"RIECHTOFEN," a modern surrealist painting, by Robert A. Nelson is being considered for permanent art collection by the Memorial Union Art Acquisition Committee.

Paintings Being Considered For Permanent Collection

by Keith Holman

Five oil paintings are being considered for the Memorial Union permanent art collection.

The five are "Riechtofen" by Robert A. Nelson, "Tesuque" by Orland Rourke, "October Third" by Charles Beck, "Night Clouds" by James ver Doorn and "Haystacks" by Betty Strand.

According to James O'Rourke, head of the Rourke Art Gallery of Moorhead, "Nelson works mainly with the human figure. His 'Riechtofen' tends toward surrealism and has pop-art overtones.

"Beck paints heavily textured abstracts which are popular in this area because they have a feeling of midwestern landscapes. In contrast, Rourke's work is often typical of the southwestern part of the United States.

"Miss Strand usually paints abstracted landscapes with a strong emphasis on color, while ver Doorn typically treats the mood qualities of sky and ground."

The paintings by Rourke, Strand and Beck are on display in the Dacotah Inn, and the one by ver Doorn hangs in the ballroom. The Nelson work is presently in storage because of difficulty in finding a suitable display position.

All of the artists whose work is under consideration live in the general Red River Valley area. Nelson is the head of the art department at the University of North Dakota; Rourke is an instructor at Fargo's North High School; Beck is an instructor at Fergus Falls Junior College; ver Doorn works in the art department of KXGO TV, and Miss Strand is an assistant professor of art at Concordia College.

Final decisions on the purchase of the paintings rest with the Memorial Union Art Acquisition Committee. Members of the committee are Union Director George Schmidt, James O'Rourke, Associate English Professor Catherine Cater, Thomas Gunkelman of Fargo, SUAB Representative Leo Johnson and Marvin Johnson, AR 4.

"The aim of the committee," said O'Rourke, "it to form a good collection of art which will have value in the future."

The paintings by Rourke and Strand are each priced at $100, those by Beck and Nelson at $400 each, and the ver Doorn at $175.

Money for the purchase of such art items comes from a $1000 yearly allotment in the Memorial Union operating budget. Schmidt commented, "This year's allotment might have to be increased."

Faculty Lectureship Recipient Chosen

Dr. William E. Dinusson, professor of animal science, has been chosen by the North Dakota State University faculty to receive the 1966 Faculty Lectureship.

In connection with the award, Dr. Dinusson will present a public lecture, on a topic of his own choosing, on the evening of Feb. 22 at NDSU. He is the tenth NDSU faculty member to be chosen for the lectureship.

One of the senior teacher-researchers in the College of Agriculture, Dr. Dinusson has been particularly active and effective as a teacher, a productive researcher and as an interpreter of the results of research to the public.

Dinusson was nominated for the honor by the members of Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic society, and by the agricultural engineering faculty.

A member of the College of Agriculture teaching and research staff since 1949, Dinusson is a native North Dakotan. He was graduated with honor from Oklahoma State University (then Oklahoma A&M) in 1941 and received a Ph.D. from Purdue University in 1948.

In 1960-1961, Dr. Dinusson served as a Fulbright Research Scholar in Iceland and also traveled in Germany, Denmark and England.

As a result of his research work, Dr. Dinusson has published some 80 reports of his investigations into nutrition problems with livestock common to North Dakota. His research helped develop the use of barley as a commercially competitive feed in North Dakota.

The 1966 Faculty lecturer has been a top-ranking scholar throughout his academic career, and has been chosen for membership in the honorary scholastic societies, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Sigma and Phi Eta Sigma.

Active in numerous professional and civic organizations, Dr. Dinusson holds memberships in Sigma Xi, scientific research society; Farm House Fraternity; Blue Key; Block and Bridle Club; the Executives and Commons Clubs, and is secretary of the Midwest Section of the American Society of Animal Production.

FOR SIOUX GAME

Students Get Seats First

The athletic department announced this week that general admission tickets will go on sale at 7 p.m. at the Feb. 19 basketball game against the University of North Dakota only if students haven't filled the Fieldhouse by that time. Fieldhouse doors will open at 5:30 p.m.

