Poll Results And Regulation Changes Are Discussed

The Associated Collegiate Press announced Thursday that the Spectrum was selected as "All American, one of the best collegiate papers in its field." The results came from the ACP's critical evaluation service.

Upon receiving word of the paper's selection Joe Satrom, Editor-in-Chief, stated that he was pleased with the results. "It is the third time in this paper's history that it has received the award and as far as I am concerned my staff earned it."

"We have taken many unpopular stands," he continued, "but it is reassuring to know that while we were hammering away at various aspects of campus life our product was still technically well done."

Managing Editor Tanfield Miller was particularly pleased with the outcome. "I have received many compliments and much hard work from the column since it began but at least the reviewers liked it. They wrote that 'it had a lot of meat and rated the section as a whole a superior.'"

The Spectrum was named top in the class of weekly publications with a circulation of more than 4000. The paper is rated twice yearly by professors of journalism at member schools of the ACP.

Each paper collects its issues and sends them to the service for evaluation at the end of each semester. The papers are then dissected and rated on make up, photography and style, as well as content and technical production. In order to receive an All-American award the paper must receive a score of 2700 points, the equivalent of an excellent rating in each of the many categories.

"We received superior ratings (the highest possible in photography, editorial and front page make up and content)," said Satrom, "our weakest spot was sports writing. The men who critiqued the paper said that we did cover sports news well enough the quality of writing fell down badly.

"Sports, Satrom continued, are difficult to cover in a weekly since most of the news occurs on weekends."

"Luckily," concluded the re-tiring top editor, "bonuses in photography and editorials put us over the top." According to Douglas Veitch AS 3, the event is to be, "One of the greatest yet presented."

Veitch, a Cadet First Sergeant in the Army ROTC program, is chairman of the effort which is being pressed by the student branches of Arnold Air So- cieties throughout the nation of the United States Army.

Veitch commented that an added attraction will be the appearance of "Baron Von Reichthofen," a character in the Snooky cartoons strip.

It has been many years since students, a few of them, began to realize the stupidity of a good many of the campus regulations. It then took many more years for students to convince themselves that these rules could be changed, and several more quarters to do something, but at long, long last, after many polls and much discussion, the first in what is hoped will be a continual evolution in campus regulations.

LOOKING BACKWARD

While you are preparing yourselves for more responsibility, it is a shame that the athletic department or whoever is responsible for the IM score board does not do what is expected of it. It is great to know which team won what, but threequarters of school have passed, along with many seasons of sport, and the victors on the fields still remain overshadowed by their predecessors.

NO MERIT BADGES

The four-pointers remain behind time as well, thanks largely to the fine efforts of the overgrown boys scouts. It seems that the glass case in the library is always at least one quarter behind time; and though the same names appear regularly, those people should be recognized before they die of old age.

Nazi Speaker’s Challenge Is Answered

George Lincoln Rockwell will deliver a lecture today at 3:45 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. This lecture is in conjunction with the Civil Rights Day and will present an unconventional view of civil rights.

Rockwell is the Commander of the American Nazi Party and will "debate anyone with enough guts to face me." Rockwell’s main subject matter is Viet Nam, white rights.

While the edifice itself and most books are hard to burn, any one of the thousands of cigarettes puffed away each day could easily destroy several hundred students.

He supports the American milli-supremacy, the Zionist conspirators, a few thousands butts and a little spontaneous combustion for fun, and the food service would be serving fried meat for the next century or so.

Exactly who is at fault for this potential barbeque is hard to determine. Maintenance had to fight for years to get sufficient protection for Ceres and it came only after the state was given an edict to install either sprinklers or a new hall. But recent records show no attempts to get the necessary funds to obtain minimal fire protection.

SOLD TO DEATH

The one irony of the whole affair is every hour of the day a barb shell bell sounds off in the none-too-quiet library disturbing students and scaring many. But the one bell that could keep them from getting scared to death is missing.

FILL YOUR OWN SEATS

Graduate Work Stressed In Home Ec. Department

Growing demand for Home Economics majors with master's degrees has prompted the College and University Section of the North Dakota Home Economies Association to stress the importance of graduate work in the field, according to a committee of educators.

