Mudra Guarantees Enough Seats

Adequate seating will be made available to North Dakota State University students at the Feb. 19 basketball game against the University of North Dakota in Fargo.

Darrell Mudra, athletic director at NDSU, said Monday evening that students will be taken care of before any general admission tickets are sold. He added that he wanted to avoid any experiences similar to last year.

Approximately 300 students were turned away from the Sioux-Bison basketball game at Fargo in 1965, many of whom participated in a demonstration outside the Fieldhouse protesting their refusal to gain admittance.

Mudra said that extra seating would be set up on the north end of the Fieldhouse to accommodate an anticipated overflow crowd.

Thus far 600 reserve seats have been sold, taking up the middle sections on the east and west sides of the Fieldhouse. According to Ron Corliss, ticket manager, the middle section on the student side is only sold as reserved seats for the UND game.

Earlier in the week Student Senate had voted to purchase the 600 reserved seats. The action apparently was taken without knowledge that they had been sold.

If students from NDSU fill the Fieldhouse, it is unlikely that many UND students, will see the basketball game. According to Mudra these plans could be changed; however he firmly expressed his desire that all students from NDSU be given priority.

Albrecht To Take Leave

A two month leave of absence has been granted President Herbert R. Albrecht by the Board of Higher Education.

Albrecht will become a member of a three-man teaching team going to the College of Agriculture in Ibadan, Nigeria.

The team sponsored by the Rockefeller Institute, is to work with the Nigerians in outlining a program of teaching and research in agriculture to resemble the Land Grant College programs in the United States.

Albrecht

The Ibadan College now operates on a European system.

In the near future, the college is to host a Rockefeller research project similar to projects now operating in Land Grant Colleges in the United States.

Albrecht said he did not know who the other team members are, but understands that one will be a university president and one will be a college dean of agriculture.

Although exact dates are not now available the project has been scheduled for March and April. A recent military coup in Nigeria may effect the project plans.

Dr. Albrecht added that final plans will be made available later this week.

Election Procedures Set

Last year's improprieties in campaigning during Student Senate elections have resulted in changes for this year, according to Robert Hendrickson, commissioner of campus affairs.

Students will have an opportunity to hear the candidates speak at a coffee hour in their respective resident halls. The times for these mass meetings will be announced at a later date.

Mon., Feb. 14, the night before elections, a debate between the candidates will be held at 7 p.m. in Dinan Hall for Burgum, Dinan, Churchill and Ceres Halls. The same night at 9 p.m. a debate will be held at the food complex for the rest of the dorms.

Several regulations for election campaigning were changed at the Wednesday night meeting. The regulations are now stated at follows:

No door-to-door campaigning will be allowed within the dormitories.

Coffee hours and mass meetings may be set up within the residence halls. Printed campaign material may be placed in the lobby for voters to pick up.

There will be no campaigning in the dining room in the residence hall dining center during meals.

Write-in candidates names must be spelled correctly with an X by the name or the vote will not be counted.

Any violation to these rules will be reported to the Dean of Students Office for disciplinary action.

According to Hendrickson, the new plan should eliminate the illegal techniques and misunderstandings of last year's campaign.

On Feb. 15, students will also vote on the adoption of a revised constitution and will elect a new student body president, six one-year senators and six two-year senators.

Students with an accumulative average of over 2.5 may campaign for student body president. Students with over 2.25 may run for senator. All those wishing to run may pick up their petitions and copies of the campaign rules Feb. 2 in the Dean of Students Office.

Petitions must be in by noon Feb. 5. Campaigning will start Feb. 2.

According to Hendrickson, write-in candidates must pick up a copy of election rules from the Dean of Students office or from any member of the commission of campus affairs.

MINUS 30 DEGREE TEMPERATURES present many perplexing problems to the campus law enforcement officials.

"Man of The Year"

Cattleman Chosen For Annual Award

A nationally prominent North Dakota cattleman, Brooks Keogh, who ranches near Keene, has been chosen as the "1966 Man of the Year in North Dakota Agriculture," by members of the Saddle and Sirloin Club at North Dakota State University.

Keogh will be honored at a special "Man of the Year" banquet on Feb. 11, the night before the annual Little International.

Keogh

At that time, a portrait of him will be unveiled, which will later be placed in the Saddle and Sirloin Hall of Fame in NDSU's Shepard Arena, alongside those of 51 other winners of the Man of the Year award.

Keogh, who has just completed a term as president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, is probably best known for leading the nation's stockmen in a successful battle to get legislation regulating the importation of beef from countries outside the U.S.

An aggressive salesman for American beef, Keogh has represented the U.S. beef business officially in Canada, Ireland, England and Belgium, meeting with cattlemen and officials of business and government.

Born at Williston, Keogh grew up on the ranch he now operates near Keene. The ranch was founded by Keogh's father, the late Frank Keogh, a pioneer North Dakota cattleman.

Brooks Keogh was graduated from Williston High School and attend the University of North Dakota for a year, moving to St. Thomas College, St. Paul, where he received a degree in 1938.

Long active in the state's livestock industry, Keogh is a former president of the North Dakota and McKenzie County Grazing Associations and director, vice-president and president of the North Dakota Stockmen's Association.

He was president of the Sanish Rodeo Association for seven years, and a member of the State Livestock Sanitation Board. Keogh is presently chairman of the McKenzie County Republican Party.

Prior to his election as president of the National Cattlemen's Association, Keogh was first vice-president and chairman of the group's legislative committee. He was the first North Dakotan to be elected president of the group.

Students Violate Off Campus Housing Rules

The Dean of Students Office has recently taken action on two disciplinary cases involving North Dakota State University students who have violated the regulations governing those who live off campus.

One incident concerned two women students, one under 21, who were sharing an off campus apartment with a former coed. The girl who was under 21 had both parental consent and doctors recommendations to live in an apartment but was placed on disciplinary probation when the University discovered that she was not living with relatives as was thought to be the case.

It was also pointed out that she had not applied to live off campus. University regulations state that a coed must be 21 by the beginning of the academic year in order to obtain permission to live off campus.

The second girl was forced to move back on campus when she was unable to find another apartment which was approved by the Deans Office. It was pointed out that if she had remained in her apartment she would have been violating another rule which forbids NDSU students from sharing a residence with a person who does not attend this University.

The other case involved several male students who shared an apartment in Fargo. According to reliable sources these men were forced to vacate their residence because they were entertaining women and were serving liquor in their apartment. According to the regulations no student may entertain a member of the opposite sex in his off campus residence nor may he possess or serve alcoholic beverages in his apartment.

