Homecoming Committee Announces Plans

Queen selection, big name entertainment and the Bison clash with the Montana State University Bobcats highlight Homecoming Oct. 7-8.

The queen candidates will be presented at a Friday morning convocation and the honored alumni will be introduced. Selection of queen candidates is now underway.

A pep rally, excluding the traditional bon fire, is slated for Friday afternoon in the Engineering parking lot.

The Brothers Four will entertain in the Field House Friday evening to round out the day's activities.

"Traveling Through Books of Knowledge" was selected as the theme for this year's Homecoming. "We thought the theme would be educational and easy to work around," said Mary Robson, co-chairman of homecoming.

The parade will leave the Civic Auditorium at 9:30 Saturday morning. Residence halls as well as Greeks and other campus organizations are encouraged to enter floats. Deadline for entries is Friday, Sept. 30.

High school bands have been invited to march in the parade.

Residence halls and Greek houses have slated Open House Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

The Bison-Bobcat contest will climax Homecoming activities Saturday afternoon. Special halftime entertainment is being planned.

The "Houserockers" will play at a formal dance in the Field House and the "Strangers" will play in the Ballroom for a rock dance. The two dances have been scheduled to accommodate all students.

Sharivar Abandoned

by John T. Schneider

There will be no Sharivar this year. The annual North Dakota State University open house held each spring is to be no more. Bob Chailey, student body vice president, reported that there were no funds this year for Sharivar so it will be canceled.

There was a spattering of applause from the handful of senators that showed up.

Student Body President Rodger Wetzel opened the meeting asking for commissioners' reports and senators' reports on special interest groups. With the exception of Chailey, no reports were given.

At the same meeting it was decided to change the senate's fiscal year to coincide with the University's. It will now extend from July 1 to June 30.

A motion pending before senate would change the entire election process at NSDU. As it is now the president elect presides over senate the first meeting after the election. Under the new motion the president elect would wait until fall to assume office. Offices would remain at the end of winter quarter but office would not be assumed for six months.

A new senate chamber and office is in the planning, Chailey reported. The student activities room in the Memorial Union is to be remodeled to include a special chamber and office. The new chamber will not afford enough room for interested students to observe the senate. This was not anticipated to be a problem. However, as senate averaged three commissioners per meeting last year, there was concern.

Dave Knudson announced that the college bowl team is hard at work for their October 2 appearance on General Electric College Bowl. Knudson is a member of the team.

Tom Norum thanked senate for their financial cooperation in making the European Choir trip possible. There was no movement on the part of the senate for any financial assistance to the choir.

Veterans Will Get Payment Benefits

Veterans going to school should be prepared to pay their expenses for at least two months under the new GI Bill's education program, according to the Veterans Administration.

The law requires that monthly certificates of attendance be signed and sent by veterans to the VA attesting class attendance. These can be sent after a month's schooling is completed.

On the 20th of the following month, the VA mails the payment checks. Proper and prompt sending of the attendance certificates will eliminate delays.

Monthly payments are based on full-time, three-fourths-time and half-time or less than half-time programs according to the number of dependents.

Full-time training courses are 16 hours, or the equivalent. Three-quarter-time equals 10 to 13 hours, inclusive. Half-time is 7 to 9 hours.

When the course is of less than a regular semester, such as summer school, the 16-hour standard is used or the equivalency in class plus later, home study, fieldwork, research or other types of prescribed activity.

Second Model United Nations Plans

Student delegates from 250 colleges in an eight-state area and Canada have been invited to convene at North Dakota State University for the opening of the second Model United Nations Conference, Jan. 26-28. General Assembly delegates will give special emphasis to the United Nations, North Africa, and war in Vietnam. The 500 delegates, representing 112 countries, will also debate the world political problems of China's admission to the United Nations, world social problems, and the issue of colonialism and the nuclear test ban.

