

College Bowl Team Readies For Sunday Appearance

by Tanfield Miller

After falling behind by 20 points in their final practice match, the College Bowl team went on to demonstrate their power by crushing a Spectrum squad 265-25.

The team which leave for New York Friday morning to represent the University on General Electric's College Bowl consists of David Knutson AS 4, Christopher Troseth AS 3, Larry Hendrickson CH 3 and Sharon Thingelstad AS 3. Knutson is the group captain.

Coached by Dr. Catherine Cater the team has readied itself for its first match against Oklahoma University by practicing as much as two hours nightly. It also met several times during the summer to answer sample questions composed by Dr. Cater.

Dr. Cater

Monday night's match took place under simulated conditions in the educational television studio located on Ceres Hall's first floor. The squad met four men from the Spectrum, Joe Satrom, Jim Glynn, Dan Strum and Tanfield Miller.

The Spectrum team was overwhelmed in the first regulation 18 minute period 340-45 and was again mauled in the final 10 minute stint.

"We have worked hard," said Knutson, "and all we want to do is go to New York and win." He went on to add that after viewing their opponents in their previous two victories he feels that they are strong in literature and history but very weak in their knowledge of music.

Oklahoma began the season by defeating the carry-over team from last spring, Drury College, Springfield, Mo. Last week the scholars from Norman, Okla. badly beat four students from the University of Scranton, Scranton, Pa.

Under NBC rules a school can defend its title for up to five weeks when, if it still remains unbeaten, it retires.

The North Dakotans are flying to New York Friday and will stay in the Warwick Hotel in mid-Manhattan, around the corner from the television studio.

A group of alumni in the area will give the students a luncheon plus a tour of the city. Saturday night NBC has reserved them tickets to Edward Albee's "The Delicate Balance."

All expenses for the trip are being covered by the sponsor.

Knudson and company face their opponents Sunday at 2:30 p.m. EDT (replayed at 12:30 p.m. local time on channel six). Immediately following their appearance the team will leave for Kennedy International Airport and return to Fargo.

The four regular members of the squad have been preparing for the Oct. 2 match by practicing against the four alternates since all eight were picked by a faculty committee last spring. During the course of the six month training period the second team has never won.

According to Knudson the second four have given the primary squad some good workouts, sometimes coming within ten points of victory, but once being buried by nearly seven hundred points.

Though the team will be facing a university which is returning for its third time, they have expressed optimism and stated that they feel OU can be beaten.

Dr. Cater also expressed her confidence in the four students. "They have come a long way," she said, "and have worked hard."

In the final practice the team displayed a vast knowledge of a wide number of subjects while demonstrating impressive reflexes. The outcome of the match gave credence to the team's expressed optimism.

No Funds Budgeted

Status Of Sharivar Still In Doubt

by Jim Glynn

Sharivar for 1966-67 has no money because there is no one to prepare a budget according to the standards of the Board of Organizations and Activities.

BOA is a student-faculty committee instituted several years ago by the administration to review student-made budgets for student funds. It has the power to accept, reject or revitalize every budget brought to it.

BOA reviews budgets in the Spring and Summer. The Shari-var chairman is not selected until Fall Quarter. This leaves no one to submit the itemized budget that BOA requires.

Each year a brief Sharivar budget is submitted by the Student Activities Commission of Student Senate. When the chairman of Sharivar is named, he becomes a member of this commission.

This year the four line Sharivar budget was judged incomplete and rejected by BOA.

Bob Challey, commissioner of student activities, told BOA that his group could not produce a more itemized budget because the records of last years Sharivar spending were not yet available nor was this years chairman picked.

Challey next reported to Student Senate, "There is no money for Sharivar and unless there are interested students to revise the program and submit an itemized budget, there won't be any Sharivar as far as my commission is concerned."

Last week the Spectrum ran a headline "Student Senate" "Sharivar Abandoned". This headline raised comment from many quarters about misleading the readers.

Challey mentioned ironically that about 25 students and several instructors had congratulated him on his committees action after the article appeared.

The rejected budget contained the following items: publicity, $1100; special events, $1300; open house, $1300 and general, $300. Total, $4000.

In the past four years Sharivar has been budgeted for on from a three liner for $3102 in 1963-64 to a 9 liner for $4000 in 1965-66.