Feller To Address Students In First Of Lecture Series

The Creative Arts Committee of Student Union Activities Board is sponsoring the first of a series of Tele-Lectures on Feb. 2. Bob Feller, noted sports authority and member of the Baseball Hall-of-Fame, will be the first lecturer.

The lecturer gives his speech by telephone and it is heard through amplifiers placed in the lecture hall. When the speaker has finished his prepared material, those in the audience are given the opportunity to ask questions by using the microphones placed among the audience.

These questions are transmitted directly by telephone to the lecturer and his response is given immediately over the telephone lines.

Roger Conklin, naturalist lecturer, will be the second speaker in the series. He will be heard on Feb. 24.

Both lectures will be held in the Memorial Union Ballroom and an admission charge of 50 cents will be made. Eileen Torgeson, AS 2, is in charge of the Tele-Lecture series.

Campus Radio Announces FM Schedule

KDSU, a new FM stereo campus radio station, will present programs ranging from musical selections and comments by authorities to political discussions by well known people such as Dean Rusk. Canadian and English programs on these and other world events will also be presented.

Of special interest are the music programs which will take up most of the broadcasting time. Every afternoon from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. the station features classical music. The program on Wednesday includes selections by J. S. Bach and W. F. Bach; on Thursday, Rachmaninoff and Liszt and on Friday, Mozart and Beethoven. An evening program at 9:30 every night will feature similar music.

Renditions in contemporary jazz will be programed every afternoon at 5 p.m. This afternoon jazz collector and commentator, Clarence Walton from Norfolk, Va., will comment on men and bands that have made jazz live in the past 50 years.

European contemporary music and comments on European traditional musical will be presented regularly. French and Italian music will be played Thursday and Friday at 7:15 p.m. A special program on five centuries on Dutch music is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A number of programs concerning politics and world events are also planned. Harold Stassen will talk on "Viet Nam and the United Nations" at 8 p.m. tonight. Thursday at 9 p.m. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will comment on the recent White House Conference on International Cooperation Year.

Foreign viewpoints on events and news will be presented on programs such as BBC World Report, Thursday at 8:15 p.m., and Canadian Press Review, Friday at 8 p.m.

In addition to world renowned personalities, there will be programs directed by North Dakota State University faculty members.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, Associate Professor of English Leonard Sackett will read and comment on American and English poetry.

A schedule of programs and additional information can be obtained at the information desk of the Memorial Union.

Groups Seeking Financial Aid Requested To Submit Budgets

Any official university organization wishing financial assistance from Student Senate for next year should submit an application to the Student Senate Finance Committee by April 1.

An official audit or income tax statement from the previous year's activities, together with a proposed budget, must accompany each request. The official budget form which can be obtained from Commissioner of Finance Lionel Estenson, must be used.

35% Employed Working Students Polled

A survey taken by the North Dakota State University Placement Office indicated that 35.56 per cent of the students have part-time jobs.

They work an average of 16 hours a week, and their average pay is $1.58 an hour. A limited number of students worked as much as 40 hours a week.

It was found that both hours worked and the pay scale increased as the students near completion of their college educations.

Students worked at jobs ranging from teaching to working in the cafeteria. Some of the students worked downtown in houses, service stations and tail stores.

Michael Loken, assistant to director of placement, said, "We are unable to fill all job openings because students are limited in their job selections by class schedules."

Loken also said that students who work downtown need three afternoons a week open.

The survey was taken during the 1964-65 academic year. The NDSU Placement Office handed out cards during registration for the Winter Quarter. These cards were handed out only to students who said they held jobs. About 75 per cent of the cards were returned and statistics were compiled from them.

ance Lionel Estenson, must be used.

Consideration will be given to requests benefiting the entire University, if it is evident the organization has tried to subsidize its own projects.

After the budgets have been submitted to the Senate Finance Committee April 1, they will be submitted to the Board of Organizations and Activities. The budgets will then be submitted to President Albrecht for final consideration on May 15.

In case of disapproval of a request by any of the above agencies, the organization will be notified within 24 hours so the organization may petition for reconsideration.

Attendance Up 600 Enrollment Sets New Record

Winter Quarter enrollment has set a new record of 5,001 students, only five less than Fall Quarter enrollment. Corresponding enrollment last year at this date was 4,446.

Students who left the university at the end of Fall Quarter were replaced by 85 new students and by 90 transfer students. The 30 students enrolled in the Agriculture Short Course are also included in the enrollment figure.

The College of Arts and Sciences maintains a significant lead over the other colleges with an enrollment of 1,847, including graduate and special students.

Second in enrollment is the College of Engineering with 995 students; the College of Agriculture ranks third with 854. Home Economics registered a total of 535, Pharmacy totals 459 and Chemistry and Physics have the smallest enrollment with 170 students.

Resident students account for 4,020 and non-residents total 881.

The male-female ratio again failed to make any substantial change and remained at the constant ratio of almost three males for one for a total of 3,698 males and 1,303 females.

Graduate students in the College of Agriculture total 122 and 108 graduate students are registered in Arts and Sciences. The remaining total of 516 is divided between the remaining four colleges.

Date For Tests Set

The textiles and clothing department announces that the clothing construction pre-test is scheduled for the week of Feb. 1.

Those young women who have not previously taken the test and are planning on taking any of the freshman clothing construction courses Spring Quarter should report for testing Feb. 1 at 3:30 p.m. or Feb. 3 at 5:30 p.m., Room 33, Home Economics building.

The test takes about an hour. No clothing pre-tests are scheduled later this academic year.

John Lauritzen wanted further knowledge

He's finding it at Western Electric

When the University of Nevada awarded John Lauritzen his B.S.E.E. in 1961, it was only the first big step in the learning program he envisions for himself. This led him to Western Electric. For WE agrees that ever-increasing knowledge is essential to the development of its engineers—and is helping John in furthering his education.

John attended one of Western Electric's three Graduate Engineering Training Centers and graduated with honors. Now, through the Company-paid Tuition Refund Plan, John is working toward his Master's in Industrial Management at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. He is currently a planning engineer developing test equipment for the Bell System's revolutionary electronic telephone switching system.