Six hundred reserved tickets have been sold leaving 3,000 available for students. No tickets were sent to UND. In the past, the two schools traded 100 of the reserved seats and made general admission tickets available to all. According to Len Marti, athletic director at UND, there has been an unfavorable reaction at the Grand Forks school but no organized demonstrations. He added that he understood the student-Fieldhouse problem at NDSU.

Marti said that 200 reserved seats will be made available to NDSU when the same two teams meet in Grand Forks the following weekend. In addition 1,000 general admission tickets will be sold. "Most of the seats," Marti added, "will be in the east end just like last year." An NDSU banner will be hung over the seating area.

UND's fieldhouse seats 7,500 people with the possibility of allowing another 1,000 in for standing room.

Student Body To Vote On New Constitution

A new constitution will be submitted to the student body for vote at the all-campus election on Feb. 15. The revision is the result of work done by the legislative research commission of Student Senate.

The revision mainly removes the ambiguities in the wording but there are several changes which should be noted. The number of commissions has been changed from nine to four, there is a provision for an elected vice-president instead of the appointee system presently used. This vice-president will serve in the capacity of Commissioner of Student Activities. This is an enlarged version of the present Commission of Campus Affairs.

"These changes have been necessitated by problems which have arisen over the year," said John Schneider, member of the commission of Legislative Research. He pointed out the senate replacement incident, whereby provisions were never made to fill the two senate seats vacated this year. He also urged that students read over the new constitution so that they would understand the changes.

Schneider said that the changes are not drastic but merely to make the constitution more efficient and workable. He said that he expected no opposition to the change. "The approval by the student body is merely a formality which has to be observed. It is also an excellent chance for the students to become aware of the workings of their student government."

The four commissions which will remain out of the nine are: Commissions of Communications, Legislative Research, Student Activities and Finance. The Publications Commission was changed to Communications Commission as it will include representatives of all the campus mass media instead of just the publications. Campus Affairs was changed to Student Activities. This is the commission which will be headed by the vice president and will officiate with all activities of the student union, public programs, athletics, elections, sharrivar, homecoming, and any activities which include students and are all-campus.

The rest of the changes include incorporating some of the by-laws into the body of the constitution and rewording different articles.

Regulations Are Too Involved; Plans For Ski Club Cancelled

by Tanfield Miller

Plans to form a North Dakota State University Ski Club have been dropped although forty students attended the recent organizational meeting.

The club was to be started in order to provide bus trips to the ski slopes in Minnesota and to provide its members with the economic advantages which these groups enjoy at the winter resorts.

According to David Otis, AS 3, who was one of the students trying to organize the club, the plans had to be given up when it was found that such a group would be impractical under the present University rules which govern campus organizations.

"As a club," said Otis, "we would have to find two married couples to be chaperones and offer to pay for their babysitters. To find two couples who want to go skiing on any given weekend would be almost impossible, and the cost of two babysitters for the weekend would more than offset the savings which come from group rates at the slopes."

"Regulations governing club activities also made the formation of such a group impractical," continued Otis. "We would be forced to register the proposed trips one week in advance and at that time we would also have to submit a list of the names and addresses of everyone going on the ski-weekend."

"A week in advance we do not know whether or not the weather will be okay for skiing and the group's members will not know if they will be able to go," he concluded.

Otis said that although the plans for the club will be dropped this year, the idea is a sound one and works well at many colleges. We hope to be able to form the club next year."

Honor Given

The local chapter of Blue Key, honorary service fraternity, will hold its annual Doctor of Service Banquet Feb. 3. At the banquet, a member of the University faculty or administration will be honored for "outstanding contributions to the life of the University."

About 150 persons are expected to attend the banquet to be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Memorial Union ballroom. Included will be Blue Key members, past recipients of the Doctor of Service Award, executive officers of NDSU, prominent people on campus, members of Mortar Board, and the 1966 recipient.

Last year the award went to Dr. Frederick G. Walsh, chairman of the speech and drama department.

Also scheduled to be presented at the banquet is the Donald Bischof Award, presented to a member of Blue Key who has shown outstanding leadership. It was awarded last year to Gary Pfeifer, AS 4.