Theoretically Sharivar will not happen this year until some students act and BOA approves.

The Student Activities Commission meets tonight to review the situation, check Sharivar finances, discuss Sharivar's value and decide their next move.

THE PEP RALLY last Friday found the Rahjhs and a few coeds watching the cheerleaders perform.

Telectures Brought Back Again; Speakers To Be Chosen Soon

Telecture, a series of telephone lectures by prominent persons, will be presented again this year.

Larry Fuglesten, AS 2, of Student Union Activities Board's creative arts committee, telecture's sponsoring group, states "Through the distribution of questionnaires to student organizations on campus, students may list individuals they would like to hear. By bringing in speakers preferred by the students at large, and by more intensified publicity on the lectures, we are anticipating a successful series of lectures."

Questionnaires will be distributed to campus organizations next week. After the results are tabulated, a preference list will be made, and speakers and dates will be announced.

"With this being a political year, students will likely hear a leading political figure in at least one of the lectures," stated Fuglesten.

The cost of each lecture is determined mainly by the amount the speaker charges for approximately one hour of his time.

Last year Pierre Salinger, press aid to John F. Kennedy, charged $300 for his lecture. In comparison, Hugh Hefner, editor of Playboy magazine, would charge $3000 for a one hour period of time, according to Fuglesten.

Telecture will be financed with $1,500 of student activity funds allocated to the creative arts committee.

Seats Scarce For UND Game

by Joe Satrom, Editor in Chief

Reserve seating for the Bison-Sioux football game at Grand Forks Saturday, Oct. 22 is sold out but University of North Dakota Athletic Director Len Marti is optimistic that 2500 general admission seats will be available the day of the game.

Marti explained that presently there are 1000 seats available for general admission sales but they are coordinating a plan whereby 1500 more temporary bleacher seats would be erected. Marti expressed confidence in attaining the extra seating.

The general admission tickets will go on sale for $2 at 11:30 a.m. Oct. 22. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

UND officials mailed 800 reserve tickets to North Dakota State University ticket manager Ronald Corliss. Corliss sold 725, the number of tickets uncommitted two weeks ago.

The Sioux ticket office sold out its reserve tickets last week.

Marti expects to see standing room sales at the contest after the surprising Potato Bowl attendance last Saturday. The Potato Bowl, which the Sioux won over Idaho State 41-0, drew 8000 people. He expects most of the standing room to be taken.

With the possibility of two unbeaten, top-rated teams meeting and the fact that the clash is UND's Homecoming, possibilities are remote that the general admission seats will be readily available.

Homecoming Queen Candidates Chosen

Seven candidates have been chosen to compete for the title of North Dakota State University Homecoming Queen.

Voting by the student body will take place on campus Friday, Oct. 8, and the queen will be crowned at a formal ceremony during the intermission of the Brothers Four Concert, that night at the fieldhouse.

The candidates were selected Thursday by a nominating committee consisting of the student body president, dean of women, a faculty representative, and representatives from Blue Key, Letterman's Club, Rahjahs, AWS, Panhellenic, and IFC.

Vying for the title are Roberta Drake, Sue Hall, Patrice Kiefer, Katherine Platt, Lois Schlicting, Sue Storms and Darlene Vinje.

To qualify as a candidate, a coed must be a senior with a 2.5 or better grade point average, be known to two-thirds of the nominating committee members and rank high among her classmates in terms of personality, appearance, poise and contributions to the university.

Chairman of the queen's committee is Jane Bale HE 3. The candidates:

WHY WE CARRY GANT

There's more than fabric superiority in Gant. In addition, "needled-into the warp and woof of every Gant shirt" — there's flair-fit show — three vital in-herents that make all the difference when a man wears a Gant.

We chose Gant because they take shirt making seriously. They're hard to please (like we are) when it comes to fit of collar, its roll, its profile—how much it shows above the suit collar. They're fastidious about the way the body of the shirt drapes and folds. All must integrate to achieve that viable ingredient which gives comfort and aplomb. In substance, Gant shirts are keyed to the discerning tastes of well-groomed men who appreciate quality. These men are our customers.

