Fieldhouse construction revealed

Construction plans for the new Moorhead State Fieldhouse have been revealed by Richard Koppenhaver, Director of Physical Education and Athletics.

The construction plans include a auditorium with a seating capacity of approximately 10,000, including 1,500 theatre type reserve seats.

A synthetic floor similar to that of the Moorhead State Fieldhouse will be used for basketball, indoor track, indoor football, indoor tennis, volleyball, and badminton. Other areas will facilitate wrestling, weight lifting, handball and swimming.

A panel feature of the swimming pool will be terraces around the pool.

The project has been granted $300,000.00 from state funds, $50,000.00 from federal funds, and $50,000.00 from the Mayo Clinic, students, faculty, alumni, and friends of the University.

The construction project is expected to begin sometime next summer and will hopefully be completed in time for the 1969-1970 basketball season. Two locations have been proposed - one of the football stadium or in the southeast corner of the married students' housing.

Koppenhaver stated, "We are looking forward to the new build. We will then be able to offer more recreational opportunities to students with the swimming pool, handball courts, badminton. We'd like to do that now, but we don't have the facilities. Someday we hope the Fieldhouse will have as much a recreation center as the Student Union."

Speech clinic opens Friday

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 29 -- A two-day clinic on Neurologic Speech Disorders begins Friday, Oct. 6, at North Dakota State University. The clinic, sponsored by the Student Activities Board and the NDSU Speech and Hearing Association, will be held in the Hults Lounge of the Memorial Union.

The program has been designed to provide the students, as well as professionals working in the area of rehabilitation, with the opportunity to hear outstanding leaders in the field of neurological communication," said Kenneth Stockdell, associate professor of speech and director of the symposium.

Dr. Ryan Harrington, M.D., consultant in neurology at the Neuro-psychiatric Institute in Fargo, will discuss neurological speech disorders in a 9:30 a.m. talk Friday. Dr. Arnold Avron, consultant in speech pathology in the department of neurology at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., will continue the discussion of neurological speech disorders in a 10:30 talk. At 1:30, Aronson will narrow the subject area to "Neurological Speech Disorders in Adults."

Dr. Eric Noble, consultant in clinical psychology at the Neuropsychiatric Institute in Fargo, will talk on the "Psychological Manifestations of Neurological Speech Disorders" at 2:45 p.m., closing the Friday program.

The "Team Approach to Therapy (Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy, and Speech Therapy)" will be discussed by Ann Schutt, consultant in physical medicine and rehabilitation at the Neuropsychiatric Institute in Fargo.

Dr. Aronson will close the symposium during two sessions on Saturday. At 10:45 a.m., he will talk on "Diagnosis and Therapy Considerations for Adult Neurologic Speech Disorders," and at 1:30 p.m. on "Diagnosis and Therapy Considerations for Adult Neurologic Speech Disorders."

Symposium registration -- $3 for non-students and $1 for students, begins at 8:30 a.m. on both Friday and Saturday.

Union Displays Chagall Works Through October

by Carol Dirud

A collection of original lithographs by Marc Chagall entitled "The Story of Exodus" is being displayed in Hults Lounge of the Memorial Union. The 24 biblical scenes of Moses' life will remain on display until October 29.

The Russian-born surrealist painter, ceramicist, illustrator, engraver, and watercolorist studied at the Imperial School of Fine Arts in St. Petersburg. He left Russia during the persecution of the Jews and established himself as an artist in Paris.

Many of his works are inspired from his childhood experiences in a small Russian-Jewish town as well as his contact with France. This is evident in a number of the lithographs where motifs of animals, birds, and religious symbols appear in the background with a somewhat unrelated meaning to the main elements of the pictures.

The colors in this collection are soft and well-blended. The figures are done in a childlike manner — often floating, outlined with black heavy lines, without detail in the eyes, and with oversized hands.

Chagall has worked for the Theatre Jolif in Moscow, designing the costumes for the ballets ARKO by Tchaikowsky, and THE FISHERMAN by Stravinsky. He has exhibits in Paris, London, Amsterdam, Israel, Zurich, Bern, and Baske.

