Senate Finally Passes Salary Proposal

Weeks of inaction and repetitive defeat of motions finally ended Sunday night when Student Senate succeeded in passing unanimously two motions on salaries for members of the executive branches of Senate and the Student Activities Board (SAB). Introduced for the first time as individual motions, the first proposed motion increased the salary of SAB president to $100 per quarter, and instituted salaries for the other members of the SAB executive Council. SAB vice president will receive $75 per quarter; secretary, $40; and treasurer, $50.

The salary for student president has been increased to $250 per quarter. Student vice president will receive $200; secretary, $100; and the finance commissioner will receive a newly-created salary of $100 each quarter.

Controversy arose over the question of Senate jurisdiction and areas of control with the introduction of an anti-SDS motion by Senator Court Hanson.

Hanson's motion would have Senate express displeasure over SDS violations of campus regulations and place the organization on probation until the beginning of Spring Quarter 1970.

In presenting the motion to Senate, Hanson charged that SDS had violated Union regulations on several occasions and had not taken wholeheartedly warnings by Union Director George Smith and Dean of Students Les Pavik.

The motion was tabled to allow discussion on a motion by Al Schroeder which established guidelines of responsibility for Student Senate. Schroeder's motion was amended by the senator before it even reached the floor.

As amended, the motion would require the Union director to present to Student Senate formal complaints about rule violations by organizations. Upon receiving the complaint, Senate would determine disciplinary action, including possible probation or suspension, or recommend a hearing by the Judicial Board.

Originally the motion directed that the student judicial branch be informed of violations by recognized student organizations. It would then be the obligation of the judicial branch to inform Student Senate of violations.

"What's wrong with the original motion?" questioned Senator Mark Voeller. He went on to support the policy that complaints be brought to the Judicial Board, then referred to Senate as the J-Board deemed necessary.

"It seems to me that the organization which grants recognition should be the one to withdraw it," said Senator Jim Zehren, in support of the amendment.

Continued discussion brought out confusion among senators over which branch of student government should handle complaints about student organizations.

When discussion continued to ramble, Senate President Terry Grimm called for a five-minute recess to allow time for reworking the amendment.

After the recess, Schroeder withdrew his amendment, and Voeller introduced a revised amendment. The amendment duplicated Schroeder's original motion by restoring preliminary decision-making power over complaints to the Judicial Board.

The Judicial Board, said the amendment, would rule on the appropriate guilt or innocence of an organization, and Student Senate would determine the disciplinary action or revocation of recognition.

Following passage of Voeller's amendment, Hanson's motion expressing displeasure of SDS activity was removed from the table and voted upon. A request for a count of the votes showed the motion defeated by a margin of 16 to 5.

In other action:

★ Senate enlarged the areas of leafletting in the Union, to exclude only the Bison Grill, State Room and Valley Room. Meeting rooms are not allowed to be interrupted, and the placement office and military recruiters shall not be obstructed.

According to the motion, no person will be allowed to stand in front and obstruct the west entrance of the Union between the hours of 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. The motion is being forwarded to the Union Board of Directors for approval and enactment.

★ Grimm ruled out-of-order an attempted motion by Student President Butch Molm requesting the Administration to reprint the

Guy Says Kindred Dam Needed

Gov. William L. Guy who gave his feelings on the present direction of American politics. After the short presentation he discussed various topics with NDSU Young Democrats.

Governor William L. Guy addressed the NDSU Young Democrats at a meeting in the Union Monday. Though his prepared remarks were of a general nature, discussion soon turned to the Kindred Dam project. The governor supports the Kindred Dam.

"The Sheyenne valley is nice," Guy said. "However, since man must live in the (Red River) valley and develop its resources, the dam is needed to stop the annual flooding.

"If necessary, every stream or tributary flowing into the Red River Valley should be dammed," he continued.

Audience reaction to the governor's remarks in support of the dam was not favorable. One person in the audience defended the dam, but several rose to speak against it.

Other vital issues discussed by the Young Dems included the 19-year-old vote, the open primary, lack of Democratic candidates in the state and the contribution of the McCarthy support to the state Democratic party. Guy feels that, had the 19-year-old vote been included in the general election rather than the primary, the measure would probably have passed. Citing the more liberal attitude of voters in the general election, Guy pointed out the difference between his low vote total in the primary and the high total in the general election.

Guy generally approved of holding an open primary election rather than choosing candidates by nominating convention. Presently candidates are endorsed by nominating convention and placed on the slate in the primary election. Though endorsement is usually considered a sure thing for being placed on the slate, last year the endorsed Republican candidate for governor lost to another candidate in the primary election.

Citing the standard lofty goals politicians like to cite, Guy explained what he felt the nation's goals should be. Peace, elimination of poverty, dignity for all mankind and self-determination for all people here and abroad should, according to Guy, be of prime interest to the U.S.

Turning to more concrete proposals, Guy explained important issues now facing the country. Conservation of both resources and scenic beauty, environmental management, noise level pollution and population distribution control.

Approximately 60 people heard the governor speak.

AAUP Issues SU Position Paper

NDSU chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) has issued a statement regarding recent criticism of the quality of instruction in certain specific areas of the University community that were largely interpreted to be more general in nature.

"After detailed investigation of recent statements and reports concerning the quality of instruction at SU, the Executive Committee of the SU chapter of the AAUP and the chapter membership have directed me to issue a statement on their behalf," said Bill Reid, associate professor of history and president of the chapter.

The statement was drafted by the chapter's seven-member executive committee and passed by the membership at an Oct. 23 meeting. The SU chapter has 75 full members, ten local chapter members only and eight associate members.

Approval of the following statement was given by the membership.

"The AAUP has historically been interested in quality education for all students, supporting programs and policies that insure the student the right to learn and the professor the opportunity to teach.

"It has likewise resisted unprofessional actions and charges, pitting student against professor, professor against administrator, or the University against the public. Broad allegations charging professional incompetence threaten and harass the entire academic community however newsworthy or personally satisfying the criticism may be.

"In this particular time in history, notorious for its dissent and discontent, responsible officials recognize that reasoned cooperation and positive actions are needed, not charges that inflame on the one hand and on the other weaken or destroy public trust in our basic institutions.

"The SU Chapter of the AAUP appreciates the concern of the State Board of Higher Education about the quality of education at the University and stands ready to assist the Board with responsible, professional programs that will effect those academic improvements that interested students, professors, administrators and dedicated laymen have always supported."

Faculty Senate Constitution Revised Under Light Voting

Approval of the revised Faculty Senate Constitution and By-Laws was granted in light voting Monday, according to Clayton Hauge, chairman of the Faculty Senate Committee on Committees.

"The voting wasn't quite as heavy as I expected," said Hauge, "but approval was granted by quite a sizeable margin."

Though containing numerous changes from the present constitution, the major revision which caused controversy among the faculty is a provision to allow students to sit as voting members of the faculty group.

Under the revision, students who are members of the various standing Faculty Senate committees will be seated as full voting members of the Senate. One of the students to be seated will be

Schwieger Gives Gallery Talk Today

C. Robert Schwieger, Minot artist, will present a gallery talk during an informal coffee session at 8 p.m. today in the Alumni Lounge of the Union.

Schwieger, assistant professor and chairman of the Division of Fine and Applied Arts at Minot State College, is a specialist in drawing, painting, design, print-making and advanced art.

He received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Nebraska State College and an MA degree from Colorado State College. He has received numerous awards for his oils, watercolors, collages and glass media, and has had one-man shows in Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado and North Dakota.

Schwieger's work will be displayed in the Alumni Lounge during November.

a graduate student, the rest undergraduates.

Other changes include a change in the number and function of the standing committees, with some present committees being combined and a few others added. Officers will be filled in the Spring rather than the fall. The University president will no longer preside over Senate meetings. The new presiding officer will be elected.

Hauge does not feel the new revisions solve all the present problems, but does consider it an improvement over the old. "It is not perfect, but I think it's a step in the right direction," he said.

(Next week's Spectrum will carry an article explaining the new constitutional revisions.)

Up and Coming -- Trailer Installation Begins

Installation of the sidewalks and lighting facilities in the area south of the Metabolism and Radiation Laboratory at NDSU is now in progress. The installations are for portable housing units.

These units were approved by the State Board of Higher Education for temporary housing to relieve overflow pressure created by a lack of permanent University housing at SU.

According to administration officials, the units are expected to be available for occupation during the first week of December.

"Right now, the speed of installation depends on the University," said Bob Gaughan, representative of Tri-State Mobile Homes which is doing the installing. "We have to wait for the college to install the water and gas pipes."

The units being installed are groups of inter-connected trailers which house 48 people in individual rooms.

Women will be housed in the facilities for the remainder of this year. Plans for future years are not yet settled.

Senate Proposal 'Free Boards' To Be Built

Student Senate, following a proposal made by President Butch Molm last spring, is planning the construction of a free bulletin board. With the cooperation of Union Director George Smith, the board will be built on the east hallway across from the Varsity Mart.

Costing approximately five hundred dollars, it will be according to Molm, "a free board. Any student or group may post notices on it. Notices will be regulated by the Student Senate Judicial Board only to prevent obscenity and remove outdated bulletins."

Molm first proposed a free bulletin board two years ago, as a Student Senator. Although the idea was well received, nothing materialized.

Last spring, however, the Student Senate sponsored a contest in the architectural department for the best board design. Tentatively planned on building three such boards, in the library, the engineering complex and somewhere between High and Weible.