If you set the highest standards for yourself, both educationally and professionally, we should talk. Western Electric's vast communications job as manufacturing unit of the Bell System provides many opportunities for fast-moving careers for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, as well as for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. Get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. And be sure to arrange for an interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

Picture Shortage Forces Bison Delays

Tardiness and apathy among North Dakota State University students forced the Bison annual staff to extend the deadline, increased the work load of the staff, and reduced the number of individual pictures, according to Connie Doeling, HE 3, and Lois Schlichting, AS 3, co-editors of this year's publication.

The latest deadline was extended five days because the underclassmen failed to submit their individual pictures on time.

According to Dan E. Olson, contract photographer for the Bison, many students failed to have their pictures taken until such a late date that it was impossible for him to meet the deadline.

The arrival of late pictures forced the staff to re-draft many pages.

Because many students failed to have their pictures taken at all, the number of individual pictures has been greatly reduced in each college.

A tally of the number of students in all classes in each college indicates the following percent of students have turned in individual pictures for this year's annual.

	Sr.	Jr.	Soph.	Fr.
Agri.	66%	33%	24%	9%
A & S	54%	25%	20%	9%
C & P	76%	50%	17%	12%
Engr.	64%	35%	29%	14%
HE	91%	50%	50%	36%
Pharm	53%	44%	23%	7%

"Lack of interest in submitting pictures is quite surprising when considering the number of students who pick up their annuals later in the year. Last spring 99 per cent of the annuals were claimed by students and there is no reason to believe this will not hold true again this year," said Dennis Haugen, commissioner of publication.

There seems to be no easy answer to the lack of interest in individual pictures by the students. When asked to comment on what would be recommended for future years, Editor Doeling said, "We are going to recommend that future editors remove the underclassmen section entirely. This would allocate a number of pages and decrease the staff of the yearbook. I also believe that the increased enrollment has made accuracy almost impossible for the underclassmen section."

THE ANNUAL CHARITY BALL last Saturday found Mr. and Mrs. Salters dancing among the couples in the ballroom.

Debaters Prepare For Meet

Members of the Lincoln Debate Society, under the direction of coach Eldon Walker, are now preparing for their trip to Colorado Springs in March. At this tournament entries will be made in individual events as well as debate.

Debaters have been working on the national intercollegiate debate topic, "Resolved: That law enforcement agencies in the United States should be given greater freedom in the investigation and prosecution of crime."

This topic is used for the entire debate season. At tournaments debaters are usually required to take both sides of this question.

At a recent novice tournament at Mankato State College, Marilyn Mathison, AS 2 and Don Homuth, AS 2, were undefeated in four rounds of debate. John Jablonski, AS 2; Judy Moir, AS 3; Terry Monson, AS 1 and Don Boerth, AS 1, had 2-2 records.

Debra Vick, AS 3, placed second at this tournament in oral interpretation with her reading from John Dos Passos' "U.S.A." Joan Swanson, AS 3, placed fourth in oratory.

At an individual events tournament at South Dakota State University, Homuth received a trophy for placing second in extemporaneous speaking.

At Colorado debaters will enter both the novice and the experienced divisions. In individual events members will participate in oratory, oral interpretation and extemporaneous speaking.

Honor Student Tea

Blue Key and Mortar Board will host over 300 students at a Scholarship Tea to be held at the home of President Albrecht today from 3 to 6 p.m.

All students who were on the Dean's list for their college are invited to the event.

Karen Dietrich, Mortar Board president stated that those who attend the event will enjoy a tour of the President's home and have coffee with Mrs. Albrecht.

THE BISON ANNUAL STAFF works in vain to meet their latest deadline as Beth McLaughlin, Tom Cook and Rusty Kruger wrap up their last pages.

Off Campus Housing Rules Need Revision

Regulations governing students who wish to live off campus are in immediate need of revision. Recent incidents involving both male and female students have shown that the present University concepts toward personal freedoms are outdated.

We are thinking of three policies in particular. They are: that women under 21, even if they have parental permission, are forbidden to live off campus; that no student over 21 is permitted to have liquor in their residence; and that students of any age are not permitted to entertain friends of the opposite sex in their homes. There are still other restrictions which we believe are too petty to be listed in a book entitled "University Regulations."

The University states in the preface of its booklet on regulations that it has assumed that each student who enters the University possesses an ability to exercise mature judgment and has a normal concept of honor, morality, and integrity. Why then, if the University assumes that a girl is mature and honest, and that parents say in writing that she is old enough to be on her own, should the University take such a conservative view towards off-campus living.

We believe that any girl who desires to live off campus that has parental consent, should not be restricted by contradictory University regulations. In the future a housing shortage may force the administration to liberalize their attitude on off campus living merely out of necessity.

A University has the right to regulate the actions of its students so that they will not shed bad light upon it, but considerations should be given to the rights and freedoms of its students.

The laws in this state permit anyone who is 21 to purchase and consume liquor. The University has the right to forbid liquor on campus, but they should not try to deny this personal freedom to adults living in their own home.

The University regulations again infringe on the personal freedoms when they prohibit students from entertaining friends of the opposite sex in their own home. This regulation is just another case of the administration trying to be overly protective towards its students. Preparation for society is more valuable than protection from it.

The petty items such as, "rooms are to be kept in order, "use of musical instruments, etc. should not disturb other occupants of the house," and "students are expected to practice economy in turning off lights, gas, and water," again typify the administration's attitude that students are not old enough to be on their own.

The University heads who make these over protective regulations must remember that an integral part of one's education is accepting responsibility.

Survey Favors U.S. Policy

(I.P.)—According to a recent attitude study completed by Dr. William H. James, associate professor of psychology at the University of North Dakota, a majority of students on this campus approve of the United States policy in Vietnam.

Technical findings in the study will be published in a psychological journal. The study indicates that over 99 percent of the sample of UND students favor, in varying degrees, the U. S. Vietnam policy. Less than one percent voiced any degree of disapproval and the entire sample studied expressed strong disapproval of extreme anti-U.S. policy acts such as draft card burning.

Commenting on the study, Dr. James said "because of the widespread publicity that has been given to a few radical demonstrators among college students, many of whom are college drop-outs, there is an erroneous impression that large numbers of college students do not support U.S. policy in Vietnam, but this study indicates that this is not true in North Dakota, and insofar as North Dakota is representative of the Midwest, it is not true of the Midwest."

A test of factual knowledge about events in Vietnam also was given. Dr. James said that significant correlation was found between the degree favoring the U.S. policy and the amount of factual knowledge of events. "In other words," Dr. James said, "the more factual knowledge the person has, the more he favors the U.S. policy in Vietnam."