A new award will be the Father William J. Durkin Memorial Leadership award given to an outstanding leader in the religious field at NDSU.

Illegal Crossing Causes Injury

Severe head injuries to a passenger in a pick-up truck resulted from a traffic accident near campus.

Some time between 2 and 3 p.m. on Wed., Jan. 26, an unidentified pedestrian crossed University Drive just north of Twelfth Avenue at a point where there is no legal crosswalk.

According to Fargo police records an automobile stopped for the pedestrian. The pick-up truck stopped behind the car. A heavier truck rammed the pick-up from behind.

The passenger in the pick-up flew forward smashing his head against the windshield. The driver of the pick-up received minor bruises.

The driver of the heavier truck was cited and the case will go to court some time this week.

According to Lieutenant Hewitt of the Fargo police, the unidentified pedestrian crossing the street illegally was a major contributing factor to the accident.

What's Happening In Art And Drama

by Jan Weible

There was a time when H. L. Mencken's description of the Midwest as the "Sahara of the Beaux Arts" offended no one because it was an apt description and because many midwesterners didn't know the meaning of "Beaux Arts." While it must be admitted a cultural Renaissance hasn't swept the frozen plains, there are stirring pockets of activity worthy of attention.

Tomorrow evening the musical comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" will open in Weld Hall at Moorhead State College. The farce, based on the comedies of Plautus, leading comic playwright of ancient Rome, ran 28 months in New York from 1962 to 1964. It was named "the best musical of the 1963 season" and has only recently been released for non-professional production. Stephen Sondheim, who so successfully provided the lyrics for "West Side Story," has written both the music and the lyrics for the production.

Weible

The prize winning farce will open at 8:15 p.m. and run for three performances Feb. 3-5. Tickets may be purchased at the MSC box office and at Daveau's of Fargo and Moorhead.

This coming Friday at 8 p.m. the Indian film "Two Daughters" will be shown in the ballroom of the Memorial Union. The film is an adaptation of two stories by Nobel Prize winner, Rabindranath Tagore. The film is an exquisite, profound, poetic creation that touches the universal heart of man. The admission charge is 50 cents.

The Orland J. Rourke family collection will be on exhibit at Rourke Art gallery in Moorhead Feb. 2-3. The collection includes work by Robert A. Nelson from the University of North Dakota, Charles Beck from Fergus Falls Junior College, James ver Doorn and Orland J. Rourke from Fargo and Betty Strand from Concordia College. Paintings by these artists are also being displayed in the Memorial Union. Both Nelson and Beck have received national recognition for their work. One of Nelson's paintings hangs in the Museum of Modern Art in New York and one of Beck's in the United States Department of State in Washington, D. C.

Two linocuts, "Goldbug" and "Bird" by Richard Lyons, associate professor of English at NDSU are also a part of the exhibition.

COMING EVENTS

Feb. 9-15, 8:15 p.m.—

"The Moon is Blue", a light comedy by F. Hugh Herbert will be presented by the Fargo-Moorhead community theatre at the Red River Playhouse.

Feb. 9-12, 8:15 p.m.—

"Taming of the Shrew", an early Shakespearean farce will be presented by the Little Country Theatre. The comedy is well known in the United States because of its adaptation as a successful Broadway musical and motion picture entitled "Kiss Me Kate."

AT THE PEAK OF ACTION in the Theta Chi skit for the Variety Show, a mock classroom instructor gets pelted with garbage.

Moslem Thanksgiving Ceremony Held

"Ignorance causes prejudice and nothing can be worse whether in religion, culture, or ideals. Prejudice is the attitude of one who wishes to remain ignorant all his life—who is not interested in knowing other people and countries," said M. Arif Hayat, assistant professor of botany.

Speaking about their beliefs, Dr. Hayat and eleven North Dakota State University Moslem students from India, Pakistan, Iran, Sudan and Egypt observed Moslem religious rites with University officials, department heads, deans and student organization presidents in attendance at Id-UI-Fitre on Sun., Jan. 23.