When Bob Wenaas, winner of the contest, finished drafts of the bulletin board this fall, each was found to be $1400. Molm of this discovery, "I mad at everyone and disqu with myself for our inefficien"

To lower cost, the bulletin board will be made of cork.

Panty Raid Doesn't Catch Dorms Unaware

A threat of a panty raid caused officials to lock and guard all the exit doors in NDSU resident halls Tuesday evening, Oct. 28.

Exit doors were locked early in the evening and guarded by floor chairmen and resident assistants to prevent anyone without valid reason from entering.

The rumor of a panty raid reached the dorms Tuesday afternoon and all precautions were taken to prevent them from being raided.

It is believed that the rumors were started because Reed-Johnson and North High Rise had signs posted Tuesday morning for an organization meeting at 7:30 p.m. to plan a panty raid.

No panty raid was held at any dorm at SU.

One sophomore in North Weible said in disappointment she had waited over six hours for the boys to attack, but they never came.

Evidently, SU males felt they couldn't get any panties on the campus with all the girls and their panties locked up. They did have their panty raid at Concordia and St. Luke's Dorm.

Most of the girls in the halls were calm all evening, feeling secure with all the doors locked and guarded.

Student Senate

Student Directories.

"If you note page seven of the directory you will notice an obvious reference to student senators as stud," said Molm. "I resent this public display of my private life, now everyone will know. If they wish to label just senators, I think this is an example of flagrant discrimination."

"The Administration should make note for every so-endowed male student. Also, I question whether there are any feminine students on this campus," Molm said, "and finally I think this answers once and for all, that we are not a sterile Senate."

Molm noted he had brought up an identical motion while serving as a student senator last year and the University administration had taken no action.

★ Zehren requested that senators make the Spectrum aware that Senator Rene Anderson did not sleep or even nap at any point in the Senate meeting.

Mayor Proclaims "ROTC Month" December Deadline Set On Competition For Grants

Fargo Mayor Herschel Lashko has declared November as ROTC Month," according to Col. Winston Wallace, professor of military science at NDSU.

Military science has been offered to students at SU since the university was founded as the North Dakota land-grant institu-

In the proclamation, Mayor Lashko calls on the citizens of Fargo to "join me in honoring those men commissioned through ROTC who have gone on to protect our freedom at home and abroad in both the active Armed Forces and the Reserves."

Although more than 100 schools offered officer training by 1900, ROTC as it is known today was not formally organized until 1916 when Congress passed the National Defense Act.

SU, which was founded in 1890 under the Morrill Act as North Dakota's land-grant institution, was for a time unable to secure instructors or equipment for its military science program. Professor Edward S. Keene first organized a complete company in 1895 by serving as captain and using other faculty men as lieutenants. Equipment was furnished by the state National Guard.

In 1897 the U.S. War Department furnished a commandant and equipment. Military instruction was made compulsory for all male students except seniors. An armory and drill hall, now known as Festival Hall, and a target range were provided.

In 1937 the state legislature passed a bill to make military drill optional but it was re-established as compulsory in 1943. Since 1950 military drill has not been mandatory at SU. Presently 475 students are enrolled in the Army ROTC program and 61 will receive officer commissions during the 1969-70 school year at SU.

The SU Marching Band saluted the ROTC units during halftime ceremonies at the SU-UNI football game Saturday Nov. 1 at Dacotah Field. The Army and Air Force songs were played and the flags of the two services were flown.

The Institute of International Education announces that the 1970-71 competition for grants for graduate study abroad offered by the U.S. Government under the Fulbright-Hays Act and for grants offered by various foreign governments, universities and private donors will close in December.

A total of approximately 500 grants will be offered for 1970-71, approximately the same number offered last year, although well below the total quota of two years ago.

Fulbright-Hays Full Grants will be available to the following countries: Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium - Luxembourg, Brazil, Ceylon, Chile, Colombia, Denmark, Ecuador, Finland, Federal Republic of Germany, India, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Korea, New Zealand, Peru, Portugal, Sweden, Thailand, the United Kingdom and Uruguay.

Full grants to the following countries, although previously announced in the 1970-71 Brochure, have been cancelled: the Republic of China, France, Greece, Iceland, Iran, Malaysia, the Netherlands, Norway, the Philippines, Spain and Turkey. There will be no teaching assistantships or fellowships to Italy or the Philippines.

Fulbright - Hays Travel Grants will supplement maintenance awards to: Denmark, the Federal Republic of Germany, Israel, Italy, Poland, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Turkey and Yugoslavia. There will be no Travel Grants to France.

Foreign grants (offered by foreign governments, universities and private donors) will be available for: Austria, the Federal Republic of Germany, Iceland, Israel, Italy, Mexico, Poland, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunisia and Turkey. In France and Yugoslavia, both study grants and teaching assistantships will be available. Some of these are full awards; others cover maintenance and tuition only.

Additional information and application forms may be requested from the campus Fulbright Program Adviser, Dr. Leo Hertel. The deadline for submission of completed application forms to the Fulbright Adviser is November 25.

IVCF Presents Flip Side

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship will present Flip Side, a new full color, dramatic feature film which takes a candid look at the youth of today and finds them different. The film will be shown in Town Hall Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Based on Look Magazine's publication Youthquake, Flip Side begins in a coffee house called The Flip where Angel and Tami reveal the drug twisted world of the 'hippie.' Connie is a teenager seeking answers, and Dave's permissive parents substitute "wheels" and "bread" for the parental discipline he so desperately needs and he turns to drink.

N. D. Newspaper Editors Aren't All Bad

Last weekend UND hosted a meeting of editors in Grand Forks. The group consisted of editors of a great many small town weeklies and a panel of student editors. During the late stages of the meeting, the weekly editors had a chance to question the student editors.

Members of the group of editors seemed only too happy to deprecate the efforts of the college press to print a paper relevant to college life. Many questions from the state editors dealt with matters of good taste, finances and "responsibility."

"Good taste" seems to be an issue dear to the hearts of the state editors, and not without reason. In the informal talks after the session, many voiced fears that their children would read words of questionable taste. They simply did not want their children exposed to such language in a public newspaper.

It is not surprising that a man would want to protect his children. That instinct must be stronger than almost any other, particularly when the man is imbued with a strong moral sense.

But moral sense or not, such terms exist and are used publicly by public officials. Recently an official in Minneapolis used questionable words in a public interview with members of the press. The Minneapolis Tribune reported his remarks on the front page, deleting no terms or letters. The ensuing controversy was a good deal stronger than might be expected of a commercial daily.

Honesty is in good taste, whether or not the subject one is being honest about is tasteful or not. If a public official or any person in the public eye uses an obscenity or vulgarity in a public place or speech, the press does its readership a disservice if it does not report what was said.

Much of the drive for arbitrary controls on the student press came from a charge that since the student press was subsidized, it ought to accept the controls that go with the subsidy. Truman Wold, editor of the Northwood Gleaner was the foremost proponent of this rationale at the UND meeting.

Unfortunately, the rationale is not carried quite far enough. If one is to accept the premise that controls go with a "subsidy," then it is perfectly reasonable to assume that only those who do the subsidizing should do the controlling. On the campus, student funds are the only means used to subsidize the student paper, not tax appropriations or public money.

It is important to note that the people calling for controls of the student press last year were not those doing the subsidizing. Legislators, editors and private citizens were up in arms for a while in the cry for firing editors, censoring papers and generally restricting student press activities.

On this campus, the Board of Student Publications is officially constituted to deal with matters pertaining to the student press. Students hold a majority on the board, five to four. Two students are elected during each government election and three are appointed by the student president.

In addition, the decision to allow the BOSP budgets rests within the Student Government. The Finance Commission and Student Senate both review the publication's budget before requests are passed on.

Inasmuch as the machinery to review actions of the student press is well established, then this ought to be the channel within which protests are lodged. Detractors of college papers do not seem to realize the fact, and continue to demand official actions on a state level to control the college press.

Students now subsidize and control the college press. That is all the subsidy or control there needs to be.

It is common to accuse youth of being irresponsible, but responsibility is a relative thing. The student press is responsible to the students whom it serves. Often being responsible toward the needs of students is interpreted as being irresponsible toward a more established view.

Newspapers are not responsible for policing the morals of the community. There are responsibilities enough — to print the truth — without worrying about something so inconsequential as a particular moral code.

Much is made of responsibility to advertisers. Members of the commercial press seem to feel that they alone operate in the advertising field, and that somehow this gives them a particular insight into matters of responsibility.

Without speaking for other campus papers, this one is at least as concerned with advertisers as any North Dakota weekly. Our budget is less than half from the "subsidy" (actually subscriptions from the Student Activity Fee) and depends heavily on the continuing good will of advertisers.

In figures, we receive about $25,000 from the Student Activity Fee and are budgeted for about $35,000 from advertising this year alone. Our advertising figure alone is greater than the total gross income of most small town weeklies. We operate in a competitive market dominated by one of the nation's largest dailies. There are few captive advertisers such as a weekly paper in a small town has.

What does all this suggest? First, that the student press does not operate within a protected environment, such as detractors have charged. Recent events in past weeks have shown that in many cases the biggest critic of the student press is the students themselves. Commercial papers feel the same sorts of pressure from their readers.

Second, that while the student press has many responsibilities, policing of community morals is not one of them. The greatest single responsibility any paper has is to strive to know the facts, then to print them honestly. Mistakes may be made, all the more so in the student press because they do not operate with a staff of professionals, but anyone may make a mistake occasionally. What is important is motivation in trying to do the best job possible.