Student Body President

Evaluates A Year Of Senate Activity

To the editor:

I feel that it is necessary to back up the actions of the Student Senate of the past year. I won't claim that the entire year was a success, but I feel that it is unfair to throw the entire blame on the Senate's back.

One of the first issues confronted by the Senate was that of the "stop light." This issue has been debated and worked on for the last two or three years. The Senate always came up with the excuse that the Traffic Commission of the City of Fargo did not want the stop light. As a matter of fact, the Commission invented a number of laws to prevent this action.

This year we proceeded to break down every excuse the City Commission had and proved by traffic-pedestrian counts that at least a warning light was very necessary. The City of Fargo agreed to put in a warning light if the University would remove all of the unnecessary and dangerous crossings such as the one that leads through the gardens toward the Hasty Tasty.

The Senate has been constantly reminded that it cannot build or destroy any structures on this campus. Therefore this affair was turned over to the Buildings and Grounds.

I cannot help but feel that the Senate has done everything in its power to get the stop light. Our constitution does not allow us to go beyond the actions we have already taken. The affair now rests in the hands of Buildings and Grounds.

Other issues have met the same fate. The Bison Head, a seemingly controversial issue, was neatly vetoed by the Director of the Student Union. I personally took this matter to the Director and was told that the Head did not fit the "decor" of Alumni Lounge, and that he definitely would not carry out Senate's recommendations.

That action was not tabled, it died. Senate cannot demand changes, it can only make recommendations to the various units of our campus.

Another such case was the spring quarter break. Senate tried to convey to the University Senate the desires of the students. We did not say that we would get what the students wanted, only that we would try to the extent of our power, and that we did.

"Splash," an old issue aimed at getting funds for the completion of the swimming pool in the basement of the old fieldhouse never was a reality in my mind.

To start with that ancient structure never was suitable for a swimming pool for a campus of this size, and in the second place the funds collected for the project have been earmarked for the swimming pool in the new fieldhouse, if the Legislative Body of this state ever wakes up to the fact that that structure is a necessity for this campus.

I never did put that project on the agenda this year because I feel that it is an aborted project of the past.

The Homecoming Dance tickets were half price, thanks to an action taken by the Senate. The extra cost of those tickets has not been forgotten and will be paid for.

The Teacher Evaluation had been scheduled to be taken two weeks before finals of this quarter. I see no reason to move that project ahead to satisfy the whims of the minority.

The constitution change will be introduced to the students at the next election. If the students wish to have the changes they can vote for them. Senate debated this subject at the last meeting (Jan. 9) and decided it would be best to introduce it at that time. This subject has not been forgotten.

The skating rink is another issue that was not forgotten. Again, Senate cannot build a structure as this with its funds nor can it demand that such a structure be built. The people in charge of that project went so far as to get the fire department to promise to the flood the rink regularly.

The affair was turned over to Buildings and Grounds. This project went as far as Student Senate could carry it with its power.

The Senate vacancies are a sore spot in my mind. The Senate decided to leave the seats empty because it did not have a precedent to follow. After searching into all possible sources it was impossible to find a way to fill the seats. The matter was not handled in the present constitution and due to the sloppiness of the past Commissioner of Campus Affairs it was impossible to find the results of the Senate Elections of last year. This situation is handled very neatly in the constitution revision.

The coming Senate will not have to worry about procedure. If the constitution revision does not pass, the Senate will have complete records of the elections, thanks to the neatness of the present Commissioner of Campus Affairs and the present Senate secretary.

There have been many projects initiated by this Senate that seem to have been unnoticed. As I have pointed out the Legislative Research Commission has been working on a Constitution change all year. This will be a reality if the students want it.

The Senate has tried to broaden our educational system with such projects as the Model United Nations and the Experiment in International Living. Both projects were very successful in spite of opposition.

As I have pointed out, the Homecoming Dance tickets were half price and the Mitchell Trio was free, thanks to the action of the Student Senate. Also the Mitchell Trio was held in the Fieldhouse instead of Festival Hall as had been planned in the past, thanks to the action taken by Senate.

In recapping the entire year I can't help but feel that the Senate was very successful and it carried out to the extent of its powers the many actions desired by the students. The editorial of two weeks ago was only a half truth and I have tried to fill in the missing details.

Another point I would like to bring up is the coming Senate elections. These have been set for Feb. 15. If things proceed as they have in the past, there won't be enough office seekers to fill the ticket.

In looking over the list of Senators now in office I can see that there are no representatives from the north complex. These people demand the most of Senate and yet don't care enough to have one representative on the Senate. If these people wish to have all of their demands filled, now is the time to act.

Petitions for candidates will soon be available and the Spectrum will carry the election procedures. The rest is up to the people who want representation and changes.

Our Mailbag Runneth Over Snick Supporter Questions Hostility

To the editor:
It seems the Spectrum staff has been influenced by the two darlings of the Liberal Establishment, Evans and Novak. I am referring to the article "Liberal Establishment Prepares Attack" subtitled "Anti-SNCC" in the Jan. 19 Spectrum. The staff, in keeping with Evans' and Novak's line, have conjured up visions of in-fighting and outright hostility between The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and other liberal rights groups.

I believe the real hostility exists between Evans, Novak and the SNCC group. Why? Some people believe it all started one day last year in Mississippi. It seems Evans and Novak made a visit to the joint SNCC-Freedom Democratic Party offices with the expectation of spending the day in lengthy interviews.

Being a normal day, the office was understaffed and overworked. The people told them they could only give them a little time for the interviews. This apparently took some wind out of the proud sails of our two darlings.

Imagine, mere students telling two successful columnists that their work was more important than an interview. From there on out Evans and Novak have produced some 25 articles attacking the SNCC and FDP groups.

There is, of course, some friction between SNCC, FDP and other less militant rights groups, but hardly to the degree as reported in the Spectrum.

"At present, Liberals and Snick workers circle each other like two gangs on the brink of a schoolyard rumble, and there is the very real possibility of a fratricidal struggle occurring which could splinter the integration movement for years to come." The above statement is completely out of proportion. Many of the old rights groups have been shaken by the rarely compromising policies of SNCC because the old groups had to use less militant means to achieve their goals.

The new groups are working in areas never penetrated by rights groups before, such as Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana. These new areas necessitate new and bolder plans of attack. They aren't going to break segregation using the "soft line" of the past.