Bookstore Charges Tax On Some Items

Tuition and fees for those in-state students who pay their bill by check are down this year: down two cents a quarter. Until this fall any person who made their quarterly payment with a bank draft was charged an extra two cents to cover expenses for handling the check. Now the costs are being written off as administrative overhead. According to Ron Corliss, assistant business manager, the collection of the extra pennies was more of a nuisance than it was worth so it was abandoned.

While students may be saving up to eight cents a year on their tuition, those who regularly shop at the Varsity Mart are giving it back to the state in the form of use tax.

The tax, which amounts to 2¼% is charged on gift and sundry items. It went into effect July 1.

The campus store began to charge the tax after a long hassle with the state. Under law they are exempt from charging it on books and supplies, but the state contended that customers must pay the extra charge on sundry items.

Richard Casper, the manager of the facility, said that they are interpreting the term "supplies" very loosely so that such items as desk lamps and brief cases are tax free.

Collection of the use tax was made necessary when voters killed the tax package, enacted by the last legislature in a referendum 18 months ago.

Semester System Urged

Mid-quarter is swiftly approaching and with it comes the normal battery of exams. Somehow no one seems prepared for either. The collegiate year, to most, is just beginning. The flaws are just now being worked out of the class schedules and class attendance is only now becoming more important than unionizing.

Situation

The complacent attitude which has prevailed for the past two weeks is similar to the mood of the average student at the beginning of each quarter. A similar mood is noticeable following midterms as well as immediately prior to any one of the few short vacations.

The quarter calendar such as employed by this institution contributes to student procrastination by splitting quarters in half with vacations and by having three sets of midterms, finals, registrations and new instructors.

While we feel that there is much to say in defense of the quarter system, we feel that on this campus a semester calendar such as that used by 80% of the nation's colleges would be more conducive to higher education. Since the vast majority of the colleges operate on semesters, this would also permit students to transfer more readily with less loss of credit. In addition, the calendar should be standardized throughout the state to simplify the matriculation between institutions.

The calendar of the current year, like those of the preceding and following years, leaves much to be desired; though not much can be done to improve it within the framework of the quarter system.

Problem

The 10 week instructional period which makes up the heart of the term is too short to study in depth any particular subject. While the system does permit a student to take a broader variety of courses which is beneficial to some of the colleges, one must remember that other colleges are hurt by the shortness of instruction.

By the time a student begins to study seriously he is already into midterm week, and Thanksgiving follows the post mid-term slump. But how can a student enjoy a vacation knowing that when he returns to campus the following Monday, still stuffed with turkey, he has a whole week of finals to conquer.

If the brave student does succeed and remains to face the grueling winter grind he has the attitude of, "Well, there are only ten days until Christmas so why work?" And he does not.

But alas, he returns from the merry holidays only to find himself buried in snow and work with mid-terms nearly upon him once again.

If the student again fails to fail he once again does not have a vacation upon the completion of finals but must wait several weeks until Easter. Again his quarter is neatly divided.

Winter is a period that is trying to even the stoutest person and no collegian looks with relish upon finishing tests only to begin classes 72 hours later.

A quarter break would be no good either, for it has been tried. The trouble lies in Easter and the desire for a holiday at that time. Obviously one cannot have both breaks.

The calendar as a whole can not be shifted, because students who have more time off during the academic season must remain on campus longer and the later school adjourns for the year the more difficult it is to find summer employment. Nor can the length of quarters be altered, for a twelve week Fall and an eight week Spring is not feasible.

Solution

What then is the solution? SEMESTERS. A semester that runs from Labor day through finals immediately preceding the Christmas holidays. Then, after a leisurely month's vacation until mid-January, let the students and faculty return for another fifteen weeks which would terminate in mid-May with four days at Easter, whenever that may fall.

Such a year has many inherent advantages. The student is out early and has a long summer not to mention a spacious Christmas. The populace is appeased by a short Easter break that does not cut into the minimum required days of instruction. The terms are not chopped in two prior to mid-terms or finals nor does Christmas interrupt a quarter.

Not only would students enjoy one less set of tests and one less time to wade through the cumbersome registration process but the administration and faculty would profit as well.

They too would only have to handle grades twice, they too would only have to make up two class schedules and they too would only have to suffer the plague of registration twice. Bookkeeping would be cut and upgrading of transcripts would occur less often.

Semesters truly seem to be the answer to the many problems presented by the current quarter system.