At the request of the Museum of Modern Art he lived some time in the United States. One of his latest contributions is the large mural in the new Metropolitan Opera House, Lincoln Center, New York.

Paradise Across the Red or:

Things the Student Handbook Never Told Me

Guys on this campus don't have to glance at the enrollment figures to discover that for each one of them, there is approximately 2/5 of a coed. Most freshmen at once begin to panic — a ratio like this brings visions of one of two possibilities: either spending a long, cold winter or lowering one's standards for female excellence.

Fear not, guys, for there is a solution to our plight:

Make your way down University Drive to the one-way going east and proceed along the latter thoroughfare with great vigor. If the lights are right (and they usually are), you'll be crossing the river before you know it — and entering a college town that has a definite abundance of what we are lacking over here — women! Traveling along Center Avenue, you are confronted with two different (and equally stimulating) plans to follow:

Plan A

Turning off Center Avenue onto Hwy. 75 will bring you to the land of blonde, blue-eyed, Scandinavian beauties (better known as Concordia College). Coeds on this campus are known for their friendly dispositions — some will walk (or run) across the street just to give you a big smile and an aggressive "hi!" While not every girl on this campus will remind you of Ursula Andress, I'm sure you will find your visit here well worth your time.

Plan B

If you continue down Center Avenue and disregard Plan A, turn south at 14th Street. You will soon find yourself at Moorhead State College. Freshman enrollment figures at MSC this fall were approximately 300 guys to 900 girls. (Need I elaborate more on the ratio?)

I defy you to find a girl on this campus that isn't ready for some form of socializing (day or night). You may find the average MSC coed a bit more "Bohemian" than the Concordian you met in Plan A. (If you meet a Moorhead Stater at a party, it is not uncommon to get into a healthy discussion on the artistic honesty of Salvador Dali or to hear her frequently quoting Henry David Thoreau — whereas the Concordian may end up talking about her favorite movies (Beach Blanket Bingo, Monkey's Uncle, Lassie Come Home, etc.) Needles to say, if you're looking for an intellectually stimulating time — forget Plan A.

I'll leave the rest of this investigation of the "Paradise Across the Red" up to you. So next time you develop an urge to fulfill one of your four basic psychological needs of life, guys, just remember to follow Plan A and/or Plan B and you can't go wrong.

New faculty announced

New faculty appointments have been announced by North Dakota State University President, Dr. Herbert Albrecht. Among the new faculty appointments are:

Dr. Philip C. Pfister, a professor of mechanical engineering at the Illinois Institute of Technology for the past 11 years, has been appointed chairman of the Mechanical Engineering Department at NDSU. He takes over the post from Prof. Thomas Sakshaug, who has been acting chairman for the past two years.

Kilbourn L. Janecek assumed duties as director of libraries at NDSU August 1. Janecek comes to NDSU from South Dakota State University at Brookings, where he has been associate director of the library since 1962.

Panhellenic, IFC announce 1967 rush participation

Pat Marr, Panhellenic president, and Ron Wilner, IFC rush chairman, announced that over 60 students participated in formal rush activities at the beginning of the term.

At the end of the rush period, the sororities totaled 99 pledges, while the fraternity rushers had turned up 158 bids at the end of their rush period.

Miss Marr stated that she felt the rush was conducted more efficiently than in the past. More upperclassmen participated than in the past years.

"The open-house parties were all held in one day, thereby enabling the girls to get a better look at fraternity life," said Miss Marr.

She also felt that the rush counselors in each dorm helped to make rush a success by being available when questions were asked. Mrs. Frederick Anderson assisted the Fargo rushes.

"There will be a complete review of the fraternity rush next year," stated Ron Wilner, "because the present system is wasteful as far as time and money are concerned."

He went on to say that next year's rushers will go to more houses and it is doubtful that full meals will be served at each party. The rush program will be shortened through this method.