The feast of Id-UI-Fitre (Thanksgiving) marks the end of a month of fasting for over 500 million Moslem people. The fast is observed from sunrise to sunset and is the Moslem way of dramatizing the suffering experienced by starving people throughout the world.

Id-UI-Fitre is described as "the most significant, the most sacred day in the Islam religion." Jabil Sinha of Pakistan, PH 6, and Athar Usmani of India, CH 1, who made all arrangements for the observance, said that this is the first time Id-UI-Fitre has been celebrated at NDSU.

They said they held the observance mainly because they felt a university is a place where there are opportunities to exchange ideas and beliefs and that it should be a refreshing change to take part in activities people know little about. A university is one place where people of other races and beliefs can meet as friends.

NDSU President Herbert Albrecht was guest of honor at the celebration and he thanked the Moslem students for "this glimpse into your lives."

Faculty members and area Moslem residents participated in the ceremony. The Islamic Lord's Prayer, the opening to Al Fatiha, and Surah II, which is a chapter of the Koran, was sung. Sinha read a translation in English.

In conclusion Dr. Hayat said "North Dakota is one of the more secluded states in America, and NDSU, by such things as the Id-UI-Fitre and the Model UN, is becoming a part of growing international relations needed at any university. Those people who say a university teacher or student should stay in the classroom are primitive. The world is becoming closer, and as intelligent, informed students and instructors, we should be interested in learning of other nation's cultures and religions."

First Faculty Handbook Being Printed

The first North Dakota State University faculty handbook is now being printed. This handbook, compiled by the Faculty Affairs Committee of Faculty Senate under the direction of Chairman Hugh Boyle, will eventually be distributed to all NDSU faculty members.

This handbook will be especially useful to new faculty members and will also be of interest to others," Dr. Boyle stated.

The handbook covers all general aspects of the University. Information is included on curriculum, campus activities, services, cultural opportunities and university personnel.

The appendix contains the university constitution, tenure laws and state laws regulating the operation of the university.

Boyle pointed out that most of the information will be fairly general because of the many changes always in progress. The handbook will always be under revision because of these changes.

Work on the handbook started several years ago. The completed edition is 22 pages in length. When the handbook returns from the printer it will be turned over to the Faculty Senate for distribution.

Red Tape Hinders Student Activities

The stringent requirements placed on organizations desiring University affiliation have forced the North Dakota State University Ski Club to disband. Members believed it would be impossible to meet the demands the University makes on its organizations.

The main purpose of the club was to take advantage of the reduced rates given at ski resorts to similar organizations. In addition, arrangements for transportation could have been made easier and cheaper. Their purposes were legitimate and beneficial to NDSU students.

However, the University required that the Ski Club submit, one week in advance, the names of people who may be going skiing on any particular weekend. Also they would require chaperones on every out-of-town function.

These and other rules appear to be somewhat illogical. It would be nearly impossible for a student to plan a ski trip a week in advance. First of all, weather conditions can not be planned in advance. Second, the student perhaps would not know until later in the week how much weekend time he would have to devote to studying.

Because there are no skiing facilities in Fargo, every trip would require the presence of chaperones. Obtaining chaperones for a function of this type would indeed be difficult.

Should it be necessary to go through all the red tape, now demanded of NDSU organizations, merely to have a group function? For the purpose of the ski club, which is a common organization on other college campuses, this task is highly improbable.

Other campus organizations may have the same problems. We believe that a complete review of the rules and restrictions governing campus organizations is needed. If you or your organization is affected we suggest you voice your opinion.

Why Must Students Pay For The Alumni Office?

Why are student fees spent to support the alumni office?

Last year $10,000 from the University budget went to the alumni office. (see page 5, col. 1 Spectrum this issue)

What service does the office give the University to justify this much of its budget?

Jerry Iingen, alumni director, states that the alumni office is a service organization to the University in areas that are not subsidized by the state. What are these services?

Alumni reunions do not justify the budget, nor do the approximately $6,000 in alumni sponsored scholarships.

Maybe the behind the scenes work done by the alumni office to get large contributions for such things as building funds makes this spending worth while. This, however, depends upon just how many of these contributions are given due to the work of the alumni office.