Third, the allegation that the commercial press knows more about business matters and responsibility to advertisers is a myth. While not comparable to the larger dailies, the student press is as active in the business community as might be reasonably expected. It carries the same sorts of responsibilities and attitudes toward advertisers as any commercial press does.

One final observation might be made. There is no doubting the sincerity of the state editors voicing their concern with the college papers. Often they read material which deals with the sensational issues, completely forgetting there is another side to the story. (It might well be noted the commercial press has a continuing problem with sensationalism in print.)

State newspaper editors in North Dakota seem to be, for the most part, reasonable human beings. They have their limitations, as anyone does. But it's nice to know there are real people behind those fulminating editorials.

Protest For The Environment

To The Editor:

May I heartily commend you for the beautiful editorial of Oct. 2, 1969, regarding the efforts to save the Sheyenne River Valley.

The reasons that this river valley must be saved are myriad, but suffice it to say that it is apparently the current generation's attitude in North Dakota to be concerned only with profit or "economics" and not with natural, quiet, scenic areas which sustain a man's soul.

Some of our leading state officials have indicated that the area of the Sheyenne River Valley to be flooded could be "replaced" by trees planted on the nearby sandhills. This demonstrates their depth of knowledge of ecology.

The Corps of Engineers continues to rape the land, despite protests, where they go. They have eliminated the best of almost every major river valley of the state of North Dakota and are tempting to finalize their "good work."

Perhaps this, better than anything I can think of, would be the best chance for an effective protest by the college students throughout the state of North Dakota. Perhaps a mass demonstration in Bismarck might just get your paper across. After all, you're about to initiate our multiple ecologic mistakes and environmental destruction.

Sincerely
George M. Johnson, M.D.

Where Were The Homecoming Pictures?

To The Editor:

I want to know why there was nothing on the Homecoming Queen, her candidates, the floats, parade or concepts in last week's issue of the Spectrum.

I called the Spectrum office three times. The first two times I was told to call back between 3:15 and 3:45, and the editor would explain it to me. I called, and he told me there were three long and involved reasons why there was nothing on these but that he didn't have time to tell me. He said he was in the middle of a class and advised me to write a letter. I think he should make his reasons public, if there are any. They should have been in last week's issue of the Spectrum.

Even though the Fargo Forum ran a picture and small article on NDSU's Homecoming, the event was held on NDSU's campus, and a paper representative of the campus events should cover campus activities.

It was a gross insult not only to Sheryl Thompson, but to her court as well. An event such as Homecoming which takes an enormous amount of students' time ought to get wider coverage in the students' newspaper.

To me it looks as if there was a certain amount of prejudice against Sheryl Thompson as NDSU's 1969 Homecoming Queen. I think the Spectrum owes Sheryl and her court a belated coverage and sincere apology.

I also realize that the editor was probably trying to do something different but that does not excuse him from at least mentioning who got to be queen and the floats who won.

Students and Faculty Need Rapport: Evaluations Should Not Be Published

To The Editor:
Some of the points made in your editorial on teacher evaluation were quite relevant. I make special reference to your statements on tenure. However, it is my personal observation that few faculty members benefitting by tenure fear it. This would lead me to conclude that these teachers are for the most part capable instructors.
Let us look at the others, the vast majority of instructors. The purpose of teacher evaluation is to improve education for the students, i.e., to improve the faculty's teaching methods and to evaluate the course material. It is the general consensus of the Student Policy Planning Committee (A&S) that the best way to achieve this goal is through the academic administrators. Department chairmen and academic deans will be able to consult with poorly rated teachers based on the results of our evaluative questionnaire plus other intelligence. Instructors in this way would not be subject to defensive attitudes when entering a classroom wherein he was formerly evaluated as "poor."

We look forward this year to an excellent evaluation prepared in a joint student-faculty effort. We hope to offer constructive criticism rather than emotional reaction. This type of evaluation will be easily accepted as valid.

Let us attempt to derive the most benefits possible. A published comparative evaluation would only be disparaged by poorly rated instructors and promote a breakdown in student-faculty rapport.

If this method is unsuccessful we can always publish later.

The Olde Forrest Primeval on Homecoming

Forrest Christianson
Congratulations men! You have succeeded in wasting yet another two days of your pseudo college career. Let me think now, how did I manage to waste two days? . . . Yes, that's right gentlemen, it was just three weeks ago of course, Homecoming!
There seems to be an attitude prevailing on this campus, that it is necessary to attend most social functions with a strategy. Try to remember your own ridiculous strategy of this situation.
It all starts about the third week in September when you see Doris Date on campus. You check around to determine if anyone has any information about her, and then resolve that she is acceptable. Finally, about the first week in October you ask her for a date, which is usually spent boring each other with questions about each other's home town, major, age, interest etc.
At the conclusion of your "date," you make the first mistake by asking her to come homecoming. Rather than say yes, your date asks you to call later, this gives her time to check your references, morals, attitudes and financial status. Well, you call later and she accepts and beings to dictate what is expected of you for the weekend festivities. However, these demands are not questioned because Harvey Handsome thinks he has found someone who is sincere, and this is just part of the "game." Thus the tedious duties required for a supposed "good time."
Harvey Handsome naturally plays the concert, but unfortunately ends up in a reserved section, due to some unforeseen circumstances. Both partners intend to have a good time, but how can one have a good time sitting for two hours in perspiration waiting for the big action that no one has heard of?
Finally, the concert has ended with the $3 ticket stubs on the floor of the fieldhouse, and each partner hungry, mostly thirsty.
After procuring the necessary beverages for the remainder of the evening parties, the couple retreat to a suitable party. This is where everyone sits and attempting to be social, but actually bored with the entire affair, because the female partner thinks she should have been more selective in choosing a partner for the weekend.
Unfortunately, she has already committed herself, so one might as well put on a facade of having fun or interest. At the sight of this, Harvey Handsome begins to realize the situation and informs Whiskey Man of his predicament. He offers assistance until the evening has concluded and then leaves Harvey Handsome to sleep.

The next day is spent with another five hours sitting watching a three-hour football game, where each partner delves into such deep topics as the weather, the size of the football players and what a wonderful time each is having. By this time Doris Date is entirely disinterested in Harvey Handsome, while Harvey is not sure just what exactly is going on. Moving from the ridiculous to the sublime, the couple now make pigs of themselves at an appropriate eating establishment.

Conversation is now almost non-existent, as Doris is beginning to wonder what Sammy Smooth is doing since he asked her out after Harvey made the big move. The couple has now finished gulping down the food, and greet each other with "wasn't that good," or "how was your steak?"

They now move onward to the final leg of the weekend, the dance. This is good for Doris, since she will be able to talk to other people, and Harvey can get to know the bartender.

Harvey digs out his How To Be A Good Date book, and finds he should be dancing. Unfortunately, Harvey is not exactly Fred Astaire on the floor, while Doris knows every dance since the jitter-bug, but he decides he might as well make an attempt since he failed at everything thus far.

Harvey dances like he has one leg broken with the other paralyzed, while Doris resembles someone having an epileptic fit. Harvey returns to Whiskey Man.

Time now moves slow for Doris, too fast for Harvey, as Whiskey Man is creeping up for honors for Homecoming next year. The lights are on, and the dance is finally over. Doris claims, for no other reason than convenience, that she is tired. Doris is taken back to the dorm while Harvey questions Whiskey Man for an answer for the weekend. Harvey makes another final attempt by asking her for a coke. She declines and now Harvey is really finished.

Harvey can now only accept Whiskey Man as truth. Harvey is now finished. Think it over men . . . .

from the OTHER SIDE

by Michael J. Olsen

I was looking through a key hole, and it turned into your mind. I was looking at your picture and found out it was really you. Pretty soon all faces became one, and all the same. A myna bird looked over and said, "It's time for you to leave."

I'm not accustomed to taking the advice of strange birds, but he was right. It was time for me to leave again. The trips all take place in my mind. Or at least I think they do. I don't have to drink anything, smoke anything, shoot anything or drop anything to take these trips of mine. I call it riding dreams, and it happens a lot when I go to movies. I've got to have my dreams, you see.

A man must have his dreams to chase whether they ever come true or not. He's not always sure what they are, but he knows that they're there. That's enough to keep him going.

I'm told I'm not alone
By the people that I know
The friends that smile so easily
The ones that come and go
But all is one and one is all
I'm me and mine in rise or fall
When I laugh I'm laughing
And when I cry I cry

It happens at the moment
Don't pause or ask me why
For all is one and one is all
I'm me and mine in rise or fall
I know an ice box freezes
I know the sun's a star
The moon's no green cheese heaven
And we are what we are
For all is one and one is all
I'm me and mine in rise or fall
I'm looking for an answer
It's how and where and why
No matter if I find it
I'll look until I die
All is one and one is all
I'm me and mine in rise or fall

Dreams are not reality. Just about anyone will tell you that. But what is one without the other? There's a line in the song "Happy talk" that goes, "You've got to have a dream; If you don't have a dream; How you gonna make a dream come true?"

By the power bestowed upon me by the grand constellation of the royal order of star-wisher-uponers, I hereby declare this official "make a dream come true week." And for all of you out there who don't have a dream, I commission you to find one and pursue it at full speed.

"Instant Cities" Predicted

Permanent Large Cities are a Fallacy

by Ken Schroeder

"Stop, Look. What's that sound? Everybody look what's going 'round . . ."

Look around and what do you see — married student housing, temporary student housing (not yet, sorry), Fieldhouse, plans for dorms, union additions, satellite unions, permanent bleachers, libraries, theatres, buildings, BUILDINGS, BUILDINGS.