It seems that student newspapers frequently become so caught up in the criticism of campus activities, procedures and circumstances that the positive elements are overlooked in an attempt to stay on top of the problems that present themselves at least to the editor’s eyes. This can become an unfortunate rut — and while a student newspaper must by its very nature maintain a critical attitude, that critical attitude should not overlook the good space since no reform or change can be directly stimulated by such stories.

Even the most elementary information about human relations, though, would belie such an assumption. It is difficult to repeatedly condemn an institution, a person or an idea and then expect an open, favorable response. No one expects any administration to achieve perfection. Strides have been made in the area of social regulations in the past year. The Dean of Students office worked in close collaboration with students in inaugurating these changes.

In working with members of the administrative staff it has been a frequent and rewarding experience to do just cover how receptive they are to a student comment, no thoughtfully presented.

It is essential to remember that while nearly 6000 students face only a few administrators, those few administrators have to deal with only those 6000 students, but their complicated relationship with the university, its purpose intellectual, by its nature social and by its scope diverse.

Are you a leader?

For three years students look longingly in the direction of such organizations as Blue Key and Mortar Board, to such honors as Who’s Who in American Colleges and Universities. Once a student reaches the magic plateau of four years, the senior year these things take on a perspective far different from that of the freshman or even the surveying that I look around to see who is there with him. He finds his name next to that of some student that he hasn’t seen or heard of self overwhelmingly voted in as a chairman of one, selected from a field of one, allowed to “handpick” his committee during the freshman year.

All this by pure dint of having joined one small committee that of the eighteen-year old freshman, confused by the size and blend into anonymity until one year later when the process is repeated.

Student Senate meetings are usually held in Town Hall. Last week the group moved into the relatively small Forum leaving a small gallery of chairs for audience seatings. Four spectators arrived to attend the meeting. Ironically enough, all four were women.

One senator noted the comparative casualness in the dress of two of the observers — yet had these cut-off clad students stayed away from the session, audience attendance would have been cut in half.

If senate does not plan an all-out campaign to attract students to the meetings, perhaps this responsibility will devolve on the Spectrum. It’s certainly unfortunate that those not only one outside viewpoint of senate meetings and that students themselves have only the Spectrum to depend on for senate news. Objectivity is always a difficult matter — but students cannot even evaluate the objectivity of senate coverage if they have not attended any meetings.

Certainly a mutual admiration or criticism — as the case may be — between Spectrum and senate is desirable — but if this is the extent of the dialogue, both groups are operating in a vacuum for the sake of each other.

To The Editors:

Although I may be harping on old subjects, I would like to speak out on a couple of things that annoy me.

I realize that the business office cannot be expected to open on weekends (they don’t impound cars on weekends anyway), but it does leave the student with no where on campus to cash a check after 4:00 Friday afternoon.

The Union fairly refuses to cash checks anywhere. Could it be that there are such poor risks that we cannot be trusted to write a check in order to have enough money to pay for a movie? You will notice, however, that your check for tuition is never refused. Of course, they can always bounce you should your check do the same.

As long as I am griping about things being closed, I’ve often wondered about the arbitrary hours kept in the Union.

On Sundays the Music Listening Lounge is open for a span of three hours, from 2-5 p.m. Last Sunday the Games Area wasn’t open until 5. Hultz Lounge closes at 6 p.m. on weekdays.

I definitely think you should have the foresight to place on the lack of publicity which was given to this event on page nine of the Spectrum, which some students perhaps were too busy with their student activities to note the presence of an all-American male of the Memorial Union.

The entire blame cannot be blamed on the student, some has to be placed on the lack of publicity which was given to this event. The participation on the part of the students was extremely poor, even for this university. I could possibly understand the reason for the poor attendance if it was held in some far-out corner of the campus, but this was held right in the Alumni Lounge of the Memorial Union.

It is my hope that the next time an “Activities Fair” is held on the campus, the organizers will have the foresight to publicize the event with more promotion.

To The Editors:

This past week several organizations took the time and effort to erect attractive and informative booths to better inform the students of NDSU as to what their organizations had to offer the student at NDSU, in what was termed an “Activities Fair.”