Those who earn master's degrees in home economics can expect North Dakota starting salaries from $700 to $3,000 higher than bachelor degree graduates, according to Josephine Reud, chairman of home economics education at North Dakota State University. Dr. Reud is chairman of a committee on graduate education for the association.

"The dean of the College of Home Economics this year alone has received 28 more requests for graduates with master's degrees than she can fill," said Dr. Reud in reporting the requests made to Dr. Caroline Budewig, Dean of the College of Home Economics at NDSU. "The requirement for increased competence for state extension specialists make a master's degree in home economics a necessary qualification for those positions."

The present low supply of students with graduate degrees here in North Dakota has been traced to the increasing demand from larger high schools for teachers with master's degrees, the committee reports.

Those interested in graduate home economics programs are encouraged by the committee to write the dean of home economics at the college of their choice.

America Must End War
With Military Settlement

Protest against the war in Viet Nam has been heard in this country since the onset of the conflict half a decade ago. It has only come in spurts, though, in this area and currently we are enduring two such.

The writers who have contributed to these editorial pages recently speak of history, naivety and legalities but their thoughts as expressed in their writing show that they are interpreting the field of thought only to make their points. They are not examining the conflict in an over-all view nor are they being realistic in their argument.

The war, though it still remains undeclared, is legal under the precepts of international law. Our forces were invited to that nation by a freely elected ruler and have remained there by request of succeeding governments. The recently elected assembly, a civilian-elected body, has also not seen fit to question American intervention.

The recent court decision forbidding the drafting of protestors was attempts to silence protestors are ridiculous as well as undemocratic. We must agree with Mr. Aarsted as well that the administration’s politics and are therefore probably not in the best interests of the nation. While local opponents of present policy quote Voltaire and contemporary pacifists they have overlooked Lenin, Stalin, Khrushchev and most important, Mao. These men are concerned with the present real possibilities of conquering the world for their own personal reasons.

History shows that so far they have been successful. Russia re­neged on many treaties after the Second World War and it now has established dictatorships over much of Eastern Europe. Mao’s Communist forces have driven freedom out of China, captured North Viet Nam and waged war in Laos, Korea and now Thailand.

Russia has demonstrated in these cases that they can not be trusted to abide by the accords of negotiated settlement. More recently China has demonstrated similar tendencies. At a time when the United States has begun to live up to the terms of new treaties Mao’s forces have broken every aspect of the Geneva settlement to the Indo-China war in 1954.

Thailand is a perfect case. Here is a free nation, and by Asian standards, a prosperous one. But North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces have been operations in the northern part of the country. They have used a popular uprising since the troops are not citizens of that nation. Is it not our responsibility to protect this nation if called upon to do so? Furthermore, are not the resources of those nations needed on the free market and are not some of them vital to the American economy and defense? If this be the case, is not war necessary if the Chinese directed forces wish it to be so?

If we were to pull out of the current conflict, what nations would trust us for their defense? Would not the tenous Geneva Accord of 1954 collapse, and would not the rest of Southeast Asia slowly fall to communist tyranny?

It is therefore necessary to fight and die in Viet Nam until China and Russia are convinced of the necessity of fighting to protect its allies. Mao has nothing to lose except face by waging war and until we defeat his forces in the field he shall not lose the thing he can least afford to give up.

While war in that area is a necessary evil of current world politics we must concede that President Johnson’s Viet Nam policies concerning various aspects of the war have been more of party and personal politics and are therefore probably not in the best interests of the nation.

We must agree with Mr. Aarsted as well that the administration’s attempts to silence protestors are ridiculous as well as undemocratic. To a parent, the decision forbidding the drafting of protestors was a start to correct these problems.

The members of UCLA acted in a very immature way, stooping to the level of those they were investigating, but hopefully they shall not consider the matter further.

While therefore aspects of the Viet Nam problem are being handled in a questionable manner, once the whole situation is realistically studied, keeping in mind American security as well as its overseas commitments, the only conclusion that can be reached is that a military settlement of the war is necessary.

Writer Heaps Praise on Aarestad

To The Editor:

How refreshing to notice some original thought in the normally tepid pages of the Spectrum. I refer, of course, to Wayne Aare­stad’s “Speaking Out” column on the Viet Nam War in the Febru­ary 22 issue of the paper.