Why not strobe lights, slide and movie shows, rock music, "plug-in cities," instant cities" and "Frankenstein suits?"

Michael Webb, formerly of Archigram, spoke about "What the Woodstock Rock Festival Means for Those of Us in the Building Trade" on October 15. Webb and his associates feel that our cities, our megalopolises are the flowering of 19th century city planning.

"Our present cities are built on the bones of the architecture of the 19th century. Futuristic visions make a fallacy of permanent cities," Webb said.

Present cities are composed of support facilities and transition points. The support facilities are buildings, pipes and wires. Transition points are the places where people change either the mode (subway, bus, car, foot) or the direction (vertical or horizontal). It is at the transition points that people encounter humanity jams.

"Archigram is a group of young British architects and designers who are making a radical attempt to break away from 19th century city patterns," said Webb. They point out some absurd and some not so absurd possibilities.

"Any building which lacks flexibility is doomed to either decay or becoming a museum," Webb said.

The plug-in city is an attempt to shift the transition points from ground level. It would be built on transportation ways that were not primarily vertical or horizontal. A system similar to pneumatic air tubes could function as the structure. Units could be "plugged" into this structure at will. These units may be either commercial or private. The plug-in city would be a megastructure.

"The Woodstock Rock Festival gathered 400,000 people in six hours. If that isn't an instant-city, I don't know what is," said Webb.

At Woodstock acclimatizing was accomplished through marijuana and LSD. Support facilities were not pipes, buildings or wire, but units transported by helicopter. Zap, N.D. was an instant city, however, support facilities weren't there.

Instant cities could move across the country under covering suspended in the air and have motion pictures, restaurants, sleeping facilities. All the comforts of home and more.

Imagine for a moment a school which convened in Michigan in July; moved eastward to Maine and then southward in August-October; spent the winter and early spring traveling along the southern Atlantic coast, Gulf Coast, and Southern Pacific coast; and the late spring and summer moving up the west coast and then eastward through the northern states. Impossible you say? Why?

"In a more radical vein, the Frankenstein Company has made an attempt to alter the relationship of architecture to enclosure," said Webb. "Architecture is providing the enclosures around people."

Why need they be boxes? As an answer to enclosures, the Frankenstein Company proposes a suit, the "Frankenstein Suit," in which there would be climate control and various life support systems. Larger structures would not have doors. Instead, as individuals walk up to a wall and match an electronic patch on the suit with a similar patch on the wall, the suit becomes part of the wall, and the person would be inside the structure.

Whether outlandish or realistic, these innovations all meet formidable opposition. They all require a re-evaluation of the psychological, sociological and economic value systems under which people labor today. It might be time to re-evaluate them. Why not start here and now?

Reader Suggests

Ban Cyclamates and Tobacco

To The Editor:

The recent Public Health Service order requiring the removal of foods containing cyclamates from grocers' shelves was only a half-hearted step in the right direction.

How is it, that on the basis of a relatively few experiments on mice, the Surgeon-General suddenly finds it necessary and required by law to order the food processing industry to stop adding cyclamates?

Is there then, no legal necessity to stop or at least as soon as possible drastically slow the massive intake of known human carcinogenic agents in the form of tobacco products? It's ridiculous that pressures from congressional lobby groups (of which the tobacco lobby is one of the most influential) should be able to slow or block out completely any anti-smoking order by Public Health Officials, should it be proposed.

The cyclamates ban is, in this light, a feint, a tricky side-step in a long and cruel campaign against human health.

The incredible inference I draw from the Surgeon-General's order is that Government is quite ready to use its executive and legislative powers to make the world safer for laboratory rats and mice, but not for you and me.

Inner Conflicts Cause
For Leaving Moratorium

After resolving some inner conflicts, I have decided not to participate or organize the November Moratorium. I have demonstrated once but I do not believe by expanding these protests each month that the national conscience of America will change enough to influence our foreign policy.

It may seem superfluous to be writing a letter justifying my action of not participating in the November Moratorium, but I feel it is necessary, if not for the people involved then for myself.

To me, the idea for a day of national constructive demonstration for peace was a sincere effort of many people to voice their opinion about the war. I am not so sure the same will happen in November. Although I am still against the war, I do not feel it necessary for me to be vocal about it. Perhaps, I can be my own "silent majority."

After the October Moratorium I seemed to be struggling between inner conflicts. The choice was a continuation or an avoidance of these conflicts. I choose the latter, asking that people understand.

Six North Dakota State University engineering students have been awarded Civil Engineering Scholarships by the North Dakota State Highway Department according to Commissioner Warren R. Hjelle.

Three seniors who have received the $200 per quarter scholarships are William C. Hope, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hope of New Rockford; Francis Ziegler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ziegler of Zeeland, and Stephen G. Dewald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Dewald of Jamestown.

Two North Dakota State University juniors, James L. Clark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clark of Woodworth, and Charles R. Foster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Foster of Williston, each receive the award this year for the second time.

Dennis Earl Jacobson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erling Jacobson of Fargo and a sophomore, will be receiving the scholarship for the first time.

Hjelle said that the scholarships are awarded annually and that any engineering student who have satisfactorily completed one year of study at NDSU and are interested in being considered should contact the Dean of Engineering.

Crockett Is Legal Advisor And Law School Counsellor

Dick Crockett, legal advisor for the Water Institute, announced Friday that he would be available ten hours a week to give legal help and counsel to students. He emphasized however that since he has not yet taken the North Dakota State Bar Examination, he could only give very general legal help.

Crockett stated that any student requiring an attorney's advice would have to contact "the lawyer's Referral Service." This service would provide an attorney at a very nominal fee.

Crockett considers his position "similar to an Ombudsman. I will try to settle any gripes with the administration before they get too serious and the student really needs the advice of an attorney."

At present, most of Crockett's time will be used to "counsel pre-law students." He will help students "prepare for the law school admission test and help select a school."

Also, he will be available "for consultation by the administration, Dean of Students, Student Government and any student or other interested in drafting statutes and legislation." Crockett felt that he would be able to evaluate material in terms of general legal ideas. Thus he hopes to "solve problems before a problem could arise."

Crockett stated that he is doing a lot of work for Dean Pavsek by inspecting the campus judicial system. In the future, he hopes to keep on file all North Dakota laws concerning drugs, alcohol and landlord-tenant relations. These laws and the campus regulations would be kept on file in Dean Pavsek's office and would be open for students to check.

Also, Crockett hopes to reduce writing all the disciplinary policies of the administration. After creating the file, the only disciplinary action that could be taken against a student would have to be laid down in written form. Crockett said that he would try to act as a neutral body of one involving student-administration conflicts.

Blue Key Announces New Educator Award

"In the firm belief that recognition of excellence in one inspires excellence in others," said Jim Zehren, "the NDSU chapter of Blue Key has initiated a Distinguished Educator Award."

Zehren, president of the national honor service fraternity, explained the award further. "This designation will be made by members of the fraternity twice each school year."

Purpose of the award is to recognize faculty members for outstanding character, dedication and service to students at SU. Names of the Distinguished Educators will be permanently displayed on a gold plaque in the Union.

The award is a complement to Blue Key's highest award, the Doctor of Service.

Bison Board Attempts Casual Communication

Bison Board, an informal organization created to promote free exchange of ideas between students and the administration, is now in its second year of operation.

"Need was felt for a casual exchange with an opportunity to establish communication between students and the administration," commented President L. D. Loftsgard.

"If I become critical of a certain individual, I then attempt to speak with that person so that I may see his point of view," he continued. "In the same respect, the Bison Board seeks to discuss policies which may arouse controversies, exposing both sides of and argument."

Included on this board are the University president, three vice presidents, dean of students, student president, vice president, Spectrum editor and numerous students who represent large organizations.

Dean Les Pavsek described the Bison Board as an effort to acquaint students with what is happening on campus and to discuss opinions which could yield an improvement for students, faculty and administration. The purpose of the board is not to make decisions but to seek out and explain attitudes.

The Bison Board was created to serve as a sounding board for information. However, according to Butch Molm, many questions are left completely unanswered. Lack of information on the part of students and administration, has led to the drawing of conclusions without proper consideration. On the whole, members feel the Bison Board has fulfilled its intended purpose.

Lilac Day A Forgotten Dream

Lilac Day was formerly a traditional event at NDSU. The first festival was held in 1931.

Originator of the idea was A. G. Arvold, chairman of the speech and drama department until 1952. His dream was to someday have 80 miles of lilac bushes between SU and UND.

Arvold had an avowed fondness for the purple plant.

Each spring, faculty and students from the speech and drama department would drive to Hillsboro, planting lilac bushes along the way. They would also stop in the Hillsboro park for a picnic.

The festival was also celebrated extensively on campus. A Queen of Lilac Days was duly enthroned on the steps of Old Main with a crown of real lilacs and a long lilac colored cape.

Among the highlights of the festival was the planting of Chinese Lilac bushes south of Ceres Hall in honor of NDAC's men in the armed services. Fifty-three bonneted coeds representing North Dakota's 53 counties sang the "Lilac Day" song.

After Arvold left SU, Lilac Day and his dream of 80 miles of lilacs were forgotten. They now live only in SU's history.

Northside Looks Misplaced Pharmacy Addition Suffers From Acute Duality

by Paul Erling

Within a few weeks the classroom and office addition to pharmacy's Sudro Hall will be ready for use. Even as the building was taking shape many of its forms seemed questionable, and a preview this week confirmed these fears. A definite duality is apparent, as if two proposals with different ideals had been mixed.

