of the budget as approved by BOA. It was then that I initiated the above action. BOA approved the request and I carried the letter to the President's office last Wednesday afternoon, but Dr. H. R. Albrecht was out of town and Vice President James Nicker- son was not in at the office.

Tickets were to be on sale Monday but the sale was postponed until Wednesday. I then decided to put them on sale for $2 on Thursday without the Presi- dent's approval. These tickets had to be put on sale to allow students enough time to purchase them.

Thursday afternoon, I was in- formed that our request was denied by the Vice Presi- dent.

His reasoning was as follows: "Budgets for student activities were approved last May and it is incumbent upon all student agencies to live within these bud- gets. Requests for additional funds during the budget period should be reserved for emergency beyond the control of the planning and guiding mitte or chairman. This is not the case with the Homecoming dance."

I am willing to take some responsibility in the decision because I should have located approved budget sooner. As Commission of Campus Affairs, I average at least no order accepted sooner as many as four. Therefore, it was up to the students to revise these budgets to cut the proper information would have been provided.

I feel that a few points should have been included. Each person should fulfill the role of chairman in leadership positions and be responsible for the People in leadership positions would then have time to write and read at NDSU.

CHEAPEST PRICE

Homecoming Ticket Price Is Explained

To the editor:

Last week on Oct. 5, the Com- mission of Campus Affairs was informed that there was no Home- coming allocation from student funds increased by $1,050.

This money would have brought the Homecoming dance price from $3.50 per couple down to $2 per couple.

The action was taken directly to the Board of Organizations and Activities based on a motion passed at the May 20, 1966 meeting of Student Senate giving authority for such a request. BOA had acted during final week last spring on the budget, as it was then revised. They said that Homecoming must have $2,250, which is the price for which the tickets was a handkerchief was con- tracted.

Arriving back on campus this fall I instructed my secretary to locate the approved budget, but it was not available. On Monday, Oct. 4, I received a copy of the budget as approved by BOA. It

Increasing NDSU Enrollment Points Up Revenue Demands

Reprinted from the Fargo Forum

When enrollment at North Dakota State University in Fargo set an all-time record of 5,966 after three weeks of the fall quarter, NDSU supporters and Fargoans were happy to note the continued growth of the local institution of higher education.

By passing the 5,000 mark in enrollment, the University has ful- filled earlier predictions and makes it certain that we can expect a student body of around 7,500 in the not too distant future.

If the student body increases by 500 a year—the gain this fall was 536—the enrollment will top 7,500 in 1970.

This would be a 50 per cent expansion in a five-year period, but perhaps we don't really tell the story. A gain of 2,500 students would mean the addition of as many students as are currently en- rolled at Concordia.

You don't have to build a whole new college to take care of this many students; you do have to provide classrooms, faculty, library and dormitory facilities.

Such a projected growth at NDSU is one of the reasons The Forum accepted the idea that the state is going to need more revenue than is available from existing tax measures.

The 1965-66 budget was set at 50 per cent enrollment gain at NDSU in five years; there are only two regular legislative sessions scheduled for this period. These two sessions would be confronted with the task of financing the faculty and plant expansion.

We are afraid that North Dakota will not be able to meet its obligations to its young citizens if every tax measure now before the legislature is passed. If any percent of them—passed by the Legislature is referred and defeated by the voters.

The time will come when the problems will have to be taken out of the hands of the politicians and the job of selling an ade- quate solution will have to be taken over by persons dedicated to building a greater North Dakota.

"Isolate Lashun" Is Severely Criticized

Dear editor:

To the Oct. 7 issue of the Spectrum, a very interesting letter was written by a responsible member of the right wing. The person is very much a part of the MUN on the campus and the fact that he is a "commiebagger" on the campus is to corrupt the American Youth. This is very disturbing.

The writer implies that the views of the UN have not been expressed by a responsible member of the right wing. The fact that a few of its members who have worked very actively for a few of its members who have worked very actively for the cut. The cut is significant in the views of a minority of the student body. That the same as the hole is good for the writer to well tell that there are left eunuchs who are equally as bad or worse than in some of their statements as he purports.