Does the job of keeping up the list of alumni names justify the budget?

Might not the students be supporting the alumni office now, so that they will be served by it after they graduate? If this is the case, it would mean that we, as undergraduates, are all now paying alumni dues of two dollars per year.

The work of the advisory councils that the alumni office is setting up in the counties of North Dakota begins to suggest a service to the University that can be most effectively done through an alumni office.

Is this last item, then, to justify the $10,000 spending, or is it a combination of the above items? Perhaps these, are just the first hints of the value of the alumni office.

If these are not enough the alumni director could be given an extra job, like coaching the varsity bowling team.

Conversely, it might be cheaper for the University to have a bowling coach who will assume the extra duties of the alumni director.

Why are $10,000 in student fees being spent to support the alumni office?

Interest Required For Campus Growth

To the editor:

North Dakota State University has reached an enrollment of over five thousand and truly is becoming a university in actuality. This school has become known as a great football school with our bowl games and number one rating. Locally the school's functions of Homecoming and Shariivar are becoming well attended activities.

This increased enrollment, the interest of the local community, and our name in the national spot light have put a greater burden on student government at NDSU.

With more students, Senate must sponsor a greater diversity of activities to provide for the varied appetites of the growing student body. Such functions as Model United Nations and the Experiment in International Living are a start in the right direction. Our Homecoming and Shariivar must be of a greater scope to keep the growing interest of our friends around the state. Our students demand free entertainment of a higher standard such as the Mitchell Trio in the Fieldhouse this past year.

We must be progressive and out working so we can be proud of this institution as it is propelled into the national spotlight.

Where do you, the average student, fit into this growing University? Oh, you can passively sit in your dorm or fraternity house and complain that Senate never does a thing.

Well, I feel sorry for this type of student. If he would look he would see his Senate is trying and that is alot more than he ever did.

Senate has expanded its programs only the past year but so much more is needed. Student elections will take place on Feb. 15. How many students will go over to the dean's office on Feb. 2 to pick up a petition and become a candidate? I urge you to run for the offices of student body president or one of the two year Senate positions. It is a credit to those who run, win or lose, they have shown interest in their fellow students at NDSU.

Writer Discusses Vending Machine Removal

To the editor:

Buying refreshments or candy in any of the men's dorms has become a much more difficult task lately. It seems that someone has removed the candy and pop machines.

Now I don't know the reason for this action, but I suspect that it is for one of three reasons. The machines were removed either because they were not profitable, because some authority wants to punish a small group of thieves (stealing from the machines has been rife), or because that authority wants to punish all of the men residents.

We will assume the first possibility is not true. Could dishonesty be that prevalent? Then were the machines removed to punish the small group of thieves? The idea is idiotic since much more harm would be done to the innocent majority than to the group of thieves. We do not throw a bomb into a bank, and thus murder everyone inside, just because we know the bank is being robbed.

Is it true that the machines were removed to punish the men residents as a whole? I think this is probable. The machines were removed to teach us dorm residents that we should not tolerate thievery. Most of us have a tendency to look the other way when we see some foul play near the machines. After all, who among us has not felt the urge to destroy that mechanical monster after it has charged us 25¢ for a nickel candy bar?

Also, some of the machines, especially those with the revolving trap and sliding doors, seem to invite pilfering. Thus it's easy to excuse theft from the machines. But if everyone suddenly decided to put a stop to stealing, there could be little theft.

Those doing the robbing are not hardened criminals; they would stop stealing if we would stop smiling. Maybe the machines will be given back when we all decide to become rule enforcers.

But this is a bit too idealistic. Most of us will continue to keep that extra dime that the machine mistakenly gives us. No authority has the power to effect such a grandiose scheme as destroying our apathy toward dishonesty. A more practical solution, perhaps, would be to buy more theft proof machines.

Seating Plan For Sioux Game Disappoints Basketball Fan

To the editor:

Students are again being denied seating at the biggest game of the year, North Dakota State University vs. University of North Dakota. An article on the sports page of last week's Spectrum stated, "The inconsistency of students in their attendance at Bison home basketball games has placed Mudra and Corliss in an uncomfortable position."