The exterior is the first clue of a double standard. For the south and east sides (which can be seen from the street) architect Walter T. Johnson of Fargo produced a reasonable facsimile of Sudro Hall. Assuming that the appearance of Sudro Hall is worth reproducing, it is unfortunate that the north side was not given any of the same visual organization.

Although the majority of the campus residents will see it daily, this north side looks as though someone misplaced the list of visual design priorities used for the other elevations. The limestone facing is nowhere to be seen. The simple rectangular massing is destroyed by two other elements that were "tacked on" late in the design process — with a minimum of success.

Somehow there wasn't room for a complete frame on the two windows. The air-conditioning condenser is impossible to miss in its conspicuous position. Can it be that the occasional public street-view was considered that much more important than the student and faculty view?

The interior, too, exhibits double standards — particularly when one compares the first and second floors.

On the ground floor the exterior brick is used throughout the entries and in a wide corridor which services two lecture halls. The brick is a handsome and unifying choice for these walls. The lecture rooms, which seat 240 and 130 students, are almost pleasing, though marred by clumsy detailing on the rear walls and a confusion of service fixtures on the ceiling. Ten offices on the first floor are served by a smaller hallway, which serves to separate heavy student traffic and the quieter function of office spaces.

Moving to the second floor, the split personality displayed on the exterior is again obvious. First, at the main stair landing is a lighting fixture that must be left over from a parking lot. It is an omen of things yet to be seen.

The large and barren upper stair landing (lit by an unrelated style of fixture) leads to another corridor. The second floor circulation is completely alien to that established on the ground floor. Offices and classrooms are mixed and strung out over the floor area. Seven offices, left over from the office group downstairs, open directly from the heavy-circulation hall. (Why, the student may well ask, was a separate hall given to the first-floor staff members if it was unnecessary for those on the second floor?)

The upper-level classrooms also suffer. The two largest rooms must be entered through tunnel-like spaces because the offices have the space directly adjacent to the hall. Another classroom is virtually hidden just off the back stairs. (Perhaps this room was purposely placed out of the way, since a structural column rises through the room about four feet from the wall.)

Nor is the upper hallway important enough to have the fine external brick used downstairs. Instead the designer substituted painted concrete block, which is also used in the classrooms and offices.

Colors for these walls come from a dreary institutional palette: pale yellow, eye-saver mint green, and washed-out pink beige. (These are an improvement, however, over the colors of old Sudro.)

Block is not usually considered as an exotic interior material, though examples such as the Stevens biology complex show that its use can be very effective. Predictably, in the pharmacy extension its appearance is strictly utilitarian.

Sudro's addition does have some redeeming features. The ugly north windows can eventually be removed easily to serve as a walkway link to any future extension of the pharmacy complex. Ample provision has been made for closed circuit television to all the classrooms.

While the elevator and back entry spaces make the massing of the building ridiculous, they do provide easy access to the structure for any student using a wheelchair. Even rest room facilities are specially fitted for wheelchair use. And best of all, the entire wing is air-conditioned, showing that someone must realize college buildings are used during hot weather.

Few public college building funds are really adequate, and this lack of money usually means unavoidable revisions in an architect's original hopes and plans. But even with this rationalization in mind, it is hard to believe that the funds now sunk into Sudro's addition could not have been spent more successfully.

Recipient Can Define Obscenity

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (CP) — Roger Staples got fed up with junk mail cluttering his mailbox. So he took it to the post office, labeled it "obscene," and requested the post office not to deliver any more mail from the offending advertisers.

Though the local postmaster found this quite strange and refused to do what Staples asked, the Post Office Department's assistant general counsel ruled that the obscene mail laws leaves defining of "obscenity" squarely in the hands of the recipient. Said he: "Under the law, the (Recipients) can declare that an ad for a sack of potatoes is sexy to them. And if they're obliged to act." (i.e., refuse to deliver the mail.)

The ruling apparently includes obscene mail from the Selective Service System, (from Geek Speckled Bird, Atlanta.)

Red Cross Condemns Prisoner Treatment

WASHINGTON D. C. — American Red Cross urged a massive expression of indignation over the treatment of U.S. prisoners held by the North Vietnamese. It called on the American people to write directly to the president of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam to express concern about the failure to give captured U.S. military personnel the benefits of Geneva Conventions.

According to latest Department of Defense figures, 413 Americans are known to be prisoners of war and 918 others are missing, believed captured.

Pointing out that the North Vietnamese are signatory to the Geneva Convention, Red Cross national headquarters here urged such a public outcry might help much to ensure that American prisoners will receive the humane treatment called for in the Conventions. It urged that appeal be addressed to:

College Housing Officers Meet in Conference Here

Increasing housing shortages and soaring construction costs were topics of concern at the meeting of the Association of College and University Housing Officials held Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 at NDSU.

We drew housing officials from colleges and universities throughout Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin," said Norman Seim, Housing Director and Program Chairman of the conference.

Activities began with registration and tours of the three F-M area campuses Friday afternoon. President L. D. Loftsgard welcomed the conferees calling for greater professionalism in housing administration, both in terms of realistic financial considerations and in terms of helping students.

The program closed after informal round-table sessions with F-M area architects discussing College and University Buildings — Past, Present & Future."

During Saturday activities some panel discussions dealt with numerous aspects of housing and leading college students: food problems, personnel qualifications and training, special problems of married students and racial minorities, vacation and maintenance obstacles, and university student government in residence and housing innovations.

Although the conference was conducted by and for housing administrators, one panel was run by students. Dale McCright, mayor of MSA, Howard Alvstad, MSA associate mayor, and MSA councilman Peter Vandenburg explained the role a strong married student association can play in guiding present policy and future plans for married student facilities.

In addition to providing social activities and obtaining a voice in student government for the married student, MSA works with the administration. Close cooperation has resulted in benefits for both.

The conference closed with a dinner Saturday evening featuring the Rev. Harry E. Olson, Jr., pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church of Fargo speaking on "The Stride Toward Excellence."

SU Employees Union Gains New Contract

NDSU's Employee's Union Local No. 486 has completed negotiations with the North Dakota State Board of Higher Education and now have a new working agreement that became effective Oct. 16, 1969. The Union local, (affiliated with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees' AFL-CIO) has the only employee working agreement on campus.

Provisions of the contract apply to employees at UND also.

Union members of the local will receive a copy of the contract at the next regular meeting to be held at Morrill Hall, Room 213 at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 11, 1969.

Any employees not now a member of the local, but interested in becoming a member is urged to attend.

President of the Local is Mr. Chester Skarloken.

Model United Nations Set for Mid-March

1970 Model United Nations (MUN) activities will be held in mid-March at NDSU under a new format. Instead of emphasizing the legislative work of the UN, this year, time will be devoted to various UN activities such as the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) and the World Health Organization (WHO).

Other changes include a committee that will draft legislation on perennial UN problems — Viet Nam, the Middle East, South Africa, etc.

There will be fewer delegates, about 350. No one who has been disruptive in the past will be admitted. Robert Coles, advisor to MUN said. "In the past it (MUN) degenerated into a shouting match and bickering on parliamentary procedure so that those interested in real debate never get a chance to say 'boo'."

Curriculum Committee Revises And Realigns 1970 Courses

Realigned courses for the 1970 academic year have nearly all been reviewed by the NDSU Curriculum Committee. Approved courses and description of content from the following departments have been reviewed by the committee and now are available for review by faculty members in the office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs: All of Chemistry and Physics; all of Agriculture, except Agricultural Economics, Agronomy, and Soils; all of Home Economics, except Art, and Home Management - Family Economics; Construction and Management in the College of Engineering and Architecture; Pharmacy Administration, Nursing and Department of Pharmacy in the College of Pharmacy; and none of the College of Arts and Sciences. Since departmental, college and university curriculum committees spent many hours in planning and developing the transition from the quarter to the semester system — earlier scheduled for implementation at all North Dakota colleges and universities in the fall of 1970 — the committee continued steps for course revision even after the proposed change order had been dropped.

Youngest Dirty Old Man On Campus

He can snow any girl on campus in less than 60 seconds. He's kinda short, but he's very blonde and very cute.

"Pretty girls, Dad," he says as he and his father approach a group of coeds crossing the mall.

"Yes, Bill, pretty girls," answers Dad.

"Nice legs too, Dad."

Four or five girls dissolve into pleased giggles and "Dad," Churchill Hall Head Resident Gene Gebhards, looks down at his two-year-old son and wonders where he picked up an appreciation of feminine legs.

"Before when we passed some girls he would ask me who they were. I'd answer, pretty girls, Bill, pretty girls. But I really don't know where he picked up the part about the legs. I suppose from TV or the guys in the dorm," Gebhards explains.

"We were eating lunch in the Bison Grill one day when a girl stopped to talk to Bill," relates Mrs. Gebhards. "They talked for a while, and all of a sudden Bill looked up at her and said 'sock it to me, baby.' She was almost as surprised as I was."

Both of Bill's parents are students. Dad has to finish the quarter, then student teach. Mom will finish her double major in English and French and be certified to teach in June of 1971. Then Dad plans to go to law school, and Mom will teach.

About next April, Bill will become an oldest child instead of an only child.

"If I can adjust, they can," quipped Dad when he was asked how he thought the Churchill Hall residents would react to having a Young Bill Gebhards.

new baby around. "They're all very nice to Bill."