Not only was the article con­vincing, it also forcefully brought home the ut­terly crass disregard for the rights to self-determination that exists today in United States states, students should be exposed to the facts, it seems, is one of scream­ing “freedom” while thoroughly ignoring anyone else’s rights to the same ideal.

While I am not naive enough to believe that the nationalists who are supporting this stupid and useless waste of human life will heed the call to reason stated in the article, I do think that the day is approaching when the Am­ericans people will see this war for exactly the repression of Viet­namese freedom that it is.

While observing our govern­ment’s propaganda about the necessity of the United States’ presence in Viet Nam, it would seem an innate contradiction to the life and well-being of a large portion of the American people.

As American military superiority has been unable to subdue this popu­lar revolution, or to defeat the National Liberation Front, so a revolt could not have taken place if it did not have the support of the people. The United States should be living up to its promises which require the use of American forces to force their total submission.

I expect Mr. Aarestad’s article to draw adverse comment from some of the myriads of emotionalists who wave the flag and scream “freedom and democracy” at anyone who does not agree with them. However, I do not expect any logical arguments put forth.

Congratulations to Mr. Aarestad for his timely and tightly written article.

Nazis Should Have Limited Rights

To The Editor:

I was profoundly shocked when informed that George Lincoln Rockwell has been invited to North Dakota State University. In Rockwell’s case I cannot agree with those who argue that the minds, especially those of college students need to be exposed to various ideas so they would be able to judge for themselves the merit of those ideas.

I consider Rockwell a most dis­torted and mad individual and not only should he not be allow­ed to speak in public, but he should be locked away either for treatment or as an enemy of the people. I have seen Rockwell on Canadian television and he arouses me in feel­ings of anger and revulsion.

A man who considers Hitler as his God cannot be allowed free­dom to speak - let alone speak freely in pub­lic. I don’t believe I have to re­mind everyone of the horrors of World War II. Rockwell profess­es the same ideas and actions that Hitler took. Had Hitler been alive, I believe, you would not let him speak at NDSU.

I think that the philosophy of “Freedom of Speech” can be car­ried too far and so it has been when Rockwell is free to speak. The Nazi aim is to liquidate whole races of people as well as being anti-Christian. I cannot congres­hend how freedom of speech can be allowed to potential murder­ers. The law does not allow threats on the President of the United States; then why should Rockwell be allowed to threaten the United States; or to defeat the NLF, but it will never be just to allow the myriads of emotionalists who wave the flag and scream “freedom and democracy” at the Nazi Party to do this.

If action to stop Rockwell and his Nazi goons is to await the carrying out of his threats then it would be too late and we would have failed miserably and fatal­ly. I think it is safe to assume that we know already what the Nazis are capable of. Freedom of speech is not freedom to shout fire in a theater when there is no fire. Nor, I think, freedom of speech is to allow Rockwell to accuse a racial group of the National conspiracy, un-American activities and other most nuis­ances and dangerous accusations.

I for one would, if I could, add the part of my tuition for supporting student activities that Rockwell will be allowed to appear at NDSU. I cannot see my money, even if it be petty, help the Fuhrer of the American Nazi Party to my Institute of learning.

The first paragraph of the United States Constitution states, “We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, etc.” Rockwell and his kind only insure fermentation of thoughts such as violence, prejudice and murder. I hope others will agree with my protest and will not make the mistake of allowing the Nazi to proselytize freely on public platforms.

The Great Society is my shepherd, I shall not work, it allowed me to lie down on a feathered bed. It leadeth me beside regulated factories. It destroyeth my ambition. It leadeth me along goldbrick paths for politics sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of inflation and deficit spending, I shall fear no evil, for the welfare agencies are with me. Their generosity and their staff, they comfort me. They prepare the requisitions that filleth my table by mortgaging the earnings of my grandchildren. My head is filled with mirth and my cup runneth over without effort. Surely the taxpayers shall care for me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the house of a parasite forever.

Easter vacation begins at close of classes
Speech Therapy Majors Receive Training

By Kathy Platt

Service to the Fargo-Moorhead community is combined with on-the-job training for students in the expanding speech therapy department at North Dakota State University. Upper-classmen under faculty supervision work with patients and clients from the Fargo Clinic, Fargo Opportunity School, St. Luke's Hospital, Dakota Hospital, the Veterans Hospital and a number of schools in the area. Physicians request the assistance of the speech therapy department.