Although not satisfied with SNCC's technique, the NAACP head, Charles Evers, said the work carried on by SNCC during the Summer 64 Project had moved civil rights ahead 20 years in Mississippi.

SNCC people feel that "being nice" to segregationists isn't going to change things. They also feel they don't have to prostrate themselves before politicians and the like in humble thanks for newly won rights that were supposed to have been in existence for the last hundred years.

This is part of the reason for turning down the two "token" seats at the last Democratic Convention. The people knew that they legally deserved those seats along with the illegally held seats of Mississippi congressmen now in Washington.

SNCC, like any organization, will have to make some adjustments, but at the same time the older organizations will also have to change if they hope to be effective in the future. These changes are already taking place. Evans and Novak might be surprised to witness the good working relationship between the rights groups today.

Reader Calls Snick Inefficient; Repudiates Militancy Charge

To the editor:

As one who has worked with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, I feel compelled to respond to the Jan. 19 Spectrum article concerning that group.

First allow me to say that I was very glad to see the article in the Spectrum, and considered the intent of the article as a whole (with the exception of the last paragraph) quite fair.

Even so, I must take issue with the parenthetical "even seem to seek out such treatment (beating, imprisonment, humiliation, and constant harassment)."

I did meet two or three SNCC workers for whom this accusation may hold some degree of truth, but of SNCC workers in general - definitely false.

Walter Reuther probably doesn't know how right he is when he says SNCC is inefficient and disorganized. (However, most SNCC workers feel that the inefficiency resulting from the application of the philosophy that the job is better done by a local person who will live in the situation after the volunteer has left, than by a civil rights worker who may happen to be more expert, is necessary in terms of the Mississippi of tomorrow.)

But, Mr. Reuther couldn't be more wrong than when he accuses SNCC of being "bereft of democratic procedure."

Uneducated Mississippi Negroes, Harvard graduates, long time veterans of racist jails and new volunteers in their first real personal contact with overt racism, all have an equal voice in the discussions that precede any decision of importance. Any such decision is made only with the consent of all those involved and interested enough to voice their opinions.

SNCC is the most democratic organization I have ever had the opportunity to observe in operation.

The last paragraph states that "Liberals and SNCC workers circle each other like two gangs on the brink of a schoolyard rumble, and there is a very real possibility of a fratricidal struggle occurring which could splinter the integration movement for years to come."

In the first place the metaphor is an unfortunate one, for SNCC's dedication to the principle of non-violence should be above suspicion.

In the second place, while a little evidence could perhaps be submitted in substantiation, the spirit of the paragraph is far from the factual spirit of the relationship existing between SNCC and the other civil rights organizations.

There exists in the civil rights movement almost universal acceptance of the idea that differing aspects of the struggle are best dealt with by differing organizations.

SNCC has elected to deal with the poorest Negroes, generally in the deep South and often in areas in which other organizations have done very little work.

For this reason SNCC has gotten the reputation for the most "militancy." Other organizations for public relations reasons have made it clear that the "militancy" of SNCC is not a part of their organizations. However when SNCC has worked in communities in which other organizations have worked, it has cooperated well, if not always without grousing.

The Liberal Establishment with which SNCC is in opposition is not that of other civil rights organizations, but that of the politicians indifferent to the plight of those with whom SNCC works.

Skating Rink Now A Reality

To the editor:

The following is in reference to the letter written by former student Joe Blume.

Last fall the Commission of Athletics was assigned the task of investigating the possibilities of an ice rink at North Dakota State University. As Commissioner, I asked a member of my commission, Gerry Suman, if he would look into the matter and report back to me. He made many trips over to the department of buildings and grounds in hopes of an interview with Bob Thorson, superintendent. In late November Gerry reported that Mr. Thorson would decide on a favorable spot for it and handle the matter as time and weather permitted.

The area was cleared late last fall and was prepared for flooding. Much snow and inclement weather prevented any flooding in December.

Also, the buildings and grounds men were quite busy with icy roads and problems involving the preholiday season. There was no postponement, only a slight delay.

During the first week of school in January the department pushed off the snow and flooded the rink. A finish coat of ice was put on, but unfortunately it has not held up very well. This necessitates another finish coat to be put on within the next few days.

The rink is located 100 yards northwest of Reed Hall and is 450 feet long and 150 feet wide. It is available for use by all NDSU students and has already been used by many. With the usual North Dakota weather prevailing, at least three months of skating is a reasonable possibility.

I'd like to publicly thank Gerry Suman for a job well done and Gary Reinke, assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds for taking over from vacationing Bob Thorson and completing our rink. These responsible people have not failed the students in their quest for an ice rink.

In answer to the question of "who wants to skate when it's 90 degrees out?" I can only say that it will be interesting to see how many will skate when it is 20 to 30 degrees below zero.

Dick Olson,
Commissioner of Athletics

SKATING RINK is a new center of student activities.

Skating Rink Becomes Reality

A skating rink has become a reality at North Dakota State University.

The rink, located in the area of the married students' playground and the Federal Metabolism building, has been flooded several times.

Although the ice is rough, it is in good enough condition to skate on, according to Gary Reinke, assistant grounds manager who is supervising the flooding. He explained that snow was roughening the surface of the ice.

But he also commented, "There is no doubt in my mind that we will get it in shape."

Dave Pierce, counselor coordinator of Reed-Johnson, said that the rink is open to everyone and mentioned that it resulted from activities of the dorm student government.

Concert Choir Takes State Tour

The Concert Choir, consisting of 46 members, left Mon., Jan. 24 for the first of two state tours. Each year the choir makes two trips during Winter Quarter to promote North Dakota State University to students in high schools throughout the state.

"Our purpose is to have our choir sing for the student body of high schools and function as a public relations unit for NDSU. We promote the institution and encourage students who hear us to come here to school," stated Robert Godwin, choir director.

The first trip, lasting two days, will cover the northeast corner of the state. Performances will be given at Northwood, Park River, Grafton, Lakota, Langdon, and Cavalier High Schools.

The second trip, Feb. 13-15, will take the choir to the south central portion of the state. High school students in Edgeley, Ashley, Wishek, Bismarck, Linton and Strasburg will hear the choir.

Each year different areas of the state are toured so that over a period of years the choir will have sung in all areas of the state.

The schedule for the tour provides for three concerts a day: a morning performance, one about noon, and another in the afternoon. All-student assemblies are called to hear the choir.