MUN is an effort made by universities throughout the world to demonstrate to the student what the UN is, and what it is attempting to do. The second year contains the last day of the conference, according to President H. R. Albrecht, "to provide a meaningful experience to students, one which can make them ready for life in a world where the international dimension is prominent." Arif Hayat, student advisor to MUN, says it is patterned after the UN. The by-laws of the constitution of MUN require that delegates vote and debate in a manner consistent with their countries' policies. Failure in this will require the forfeit of a delegate's credentials.

Student Poetry Collection Published By Institute

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 16 - The Institute for Regional Studies at North Dakota State University has published a new book of poems by Philip Kienholz, 854

Entitled "The Third Rib Knife," the book contains 17 of Kienholz's poems, several of which have been previously published elsewhere. It is the first Institute publication written by a student.

Dr. Rand, associate professor of English, who is also the author of a new book of poems published by the Institute, describes Kienholz's poems as "somewhat surrealistic, based on his emotional responses to such topics as a world at war, Berkeley and the civil right movement."

The poems, Lyons noted, do not follow the traditional forms of poetry; but, on the other hand, they are not forseen poems.

We can perceive from his work a somewhat absurd view as exhibited in his second poem, "What Else Did You Expect," in which the poet sees a man's death where: "What do you expect from a man's mind?"

How Court Handles Cheaters

Six cases of cheating were re­ported in the College of Agriculture during the 1965-66 school year. These cases were referred to the Honor Case Commission for investigation.

All winners in the cases were found guilty and punished by the commission. The Honor System is a method of student self-government during examinations in the College of Agriculture. It operates on the principle that students are honest and fair.

This system has been in opera­tion for 15 years. Students vote on it every four years.

The current members of the commission are: Alan Butts, Roy Erickson, Michael Anderson, Ken Silha, Brent Aarestad, and Roger Beaver.

Accreditation Report Is Guideline For Growth

The North Dakota Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools' August accreditation report can serve the University as a guide to future development and transition. The accreditation team members were eager to offer new ideas, which had been successfully used at other universities. They had demonstrated their deep concern and proficiency in dealing with the problems of higher education.

Though NDSU received full accreditation, no effort should be made to file the report until several months prior to the next NCA visit. The report, although compiled after a short five day visit to the campus, points out a variety of problems. Reluctance and inability to correct the insufficient conditions and efforts to maintain the excellent conditions are the problems faced after the analysis of a University is made.

The accreditation team was quick to point out that NDSU was not unique and that almost all land-grant colleges have developed despite the problems that NDSU is now facing. One official, in a meeting with students, termed the problems of the University as "growing pains." Efforts to maintain the excellent conditions are the problems faced after the analysis of a University is made.

The accreditation report took direct aim at North Dakota's system of higher education, particularly North Dakota State University. The state supports duplication almost every educational program in the state except that of the trade school and certain professional areas. The elimination of duplicate educational offerings would allow more money for the development of a more efficient system.

The University's weak points are certainly not solved overnight or by an editorial appearing in the Spectrum, but the NCA report will certainly be an aid in efforts to improve this school. A similar report could be found if the University is run as the NCA it would be that they waited 25 years to make this accreditation visit.

Such a visit every three to five years is certainly warranted.

Athletics Are Success

The first polls of the season have yet to be released; but when they are sometime within the next week, the Bison grid machine will undoubtedly be ranked among the nation's finest.

Five years ago the football squad had chalked up an unblemished 0-10 record and the remainder of their teams were not faring much better. But that was five years ago. Today the team has an unrecorded record as well, but this time it is riding the crest of the longest winning streak in college ball. The outlook for the basketball squad is equally bright, not to mention wrestling, track and tennis.

While not everyone, including the Spectrum, has been happy with some of the things that the department has done to achieve this success, all we can do is marvel at the final product. As the rest of the state, and especially NDSU, complimently ignores the passage of time, the Athletic Director and his staff have fought and maneuvered to obtain the resources and finances necessary to build their department.