Reader Calls Speakers Socialists

To the Editor,

It appears that the persons responsible for choosing the speakers for orientation week are being rather narrow-minded. For three years they have chosen socialists.

First there was Ashley Montagu, a member of the cultural anthropology school which has ruled out heredity completely in favor of cultural environment as the determining factor in human behavior.

Next came Max Lerner, who has been very active in both socialist and communist fronts.

Then this year they chose Robert Hutchins, president of the Fund for the Republic. The Reece Committee which investigated this organization felt that it had been formed for the specific purpose of attacking our internal security system and anti-communists.

Although I disagree wholeheartedly with all three of these men, I would not quarrel with the right of any of them to speak at our University. But since the students, faculty, alumni and the taxpayers who support this institution (all of whom the school is supposed to represent) aren't all socialists, it seems that they could have the courtesy to deviate from their narrow path occasionally.

It also seems that those socialists and communists who are continually clamoring for their right to speak at educational institutions should rip off their masks and show their true faces. As I recall, Ashley Montagu was billed as an anthropologist; Lerner, an American historian; and Hutchins, as the Chancellor of the University of Chicago. Thus few students are even aware of their true socialist character.

Seldom will a socialist announce to an audience that he is a socialist and that he intends to convince them of the virtues of his philosophy. Certainly such deception and hypocrisy are incompatible with so noble a cause as academic freedom. And certainly no educational institution should feel obliged to allow this deception to be practiced in its name or to be a cover for hypocrites by picking out only their appealing characteristics when announcing them as speakers.

It would certainly be a gracious move on the part of those responsible if they would even the score somewhat next year by choosing a William Buckley, Taylor Caldwell, Clarence Manion or some other conservative.

Error Is Pointed Out

To the Editor:

Your report of the publication of Phil Kienholz's poems by the North Dakota Institute for Regional Studies is exciting news. Contrary to your story, however, it is not "the first institute publication written by a student."

In 1953, the Institute published "Waterfowl of North Dakota" by Paul A. Johnsgard while Paul was a senior zoology major. This pamphlet which contained drawings of all the waterfowl found in North Dakota as well as keys aiding in their identification, was among the earliest of a series of scholarly publication by Dr. Johnsgard.

Last year his book, "Handbook of Waterfowl Behavior," was published by Cornell University Press. He is presently Professor of Zoology at University of Nebraska.

Writer Defines Term "Black Power"; Says It Must Be Better Understood

To the Editor:

The phrase "Black Power" as it appears in the mass media is becoming one of fear. It is used interchangeably with "black nationalism," "black supremacy" and "reverse racism."

Actually, "Black Power" represents the height in racial consciousness. The idea, according to the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee's Stokely Carmichael, is to get Negroes thinking politically. In this end they are moving into the arena of independent politics and block voting to win elections.

This is nothing new in the American political scene. Ethnic and minority groups (Jews, Irish, Catholics, etc.) have previously all done it. They realized that a collective effort was necessary to force a change.

Charmichael is proving that the Negroes can and will help themselves. The same white people who formerly screamed that the Negro should do this are now screaming quite the opposite.

Yet, the whites cannot understand why the Negroes will riot. I had one middle-aged lady explain to me it was because they had "forgot their upbringing." What could I say?

Through fortunate, I suppose, circumstances, America has become a wealthy country. However, the Negroes have no strong vested interests in this system.

They would love to have an equal opportunity to share in that wealth, and if they "cannot enjoy part of that dream, they're going to burn the country down."

We've seen that this is no idle threat.

Yet Negroes are required to obey the same laws as the whites. Now they are asking themselves why they should obey the laws to maintain a system which suppresses their equality. As a result again you hear the words screaming "Burn, Baby, Burn!" They have nothing to protect.

There are some Negroes too poor to even get into public housing. To these people there are few laws.

It is important that "Black Power" and the whole movement be not feared, but understood, because if it isn't, there will be few conciliations. And it would be sad to see America take on a new "witch".

Our Mailbag Runneth Over Students Lack Spirit

To the Editor:

Saturday night, Sept. 17, our football team played their first home game, and I have never seen a more disappointing display of "school spirit" in my life. We, the students of North Dakota State University have a football team to be proud of, so why don't we support it? We can only be spectators, but even so we can offer our team a lot of moral support. I firmly believe that the players and the spectators can communicate with one another during the playing of the game.