Isolate Lashun has done a little difficult to understand what the student body. Yet further seems to support the fact that there are many consious on the campus who support the MUN. Yet further seems to support the fact that there are many consious on the campus who support the MUN.

I hope this is the last I will hear from Ann Landers in her letter when she said that it would be unfortunate if students in the MUN became merely "puppets" of the conservative wing.

Surely there is much opportunity in such an undertaking for individual thought. If this thought does not show itself, then the MUN has been a wasted enterprise. What is the matter with this objection.

If the first letter were well written, it would be laughable at and pitied a little.

Senate Cuts Ticket Prices; Administration Vetoes Plan

To the editor:

The ticket price for the Homecoming Dance this year is $5. The same dance last year cost the student $4.

The credit for this price cut must go to Student Senate, and to a few of its members who have worked very actively for the cut. The cut is significant in that it came about despite objections from two sources. Last spring Senate tried to appropriate money to lower ticket costs, and found that this action was turned down by the Board of Organizations and Activities because of changes in the Homecoming budget submitted by Senate.

Last week Senate tried once again to get an appropriation of funds to lower the cost of the dance. Again this time BOA found it acceptable—even though it amounted to the same request.

After tickets had gone on sale it was learned that Dr. Nickerson, vice president, had vetoed the money. This left Senate "holding the bag." The senators now feel they must make up the difference between costs and ticket sales from some yet undetermined source.

So it seems that the students want a dance at a reasonable cost but must fight every administrative roadblock right up to the President of the University.

This will be done. I don't think it is too much to ask, considering that it is our student fee money that was requested in the first place. It seems that such an obviously just request should be headed by those who are in power.

Bob Chalely, CP 3
Sure we have desk jobs.

Desk jobs at Cape Kennedy, helping check out the Apollo moon rocket.

Desk jobs at an air base, testing the world’s most powerful jet engines.

Desk jobs in Samoa, setting up a TV network to help teach schoolchildren.

The most interesting desk jobs in the world are at General Electric.

(Have a seat.)

First, why not sit down with the man from G.E. when he visits campus. Talk with him about your goals. He’ll talk with you about the hundreds of different avenues available at G.E. to help you reach those goals.

You may be working anywhere in the world, doing anything in the world, from marketing, like a new oven that cleans itself electrically . . . to designing a computer that’s no bigger than a suitcase.

Interesting problems. Important challenges. Real rewards, in money and in opportunity. They’re all part of holding down a desk job at G.E.

Come to General Electric, where the young men are important men.
Army ROTC Holds Weekend Exercise

A convoy of four Army trucks departed early Saturday morning bound for Detroit Mountain area. The cargo of the vehicles was approximately 70 students enrolled in the advanced ROTC program.

According to Sheldon Halvorson, instructor commander of the men and the exercise, the purpose of the training maneuver was to simulate combat

Halvorson said that there were two basically different functions. The seniors directed operations and the juniors followed the plans of the day.

One phase of training during the day was a mile and a half march to the ski area from the paved highway. During the march cadets were subjected to "hit and run" harassment by "enemy snipers." Cadet Lt. Col. Ron Morsch said that these "snipers" were supposed to illustrate the methods used in attacking a patrol on the move.

After the trek the "men in green" set off into the woods on a path-finding mission which was an exercise in map and compass reading.

After a quick lunch including any number of combinations of the Army's answer to the TV dinner (C Rations), a demonstration of a frontal attack was given by the seniors. This involved the assault of an "enemy" machine gun nest by troops armed with M1 rifles and grenade launchers.

The rest of the afternoon was filled with class activities involving physical training, bayonet practice and troop leadership.

Captain Donald Rumpel, USA, said that the training exercises were planned to give benefits that would help cadets perform better in both their Army and civilian lives.

South Engineering Has Changing Role

Computers, drawing rooms and welding laboratories are things of the past for South Engineering. In two months these will be replaced with music rooms, welding laboratories and seed storage areas.