The type of training is invaluable to students planning a career in speech therapy and also beneficial to the community. Competent on-the-job training, and opportunities provided by this plan, provides an opportunity for the Fargo Clinic, Fargo Opportunity School, St. Luke's Hospital, Dakota Hospital, Veterans Hospital, and a number of schools in the area to combine NDSU's and UND's speech therapy programs into one unit at UND, thus providing eastern and western centers in the state for therapy clinics.

Kenneth G. Stockdell, associate professor of speech at NDSU and head of the speech therapy department, noted that the need to offer a speech therapy major at NDSU is illustrated by the number of interested students. In addition, he said that the largest metropolitan area in North Dakota (Fargo) needs the services which students and personnel in the department provide.

Curriculum, staff and facilities of the speech therapy department are undergoing rapid expansion.

The staff includes Stockdell; Jack L. Sigman, associate professor of speech and Jerome O'Hearn, otorhinolaryngologist at the Fargo Clinic O'Hearn, associate professor of speech, is a recent addition to the staff and will instruct a graduate level course spring quarter. Arrangements are being made to allow a number of other area physicians who have indicated an interest to teach specific speech and hearing courses at NDSU.

A complete program leading to a Master's Degree in speech therapy is in the plans and will be offered beginning next fall. A number of courses for graduate credit are currently offered.

The increase in cases needing rehabilitation necessitates a more complete academic program in speech therapy. Stockdell stated. The American Speech and Hearing Association now requires a master's or equivalent degree in most places for the therapist to function. A certificate of clinical competence is awarded following the academic and clerical training plus a national examination.

Present physical accommodations of the department include two clinical rooms, office and classroom space and a waiting room, all located in Festival Hall. "With the indication of increased therapy load, our present facilities have already become inadequate to serve the clients as we would like," said Stockdell.

A complete program leading to a Master's Degree in speech therapy is in the plans and will be offered beginning next fall. A number of courses for graduate credit are currently offered.

The increase in cases needing rehabilitation necessitates a more complete academic program in speech therapy. Stockdell stated. The American Speech and Hearing Association now requires a master's or equivalent degree in most places for the therapist to function. A certificate of clinical competence is awarded following the academic and clerical training plus a national examination.

Graduate Dean

Dr. Smith Co-Authors Book Chapter

Dean Smith is Glenn S. Smith, veteran wheat breeder at North Dakota State University, is the co-author of a chapter on wheat breeding in a soon-to-be-published book by the American Society of Agronomy.

Smith, dean of the graduate school, collaborated on the chapter with E. G. Heyne of Kansas State University. The book, which is number 13 in a series of agronomy monographs, is entitled "Wheat and Wheat Improvement."

Heyne and Smith are among 25 prominent wheat researchers who contributed to the 580-page book. It is slated for publication in May.

The chapter to which Smith contributed is entitled "Wheat Breeding," and deals with techniques and methods, selection of parent material, mutations, breeding for disease and insect resistance and quality and the evaluation and testing of strains.

Smith's work in the breeding of high quality, high yielding, disease resistant wheat has been credited with having a stabilizing effect on the North Dakota economy, and in bringing international recognition to the high quality of North Dakota wheat.

In recognition of his work, Smith has been elected to a Fellowship in the American Society of Agronomy, and, two years ago, was chosen to receive the ninth annual NDSU Faculty Lecture-ship.

Omaha Trip To Open Diamond Season

Practice for the 1967 Bison baseball season started last week with 31 candidates reporting, according to Ev Kjelbertson, head baseball coach.

Among the returnees from last year’s team are Gary Anderson, shortstop; Russ Auen, pitcher; Glen Ingnell, utility infielder and outfielder; Larry Ellingson, first base; Larry Mollins, infielder; John Renhowe and Andy Knutson, outfielders. Knutson, who was a starter on the 1965 edition, missed last season due to spring football practice.

Kjelbertson is happy about the return of Knutson who had been a fine long ball hitter in 1965.

"It should be an improved team over last year," stated Kjelbertson "but a lack of pitching depth will hurt us," he added.