The players will be fired up only if the spectators are, and they will react accordingly. I refuse to believe that the players cannot hear every person in the stands cheering for them and supporting them. I believe that the exuberance of the crowd contacts every player.

Many people will say that we are no longer in high school; but with college and so called "maturity" do we have to lose the spirit that we had in high school? What's so immature, childish or embarrassing about yelling our hearts out at a sport event? I see nothing childish about letting our team know that we are behind them all the way.

One thing that nauseates me is the fact that coeds do not add to the display of spirit at the games. I see nothing unladylike about college women joining in with the cheers and yells. If nothing else it serves as a good outlet for the emotions.

Why do coeds have to feel embarrassed by showing their team that they are supporting them as well as the men? Something that I think has a lot to do with this is, why do coeds have to have dates to go to a football game? Women have just as much right to support their teams as any one else, whether with a date, or "stag".

My other gripe is this: Aren't we supposed to have an organization whose job it is to promote school spirit? The Rahjah's didn't do much promoting Saturday night. At least not of school spirits. The cheerleaders tried, but they can't do it alone. They are called "cheer leaders" so why can't we help them and follow?

Yes, we're number one now, but if we don't display our enthusiasm and pride in our team, we won't remain so for long. Those men are working hard for us, so why don't we repay them by at least supporting them?

As a friend of mine says, "let's have a lot more fire and a little less smoke." Let's get rid of the "Big A" (apathy) on this campus, and let's start by supporting our tremendous football team. Remember, "You don't know what you've got until you lose it." Peggy Jones, AS 2

By Zoology Department Death Prompts Study of Skunk Bites

The report of the death of a South Dakota youth caused by skunk bite in July has initiated an intensified research program that involves the North Dakota State University Veterinary and Zoology Departments. This cooperative study correlates field work with lab disease information.

The zoology project in regard to field study is headed by Prof. Jack Gross. The veterinary project is headed by Dr. Myron An-draws. Lee Upham, AS 6, collected the skunks.

Gross's study is dealing with the analysis of density and dispersion of skunks in this local area.

The veterinary department is furthering the study of the round worm parasite which is found in the brain of skunks. This department was the discoverer of the parasite.

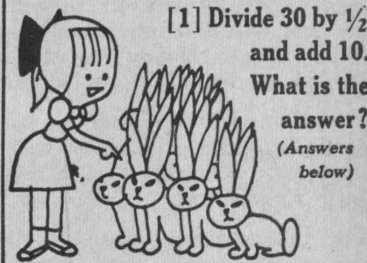

Behavior patterns in the correlation with rabies are not positive, according to Dr. Andrews. Through his department's investigations, removal of these animals will not eliminate rabies. Animals with strange behavior habits are not all necessarily rabid.

In cooperation with this study, two other institutions are involved in research; the Virus Research Laboratory, Hamilton, N. Y., and Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

Folk Singer Slated to Appear Monday

Guy Carawan, singer of hoe-downs, sea island folk tales, spirituals and Southern freedom songs, will appear in Festival Hall Monday evening, Oct. 3, at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of the University YMCA and the Religious Foundations on campus.

Carawan has sung in more than 150 colleges and universities. He had recorded for Prestige and Folkway labels and has published a book of folk songs with another due for publication this year.

While at the North Dakota State University campus he will meet with members of the various religious foundations on Sunday evening, Oct. 2. He will sing and talk with music majors in Dr. Lebet's Monday morning class in musical theory at 11:30.

Carawan will also make an informal appearance Monday at 2 p.m. in the Y Lounge, Room 206, South Engineering.

In 1965 Carawan was invited to sing before the Alaska Festival of Music held in Anchorage.

The reviewer for the Daily News of Anchorage had this to say about his concert: "The festival invitation to Guy Carawan was a happy inspiration. We cannot remember enjoying any program of folk music as much as this one."

Tickets for the Festival Hall concert are obtainable for $.50 at the Union Information Desk, the YMCA, Lutheran Student Center, Newman Center, Wesley Foundation and U.C.C.F., as well as at the door.

Commendation Medal

ROTC staff member is given honor

An Army commendation medal will be presented to Sgt. 1st Class Theodore W. Beach on Oct. 7 by President H. R. Albrecht. The presentation will take place at a ROTC formation near the Fieldhouse.