Dave Ledet, chairman of the music department said, "part of this department is moving to South Engineering to meet the obligations to 173 students of music."

"The percentage increase in total students in the University is the same as the percentage increase in enrollment for this area of study," says Ledet. "I feel that by relocating South Engineering and Putnam Hall, we are expanding to adequacy."

The bad acoustic effects now experienced because of the close-ness of the choir room and band room will be removed by mov-ing to South Engineering.

Risers and acoustical treatment will be added to the former com-puter room for instrument re-hearsal. Space for instruments and uniform storage, a library, new recording equipment and offices has been provided in South Engineering.

For each student to do his re-quired vocal and instrumental practicing, 20 rooms are necessary. Only five are in use now.

The new plan will put 15 of these in South Engineering and 5 more in Putnam for a total of 25. A record library and approximately 20 listening stations will be built in Putnam Hall's area for music study. Two listening rooms and a tape deck will also be installed there.

Ledet stated, "Twenty-four pianos are on order and along with the records and scores (music) along with the records will be purchased."

The choral groups, voice piano lessons, and music will remain in Putnam Hall. The cost for the purchase of instru-ments and remodeling is esti-mated at $34,000.

Approximate breakdown of expenditure will be $21,000 for instruments, $20,000 for piano, $10,000 for sound equipment, the remaining $12,000 for modeling.

Student Movement Is Started

Frowns On Asinine Movement

SPASM, Society for the Pre-vention of Asinine Student Move-ments, has made its appearance on the North Dakota State Uni-versity campus.

Don Homuth, AS 3, started the idea here. He stated that the idea was not original on his part, but started last year at the University of Chicago and is now nationwide.

About 50 SPASM buttons are circulating in the area, most of them at NDSU, one at Moorhead State College and a few at Wash-ington State College of Science.

Explaining about the "society," Homuth said, "We are not 'anti' anything specific. We are not politically, socially, educationally or religiously biased. However, we are against irrational, irre-sponsible conduct and thought."

Homuth declared that there has been "a proliferation of stu-dent movements on college cam-puses and some are ridiculous." He stated, however, that he thought NDSU was a fairly stable campus.

"We are not trying to promote apathy, but rather to stimulate students to keep a rational out-look and to think before any movement," Homuth said. "I feel NDSU was a fairly stable campus and no group is threatening the campus in this respect."

"We have no formal meeting of SPASM groups on other cam-puses," commented Homuth. "We might become another as-socia-tion if we are against irrational, irresponsible conduct and thought."

Jon Houtkooper, AS 3, a mem-ber of the SPASM button, said that he was offered 75 cents for a button by a student who thought they were all sold out.

SPASM at NDSU has not beeniani-gated and does not plan "We have no formal meet-ing and are not in any way con-nected with SPASM groups on other campuses," commented Jon.

He feels organization might stroy the idea. "If we were not so conservative, we might become another movement," he concluded.

The Homecoming Pageant will be held on Oct. 24, and will commence at 8 p.m. in the High School Auditorium. According to Jerald Bergman, Athletic Director of North Dakota State University, the pageant will be held to help the Homecoming dance fund, which was recently denied by NDSU Vice President James Nickerson. The $2,550 expense needed to stage the Homecoming band for the contest of the dance from $3.50 to $2 making it possible to cover expenses by ticket sales alone. The maximum number of tickets that can be sold is 900.

The request for funds was first approved by the Board of Organizations and Activities. From there it went to the administration where it received its vote from NDSU President Dr. H. R. Albrecht, who said the matter didn't constitute an emergency and that the funds should be taken from another source.

Senate discussed the administration's veto Thursday night. Commissioner of Campus Affairs Robert Hendrickson said the administration is legally bound to pay the bill. He added that half of the money was paid to the band already and the other half is to be paid at 10 p.m. the night of the dance.

A motion was then made to push the request for funds and to call a special meeting of Senate if necessary.