The choir presents basically the same program in each performance. Their presentation is divided into three parts. In the first section of the program the serious classical music is sung by the full choir.

In the second part of the program the 21 voice singing group sings popular and folk music. The full choir then presents contemporary and light music for the third part of the program.

Daniel Leasure, dean of students, will accompany the choir on one of the trips and will give a promotional talk to the high school students during a break in the program. Another representative of the University administration will perform this same function on the other trip.

Math Institute Scheduled For High School Teachers

Applications are being accepted at North Dakota State University for an eight-week summer institute in mathematics for junior and senior high school teachers.

The institute will be held from June 13 through Aug. 5.

Richard E. Shermoen, associate professor of mathematics and director of the institute, said 30 teachers would be chosen to take part.

Although participation is not restricted to teachers in North Dakota and western Minnesota, Shermoen said most of those chosen would come from those areas.

The institute is being financed under a $39,000 National Science Foundation grant. Participants will receive a $75 weekly stipend, plus additional allowances for dependents and travel.

The institute will carry 12 quarter graduate credits which may be applied toward a Master of Science degree in education at NDSU.

The institute's stated objective is to "increase the mathematical maturity of the participants and enhance their ability to work with the language and concepts of modern mathematics."

Shermoen, and Professors L. D. Olson of NDSU and R. C. Entlinger of the University of New Mexico, will constitute the institute staff.

To qualify for selection, a teacher should have a minimum of three years of teaching experience and at least an undergraduate minor in mathematics.

Applications may be obtained by writing Shermoen at the NDSU Mathematics Department. To be considered, completed applications must be postmarked before Feb. 15.

Annual Inserts Now Available

Supplementary inserts for the 1965 Bison Annual which review 75 years of North Dakota State University's growth are available to students, according to Bison Co-editor Connie Doeling, HE. These inserts were to be distributed with the 1965 annual, but because of printing difficulties arrived too late.

The supplements have been available to the students at the Varsity Mart and the Bison Annual office since the end of last spring quarter. They can now be picked up at the information desk in the Memorial Union.

Every student who has a 1965 yearbook is entitled to an insert because student funds have financed their printing.

Granted Federal Funds

English Department Will Conduct Institute

Federal funds of $89,789 were granted to the English department under the National Defense Education Act. The grant, the first issued in English at North Dakota State University, will be used to conduct an institute in English language and literature.

The eight-week institute, to be held at NDSU June 14 - Aug. 6, will be directed at teachers from elementary, junior high and senior high school levels. Each school district participating will send a team of three teachers, one from each of these levels.

The program is based upon the recognition of a need for better understanding between elementary and secondary schools. Recent developments in teaching will be emphasized and new curriculum ideas incorporated.

The team of three teachers will work together to coordinate the teaching of language and literature from the primary grades through senior high school. They will then communicate suggested improvements to the other schools in their district.

Nine hours of undergraduate or graduate credit are available to those who take all three courses involved in the program. Plans call for 21 school districts to participate in the program. Fifteen of these will be from North Dakota, with the remaining six coming from surrounding states in the upper Missouri River Valley.

Dr. Hale Aarnes, director of the North Dakota Institute of Education at NDSU, assisted by Alice Jordahl, Fargo Central High School, will direct the institute.

Dr. John Hove, chairman of the English department, will teach a course in applied linguistics. Dr. Catherine Cater, professor of English, will lecture on myths and symbols in literature.

The third course offered presents curriculum study and teaching methods in English. This course will be taught by several instructors who are not regular members of the NDSU faculty. Sister Barbara Ann, St. Mary High School, Bismarck; John Conner, University of Iowa; and Mrs. Eleanor Fuhrman, elementary school principal at Norfolk, Nebraska, will integrate the course at the levels involved.

All 63 members of the study program will meet together for lectures in each of the three areas of concern. The 21 from each level will also meet together to establish a program for their particular needs in view of the total goal to be attained.

During the school year following the institute, meetings will be held to check the effectiveness and success of implementation of the ideas explored during the summer session.

Open For Nominations

Graduate Faculty To Expand By Additions From Other Colleges

Faculty members of colleges and universities throughout North Dakota may be nominated for membership on the North Dakota State University graduate faculty.

At their meeting Jan. 17, University Senate approved a motion which asked that "the Senate concur with the Graduate Faculty in the presentation of faculty nominations to faculty members of other institutions of higher learning within the state, using established criteria."

The proposal arose after a graduate faculty review of the qualifications of three Dickinson State College instructors who are teaching NDSU graduate-level extension courses. The three are President Oscar A. DeLong, Professor of English, Irving Deer, and Professor of Education, Gordon Olson.

According to Glenn S. Smith, dean of the NDSU graduate school, "University Senate's acceptance of the graduate faculty's proposal could be of significance to the expansion of the university's extension graduate program, as it sets a precedent for similar arrangements with instructors from schools other than Dickinson State."

Smith continued, "We consider such extension work to be part of our service to the state. If graduate courses are made more convenient to the state's residents, people such as county agents, teachers and housewives who hold degrees might be encouraged to go on for higher degrees."

Dean Smith pointed out that previously all extension graduate courses were conducted by NDSU faculty members who had to travel to the area where the classes were held. "Arrangements such as those at Dickinson result in savings on travel and lodging expenses, which are also a savings to the taxpayer."

To be approved for the graduate faculty, a nominee must meet at least four qualifications. He must hold a master's degree in his teaching field and he must hold the rank of assistant professor or higher.

He must have a background of training and experience that qualifies him to teach graduate level courses, to participate as a committee member in master's degree programs, to direct master's theses and to participate in formulation of plans and policies in his own department. And he must show continuing evidence of scholarly interest.

Said Smith, "These criteria are intended to promote the standards of quality which the faculty intends to maintain."

Senate Project Renewed; Evaluation of Instructors

A new attempt at teacher evaluation will be made during the week of Feb. 21-26, according to Robert Hendrickson, commissioner of campus affairs.

Teacher evaluation has been subject to much debate for the past three years. It was originally under the Commission of Inter-campus Affairs but failed to receive the necessary support of the faculty.

The new plan will bear endorsement of both Faculty Senate and President Herbert Albrecht.

According to Teacher Evaluation Chairman Gary Pfeifer, AS 4, the plan will be strictly voluntary on the part of the faculty, but it is hoped that all will participate.

During the first part of the eighth week of each quarter, faculty members will pick up evaluation forms from the deans of their colleges and at sometime during that week will have class members evaluate their teaching methods.