The participation of the part of the students was extremely poor, even for this university. I could possibly understand the reason for the poor attendance if it was held in some far-out corner of the campus, but this was held right in the Alumni Lounge of the Memorial Union.

To The Editors:

I definitely think you should have campus cuties. But to make it easier on you girls editors I think they should be boys. You wouldn’t have to be bias in selecting an all-American made of the week. You then wouldn’t have to worry about what sort they belong to or if they had the perfect figure of 36-24-36. In this way it would give the girls a chance to see what’s really up on campus in the line of 4.

And I’d be willing to help you serve as a judge to select the first American Male of NDSU.

WISE UP FRESHMEN! Now is the time for all to Drop and Add. Protesting and adding is the extra-particular activity which almost everyone participates in at least once a quarter.

Too many freshman advisors insist that the freshman should receive their entire education in one quarter so they sign you up for special events “kitty;” these courses aren’t hard, they have almost perfect attendance, calculus, geography, philosophy, and a history course for good measure. We are probably going to give some people a laugh.

We care for a beer break and some relaxing music after studying at the library till 9:00 p.m. We'll take your dates in hand and send you to the nearest restaurant — it's only a couple of miles and everyone knows exercise is good for the soul. We are probably going to give some people a laugh.

the money collected will be used in research to help combat cerebrovascular disease — I’m sure that some future years from now we may lose our whole Rahjah group from this deadly affliction. Actually I’m not anti-Rahjah. As a matter of fact, they have the most perfect organization of any group on this campus. They always hold their meetings on time; fines are rigidly collected and members always make sure and they have almost perfect attendance for each and every meeting. Sands, DuBord head drive

Dr. Fred Sands, associate professor of chemistry, is chairman of the 1967 United Fund campaign on the ND SU campus. Bob DuBord, AS 4, will handle solicitation of students.

Funds will be collected at the Greek houses Monday morning and will be turned in to the United Fund office. All donations will be used to help needy families of students.

A kickoff dinner was held Wednesday noon to launch the campus drive with 27 campaign workers and others attending.

Last year, under chairman Russell Widdifield, NSDU faculty, staff members and students contributed more than $10,000 to the campaign. Sands said the goal this year is to increase that total by at least five per cent.

Church Organization

The University Lutheran Center at NDSU will send two study groups to Process '67, a convocation to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, December 26 - January 1. These task study groups are planning two presentations: War and Peace, and Education. These reports will consist of work performed in these areas and the ideas formed in conjunction with the work. The seminars are open to anyone who wishes to participate. The War and Peace Seminar will begin on October 11 and the Education Study will begin on October 10.

Several other seminars are planned including a drama reading and discussion of the author's ideas. These will begin on October 1.

An ecumenical observance of the 450th anniversary of the Reformation for the latter part of October is being planned. The Lutheran student center holds two services on Sunday morning, one at 8:00 and one at 10:30 with a coffee hour held at 10:00. The coffee hour presents an opportunity for students to meet friends and greet old ones.

The Center serves supper during the week Monday through Thursday at 5:30. Sunset Bread Suppers are served on a contract basis or on the individual basis.

Another Lutheran Center activity is the Friday evening recreation program. Entertainments range from square dancing to hayrides to card parties. All students are invited to participate.

The Sunday evening program includes a cost supper followed by a discussion group or a speaker. Previous speakers have been Dr. Catherine Celer, Mr. Arnold Marxoff, and various students.

The NDSU chapter is also planning to send a delegation to the International Conference for Missions held at Urbana, Illinois, from December 27-30. This conference will deal with the topics related to missions on campus.

Chapter meetings are held every other Thursday in the Union at 7:30.

GAMMA DELTA

Gamma Delta, an organization for Lutheran (Missouri Synod) students, has its headquarters at Immanuel Lutheran Church. Sunday morning services are held at 8:30 and 11:00.

The Sunday evening programs of Gamma Delta have been planned to stimulate the thinking of today's youth. On the agenda for this fall are programs dealing with various topics. A filmstrip entitled "The Lodge" is being shown at one meeting. It deals with organizations with religious philosophy in the background. The film poses the question "Do fraternal organizations suppress or enlighten the Christian of today?"