Sgt. Beach will receive the medal in recognition of meritorious services performed in the establishment and organization of administrative procedures in data specifications while serving with the department of the Chiefs of Staff, Headquarters 7th U.S. Army, Germany. He served with this department from July 1, 1965 to July 7, 1966.

Beach is an enlisted instructor teaching military science. He joined North Dakota State University's division Aug. 6, 1966.

Previous to his tour in Germany, he was an instructor at the University of Kansas. A veteran of 18 1/2 years, he has been in Europe three different times. He is originally from Illinois.

Another new member of the Army ROTC Department is Capt. John A. Yauch. He will instruct classes in military intelligence and counter insurgency plus serving as a freshmen advisor.

Beach

Yauch just returned from duty in Viet Nam. While in Viet Nam, he served the 19th Engineers Battalion (combat) Army. His primary responsibility was to build a divided perimeter road for the Korean Tiger Division in that area.

He spent four months building the eight mile stretch of road and a similar eight mile stretch of road improvement. During this time he worked directly with the Koreans.

Before his tour in Viet Nam, Yauch was with the 19th Engineers Battalion (combat) at Fort Meade, Md. He is a 1957 graduate of Purdue University and received his bachelor's degree in administration.

Foreign Films Featured

SUAB Sponsors Sunday Night Flicks

The Student Union Activities Board Cinema 66-67 program is featuring films from seven foreign countries. The countries represented are: India, Japan, Italy, England, Russia, Sweden, and France. Interspersed with the foreign product will also be a few American entries.

It may be surprising to learn that India leads all other countries in producing the most films per year. Japan comes in second and third place is left to the United States.

Highlighting this year's Cinema program are three Indian movies, "Pather Panchali," "Aparajito" and "The World of Apu." Japanese films on the program include "Throne of Blood," "I Live in Fear" and a story of the "Children of Hiroshima."

Some of the other world famous motion pictures to be shown throughout the school year include the controversial Italian portrayal of "Two Women," D. W. Griffith's Swedish "Look Through a Glass Darkly," and the British movie "The Key."

The Cinema 66-67 films were selected by a committee that included George Schmidt, Richard Catullo, and Dennis Redman. Showings are scheduled each Sunday evening at 7:30 in the Student Union ballroom.

Admission is 50c. This Sunday's (Oct. 2) feature is the first of the Indian trilogy, "Pather Panchali," which means "Song of the Road."

Little Country Theatre Will Pick Cast for Opening Play

A new play, "And People All Around," has been chosen to open the fall season of dramatic production at the Little Country Theatre.

To be presented Oct. 19-22, the play was written by George Sklar and is based on an incident in the civil rights movement. Frederick G. Walsh, chairman of the department of speech and drama, will direct.

"And People All Around," will be the second play to be presented at North Dakota State University under the American Playwrights Theatre group. APT is an organization of more than 100 non-profit community and university theatres, which selects a new play for production each year. Members of APT have exclusive production rights to the play for one year.

This year's play is based loosely on an incident in which three civil rights workers were killed. It has been described as "... an incendiary play, fast moving, hard hitting and sometimes brutal."

The cast for "And People All Around" will be announced in next week's Spectrum.

THE ONLY COMPLETED new building on campus is the west entrance to Minard Hall. The entry way features a concrete walk leading to it. The hallway connecting the addition cuts through what used to be the Men's room in the basement of the Minard Hall.

At Full Cost Camp-Out At Weible Is Bargain Basement Housing

by Sandi Scheel

Noisy pipes, doors without locks and stuffy, windowless rooms are some of the problems faced by the women camping in Weible Hall's lounges and basement recreation rooms.

The students are surrounded by clothes racks jammed with dresses, coats, skirts and blouses. Partially-filled suitcases clutter the floors.

These women, who are paying for a regular room, must camp in out-of-the-way corners or at the end of gloomy basement halls.

In one room there are ten women trying to sleep and study. Many students must walk to the opposite end of the campus and use the library facilities for study.

Until recently the women had to sleep in bunk beds. A few still do. With the movement of some women to Burgum and other halls, most of the bunks have been taken apart.

Lack of privacy and space are the two major problems the women in Weible Hall's temporary housing areas face. The women staying in basement recreation rooms also feel the lack of bath facilities.