Of the 31 candidates out now, Kjelbertson hopes to have a good nucleus of about 20 for the opening game trip to Omaha, Neb., when they leave on March 30.

The team will play three games in Omaha, opening with the Nebraska Wesleyan team on March 31.

It will then play the Offutt Air Force Base team on April 1st and Yankton College on the 2nd.

Of the 28 game schedule which the Bison will play this season, the North Central Conference games look like this:

On April 14 and 15, the Bison will play Augustana; April 21 and 22 a game with South Dakota State there; a double header with Morningside there on the 24 of April and State College of Iowa will be here for a weekend series on the 28 and 29 of April.

The Bison will travel to Morningside on May 5 and 6, host the Rawlings & MacGregor

MacLaren Prepares For Biggest Year

Neil Thomas

Again this season, Brian MacLaren will be one of the mainstays on the Bison track meet.

MacLaren is the most valuable player by teammates last season after tying for the North Central Conference lead in 100 yards and leading scorer in the 220 yards. In addition to winning the 800 event, MacLaren also set a new world record of 1:47.1, the second best in the world.

In last season’s action the Bison team finished third in the Nation in the 880 yard run.

In 1965 the Bison finished third in the NCC with a 4-2 record, compiling a .244 team batting average good for fourth place in the NCC and a third place fielding average of .947. Last season the Bison slumped to a .213 team batting average and a .748 mark in fielding.

Lyceum Has Star Expert

James W. Warwick, an astrophysicist from the University of Colorado, will deliver an 8:40 a.m. lecture at a campus festival hall on March 20.

The talk, "Science in Government," is the first in a series of speeches, discussions and seminars which Warwick will deliver and participate in during his two-day stay at the University.

A member of the department of astrophysics at the University of Colorado, Warwick will be on campus as a visiting professor of astronomy.

He has done considerable original research work in a study of the magnetic field of Jupiter and is a consultant at the Space Research Facilities in Boulder, Colo.

A public lecture by Warwick, "Astronomy in the Twentieth Century," has been scheduled at 3 p.m. Tuesday, March 21, in the Ballroom of the Union. Sigma Xi, an honorary scientific fraternity, will sponsor the lecture. Warwick will make a number of other appearances.

For all students, spring quarter offers activities ranging from a Sex Education Day to Sadie Hawkins Week. The timetable offers a variety of events for everyone's taste.

Today, Student Activities Board is sponsoring a special interest day on Civil Rights. Featured speakers are George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi Party, and Ralph Abernathy, aide to Martin Luther King.

A second special interest day will be held on April 17. The topic of interest for the day is sex education.

On April 4 a student travel day is planned. Representatives from the local travel agencies, airlines, etc., will be on campus to interest students in summer travel.

SAB plans to continue running modern films. One possible film to be shown is "What's New, Pussy-cat?" the comedy written by Woody Allen.

The University Cinema 66-67 program has several movies planned for campus entertainment on Sunday evenings. The films range from "Birth of a Nation," the first motion picture, to the widely acclaimed French movie, "Sunday," starring Marlene Dietrich.

Sadie Hawkins Week has been tentatively scheduled during late April. In conjunction with that week, SAB hopes to present a concert by the New Christy Minstrels. The group, founded by Randy Sparks, is considered by many to be the core of all folk groups.

For those students who have managed to escape the draft and survive the entire year, a Last Blast Dance will be held during May in the Union parking lot.

April 20 has been set as the date for the spring Bridal Show. The show will present the newest wedding and summer fashions for the collegiate generation.

A second leadership day may also be held during spring quarter for all interested students.

During Easter break, about a dozen students will jet to New York City for a SAB-sponsored weekend. The students may tour New York as a group, and will also find time for a solo discovery of the city.

Sharivar will show off this campus to the "outside world" during spring quarter. The campus-wide event will give parents and friends the chance to see what the students aren't really doing while at the University.

Art exhibits will continue to hang in the Union. A special sidewalk art show is planned by SAB, in the setting of the Union patio.

Wednesday to Saturday, May 10-13, are the dates for Greek Week. During the four day celebration of the end of the fiscal year for Greeks, a Greek god and goddess will be chosen. Also, Alpha Phi Omega will present scholarship awards.

SAB will continue to present programs not yet scheduled.