These forms will be collected and placed in envelopes which are to be sealed and returned to the deans for evaluation.

At the end of the quarter the instructors may obtain the results of their evaluations from the deans.

According to Hendrickson, the endorsement by both the president and Faculty Senate should help get the plan off to a successful start.

Math Teacher Given Grant

Ferdinand Haring, instructor of mathematics and physics, was a recent recipient of a National Science Foundation grant.

According to A. Glenn Hill, chairman of the mathematics department, Haring has received a stipend of over $8,000 to further his studies in mathematics. Haring chose to attend his alma mater, the Illinois Institute at Chicago, for twelve months beginning in September. He will concentrate on the branch of mathematics called mathematical analysis.

Haring was born in the Dutch East Indies and moved to Holland shortly after World War II. He studied at the University of Utrecht where he majored in mathematics and physics and minored in astronomy.

When Haring first came to the United States in 1959, he said that he was impressed by the "hugeness" of everything.

Haring, who has been an instructor at North Dakota State University for four years, came to North Dakota out of curiosity and because he wished to get away from the overly populated part of the U.S.

He stated that he finds the NDSU students are either negatively or positively interested, but are never indifferent.

Contest For Co-eds

Sheep Milking Planned At Little International

Affection and speed will be the main factors in determining the winner of the "Maiden Sheep Milking Contest" at this year's Little International.

Melvin Leland, AG 4, manager of the show, which will be held Feb. 11-12, stated the event is being introduced this year for the first time.

The sheep milking contest will replace the co-ed "greased pig catching contest" held in the past.

The milking contestants will be representatives from sororities and women residence halls.

Points will be awarded for the maiden's affection shown toward the sheep and sheeps' affection shown toward the maidens. Each team will be given an allotted amount of time to get acquainted with the sheep and then a certain amount of time to milk the sheep.

Points will also be awarded for the amount of milk obtained from the sheep.

The annual fraternity calf-tying contest will also be held.

This event pits two men against a 500 to 600 pound calf that is guaranteed to be wild. The team that is able to catch and tie their calf first will be the winner. Leland commented, "This event is always very wild and exciting."

The clowns, who always do their best to confuse and frustrate the contestants in these events, will serve as judges and their decisions will be final. This year's clowns will be Keith Struble, AG 4 and Anthony Rattei, AG 1.

Panthers Hand Bison First NCC Loss

Hot shooting State College of Iowa Panthers handed the North Dakota State University Bison their first North Central Conference loss of the season Saturday in a game played at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Panther cagers hit 72 per cent of their shots during the first half and finished with a 63 per cent scoring mark for the game in the 88-74 victory. SCI led 46-35 at halftime after scoring six points in the final 20 seconds.

The loss dropped the Bison into second place in the NCC behind the University of North Dakota Sioux who were not scheduled to play last weekend. The Sioux meet the Panthers at Cedar Falls Saturday.

Earlier in the week the Bison scored their second win of the season over the Concordia College Cobbers, 81-69. The NDSU cagers had to come from a 38-32 halftime deficit to take the victory from the intra-city rival.

Ron Schlieman led the Bison's offense against the Cobbers with 23 points followed by Gerry Suman and Bob Maier with 14 each. Cage coach Doug Cowman commented, "It was real hard to get the team up for their game with the Cobbers with the all important SCI game on their minds."

All NCC center Craig Knepp led the Panther's balanced scoring attack with 23 points in the SCI game. The four remaining SCI starters also scored in double figures.

Maier led the Bison attack with 22 points followed by Suman and Lowell Cook with 16 and 11. Maier and Schlieman fouled out of the contest and Suman and Cook finished with four fouls each.

SCI hit on 20 of 34 attempts from the free throw line while the Bison hit 12 of 20.

Following the loss to the Panthers, Cowman commented, "SCI is definitely a much improved ball team. Chuck Nolting, a 6'4" forward, played a much better game than he played when we defeated them here or in the NCC tournament in December."

"We know now that we'll have to win to stay in contention for the title," Cowman continued.

The Sioux's 6'8" center Phil Jackson leads the NCC in three individual statistics. Jackson leads the league in scoring, percentage shooting and rebounds.

Maier leads the Bison scoring with a 17.5 average for the season followed by Suman and Schlieman with 14 and 12.7 respectively. The three Bison starters rank among the top ten scorers in the NCC.

Bison cagers rank second to UND in defense allowing 72.7 points per game compared to 70.2 for the Sioux opponents. UND moved into second place in the Associated Press small college basketball rating last week after being rated fourth for two previous weeks.

Mankato Bowling Tournery Set; WRA Members To Participate

Mankato State College lanes will be the place for the championship roll-off of the Tri-State Intercollegiate Bowling Conference. The date set is March 12 at 12:30 p.m. The top four teams in the conference will be competing.

North Dakota State University is represented in the conference by a team of five. These five are selected from the Women's Recreation Association advanced bowling league.

Every week after the WRA advanced bowling league's scores are recorded, the five highest bowlers are chosen to be on the team bowling in the conference. These bowlers vary from week to week.

This week the five chosen are Mary Ann Baumann, HE 2, 157; Leola Keenicke, AS 1, 151; Connie Buhr, AS 4, 143; Wendy Pile, HE 4, 141; and Jane Hegeholtz, HE 2, 141. They will be bowling against Wisconsin State University at La Crosse.

After bowling each time, the scores are sent into the conference headquarters at Mankato State College.

Miss Elsie Raer, advisor, and Marcia Anderson, AS 4, keep track of the girls who bowl for the conference team and mail their scores into headquarters.

The following schools are represented in the conference: University of Minnesota, (Morris and Minneapolis-St. Paul branches); Wisconsin State University, (La Crosse, Oshkosh and River Falls branches); St. Olaf College; Gustavus Adolphus College; Mankato State College and NDSU.

Two Captains Named

Linebacker Chosen As Bison's MVP

Linebacker Ardell Wiegandt has been named by his 1965 North Dakota State University football teammates as the "most valuable" member of the national small-college football champions.

In other team selections, ends Lowell Linderman and Matt Vukelich were picked as captains for the 1966 season while quarterback Gary Showers was awarded the "Oil Can" for his humorous contribution to team morale.

Wiegandt, a 200 pound senior, served as a squad tri-captain for the second straight year. He was an honorable mention Little All-American selection and was also named to the North Central Conference team.