Leftover furniture and exposed pipes are a part of the hardships the women endure. Portable fans run continuously and noisily to provide circulation.

The life in temporary housing has been compared by one freshman to camping out. This camp life, though, cannot be continued forever.

A BROKEN WATER MAIN outside the Union tied up traffic and curtailed the use of water in that building for the better part of last week. Workmen above are pumping mud from around the pipes prior to repairing them.

G.E.?

Does water pollution bug you? Or smog? Does it concern you that some places in the country never have enough teachers? Or nurses? And when you read about the growing pains of a developing nation, do you wish you could do something?

You can. Thousands of General Electric people are helping to solve the problems of a growing, changing world.

Generating more (and cheaper) electricity with nuclear reactors. Controlling smog in our cities and pollution in our streams. Using electronics to bring the teaching skills of an expert into many classrooms at once, the trained eyes of a nurse into many hospital rooms at once.

If you're not content with the world as it is . . . and if you have the brains, imagination and drive to help build a better one, we'd like to talk to you.

Bison Finish Fifth at Cross-Country Meet

The University of South Dakota's Dave Heffern repeated as the individual winner at the "all-comers" cross-country meet held at Brookings, S. D., Saturday, Sept. 24. Yankton College edged out North Central Conference defending champion South Dakota State for team honors, followed by Northern State College and University of South Dakota.

North Dakota State University, with team captain Brian MacLaren finishing fifth over the four mile course, ranked fifth in team totals. NDSU was followed by the University of North Dakota. Southern State, Westmar and Huron College.

The other top placers for coach Roger Grooters' NDSU team were, in order of finish: Bill Haugen, Roger Olson, John Haskins, Jim Svobodny, Jerry Rafferty and Bob Reiten. Freshman Neil Graf also competed for the harriers.

This Saturday the Bison travel to Bemidji, Minn., for the Bemidji Invitational meet.

The lesson today is obvious—Silence can be golden! Note also the terms we casually toss out: "Blackwood response, ruff, strip, and unblocking." You'll need to be familiar with these and many, many more in intercollegiate competition.

East was punished for his unnecessary double in round three of today's bidding.

North's 3D response shows a five card suit and denies a four card major. South decides to play in 6D if the partnership holds all the aces or to stop at 5NT if one ace is missing. East's double of the ace-showing Blackwood response provides the key to making the hand.

Now suspecting the spade situation, declarer rises with the ace at trick one. Two rounds of trump are followed by the king, ace and a club ruff. A small spade lead, won by the king, leaves East helpless!

If East leads a small spade, declarer wins the 10 and discards a heart; if he leads the jack, declarer's 10 is established. (East actually led a small heart to the jack and king. The heart queen exit is better, making declarer guess the jack.)

Declarer now runs the remaining trump, squeezing East in spades and hearts.

Normal play, without the double and spade opening lead, is to strip clubs and try to end play East with the last heart. East can avoid this by unblocking the heart queen and the hand is set one.

Bison Turn Back Morningside 28-14

by Neil Thomas
The undefeated, number one Bison picked up their 19th straight victory Saturday night as they put down an aroused Morningside team 28-14.

The victory moved the Bison to an early lead in the North Central Conference standings as all other NCC teams played non-conference opponents, including South Dakota State University who the Bison play this weekend.

The South Dakotans played host to Colorado State University and came out on the short end of a 45-14 score.

The Bison scored three times in the second quarter on a one-yard run by Mike Hasbargen and two touchdown passes from quarterback Terry Hanson to Ken Rota and Lowell Linderman.

Ken Blazie booted all three conversions and the Bison took a 21-0 lead to the locker room at halftime.

After a scoreless third period Morningside scored when quarterback Don Zeleznak flipped a 39 yard scoring pass to Mike Sharrock to cut the Bison lead to 21-7. Zeleznak had been bombing the Bison secondary all night completing 16 of 32 passing attempts.

Morningside scored again later in the quarter when Tom Flynn ran back an interception 46 yards for a touchdown.

The Bison came back in the final three minutes of the game when Ken Rota scored from the five yard line to give the Bison the final 28-14 count.

The Bison defense was without the services of middle guard Bob Ercolani and middle line-backer Mike Ahneman.