Speakers are also scheduled, such as the delegate to the New York Conference of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod who will be discussing the various resolutions and points of business presented to the conference. A number of topics have been decided upon for discussion groups, such as the lone student, the church's answer to immoral movies, and doubts.

These programs follow the Sunday supper and devotions. There is also a Bible study group meeting Sunday evenings at 7:30.

NEWMAN

The St. Paul's Catholic Parish, or Newman Center, is a gathering place for students interested in discussing contemporary events in the light of information presented in college courses. Students meet for one hour a week in the organization of Young Christian Students. St. Paul's Student Wives organization holds its meetings on the first Tuesday of every month. It is geared to the young college wife, and a program. The Sunday evening program consists of speakers and a program. The Sunday evening program includes a cost supper followed by a discussion group or a speaker. Previous speakers have been Dr. Catherine Celer, Mr. Arnold Marxoff, and various students.

The United Campus Ministry is a cooperation consisting of the Wesley Foundation and the United Campus Christian Fellowship. The cooperation, in its first year here, was formed to present a larger program for the students and to pool the resources of the centers. The UCM is the official ministry for the following denominations: Disciples of Christ, Evangelical United Brethren, Methodist, Moravian, United Church of Christ, and the United Presbyterian. It is also associated with the National United Christian Movement.

UCM holds a regular Sunday morning forum at 9:30 with transportation to churches of the students' choice at 10:30. A Sunday evening program is also held from 5:30 to 7:30 with supper, worship and a program. The Sunday evening program consists of speakers who challenge the student to think and discuss various topics of current interest.

The Wednesday Fireside at 7:30 is a student discussion of beliefs and theology from the personal angle. It is held, as are the other programs, at the Lutheran Student Center.

IVCF

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is an inter-denominational, nation-wide student organization. The NDSU chapter has planned a study of the contemporary national and international problems with a special emphasis on the individual and his relation to these problems.

Also on this year's agenda is a Bible study group, geared to prepare the student for life outside of the University. Study groups are also being organized to examine the problems of the Christian student on the university campus.

A fall conference is in the planning stage for November 3-5 at Wesley Acres near Valley City. This conference will consist of approximately 25 or 30 members of the NDSU chapter who will plan events for next year.
Howard Anderson, Don Mink and Rev. James Farnum participate in an informal group discussion at the Wesley Foundation.

Rev. James Alger performs his official duties as assistant pastor at the Lutheran Student Center.

Lynn Redington, UCCF-Wesley president, concentrates on program plans.

Engineering dean serves on development council at OSU

by Ann Froeschle

Serving as Dean of Engineering is Frank Charles Mirgain who came to North Dakota State University in 1964. Previously he held the position of Professor of Engineering at Rutgers' University from 1933-42 where he received his Master of Science in 1931. From 1944-44 he was professor and head of the Civil Engineering department at Cooper University School of Engineering.

Although he was born in Chicago, Illinois, Dean Mirgain was raised in Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin. He was graduated from Purdue University in 1931 and was a member of Sigma Phi Delta, a professional engineers' fraternity; Chi Epsilon, a national honorary civil engineer's fraternity; and Tau Beta Pi, an organization which gives special recognition for those graduating in the upper one-fourth of their class.

As Dean of Engineering, it is his role to maintain a good undergraduate school by supervising the budget and staff. Speaking for the College of Engineering and Architecture, in addition to lecturing outside the campus, another of his many duties, Dean Mirgain must also keep abreast of the engineering profession nationally and attend many conferences.

Recently Governor William Guy selected Dean Mirgain as an adviser to the State Health Planning Council. He will help form plans for the future health of North Dakotans in respect to the water supply and sewage control.

NSDU's electrical engineering department is presently working with the Neuropsychiatric Institute at St. Luke's Hospital on the future of an electronic communication system between the hospital and a computer at NSDU for patient diagnosis. Working with the highway department are the civil engineers testing asphalt surfacing and pavement performance.