Gebhards attended NDSU on a football scholarship from 1962 until the fall of 1965 when he left the Bison short a captain and signed a professional contract with the Houston Oilers. He did not play that year, and decided he couldn't afford to risk the uncertainty since he was married.

"I finally decided there wasn't much future with only three years of college," Gebhards said. "I wanted to go to law school and Peggy wanted to finish her last two years, so we came up here."

"It really isn't that different from any apartment house," Mrs. Gebhards says when she is asked how she likes being the only woman living in a men's dorm. "I don't have much to do with the outside world. I go to class, come home, keep house and watch Bill."

"A residence hall will be whatever its residents want it to be," says Gebhards. "So far we have really good people, with a lot of enthusiasm."

"My job is primarily one of organization. I work with RA's, with policy and anything that has to do with dorm activities or environment."

If Churchill Hall residents will concede that Bill's Dad runs their dorm, most of them are aware of the influence Bill holds over the rest of the campus. Bill has a regular routine he follows, beginning at the Union.

With Mom he starts in the basement of the Union. First, there are the stuffed animals in the bookstore that must be checked over. Then there is the barber shop and the Valley Room, depending on which seems most likely to yield a piece of candy or a can of pop.

The display cases each get proper attention, although Bill has been somewhat unhappy since the pictures of the Homecoming Queen candidates were removed. Finally there is the Bison Grill and a full meal.

With Dad he will start out with a Housing luncheon in the Dacotah Inn. The next stop is the Housing Office in Ceres Hall. He picks up a small stool, walks over to the first secretary, and sits down for a talk. After he gets a piece of candy he goes on to the second woman. After she has rewarded him, he moves across the room to his final stop. She cuts out paper trees for him and gives him one more piece of candy. Another day ends successfully, and Bill can take Dad home.

Churchill Hall Subsidizes Education For Orphan

by Kim Osteros

Hong Sue Hee, a 12-year-old Korean orphan, is getting the chance of receiving an education. Providing this chance are the men of Churchill Hall.

According to Herman Mathern, treasurer of the dorm council and project chairman, the monetary support was started last fall the dorm council.

The cost of the boarding school is $144 per year. This includes room, board and classes. The money collected by Mathern, is sent to the Christian Children's Fund who manages it.

"We had some trouble last year raising the $144, but this year think we will be able to support her completely without digging into the dorm's treasury," says Mathern. "I go around to the rooms and ask for donations. Most of the guys are really fired about the project."

The Christian Children's Fund supports schools like the one Hong Sue Hee attends, in some sixty different countries around the world. The schools teach reading, writing and skills such as sewing and cooking.

"She seems to like school real well," said Mathern. "There are three of us who write to her occasionally. She writes back and tells us some about her school and her studies. The Christian Children's Fund translates all the letters we write and all that we get from her."

When asked why the hall has taken on the responsibility of educating Hong Sue Hee, Mathern replied, "It's just that we think those kids need a chance to get an education. We are always getting letters from the Christian Fund showing the need for more sponsors.

"I don't really care if the Christian Children's Fund is making money on the project. It's the humanitarian aspect of it. She needs the support to go to school and I think it's great we have many guys willing to help."

Nursing Program Enrollment Up

Enrollment in a new two-year associate arts degree program in nursing has reached 64 at NDSU. SU and Dickinson State College number among more than 330 colleges and universities in the United States now offering associate degrees in nursing.

Patient-care assignments began early this month in cooperation with Fargo-Moorhead hospitals. The assignments take each College of Pharmacy Division of Nursing student to either Dakota or St. John's hospitals in Fargo or to St. Ansgar in Moorhead two mornings a week.

All first year students, the 60 women and four men currently enrolled in the program should more than double in the fall of 1970 when many of these students enter their second year and a new first year class is enrolled, predicted Sister Mary Heinen, Nursing Division director.

Temporarily housed in the existing College of Pharmacy building, Sudro Hall, the division will move into a $315,000 addition to that building scheduled for completion early next year.

Bison Win Unprecedented Sixth Conference Title

The Marman twins show why they were named Linemen of the Week following Saturday's victory over UNI. On the left, Tim Marman, an outside linebacker, runs down UNI halfback Mike Reed. On the right, Tom Marman, a defensive end, rushes in to help linebacker Dave Paul put the stop to a Panther runner. The Marmans both played on the right side of the Bison Defense.

Dick Marsden
the sixth consecutive year, the Bison are the champions of the North Central Conference. They achieved that goal last Saturday afternoon by crushing UNI, marking the worst defeat had suffered since 1954.

the 21 Bison seniors who were making their last Dacotah appearance, the victory was especially sweet. They were undefeated on Dacotah Field in their four years as Bison, and have yet to be defeated in three years of NCC play.

Though the conditions for football on Saturday were not ideal, the Bison offense displayed its awesome attack. Led by All-American Paul Hatchett, the Bison gained 400 yards rushing and another 156 yards passing. Hatchett accounted for 17 yards rushing and added two touchdowns for another 29 yards.

Quarterback Bruce Grasamke had another fine day, as he completed 12 of 18 passes for 156 yards and ran for 74 yards. Grasamke's favorite target was split end Chuck Wald, who snagged six passes for 87 yards. All six of Wald's receptions were for first downs.

The Bison offense showed its strength immediately as they took the opening kickoff and marched 40 yards for a score. Grasamke completed three clutch third down passes to keep the drive alive and then scored the touchdown himself on a one-yard pass. Twardy's conversion made the score 7-0.

The Bison regained possession quickly as the defense gave no ground in its first test. Following the UNI punt, the Bison were unable to move and were forced to punt. However, on the second play of the UNI series, Rick Coville intercepted a Bill Raun pass and returned it to the Panther 43. From here the Bison used their grinding game to grind out the remaining yardage. Runs by Hatchett and Mjos sparked the drive with Hatchett going over from 40 yards out for the score. The possession gave the Bison a 14-0

The stiff Bison defense stymied the Panthers following the kickoff, and forced them to give up the football. The Bison took over on their own 33, but on the first play Hatchett left all Panther defenders stunned as he took a Grasamke pitchout and raced 67 yards for his second touchdown. The conversion attempt was no good and the Bison enjoyed a 20-0 first quarter lead.

In the second quarter the momentum seemed to switch, as the Bison were victims of three fumbles and a bad snap on a punt. The Panthers managed to convert two of the breaks into touchdowns, and the Bison lead was cut to 20-13 at the half. The lead could have been even less if Joe McMenamy had not come up with a key interception after the Panthers had marched to the Bison 9.

The second half was completely dominated by the Bison, as they managed three second half TD's, and completely stopped the Panther attack. UNI could manage only two mild threats the entire second half as the Bison defense was superb.

Bison scoring came late in the third period, but they needed only three minutes of the period to chalk up two scores. The first came on a six-yard run by Hatchett, his third of the game and the second on a 28-yard pass from Grasamke to Wald. At the end of the period the score was 34-13, and the Bison were well in command.

The final Bison score came late in the game when Grasamke guided the Bison offense 76 yards in 12 plays, and took the ball over from the one for his second touchdown of the afternoon. Twardy's conversion made the score its final 41-13.

Approximately 6,200 loyal fans viewed the last home appearance of the Bison, including the parents of 50 Bison squad members. The parents were honored at a luncheon prior to the game and were introduced as part of the halftime festivities.

Nothing Stops Cross-Country Runners

by Pat Peterson

Try getting up at 6 a.m. sometime to run five miles. Some members of NDSU's Cross Country Team do, and according to Pete Watson, "It's not only cold in the morning but once I get out of Fargo the stars are still shining."

Watson, a sophomore from St. Louis Park, Minn., has been running cross country since he was a freshman in high school. Although he is primarily a spring trackster, he also enjoys long distance running.

"It's a tough sport," said Watson, "but it gives me a great deal of personal satisfaction, and it's good for mental conditioning. Mental conditioning is very important because many times a runner wants to quit but he pushes himself on toward the finish line." According to Watson mental outlook is 50 per cent of distance running.

Each member of the cross country team runs twice a day. They run five miles in the morning and in the afternoon they report to Coach Roger Grooters for practice.

At practice they run sprints and long distances resulting in the running of 15 to 20 miles each day. They practice six days a week and usually have meets on Saturdays. The distance runners practice hard Sunday through Wednesday and let up on Thursday and Friday.

Regardless of weather conditions the cross country runners practice. Watson said, "I hate to run against the wind but I don't mind running in the rain." He added that the hardest part of running in adverse conditions is getting started.

National Championship Is At Stake Saturday

"The national championship is at stake against South Dakota State." That's what Coach Ron Erhardt had to say about Saturday's game at Brookings, S. D., against the South Dakota State University Jackrabbits. It will be the final regular-season game for the Bison.

The Jackrabbits blitzed Augustana with 35 first-half points on their way to a 42-0 victory over the Augies last Saturday. They have won three of their last four games to up their season record to three wins, five losses. SDSU is 3-5 like this: losses in their first four games to Weber State 28-13, Drake 21-16, Morningside 32-22 and UNI 24-14; wins over UND and South Dakota by 19-13 and 20-14, a loss to Youngstown University by 17-16 and last week's victory over Augustana.

According to Erhardt, "SDSU has come on very strong in their last three or four ball games. They will certainly give that all-out effort that we have received from every ball club because we are the number one team in the country. They are very potent (offensively) and have a good strong defense."

SDSU is a young ball club that has been prone to make mistakes. The Jackrabbits have apparently bounced back from several close early-season losses to become a serious threat to the Bison unbeaten record. Mistakes cost the South Dakotans their first two losses to non-conference opponents Weber State and Drake. Against Drake their pass coverage broke down in the final few minutes to give up two touchdowns in the last three minutes of their 21-16 defeat.