Vance Conner, Lowell Linderman and Rudy Baranko were injured during the game but will probably be ready for this week's game. Ercolani and Ahneman are slated to start Saturday night. "I thought we did a good job," commented Coach Ron Erhardt. "We thought we played a good game. They were picked third in the conference and were a good football team," he added.

The South Dakota State Jack-rabbits will bring a young team to Fargo to face the Bison this Saturday. Of the 40 players on the squad 21 are sophomores.

SDSU will go with Tom Anderson at quarterback, who is filling the shoes of graduated Little All-American Ron Meyer. More emphasis will probably be put on the running game.

Game time is 7:30 at Dacotah Field.

Intramural Results

The first week of intramural touch football is completed and the following scores of last week's action were released at the intramural meeting held Monday:

In bracket number one YMCA edged ATO (1) 14-6, Sigma Chi beat Theta Chi (2) 8-0 and Coop tipped Churchill 6-0.

In bracket number two the married students edged ASCE 6-0, AGR beat Theta Chi by three yards in overtime and SAE bombed Reed (1) 36-0.

In bracket number three Wesley Foundation forfeited to Stockbridge (1), Sigma Nu beat TKE (2) by 6-0 and Reed (3) forfeited to Kappa Psi.

In bracket number four Reed (4) forfeited to SAE (2), ATO (2) edged Stockbridge (2) by eight yards in overtime and Reed (2) tipped Johnson by 6-0.

What is the matter with the Bison? All they did last Saturday was stay undefeated by beating Morningside for their 19th straight victory, roll up 350 total-yards, score four touchdowns and hold Morningside to 11 yards rushing.

Something must be wrong with them! Apparently that wasn't good enough, for most fans. It has gotten to the point now that if the Bison don't go out and bury every opponent by 40 or 50 points, they haven't played a good game.

Four years ago a victory by a single point would have been a welcome occurrence.

Last season the Bison downed ten straight opponents on their way to a number one national small college ranking. But during the course of the season they had to come from behind to win three games — against State College of Iowa, the University of North Dakota and Montana State.

Maybe the fans are not content with just a victory. They expect the team to score every time they have the ball.

We are probably stronger than last year but other teams are stronger, too. In addition we are out to defeat three opponents every week — the other team, our undefeated string and our national ranking.

If we would drop a place or two in the rankings, it would take a considerable amount of pressure from the players and coaching staff. Every team is out to look good against the number one team.

The Bison have a rough schedule before them, meeting three teams who are ranked nationally in the small college poll, namely Montana State, UND and San Diego State. To get through undefeated would deserve a number one ranking to say the least.

Let's just hope that we can beat these teams no matter what the final score is.

Andrews Tells Republicans Proven Education Programs Merit Funds

"Couldn't federal funds be used to greater advantage in existing, proven programs, such as the school lunch program and loans to college students, rather than unproven programs like the Job Corps?" asked Congressman Mark Andrews during his appearance at the Young Republican meeting last Thursday.

"It takes a maximum of $17,000 to educate one Job Corps student and return him producing to the economy," he stated, "while a $1,000 loan per year could keep a college student in school another year."

On Viet Nam, Andrews suggested blocking the port of Haiphong and preventing the supplies from entering the country rather than sending a $4 million plane 80 feet above ground to blow up a truck conveyer.

He mentioned that Republicans, more than Democrats, have been supporting President Johnson in Viet Nam.

After his opening remarks, Andrews asked for questions; one was "Why get involved in politics?"

He answered, "Everybody is involved in politics whether or not he likes it because of our form of government. You might as well get actively involved and work for the type of government in which you believe," he concluded.

Space Photos To Be Shown

Two years ago a jury of prominent photographers went through the finest pictures that had been taken of the United States ventures into space. Their selection of more than 100 shots, most of them in color, will be shown Nov. 7-20 at Hultz Lounge in the Memorial Union.

"Photography from Five Years in Space," is the title of the exhibit which is on loan from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to the Student Union Activities Board. The pictures cover the highlights of the U.S. space programs, manned flight, space science and applications and advanced research and technology.

The photographs were put together by a select group of photographers from "Life", "National Geographic", "New York Times" and NASA.

The exhibit, to which NASA periodically adds some of their more outstanding shots made since the original five year span, has been seen at over 200 universities, colleges, museums and public libraries.