Corliss explained, "The lack of student attendance at some games often encourages us to make fewer seats available to the students and more seats available to the public. The Fieldhouse hasn't been filled to capacity for a game this season."

The only games I can remember during this season, in which attendance was poor, were the home games before Christmas. Students had left the campus as Christmas vacation started Thursday at 5 p.m. Many students had long distances to go and left as soon as classes were dismissed. I wonder if Corliss expected them to stay when dorms and fraternities were closing.

Student attendance at the other games has been very good. I have noticed, however, that the reserve section on the west side of the Fieldhouse has been only half full at some games with the students having trouble finding seating.

I wonder if their seats should be taken from them even though they have already purchased the seats. Six hundred students who might have seen the game would not have that chance even though the school already has that money. But we are just students and we don't have any right to our seats.

Student Fees Employed For Operation Of NDSU's Alumni Association Office

Ten thousand dollars per year from the University budget (student fees) goes to the operation of the North Dakota State University alumni office.

In the 1964-65 school year the total expenditures of the alumni association were about $27,500. This included approximately $6,000 for student scholarships, $1,000 for Homecoming and Commencement reunions, $3,000 for printing costs, $2,500 for postage and supplies, $10,500 for salaries and travel expenses, $1,500 for accidental insurance policies, $1,000 for office expenses and $1,500 for special contributions to other campus activities such as: Band Day student's luncheon, Televising Homecoming Parade and the band's trip to the Mineral Bowl.

In addition to the $10,000 from the University budget, the association received about $15,000 from contributions of alumni and about $1,000 from Homecoming and reunion fees.

If the University must financially support the alumni office, people are wrong who believe that the sole purpose of this office is to secure alumni to support the University. If this is the purpose, then the solicitor's expenses exceed the funds he raises.

What then is the purpose of the alumni office?

According to Jerry Lingen, alumni director, "Its main purpose is to function as a service organization to the University in areas that are not subsidized by the state."

After mentioning the 27 alumni association scholarships, he continued, "One of our biggest jobs is keeping up the list of alumni."

Perhaps the alumni office's most ambitious project in the past few years is the setting-up of advisory councils in counties of North Dakota. The councils consist of one alumnus from each college on campus and a chairman.

These councils serve as liaisons between the University and the people of North Dakota. They explain legislation concerning NDSU to the people of the counties, help recruit new students from the high schools of the counties and act as a central organization for the alumni of the counties in activities such as alumni social functions.

Fourteen counties have already set up councils. Some of the smaller counties have combined to form one council. In the organization meeting in Bowman county 23 alumni and former students attended, in Bismarck over 100 attended.

It is the goal of the alumni office to have advisory councils to represent the University in all of the counties of North Dakota.

On a national scale this year, social alumni meetings were held in Fargo, Minneapolis and Milwaukee. Other meetings planned across the country later this year include: Dayton, Ohio; Los Angeles, California; Portland, Oregon; Seattle, Washington, and Denver, Colorado.

Loan Program Isn't Adequate

Anxiety over paying for a college education reaches near panic in many American homes today. When students realize that scholarships are not increasing as fast as enrollments, they tend to rely more and more on loans.

National Defense Education loans have become the mainstay of college student-aid offices. At North Dakota State University, 18-20 per cent of the total student body borrow money under the NDEA loan program.

This past year 860 students have borrowed $480,000. Wayne Tesmer, financial aids officer at NDSU, stated, "The demand always exceeds the supply." He added that NDSU had applied for one-half million dollars for the coming year.

The NDEA loans are limited by the government. The loans are distributed on a 9-1 federal-state ratio.

Students can apply for NDEA loans at their college or university and can borrow up to $1,000 a year. They may take up to 10 years after graduation to repay their obligation. If they go into teaching, 10 per cent of the loan will be cancelled for each year of teaching, up to 50 per cent of the total.

Vending Machines Are Being Damaged

A rash of vandalism has occurred in various residence halls. Vending machines have been the target of most of these damages.

Norman R. Seim, director of housing, said, "Vending machines are being abused to the extent that it is impossible to operate them at a profit." Seim also said that some of the machines were damaged so often that it was impossible to get the parts fast enough to fix them immediately.