The athletic staff has not used the shortage of money as an alibi; nor have many staff members resigned because of the poor facilities. To the contrary, the department is thriving under the strong leadership of President Perkins said reduced student enrollment will be a problem for the future, but real ones, which take a little time to solve. Let's give the campus a chance for their daughter to stay at a girlfriend's house. These conditions are not stated on parent permission cards. Parents are led to believe that they assume full responsibility for their daughter when she leaves the campus. This is obviously wrong. The University still wants to hold on to whether she is in the dorm or a friend's or relative's home.

If it is necessary for parents to approve where their daughter signs out to stay, the term should be specifically stated so that both she and her parents know exactly what can or cannot be done when signing out for overnight.

This section is an effort by the Spectrum to present wide ranging opinions in matters affecting the University. Each week different persons will be invited to state their views briefly on matters of general concern. Voluntary material will also be accepted, if in the opinion of the editor of the column it is relevant.

To permit the widest possible range of opinion, the length of the Spectrums, of course, reserve the right to edit in matters of taste and in areas which are covered by the various laws regarding publication. The opinions expressed in these articles are those of their authors and do not reflect either the views of the University or of the editors of the Spectrum.

Jim Glynn, "Speaking Out" editor

Letter to the Editor...

Freshmen Apathy

To The Editor:

There are times when criticism is necessary and good. However, the editorial position criticizing freshmen apathy in the Spectrum's opinion issue was a little premature.

Cornell Has Solved Housing Problem

(IP) Cornell University will maintain the present size of its undergraduate student body during the 1966-67 academic year because of a shortage of adequate student housing and the need for freshman orientation. President A. Perkins said a net enrollment reduction will be a reduction in size of this year's freshman class by 144 students.

This year's Cornell freshman class will contain 2280 students, about 75 fewer than last year. President Perkins said reduced freshman enrollment was consistent with the unusually large freshman class and a consideration in number of students dropping out of school.

The resultant pressure on housing is expected to be further heightened by a recently enacted University regulation requiring that all Cornell students live only in university facilities or university approved housing. As a consequence, additional new living spaces, available this fall, will be insufficient only if present and enrollment levels are not exceeded.

A related factor is the university's continuing effort to improve the quality of undergraduate education. A number of improvements are now being put into effect, others are in the planning stage. The faculty and administration have said they do not wish the size of the undergraduate body to increase until these changes are in effect.
National Defense Loan Funds Are Depleted
But Another Money Program Is Available

Applicants for National Defense student loans will find to their dismay that this University fund is depleted, according to Kaye Tesmer, student financial aid officer.

"Though the National Defense fund is low, students may rely on the Federal Guaranteed Student Loan program, accounted for in the Higher Education Act of 1965," said Tesmer.

This program will allow students to borrow money from their home town bank. The federal government will guarantee payment on these loans; and, if the income of the applicant's parents is less than $15,000 per year, the government will pay all interest on the loan during the student's college years and one-half the interest after the student is graduated and repaying the loan.

Students interested in these loans are urged to apply soon, because of the limited amount of funds. Funds are limited due to the fact that the University is required to deposit $1,000 in reserve for every $10,000 of federal money loaned out, and University reserve funds are running low.

The reason given for depletion of National Defense funds was that government allocations were cut considerably by President Johnson and were then reallocated according to student populations in the various states. North Dakota's allocation was reduced because other states with faster rising student population received a greater share of the fund.

Students interested in these loans are urged to apply soon, because of the limited amount of funds. Funds are limited due to the fact that the University is required to deposit $1,000 in reserve for every $10,000 of federal money loaned out, and University reserve funds are running low.

This year NDSU is operating with $254,138 of National Defense funds; whereas last year $373,000 was available. Also, last year's number of 893 students dependent on National Defense funds has dropped to an estimated 700 students this year.

You don't have to be a genius to work at G.E.

Near genius is okay.

A near genius with drive, stamina and imagination, that is.

And it doesn't really matter what subject you're a near genius in.

General Electric is looking for top scientists — and for top graduates in economics, business, law, accounting and the liberal arts.

Nobody who joins G.E. is going to feel cramped. This is a worldwide company, and it makes over 200,000 different products. So there's plenty of room to feel your strength — and in some of today's most challenging fields: transit design, urban lighting, jet propulsion, computers, electronics, aerospace, you name it.