Dean Mirgain lives in Fargo with his wife, Velma, who is originally from Indiana. He has a married daughter Cheryl, who graduated from NSDU in 1969 with a major in education, and lives in Minneapolis. Recently he became a grandfather for the fourth time. Bancroft defends food center

by D. R. Bushan

"Rubber eggs, leather pancakes and long lines" characterize the Satellite Center for one hungry freshman, but to learn more about the story, the Spectrum in­terviewed Frank Bancroft, director of the University Food Service.

Last spring Student Senate made an attempt to poll the re­learners of the North Complex to find out their reaction to the food center.

Frank Bancroft commented on the situation. "Anybody, in his right mind would want to be off board contract during the 30th week of board contract. A student is bound to be tired of any food during spring quarter. You simply can't please every student 20 meals a week during the school year."

"We don't profess to be perfect, but we do encourage stu­dent suggestions, and we imme­diately try to rectify any situation which is considered undesirable by the students. As a matter of fact, there has never been one serious complaint concerning the food service since I have been here."

The Food Service tries to add variety to the board program by serving several special dinners each month. During these special dinners a central theme is fol­lowed, such as having both the con­venience and food corresponding. "Spatzle and meat sausages have been served to the German community on "German Night" and "Holiday Dinners."

"Thanksgiving dinner is per­haps the biggest special dinner of the year," said Bancroft. "In­cluded in this meal is a mock wine and the meal is individually served by waiters." Commenting on the possibility of a release clause, Bancroft ad­ded, "The only reason why we have not had to raise food con­tract prices this year was because of the increased revenue derived from taking the two new high school dorms."

Bancroft also stated, "Once this is begin giving a release clause, the students will be very upset when they must come back on board contract in a year or two. Depending upon when the new dorms are completed, we may consider the new dorms, but the policy should be adhered to. Furthermore, the proposed policy of board releases would be unfair to some students who have requested them."

"Following the new additions to the food service this year is the free "All You Can Eat" lunch. In the past we had been bothered with thefts from the cloak room, and the check has alleviated this problem." According to the University Food Service director, "Our big­gest problem has been in the area of rising living costs. We have had to cope with three years of rising living costs and food costs, but we have not yet had to raise the board contracts."

Three years ago when the year board price of $435 was set, the NDSU Food Service was $15 low­er than the national average for board contracts. Now three years later when food prices have risen on the average of 5 to 7% and labor has increased proportionate­ly the Food Service still main­tains the same board rate.

"We have the option to increase board contracts at any time" commented Bancroft, "but we try not to do it at the beginning of the year. This way the parents can plan their budget for their children's college expenses and at the same time know that the meals will consist of wholesome and nutri­tional food."

Additional buffet equipment has been purchased this year to help with the overload of stu­dents. The equipment will be moved to the new Food Center once it is completed.

The increased student boarders have forced the bakery to oper­ate from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. in or­der to supply the campus with fresh baked goods. The meat pro­cessing center has doubled in space and there is a butcher on duty 24 hours a day.

The Food Service also helps to employ over eighty students as part time workers. For which they are paid $1.15 an hour and the pay will increase to $1.60 by 1970.

Pom pom ranks increase to 13; 40 coeds vie

The number of pom pom girls that NDSU sports fans will be watching this season has risen to a total of thirteen, as compared to six of one year ago.

A panel of judges consisting of representatives from the Letter­man's club, Rahjah, IFC, Panhel­lenic Council, Blue Key, Student Senate, and a representative from the women's physical education department, were confronted with choosing 13 y o u n g ladies from a field of 40 to represent NDSU as pom pom girls at athle­tic events throughout the coming year. These selected were Debbie Bank, Karla Church, Jill Ekland, Kathy Gunsh, Shelly Hadland, Cathy T. Johnson, Lynn Myhre, Sue Holson, Kathy Johnson, Betsy Olsen, Marilyn Poole, Debbie Sterling, and Karen Tiritcher.

Bison gain first place in conference

A 21-point fourth quarter enabled the Bison to boost their 13-7 halftime lead to 34-7 and clinch their second conference win in as many starts.