As a result, some of the machines have been removed from the dormitories. Others are scheduled for removal.

The vending machines are operated under the authority of the University as a service for the student. The machines are filled by the University or are leased to local people who supply the food for them.

Other damages within the residence halls have decreased. Seim also said that the majority of the students were not destructive and that damages to the machines were apparently being done by a few individuals.

A survey is being conducted to determine the attitude of students toward the vending machines and other University property.

The residence hall contracts have provisions for damages incurred by students. Section five of the contracts read, "The student is liable for damages to residence hall property, resulting from negligence or misuse by the student or his guest. When responsibility for damage cannot be determined the roomates will be jointly responsible. Willful damage shall be cause for disciplinary action, and the student may be asked to leave the University."

Sioux Lose 69-61

Bison And Sioux Tied For NCC Lead

Although not playing against a North Central Conference foe, the Bison stepped back into a first place tie with the University of North Dakota Sioux for the conference lead.

The Bison defeated the University of Minnesota (Morris) 101-83 in a non-conference battle while the State College of Iowa Panthers defeated the Sioux 69-61. The Sioux's loss dropped them out of first place in the NCC and moved their conference record to 6-1.

Saturday night's victory moved North Dakota State University's season mark to 12-6. The Bison lost their first NCC game last weekend to SCI 88-74, and have a 6-1 conference record.

Five men in double figures paced the Bison's win over UMM Cougars as the NDSU cagers broke the century mark for the second time this season. The Bison defeated Concordia College 103-82 in the season opener.

Sophomore Ron Schlieman paced the Bison's scoring against the Cougars with 24 points on the 12 field goals. The 6'3" forward hit 12 of 17 attempts from the field and led the team in rebounds with 11.

The Bison outshot the Cougars from the field 54 percent to 43 percent and led in rebounds 51-41.

In the Panther-Sioux clash at Cedar Falls, Iowa, the SCI cagers scored what many already call the upset of the year when they defeated the Sioux. The Sioux were rated the third best small college basketball team in the

The Bison wrestling squad was handed its sixth dual meet loss of the season by the Concordia Cobbers by a score of 30-3 in a meet last week.

The Bison, now 5-6 in dual meet competition, gained their only victory in the 130 pound class when Larry Mollins edged Howard Thompson of Concordia 7-6.

Bison Captain Joe McCormick took his second loss of the season when he was decisioned 9-3 by Howard Leopold of Concordia. McCormick's season record now stands at 9-2 in dual competition.

The loss dropped the Sioux's season record to 16-3. UND's two previous losses came at the hands of the University of Minnesota and Bradley. SCI has a 4-3 record in the NCC and an 8-7 season mark.

NDSU defeated USD, 76-64, and Morningside, 71-64 in games played here early in January. USD has a 2-3 NCC record while Morningside is 1-5.

Freshmen Score 84-61 Victory

Led by Ron Waggoner, the baby Bison rolled to their eleventh straight win as they downed the Valley City State College junior varsity 84-61 Saturday night.

Waggoner, a hot shooting 6'5" forward, poured in 36 points on 13 field goals and 10 free throws to lead all scorers.

Others scoring in double figures for the Bison were Don Kyser with 16 and Palma Chandler who scored 14.

Pat Blake led Valley City with 13 followed by Neil Dwyer with 12.

This was the second meeting of the season for the two teams. Earlier, the Bison frosh downed the Valley City junior varsity at Valley City by a score of 78-75, in the closest game the Bison squad has been in this season. Coach Bud Belk was especially pleased with the victory.

"I thought the boys played their best defense of the year," he commented.

Coach Belk, also pleased with Waggoner's performance added that Don Kyser is improving rapidly after being hampered by knee injuries.

On Feb. 9 the Baby Bison will play the Moorhead State College junior varsity at Moorhead. Game time is 5:30 p.m.

Winning Coaches Are In Demand

Winning coaches are in demand all across the nation and the highly successful North Dakota State University football staff is supplying at least a small part of the desired number. Bison coaches who worked with the number one small college football team in the nation have gotten a variety of offers and feelers regarding similar jobs at other schools.