Challenges like these have raised a new generation of idea men at G.E. If you're good enough to join them, you'll find responsibilities come to you early. Your talents are recognized, your work is rewarded — in money and in opportunity.

This time next year, you could be on your way.

Talk to the man from G.E. next time he visits your campus. And don't be surprised if he's young, too. At General Electric, the young men are important men.
Concert Choir Went From Dancing In Paris To The Pope In Rome

By Kathy Platt, guest writer

Seven countries, 15,000 miles, 12 concerts and review of cathedrals and museums ago, 45 of us, all members of the North Dakota State University Concert Choir, boarded a jet for Paris, France.

Our 28-day tour of Europe was a kaleidoscope of the cultural and the comic, the educational and the entertaining. To me, it was worth a year of college.

Among the varied experiences we could look back on are a 500-step climb to the top of the Colosseum Cathedral, a rock-and-roll dance in a Paris nightclub, and the thrill of viewing Michelangelo's "David" and da Vinci's "Madonna.

The tour, arranged through the Institute of European Studies, a division of the University of Vienna, spotlighted the art and history of Continental Europe. Included on the itinerary were visits to most of the cultural centers found in the centers of Europe, including Paris, Rome, Florence and Berlin.

A couple exploring the Arch of Titus in Rome came upon some cast-away moldings of giant statues. They returned to the hotel with some prize souvenirs. A 12-inch pointer finger and a 5-inch big toe. Disguising the statuary from the glances of curious onlookers was difficult.

Also in Paris, coeds using the subway, or "Metro," for the first time, searched for a stairway underground leading to that transportation and found, to their dismay, a gentleman's public restroom. This led us on our way out in a hurry.

In Florence, two choir members, Dennis Anderson, A54, and Jim Manning Ph4, recognized Robert Culp of TV's "I Spy" series at a sidewalk cafe. Culp invited the pair to his apartment where they met actor Bill Cosby. Culp and his party were in Florence to film segments of their television show. To the envy of their colleagues, the two were delivered to their hotel in a chauffeur-driven limousine.

The high point of our trip, for many choir members, was the audience with Pope Paul VI. In the breathtaking setting of St. Peter's Basilica, the choir performed before 70,000 people. The Pope greeted the choir, presented a medalion to director Robert Godwin and shook hands with several of our members.

In contrast to that solemn occasion, Dave Bateman, who this year attends George Washington University, was the envy of his buddies when, during a visit to a Pigalle (of "Irma la Douce" fame) nightclub, he was persuaded by a Parisian ballydancer to assist with the floor show. To the delight of his friends, he attempted a fair, if Americanized, rendition of the antique dance.

Cocks in the choir found European men to be extremely attentive. In fact, they had a hard time getting rid of them. Strolling down the Champs Elysees, sitting at a sidewalk cafe, riding on the underground, anywhere and all settings found the choir gals besieged by charming Europeans.

In one instance the girls sought the guys when they attended an open air rock-and-roll dance on the banks of the River. The dancing showed only slight changes from the U.S. variety, they reported, and much of the music was familiar and sung in English.

Throughout our travel in France, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, Belgium and West Germany, we were warmly received. We sang to full houses at every concert, the largest audience being at St. Peter's in Rome.

The enthusiastic reception of the audience was reflected in the comments and reviews in the local newspapers. Personal contact with the people themselves following the concerts impressed us greatly. For many, it was the first and probably the last time we would have our autographs requested. Receptions before or after many of the concerts made us feel even more warmly welcomed to each community.

On the serious side of our journey, and perhaps the impression most firmly implanted in our minds, was the journey into East Germany. It was an experience to sit through the 4-hour delay at the first border and observe the close checks on people and vehicles leaving and entering East Germany.

Mirrors gave officials a view underneath every car, truck and bus. All occupants of the vehicles, old women and sleeping infants included, were made to stand outside on the pavement while a thorough check of the interior followed. In some cases the contents of the gas tank were emptied and measured.