Linderman was the club's junior tri-captain and its leading pass receiver with 29 catches for 439 yards and 5 touchdowns. The "split end" earned a spot on the all-NCC team and was selected as the "outstanding line-backer" in the Bison's 20-7 Pecan Bowl victory over Grambling College.

Linderman is currently on the Bison's indoor track team. Last spring Linderman pole-vaulted 47'7" in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Track and Field Team.

Vukelich, a 206 pound junior, was a mainstay in the Bison's defensive line, a unit that allowed opponents 15.8 yards rushing per game. Another captain will be named at the completion of spring practice sessions.

Junior quarterback Showers completed nine of fifteen passes for 135 yards and three touchdowns during the grid season.

Foreign Student Wins Crown In SUAB Ping Pong Tourney

Roy Fatakia, a foreign student from Bombay, India, won the North Dakota State University ping pong championship Saturday in a tournament played at the Memorial Union Games Area. The tournament, which was sponsored by the Student Union Activities Board, also included a women's division, doubles division and a bridge tournament.

Fatakia defeated Don Smedstad for the singles ping pong title and later teamed with Bhupenda Chowan for the double title. The Fatakia-Chowan duo defeated Smedstad and his partner Gordon Steinwig in the doubles.

Former football and basketball cheerleader, Karen Sjue, representing the Kappa Delta sorority, won the women's singles ping pong title, defeating Joyce Sandera.

Russ Wahlund and Lloyd Neumann won the NDSU bridge competition with a score of 66. Jerry Leppart and Mark Dobervich finished second with a score of 60.

Tri-State Roll off Set

Teams in the Tri-State Conference that will bowl here Saturday are the University of North Dakota, the University of Minnesota (Morris), Northern Teachers (Aberdeen, S. D.), State School of Science and North Dakota State University.

Seating Problem Earns Attention

The meeting of the Sioux and Bison basketball teams on Feb. 19 should serve as an attention getter because of the lack of space under which the North Dakota State University athletic department must operate.

A maximum of 3,600 fans will be able to see the contest but no doubt several thousand more would attend if seats were available. The impressive position of this year's Sioux team, which has compiled a 16-2 record this season and is currently ranked second among the small colleges of the nation, has increased community interest. The surprising Bison cagers have no doubt increased the interest of fans by assuming the role of a spoiler to the University of North Dakota basketball efforts.

The outcome of the North Central Conference title could well be decided by the rival teams. Although the Sioux are undefeated so far in NCC play and the Bison have lost one game, many observers feel the Sioux could be upset in one of their remaining games before they meet the Bison. Winning basketball games away from home is in NCC, as in almost every major basketball conference, the key to winning the title. The Sioux have two trips remaining in NCC play.

Whether or not the NCC title is in doubt when the Bison and Sioux meet here in February, there will be greater interest than there was last year, when 300 were turned away from the contest. Ticket sales manager Ron Corliss has announced that 600 seats are being sold on a reserve seat basis, leaving 3000 general admission seats.

Activity cards will give students access to these 3000 seats, although last year some of the seats were made available to the public on a general admission basis. Athletic Director Darrell Mudra has stated that he is in favor of leaving these seats available for students until it becomes evident that students won't fill them.

The inconsistency of students in their attendance at Bison home basketball games has placed Mudra and Corliss in an uncomfortable position. Corliss explained that the lack of student attendance at some home games often encourages them to make fewer seats available to students and more seats available to the public. The fieldhouse hasn't been filled to capacity for a game this season.

Students using activity cards for admission will undoubtedly fill the fieldhouse for this year's contest. If some were to be turned away, it would make ideal publicity for NDSU's quest for a new fieldhouse. For further proof that a new fieldhouse is needed, a daily schedule of the building's uses could be used as support.

During a typical day, the NDSU fieldhouse is used for ROTC courses, women's physical education, men's physical education, varsity and freshmen basketball, gymnastics, indoor track and a number of other activities. Intramural athletics, now involving nearly a thousand male students, are greatly hindered by lack of space, as are events of the Women's Recreational Association.

Perhaps it would be practical to reserve several hundred seats in the Fieldhouse when the Sioux and Bison meet for North Dakota legislators.

Fast-Back Racing Event To Be Held

The 1966 fast-back turtles will be racing Feb. 5 in the North Dakota State University fieldhouse beginning at 2 p.m.

The race will be run in several "heats" or groups; women's division, men's division and others. There will also be a sweepstake race among the winners of the separate divisions. The first turtle to cross the outside line of the circle drawn in the center of the fieldhouse floor will be declared the winner of his heat.

Approximately 24 turtles of all styles will be competing for several trophies. Some of the turtles will be sporting such equipment as "souped-up engines," "4-speed gear boxes," "positrac rear ends," and "racing slicks." It is rumored that a couple of "four-wheel drive" units may also be entered in the race.

Besides the Grand Sweepstakes Trophy, trophies for the winners of the women's and men's division will also be given. The slowest turtle of the race will be awarded the "Would You Believe" trophy. The trophies will be on display at the Union the week before the race.

The all-campus event will be sponsored by Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. All students, fraternities, sororities and any group that wants to race for the trophies can place their orders for the turtles by calling Dick Smith, AR 4.

A fee of five dollars will buy one 1966 model fast-back racing turtle; one repair pit (housing box); instructions as to care, and grooming and fuel (food) for one week of racing.

The turtles will be flown in from Florida a week before the race and distributed to the participating parties. They will then have one week to train their turtles and prepare them for competition. It is strongly recommended that the trainer be a person with a very pleasant personality because the turtles are very highly tuned and become "cross" if not treated kindly.

Board Approves Elevation Of Commissioner

The State Board of Higher Education gave final approval last week to elevating the position of Kenneth E. Raschke, commissioner of higher education. The board's action gives Raschke direct supervision over the eight state colleges and universities and increases his salary from $18,000 to $24,000 annually.

Raschke said that the details concerning specific duties are still being worked out and commented, "The details will be published when they are completed."

In other action relating to North Dakota State University, the board authorized seven new positions.

One of the positions authorized is for an area resource development agent who will work with problems arising from the Garrison Diversion Project.

Other positions created are for a cereal technician, a home agent, an animal husbandman and additional policemen. Raschke commented that the additional policemen were to provide "additional security for the campus."

Other positions that were considered may be approved at the next meeting of the board. They are for four graduate research assistants and for a professional position in agronomy.

A "common market" agreement permitting students of Cardinal Muench Seminary and NDSU to take courses at both institutions was also approved by the board.