Head football Coach and Athletic Director Darrell Mudra received a professional offer but found collegiate football and education a more desirable occupation. Mudra's staff was the next to be offered new positions.

Last week, Offensive Line Coach Buck Nystrom and Backfield Coach Dick Koppenhaver were contacted concerning collegiate coaching jobs. Nystrom received an offer from Wisconsin in the Big Ten Conference while Koppenhaver was contacted concerning a head coaching job at Central Missouri College in Warrensburg, Mo.

The NDSU athletic department lost Don Johnson from the 1964 Mineral Water Bowl champion coaching staff. Johnson accepted a job with the Fargo Public School system and is presently dean of men at Central High School.

A consolation in losing the coaches who appear to be leaving the school (none of the coaches have decided to accept other jobs as of yet) is that NDSU no longer has a poor football reputation. The past three years have built a team that many coaches would be interested in working with and hiring a new staff would be less difficult than in 1962 when NDSU suffered an 0-10 season.

NDSU is certainly not the ultimate goal in the minds of the aggressive, prestige minded football coach. Because of the nature of the coaching profession, it would seem quite logical that Bison football will only be a stopping off point for good coaches on their way to Big College or professional football.

BASKETBALL

Playing on a home court is a deciding factor in many North Central Conference basketball games. The State College of Iowa Panthers scored two major upsets in seven days on their home court. The Panthers defeated the previous North Central Conference league leaders NDSU and the University of North Dakota.

Panther cagers have always been considerably harder to beat when playing at Cedar Falls, Iowa than at other NCC schools. The UND Sioux similarly, have a 16 game undefeated string going on their home court.

Many famous basketball coaches have remarked about the advantages of playing on the home court. Generally, it is accepted that when playing at home a team has a 10 point advantage although this doesn't always hold true.

Saturday night SCI scored one of the big upsets of the year when they defeated the Sioux and put the Bison back in the race for the NCC title. With five games remaining, the Bison stand a reasonable chance of going into the Sioux series with a record identical to that of the Sioux.

Campus Events

Scheduling Restrictions Get Tighter

A change in scheduling events in the Memorial Union has been made. Effective Feb. 1, all organizations must schedule on and off campus events seven days prior to the event rather than the former three days.

According to Memorial Union Director George Schmidt, the change was made to provide the staff with advanced information in order to co-ordinate student activities and to provide adequate staff, equipment and furnishings.

With advanced knowledge of scheduled events, the staff can advise organizations as to the feasibility of holding a meeting or social event on a particular date, and predictions can be made concerning the possibility of financial loss or poor attendance.

Schmidt stated, "We hope the change will not limit the organizations in any way. By extending the deadline to seven days we are attempting to limit the conflicts of activities."

Schmidt also stated that a letter has been sent to faculty members inquiring whether or not they are willing to chaperone events. The letter also requests information concerning the type of activity the faculty members would prefer chaperoning.

Schmidt said the response has been good, and that the cards are on file in the Student Activities Room, accessible to any students seeking chaperones.

At the request of a number of students, a review of chaperone policies will be made by the Student Personnel Staff during Spring Quarter.

Bison Room Slates Changes

Plans for redecoration of the Bison Room in the Memorial Union have been implemented recently. "We're trying to make a more livable place," Director George Schmidt stated.

During Christmas vacation walnut shutters were installed over the windows, and a walnut louvered screen was placed in front of the food serving line.

Since then new light fixtures have replaced the old, brighter ones. These "new" fixtures are actually some that were in the Bison Room before and have been renovated. They shed a dim, amber light which helps to create the warm atmosphere desired.

These fixtures will eventually be replaced by lantern-type fixtures which will be equipped with a dimmer system. White light will be used, but brightness can be controlled.

Plans are gradually being completed as the operating budget of the Memorial Union permits. No extra appropriations were requested for this project.

Other future plans include finishing the pillars in the Bison Room with a vinyl covering which will blend in with the walnut finish of the windows and screens. This same color will be carried out in ceiling moulding. The open wall spaces will be covered in a natural colored material with a burlap texture.