The fact that our troupe consisted of about 90 people including the choir, additional NDSU students and affiliates, three Austrian guides and one West German return guide, riding in two buses driven by Italian drivers, may have accounted for some of the delay in our crossing.

The buses were completely searched after we evacuated them, and our passports were checked and rechecked and our passport photos were personally compared with us as we re-entered the buses.

We were greeted upon our initial crossing into East Germany by a sign that read something like this: "Capitalism is death to the world; socialism makes the world bloom." A picture of a skull and crossbones under the word capitalism left no doubt as to the East German's opinion of the U.S. system.

Even more ominous was the wall between the two Berlins. Consisting of regular brick and barbed wire, and in some areas, walled-up buildings, the wall and its accompanying illuminated mine fields and barriers make escape into the Western sector virtually impossible. We were shown bullet holes made by East German guns fired during attempted escapes.

We saw the crosses and wreaths set up on the Western side of the wall marking the deaths of many freedom-seekers. Our tour into East Berlin was limited to two hours and we were allowed to leave the bus only once, at the Russian War Memorial. An East German student was provided as our guide — our regular guide from West Germany was not allowed to cross the border.

In spite of our many adventures, we returned intact Sunday, July 3, to Minneapolis after a one-hour non-stop jet flight from East Berlin in Paris.
Life Abroad Offers Memorable Summer

Before our two month stay in Israel began, we stayed three days in Istanbul, Turkey. There we visited several of the 500 mosques located in the city; we also went to the Topkapi museum. Our two months in Israel consisted of two-three week home stays in two villages and two weeks of traveling throughout the country. Some of the highlights of our trip were stays in Nazareth and Jerusalem, skiing among the coral reefs of the Red Sea, exploring caves along the Dead Sea, surfing along the Mediterranean, and speaking among the coral reefs of the Dead Sea.

Most of our work involved against a possible attack by Arabs. There was barbed wire strung completely around it. It is the goal of the Experiment to ensure friendly relations with the Makliis for eight weeks.

There were 11 brothers and sisters to keep me busy and introduce me to countless Finnish people, customs and sights. I lived with the Mikkola for eight weeks, spent one week in Lapland, northern Finland, and spent a week in Berlin, Germany.

In Finland the longest day of the year—the sun never sets. I arrived just in time for this night of celebration which begins with bonfire, roasting sausage, fireworks, singing, dancing all through the night and ends with a morning swim. It was wonderful!

Lapland with its herds of reindeer, Lapps in their colorful costumes, and charming folk tales was an exciting and rugged place to visit. And it provided a suitable ending to my “inhana” summer in Suomi.

This year the University will again be sending two students abroad on the Experiment program to the country of the student’s choice.

Applications will soon be available at the Memorial Union Information Desk. Why don’t you apply?

Shrine Game Saturday

Aerial Attack Gives Bison 35-6 Win

by Neil Thomas

Bison gridders opened their home game schedule last Saturday night with a convincing 35-6 win over St. Thomas in a non-conference game.

The Bison used a strong passing attack and completely dominated play throughout the game to post their 18th victory in a row. Bison offense to tempted for 199 yards and two touchdowns.

Quarterback Terry Hanson completed 15 of 28 passing attempts for 115 yards and two touchdowns. He directed the Bison offense to 322 total yards.

End Lowell Linderman was on the receiving end of both scoring aerials which went for 11 and 46 yards.

The backfield trio of Ken Roten, Mike Hasbargen and Vance Conner accounted for the other three Bison touchdowns. Roten accounted for the other two point conversion attempt failed.

The Bison defense limited the Tommies to 14 total offensive yards and held them to a minus 52 yards rushing.

This Saturday night the Bison will meet the second of five straight home opponents when they host Morningside in the annual Shrine Game.

Morningfield lost to the Bison last year by a score of 40-0 and finished the season with a 3-3 record, good for fourth place in the North Central Conference.

The Chiefs attack will feature the running of Ken Kacholz, Steve Oih and Denny Tururne, plus the passing of quarterback Herb Larsen who ranked fourth among league passers last year.