Balanced rushing and passing efforts by Bison backfield men sparked the top-ranked Bison of North Dakota State University to a 47-7 victory over the Augus­tana Vikings Saturday in a game played at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Terry Hanson and Jim Carlson, Bison quarterbacks, shared duties while guiding NDSU for 448 total yards, including 231 yards passing and 217 yards rushing. Bison coach Ron Erhardt called the offensive performance "our best, most complete of the year."

Hanson, a sophomore, hit two touchdown passes while Carlson, a junior, pitched one scoring pass. The two Bison quarterback completed 14 of 19 pass attempts in the best Bison aerial attack this season.

Vance Connor and Ken Rota, Bison halfbacks, continued their steady ground gaining. Rota ran for 139 yards in 15 carries while Connor gained 81 yards in 17 carries. Connor scored two touchdown passes while Rota, the nation's leading small college scorer, has now gained 523 yards in 76 rushing down of the season by kicking off a Sandbo pass and running 63 yards for the score. Gebhardt intercepted a University of Wis­consin (Milwaukee) pass in the Bison opener and scored.

Augustana, a homecoming foe, found reason to cheer when the Vikings scored their touchdown. Sandbo hit Viking end Werner Schwab on a 14 yard scoring play in the second quarter, and later with Carlson on a three yard scoring play.

Erhardt described Linderman's play. "He was our offense for a big part of the game. Linderman has now caught 10 passes for 172 yards and four touchdowns in the five Bison games."

This week's SPECTRUM Player of the Week award goes to Lind­erman for his play in the August­ana contest.

Viewing the over-all perform­ance of the Bison, Erhardt com­mented, "We're real pleased with our performance at Sioux Falls. Our offense was the best it has been this season. Ardell Wei­gandt, Gene Gebhardt and Steve Irigen gave us real good games in our defensive line."

GANT SHIRTMKERS
Bison Stake Everything Against Sioux

After海滨 records, the nickel has followed and probably the North Dakota Central Conference title go on the line Saturday at Dakota Field when the Bison meet arch-rival North Dakota State University.

Bison gridders are unbeaten for the NCC schools and Bemidji State College while the Bison won 100.2-0 last year. Because of the conference and three NCC foes, festivities are on hand as you see a game of two high offenders. Sioux depend on their aerial game for most of their yardage while Bison gridders have used a running attack to their advantage. Carter, hopes the Dakota State University offense and defense will be at full speed when the game is a battle. Sioux defenders are averaging 154 yards per game. Bison ran up 216 yards against Minnesota.

Bison gridders played their last game of the season last Saturday when they beat the Dakota State University Fights 8-0. Bison quarterbacks passed 17 of 39 passes for 184 yards. Missing from the Sioux squad when they play here Saturday will be Ron Green their leading pass catcher. Green broke his collar bone in the Sioux's 34-0 rout of State College of Iowa. Dave Line and Dennis Olson, two 6'5" ends, team with flanker Stan Wright as receivers in the crucial NCC contest Saturday.

Greens' replacement at flanker, caught a 92 yard pass from Corey Colehour for the winning margin in the Sioux-loss contest. Colehour leads all NCC quarterbacks with 56 completions in 93 attempts for 810 yards. Head coach Darrell Mudra commented, "The Bison will have to key on Colehour's passing although the Sioux running attack is strong too. It should be a real tough battle."

Defensive line coach Ron Erhardt stated, "We'll vary our drills this week, hoping to get the guys up by Saturday's game. I think last year's men were more ready to play Wednesday than Saturday because of advance publicity for the game."

Bison gridders suffered a 20-13 loss to the Sioux last season, dropping them into a tie with UND for the NCC title.

Baby Bison Drop Opener 24-14; Nevils Makes Impressive Showing

Concordia Cobber freshmen defeated the Baby Bison 24-14 Wednesday evening at Dakota Field in the season opener for the North Dakota State University football team. The Cobber offen was a 12-13 rushing effort by Bison halfback Gil Smith. Nevils, scored twice in the quarter to take the victory. Nevils, a 5'8" 175 pound halfback who played his prep football in Minnesota, scored two touchdowns.