SDSU came back with seconds left in the final quarter when DWain Gonnerman carried over the one yard line for the final SDSU tally. Gonnerman, who also booted extra points for South Dakota, contributed all 14 points toward the Jackrabbit cause. The lone SDSU touchdown against the Bison last year was also scored by Gonnerman. The Bison took that game 35-6.

The first scoring in Saturday's game came in the first quarter on a 52-yard run by Gonnerman. NDSU knotted the game with a 45-yard touchdown interception by Del Gehrett in the same period.

Early in the second period Jack Hazen capped a 71-yard drive with a one-yard plunge. The PAT attempt by Blazi failed.

Although the Bison threatened in the third quarter, the score remained 13-7 as play entered the final frame.

A 5-yard romp by Ken Rota on the third play of the quarter and a Blazi conversion gave the Bison a 20-7 lead.

Dan Olson, recovering a fumble on the Jackrabbit 27-yard line, set up the second 4th quarter score for the Herd. Hanson hit Orell Schmitz with a roll-out pass for the score and Blazi converted.

The final touchdown for NDSU came on a 16-yard run by Tim Mjos.

Heavy penalties, including a pass interference call, gave SDSU the ball on the Bison 1-yard line. Gonnerman then picked up the touchdown and extra point as the game ended, 34-14.

Mjos' punting overcome a previous Bison "zone spot" with a 37-yard average in seven attempts.

Mjos was the leading ground gainer for the Bison with 79 yards, followed by Rota with 36 yards.

Rota caught three passes for 54 yards. Mjos and Schmitz each had 36 yards with two and three catches respectively.

Erhardt in second year

by Cap Gray

Ron Erhardt, at the helm of the Bison football team, has continued the winning ways of the Thundering Herd. Erhardt, and his new staff, led the Bison to an eight and two season last year, while this season the Bison boast six straight victories and a national collegiate football rating.

Erhardt in second year

Ron Erhardt, at the helm of the Bison football team, has continued the winning ways of the Thundering Herd. Erhardt, and his new staff, led the Bison to an eight and two season last year, while this season the Bison boast six straight victories and a national collegiate football rating. Erhardt has been with the NDSU coaching staff for five years, three years as defensive coach, and is now in his second season as the head coach. Previously Erhardt coached at William, St. Mary's of New England and Minot Ryan, working with five undefeated teams during his eleven years of coaching.

Graduating from Jamestown College in 1952 with a B.S. in Physical Education, Erhardt went on to receive his Master's from the University of Colorado. Erhardt himself was a standout athlete in both high school and college, making all-state and all-conference in football, and alsolettering three years in baseball and basketball.

Coach Erhardt stated, "We are making some changes, moving some people around; nothing radical but trying to take advantage of the things the individuals can do best. We have a very young team, with an exciting crop of newcomers. It's an interesting team to watch." Aside from his coaching, Erhardt is the assistant director of athletics at NDSU.

NDSU'S PASSING THREAT

Although there seemed to be somewhat of a lack of enthusiasm on the part of the Bison in the early stages of last Saturday's contest, this lack was not evident in the statistics column — especially in the passing yardage category.

Terry Hanson completed 13 passes in 18 attempts for 205 yards and one touchdown. Many of the passes came in key situations in the game, in contrast to previous games. In conference play, Hanson has completed 25 passes in 37 attempts for a 67.6% percentage and 311 yards. It looks as though the usual "grind 'em out on the ground" Bison line of past years has become an equally effective passing threat, much to the dismay of the opposition's defensive coaches.

Del Gehrett

John Heller

Del Gehrett and John Heller were cited for back and linemen of the week respectively, for their performances in the South Dakota State game.

Gehrett intercepted a Jackrabbit pass and romped 45 yards for the first Bison score of the game. He is a cog in the tough Bison pass defense which has begrudgingly given up 14 yards in the past two games in passing yardage.

Heller, an offensive guard, was voted player of the week for his aggressiveness and effort in the offensive line.