Bison Mascot Makes Debut

The new Bison mascot this year is John Franchuk. He succeeds Emil Rodakowski as the Bison who is on the sidelines, the goalposts and everywhere else.

Franchuk is a friend of Rodakowski, who was the first to score for the Bison as he took the ball in after Hanson had hit Lindeman with an 8 yard pass on the 1.

Later in the period, Vance Conner scored on a 21 yard run around the left end. Mike Hasbargen plunged over from the 1 in the fourth period for the final touchdown.

Kicker Ken Blake converted all 5 extra point attempts. His high kickoffs gave Bison defenders time to get downfield to prevent any long runbacks by the Tommie receivers.

The Tommies scored their lone touchdown in the second quarter when an interference call against the Bison gave St. Thomas the ball on the 1 yard line. Knappes scored on the third down but a lateral was fumbled.

All declarers won the third round of spades. Spreading only eight tricks, most declarers now tried to steal the heart trick, leading small toward the king. West was not prepared to take such a trick. He rises with the ace and cashes the setting spade tricks.

Subtle declarers saw the chance to squeeze the ninth trick. West is likely to hold the heart ace and the club honors for his double, they reasoned. They ran six diamond tricks and West is in discard trouble!

West can pitch two hearts and two clubs on the diamonds but he does not have another safe discard. When declarer leads his last diamond, the squeeze materializes with this position:

\begin{array}{c|c|c|c|c|c|c|c|c|c|c}
& \\hline
\text{West} & \text{North} & \text{East} & \text{South} \\
\text{KQ972} & \text{AQ76} & \text{KJ6} & \text{A83} \\
\text{AT5} & \text{A3} & \text{AQK} & \text{AQK} \\
\text{4} & \text{KJ6} & \text{Q65} & \text{Q65} \\
\text{SN21} & \text{SN21} & \text{S} & \text{S} \\
\hline
\end{array}

West, obviously, can't pitch a club or the heart ace. He has to let a spade go. Declarer now leads a heart, setting up his ninth trick. Next: Inappropriate actions cause trouble.

Send your bridge questions to Box 1821, Madison, Wis. 53701, for a personal reply.

NEW BISON MASCOT, John Franchuk, plans his next move at last Saturday's game.

The Bison have opened the 1966 football season with impressive wins over the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and St. Thomas on consecutive weekends. They were impressive wins over two teams who were no match for the Bison. Less impressive, however, were the number of penalties and fumbles which stymied Bison drives and set up opponents’ scores, meaningless as they were.

Last season the Bison thundered to a number one national small college ranking as they rolled over opponents by such scores as 47-7, 52-0, 66-8 and 55-8. But they also had closer games; like an unforgettable 6-3 win over The University of North Dakota, 147 over Montana State, and 137 over St. Thomas. St. Thomas has been disposed of, but Montana State and UND loom large in the path to another undefeated season for the Bison. If it should happen again that these games are to be decided by a touchdown or less, the Bison cannot afford the penalties and fumbles which have crept into their game the past two Saturdays.

The past two games have indicated that a strong aerial game can be used by the Bison, as shown by the fine passing of Terry Hanson. The 6-foot junior signal caller is off to a fine start with three touchdown passes and numerous completions which have set up Bison scores by way of the ground. Hanson’s favorite receiver has been end Lowell Linderman who has caught two of his three touchdown strikes.

Last Saturday Hanson completed 15 of 28 passing attempts for 199 yards; the passing yardage exceeded the rushing yardage by 66 yards. Last season the passing yardage was greater than the rushing yardage in only three of ten regular season games. A strong passing game will give opponents something else to think about, and it prevents the opposition’s defense from keying on the running game too heavily.

Persons who have not had influenza shots within the last two years should take two shots, eight weeks apart. Shots are administered at the Student Health Center at $1 for North Dakota State University students and staff.

Physician's hours at the Health Center are 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. There are no exceptions to these hours. Pharmacy hours coincide with those of the physician.

The Health Center laboratory is open from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Monday through Friday.