SDSU began their resurgence this season with a 19-13 win over

UND at Grand Forks in the Sioux Homecoming. Their defense was unyielding in that game and has been tough ever since. The Jackrabbit defense has allowed just 44 points in the last four games. Last Saturday against Augustana they held the Auggies to 224 yards total offense on 128 yards rushing and just 96 yards passing as they notched their first shutout of the year.

The Jackrabbits' defense is led by two of their three-tricaptains — linebacker Jim Langer and tackle Tim Roth. Langer and Roth, who are both 6-2, 240 pounds, are in their third season as regulars.

Offensively, SDSU has been using three quarterbacks, all of whom have been off and on performers. Their quarterbacks are sophomores John Moller and Fred Richardson and junior John Miller. Last week against Augustana, Moller threw three touchdown passes and ran for another score.

Other offensive leaders for the Jackrabbits are tight end Clyde Hagen and running back Max Sinclair. Hagen, a 6-4, 235-pounder, is a three-sport letterman who is very strong and quick. Sinclair is a freshman who broke into the starting lineup with 88 yards in 22 carries.

In the series SDSU has won 31 times, the Bison have won 19, and there have been 5 ties. Last year SU won 21.3 as SDSU rushed for only 284 yards and passed for 102 yards to only 188 yards rushing and 66 yards passing for the Herd.

The Bison know the Jackrabbits will be tough. Coach Erhardt said, "We'll have to have one of our best efforts." The Bison are seeking their 18th straight North Central Conference victory and their 19th win in a row.

Theta Chi 1 quarterback Roger Grant cuts loose with a pass as ATO 1 linebacker Ron Caboski moves to cover Grant's receiver. ATO won the game, and the intramural championship 6-0. (Photo by Loberg)

ATO 1 Team First For Second Year

ATO 1, behind the pinpoint passing of Tom Wirtz and the fired-up rush of the defensive line, out-lasted Theta Chi for a 6-0 championship win. The winning touchdown came on a Wirtz to Mitch Felchle pass.

This is the second consecutive year ATO has come out on top in intramural football.

TKE defeated Sigma Nu for third place, 18-0.

Wendell Schollander, father of Olympic swim champion Don Schollander, has the second longest TD pass on record — an 80-yarder to Viv McKay against SDSU in 1932.

Annual Bison Stampede Set

The NDSU Rodeo Club will hold its annual Bison Stampede Nov. 14 and 15 at the West Fargo Indoor Arena.

About 150 contestants from seven schools are expected at the rodeo, which is approved by the National Collegiate Rodeo Association.

Each school enters a team of six men and three girls. There are six events for men including saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, ribbon roping and steer wrestling. For the ladies events will be barrel racing, goat tying and break-away calf roping.

The men's team from SU consists of Kent Dressler, saddle bronc and ribbon roping; Lynn Frey, bull riding and saddle bronc; Larry Hoovestol and Joel Olson, ribbon roping and calf roping.

Frank Keogh, one of the co-captains, will be in bull riding, and Mike Lund, the other co-captain, will compete in bareback and saddle bronc riding, bull riding and ribbon roping.

Colleen Schotz, Gail Sletten

and Mary Keogh make up girls team.

"One of the purposes of the rodeo is to acquaint college students with the sport of rodeo," Keogh, who is also managing this year's rodeo said. "We are optimistic about this year's rodeo since the sport is catching more in this part of the state."

Stock for the rodeo will be provided by Bob Aber, owner of Great Plains Rodeo Stock in Beach, N. D. Bob Miller, Glendive, Mont. will announce that the clown will be Duane Riechman of New Underwood, S. D.

There will be two performances Saturday, Nov. 14 at 2 and 8 p.m. and one on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Weible Hall Best South High Rise

The Weible Hall girls' football team was defeated by the South High Rise team 24-0 Monday night. The championship game in the double elimination tournament was played on a snow-covered field in foul weather.

Each player on the championship and runner-up team received a gold or silver trophy respectively.

Each team in the tournament had seven players plus substitutes. Games were played twice a week when the weather permitted.

The Weible team, more commonly known as the Halibut, keeping in line with their reputation as an aquarium, declared that's why they played, "For the Halibut."

Coming up next for the Halibuts is the volleyball tournament.

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK

Two Linemen of the Week and one Back of the Week were named following last Saturday's 41-13 victory over the University of Northern Iowa. The top linemen were the Brothers Marman — identical twins Tim and Tom. Cornerback Joe McMenemy was named Back of the Week.

Tim Marman, a 5-11, 195-pound linebacker, had an outstanding game with two unassisted tackles, six assisted tackles, four special contacts and one pass interception. Coach Ron Erhardt said, "Tim did a great job stopping the passing game on the short side rushing the passer. He also came up with an intercepted pass at the end of the game."

"Tom came off the bench and did a fantastic job for us stopping the UNI rushing game as we held them to 21 rushing yards," said Erhardt. "The Marmans anchored the right side of the Bison defense against UNI."

"Back of the Week is a young man who came off the bench when one of our regulars was hurt," the coach said. "He did a great job and stopped a key drive before the half with an interception. Joe's job was to cover their best receiver (UNI split end Randy Ruisch, third leading receiver in the NCC entering the game.) He (Ruisch) caught only one pass against Joe. Joe shut him out the rest of the afternoon and made the big interception."

BISON SIXTH IN CROSS COUNTRY

The Bison cross country team, led by sophomore Randy Lussenden's fourth-place finish, took sixth place in the North Central Conference meet held last Saturday at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Newcomer Mankato State College won the team title, followed by UND and SDSU (tied for second), UNI, South Dakota, NDSU, Augustana and Morningside. Individual winner for the third straight year was UND's Arjan Gelling. Gelling's winning time was 25:96.1 for the five-mile course. Lussenden's time was 25:44.

FOOTBALL NEWS

Last week's North Central Conference football action leaves the teams — SDSU, UNI and UND — tied for second in the conference with identical 3-2 records. UNI lost to the Bison, UND defeated Morningside 48-19 and SDSU beat Augustana 42-0. The University of South Dakota went outside the conference to absorb a 24-0 loss at the hands of Drake University.

South Dakota State's defending NCC champion basketballers opened their 1969 practice sessions on October 15 with three lettermen on hand among the 14 candidates. The three are seniors Tom Thomas, John Eidsness and Dennis Womeldorf. Another lettermen, football player Clyde Hagen, will join the team after the football season. According to Coach Jim Marking, "We are a young and inexperienced squad."

Mankato State basketball Coach Red Severson appears to be in trouble. Mankato State won only one of 25 games last year and Severson has eight of last year's players back. Mankato will become the eighth basketball team in the North Central Conference this year.

BOTTOM OF THE PILE

That tough Bison defense held Northern Iowa to minus rushing yardage in the second half and 21 yards total for the game . . . Coach Erhardt said, "Against UNI our defensive unit probably had their best all-around effort of the season" . . . entering the UNI game, the Bison led the nation in team rushing and total offense with 397.3 yards rushing and 504.9 yards total offense per game . . . against UNI the Bison rushed for 400 yards and passed for 56 more, giving them 456 total offensive yards . . .

Entering the UNI game Paul Hatchett was tied for the national rushing lead with 99 points on 15 touchdowns . . . Hatchett got 12 touchdowns against the Panthers . . . the Bison led the NCC in game averages of 45.2 points, 412.2 yards rushing and 560.8 yards offensive yards . . . quarterback Bruce Gasamke leads the team in pass completion percentage with 63.8% on 51 completions in 79 attempts . . .

Streak time: The win Saturday was the 18th in a row, 26th consecutive regular-season win, 28th straight home-field victory, 56th win in the last 60 games for the Bison and the 17th straight NCC win . . . that victory clinched the sixth consecutive title for SU . . . the Bison have already broken school records for season total offense yardage, rushing yardage, total first downs and first downs rushing . . .

On the year the Bison have 3055 yards rushing to 819 yards rushing by their opponents . . . that 819 yards rushing by the eight Bison players equals Paul Hatchett's rushing for the year . . . Hatchett got his in 138 attempts, the eight teams have had 287 attempts against UNI, quarterback Bruce Gasamke completed 12 passes for 12 first downs . . . in that game Paul Hatchett broke the all-SU career rushing record set by Ken Rota . . .

Hatchett's 177 yards against UNI give him 2320 for his career . . . last week the Bison goal was written on their locker room board as CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIP . . . this week the board reads NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP . . . the Bison will win 42-14 . . . California is beautiful in December. . . .

Murray In Table Tennis Tournament

This weekend Jim Murray, NDSU senior, will be a contestant in the National Amateur Table Tennis Team Tournament in Detroit, Michigan. Jim will be competing for the Minnesota team, because North Dakota has no representative in the tournament.

The players compete in four man teams, but all competition is singles. One point is awarded for each singles victory, and a team must attain five singles points to win a match. Since there will be up to five teams representing some states, Murray expects to be in action up to ten hours on Saturday.

According to Murray, "The first day we should play eight or nine teams. Then the results are computed, and the teams are grouped into brackets, according to their skill. On Sunday, the tournament is run in a round-robin fashion, each team playing the other members in its bracket. The overall winner will be the team which wins the top bracket, but each bracket will have its own champion."

Murray has an impressive record backing his selection for the Minnesota team. He has won the SU singles tournament all three years he's competed, and last year was the regional champion in doubles and runner-up in singles competition at the American College Union International Region 10 tournament.