STADIUM WILL COPE WITH PROBLEMS

Fans going to the Shrine game this weekend will notice an experience several changes. Many of the reserved ticket seats will receive a new coat of paint and be renumbered. Also three or four dozen ushers will be on hand to alleviate the mass confusion problem which is becoming increasingly evident with the growing number of fans attending Bison games.

Ramps G and H of the South stands will be used solely by reserved ticket holders. Signs will be posted to indicate entrance and exits for use by students and general admission ticket holders. The innovation of these measures is an effort to cope with the large crowds attending Bison games.

Fans are asked not to sit in the aisles during the game for convenience to others going to the concession stands, etc., and for obvious safety reasons.

This new program I am certain will add to the pleasure of watching the greatest football team in the upper Midwest.
Skarie-Fredenberg aerial team to test
Bison in Shrine contest on Saturday

by Mike Kihne

Although sporting a less than progressive one win-two loss record, the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Saturday game is being taken lightly by the Bison and their coaches.

Running out of a single wing or shotgun formation, U of W-M is not a passing team, and rightfully so. Their only win in three starts against Eastern Illinois, quarterback Jim Skarie went 26 for 40 in the passing department for 296 yards and four touchdowns. The other loss was to Illinois State by a score of 21-0 in the opening season's game for the U of W-M.

Skarie sports a .661 completion percentage, having completed 65 of 93 pass attempts. Fredenberg has caught 29 passes for 409 yards and 4 touchdowns in three games.

On the other hand, let's look at the Bison. SU's pass defense left something to be desired at Omaha. The Herd gave up 356 yards and 4 touchdowns. It must be noted also that several of the completions thrown in the past two weeks against the Bison were for minus yardage.

However, the last two Bison games illustrate a complete reversal. Since the Omaha game, the Herd has given up only 14 yards passing, an excellent record for any team.

It should be an interesting contest when an excellent passing team confronts an excellent pass defense unit this weekend.
International living
Campus ambassador travels to Tanzania

by Elise Bettschen

Lois McKennett, a campus ambassador for the Experiment in International Living, spent the summer in Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania, and on the slopes of Mt. Kilimanjaro.

Camp experience. They took part in the dancing and festivities of the occasion.

Miss McKennett and the other experimenters also took a safari to many of the wild regions of Tanzania. Particularly interesting was the large amounts of game found there was the Ngorongoro Crater. This extinct volcano drops 2000 feet and provides a natural habitat for wild game.

This safari also enabled the experimenters to visit tribal villages and homes in remote areas that tourists are unable to see.

Before returning to the United States, the experimenters flew to Nairobi, Kenya for an eight day stay in the city. While in Nairobi, the ambassadors lived on the University of Kenya campus.

The Experiment in International living attempts understanding between nations at a personal level. We must be willing to be broadminded and to realize that people can't wait for all the problems at home to be solved before we venture out into the world.

"Americans never really discover America except from the vantage point of a foreign country," said Miss McKennett. "While in East Africa we read the headlines expressing the stormy and turbulent scenes of tension back home in the United States. This did not make me feel a sense of guilt for not being at home to work with people in our own problem areas; rather it gave me a sense of commitment to an interest in the reality of freedom and unity for all men.

"The Experiment in International Living attempts understanding between nations at a personal level. We must be willing to be broadminded and to realize that people can't wait for all the problems at home to be solved before we venture out into the world."

Miss McKennett feeds a small Tanzanian friend.

The first part of Miss McKennett's summer was spent in Dar-es-Salaam, which means "Haven of Peace." It is the capital of Tanzania, and is the political and cultural center of the country. While in Dar-es-Salaam, Miss McKennett lived in a Moslem community. Although she lived with one family, she ate her meals with another.

Miss McKennett stated, "The four weeks spent in Dar-es-Salaam brought understanding and lasting friendships to all of us, as we participated in family activities, met family friends, and experienced new customs."

Following their home stay in Dar-es-Salaam, Miss McKennett and her fellow ambassadors worked on a project near Mt. Kilimanjaro. Working with African students, the American experimenters painted the main assembly hall at the Kibohehe Secondary School.

An ancient Chaga wedding was one highlight of the groups' work.