Fans, 100 strong, saw the fleet halfback gain an average of 10.2 yards per carry. Nevils, a ten second flat 100 yard dash man, is the first Negro football player in NDSU's history.

Both freshmen units ranked closely in the statistics columns. The Cobbers had 220 total yards while the Bison had 247. Each club had 12 first downs.

Several fourth quarter interceptions by the Cobbers set up the game winning scores. Concordia quarterbacked passed 17 times with eight completions for 85 yards. Charles Rathert, a Cobber end, scored two touchdowns.

Dick Koppenhaver, Bison fresh grid coach, commented, "Our boys didn't function very well under pressure. Our receivers dropped several punts and their were a lot of mechanical errors that will have to be worked out."

Varsity defensive line coach Ron Erhardt viewed the game optimitically. "They made mistakes but their a hard hitting team. They'll improve a lot before they come out for spring practice next year."

Joe Satrom... Local Bookies Pick Bison

Las Vegas oddsmakers at the Rendurne Race Track declined to comment on the Spectrum to the Saturday's battle on the University city of North Dakota Sioux and the North Dakota State University Bison.

Bison oddsmakers pick three to six point favorite in the traditional contest. However, the described battles which characterize the long-time rivalry make odds highly unreliable. Many times in the past, the favored team has been upset.

Last year's game was another example. Bison gridders were slightly favored to beat the Sioux but a 20-13 loss ruined NDsu's bid for an undefeated season. Regardless of previous performances, Sioux and Bison football teams are ranked high enough to ensure an exciting contest when the Nickel Trophy game begins. Despite this knowledge that UND holds a 25 game edge in the total wins column of the rivalry, each year brings increased interest in the contest. The Ellison battle waged by Bison gridders is best demonstrated by the fact that 19 of the last 20 contests each game.

Evidently, two evenly matched Bison and Sioux squads took the field in Grand Forks in 1952 when the Bison edged the Sioux 14-13. North Dakota Agricultural College needed a missed extra point attempt from a Sioux kicker to gain its first victory in five years.

Statistically, the 1952 battle was very close. Sioux gridders compiled 17 first downs compared to 18 for the Bison. UND quarterback Dick Koppenhaver spearheaded the Sioux offense for a total of 278 yards compared with 260 yards for the NDsu squad.

Offensively, this Saturday's game could have a similar outcome with UND relying mainly on its passing game and NDsu doing the running. Corey Colehour, UND quarterback, is considered one of the best in the league and presently leads the nation in pass completion percentages. Colehour, like Koppenhaver in the 1952 battle, is a letterman and an established signal caller.

Bison offensive duties rest in the hands of sophomore quarterback Terry Hansen and his two halfbacks, Ken Rota and Vance Connor, The Bison running backs are considered cautious. Two of the three NCC opponents the NCC championship. However, State College of Iowa won the title with a 60 record. Bison finished four games behind with a 2-4 record which the Bison dropped to sixth in the conference standings with a 2-4.

Observers say this year's UND-Bison clash has had greater publicity than any of the past contests. Several reasons for the buildup are sighted. The year 1955 is the 50th anniversary of the Nickel Trophy game. The fact that UND holds a 25 game edge in the total wins column of the rivalry, each year brings increased interest in the contest. The Ellison battle waged by Bison gridders is best demonstrated by the fact that 19 of the last 20 contests each game.

Head coach Doug Cowman announced Monday that varsity and freshman football teams "are preparing for the season's big battle." The Spectrum, your newspaper of record. Head coach Darrell Mudra hasn't beaten in his two years as NDsu's head football coach. At the same time, UND's head coach Marv Green has compiled a 2-4 record against the Bison. Helling has coached eight victories over NDSU. Most important in the Ellison battle waged by Bison gridders is best demonstrated by the fact that 19 of the last 20 contests each game.

They'll improve a lot before they come out for spring practice next year."