Murray is also the defending doubles champion and the singles runner-up for the city of Fargo. He is presently ranked tenth among registered table tennis players in Minnesota.

Dairy Judging Team Competes

The NDSU Dairy Judging Team recently returned from an 11-day judging trip in which it had competition at Madison, Wis., and Columbus, Ohio.

In Madison, the team placed dead last of 10 competing teams in the overall judging contest. The team tied for first in Short-horn judging. Rueben Meyer, senior in agriculture education from Gackle, N. D., placed first in the Guernsey Division while Meyer and Bob Jerger, senior in animal science from Barnsville, Minn., tied for fourth in Short-horn judging.

In Columbus, Jerger placed sixth in Jerseys and the SU team stood 25th out of 31 teams.

Making up the third party of the team was Duane Flynn, a junior in animal science from Red Deer, Manitoba. Coach Charles Edgerly, associate professor of dairy husbandry, accompanied the team on the trip.

Loan Bill Awaits Nixon's O. K.

Washington — (CPS) — An "emergency" insured student loan bill has finally received Congressional approval and is currently awaiting President Nixon's signature.

The bill would permit private lenders to students to receive interest subsidies of up to three per cent beyond the seven per cent limitation on interest imposed under existing laws.

This means the total interest will be ten per cent rather than the seven per cent now charged.

It also directs the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to determine if lenders have discriminated against borrowers who do not do business with them. The secretary is to report his findings to Congress March 1 and take remedial steps if he finds a substantial number of students are subject to discrimination.

The bill increases authorizations for National Defense loans, educational opportunity grants and college work-study funds in fiscal year 1970 and 1971.

GOOD WIFEHOOD

Corrine Henning

I heard that Professor Engel came to class with a candle in a candle holder the other evening. He explained that he thought he might need it if his lecture on Moby Dick lasted too long. Something about shedding a little light on the subject. Do you suppose he thought the electricity would fail?

The pasture behind West Court is no longer inhabited by grazing cattle. The new (?) temporary housing trailers have moved in.

Everyone has frantically been trying to arrange a workable schedule for next quarter. The problems are doubled when both husband and wife attend school. A wife must strive to stagger her classes among those of her husband, never allowing her to immediately follow his or vice versa. Why? The small matter of a child or children demands that someone be home at all times. Now, how are you supposed to work two full-time schedules into that type of arrangement?

Speaking of schedules, a common grip of mine is the University's lack of night courses. I remember looking over last year's schedules and finding history courses and many more English and math courses than are being offered this year. Was there such a lack of interest?

I have yet to attend an evening lecture that is not just as full as a daytime one. I've talked to many who would be happy to be going to school part time, if only more classes were offered in the evenings. What other time is there for any working citizen of the area who wishes to further his education?

Sure, it's nice to be able to pick up a few electives in evening courses. But if someone wanted to start from the beginning and work his way through school in night classes, he would have to go somewhere besides NDSU. He could not even start at the bottom of the English program, because the University does not offer any Freshman English in evening courses.

One of the regulations for on-campus married students is against owning pets. The reason for this ruling, I understand, stems from the time when pets were allowed in University married student housing. Many couples, finding their money running low in the winter, would eliminate the extra expense of feeding their pets by simply letting them loose and disowning them.

Because of these thoughtless couples, the housing areas were overrun with stray cats and dogs. Hence, the present ruling.

Many people have objected to the regulation. They agree that large dogs would be a threat to the children, but can't understand why they aren't allowed to have cats or small dogs.

I hadn't thought that the ruling was very effective. I couldn't imagine that couples would really turn their pets out, but West Court has been haunted for about a year by a black and orange cat that seems to have no home. Many of the guys have tried to catch the thing to dispose of it, but have failed.

Last Sunday, a little girl was bitten by the cat. A sympathetic couple had taken him in and fed him, when he unexpectedly bit the girl. No one knows if it is cause for concern or not.

A trailer-to-trailer search revealed no owner of the cat. The couple consulted a veterinary graduate assistant who told them the animal must be confined and observed for 10 to 14 days. Not wanting to keep the cat, the couple then called the police to come get it.

I guess the ruling hasn't done any good, if strays are still around. Of course there's no evidence that the cat was once owned by a married student, but I think we had an experience that was like what former married students must have gone through many times.

The irony of the ruling is that those breaking it by keeping a pet are not causing problems. In all cases, their pet is well cared for. The problem is caused by those former delinquents who suddenly decide to observe the ruling and turn their pet out.

If anyone must get rid of a pet, it seems there are better ways than opening the door and giving it a swift kick. Anyone heartless enough to do that to a pet is heartless enough to endanger the lives of children who may try make friends with the possibly rabid animal.

Starbuck - Master of Casual Reading

by Paul Erling

Poet George Starbuck's presentation last week at the second Poetry North of the season was excellent.

Town Hall should have been crowded for the event, but the group numbered only about 50. That leaves at least 5,550 students (not to mention absent faculty members) who missed what may be the most enjoyable Poetry North of the year.

"Some of the best, the brightest minds I know can't take too much of this at one sitting," the poet began, and proved in the next hour that he knew how to keep a casual reading session interesting. He was careful not to narrow into one subject or length, and kept his introductory comments down to the essential. These tactics made a program that was enjoyable for both the well-read poetry fan and the casual observer.

His work showed considerable variety. He read two works concerned with war and soldiers (he served his military term in Germany during the Korean War).

"Bayeau Tapestry" was written as a reversal to the famous medieval needlework ("A high medieval comic strip," as he called it) which shows the Norman invasion of England. In his poem, Starbuck writes of the seamy side of a tapestry showing the English invasion of Normandy during World War II.

"Of Late" compared draft-card burners and Robert McNamara to a Quaker who burned himself in protest. A portion of it follows: "Norman Morrison, Quaker, of Baltimore, Maryland, burned and was burned and said/ all that there is to say in that language./ Twice what is said in yours."

"It's pretty hard to find a good 'peace poem,'" he commented, "since many of the poets who write them are so militant."

Starbuck contrasted these works with poems filled with a light, easy-to-grasp humor and identification with the everyday world.

"Daddy Gander's New Found Runes" was one of his many "translations from the English" which restate familiar works in modern meaning and meter. The following is an example: "Rain, rain, grow the hay./ Grow the weeds another day./ If I die before I wake./ Skip it."

Another poem which showed his formal control and cutting wit was "I dreamed I went fishing in my bare chest," which was a spoof on the concept of Ian Fleming as the hero of his own books.

"You know," he said at one point (in reference to Tom McGrath and Antony Oldknow), "you're lucky to have some real poets around here in the boon-docks . . . people who will organize these programs for you."

And judging from the minimal reception which NDSU gave to Poetry North last week, we'll be even luckier if NDSU will keep offering worthwhile broadening programs of any sort for the few who will take advantage of the opportunities.

Laughter Is Most Evident In

by Paul Erling

The most evident product of "The Peripatetic Bartholomew Bone" is laughter, and this is precisely what the playwright said he wanted from the play.

Rarely do theatergoers in this area have an opportunity to see a playwright's own interpretation of his work. But Dr. Frederick Walsh not only wrote the script, but also cast, staged and directed this Little Country Theater production.

Walsh uses very familiar tools to implement his comedy. There are the ever-present boy and girl in love, the funny man next door (this time an uncle), the domineering parent, the neat happy ending, all elements which television situation comedies have made into cliches. The lack of mechanical substance leaves plenty of room for fresh, entertaining humor.

The action consists of a fast-moving series of scenes which take place during one morning in the Bone family home. Diana Bone (the standard All-American girl) brings her fiance, Lyman Greer (the American Harvard graduate student) to her home town of Clark Cove, Mass.

The circumstances are controlled by Diana's mother, who is determined to immortalize the family's ancestor (General Bartholomew Bone) as the greatest hero of the Revolutionary War.

The story line is strictly situation comedy plot No. 1-B. But what the audience may fully expect every move, they are sure to be amused by the dialogue which accompanies it.

Uncle Charlie evidently inherited most of the family wit. Almost all of his lines are funny, and John Tilton takes full advantage of every humorous opportunity. His performance alone makes the play worth attending.

Another fine performance instrumental to the success of the play is given by Judy Knudson as Diana. Her fiance is played by James Anderson, who gives the impression that he may actually have come from Peoria, Ill. but certainly not Harvard. Grace Holland fills the character of the single-minded tyrannical Clarabelle Bone. And Steve Ward is as believable as possible within the thin framework of Bartholomew Bone's super unnatural part.

Two members of the cast were taken from outside-theater personnel, with good fortune. (John Tilton is program director for KNDU and Steve Ward is an instructor in the English department). It is realistic and encouraging to see players with a variety of ages and backgrounds performing together.

"Bone" does display a few inconsistencies. In the record time of 15 minutes, Uncle Charlie sobers up enough from a dead drunk to save Diana's love affair with an ingenious plan. And although most of the cast (particularly Clarabelle) are supposedly "very good Massachusetts stock," there is no trace of eastern dialect.

(An exception to this is Steve Stark's portrayal of Joe Pete, who winds up sounding more like a Negroe slave than an uneducated hired man.)

These inconsistencies are subordinate, however, to the general enjoyment of the play. "The Peripatetic Bartholomew Bone" remains a light, uncomplicated, thoroughly amusing production, and deserves full attendance at each of its performances. The play runs through Sunday night.

FSM Symphony Announces Concert

an outstanding tenor and an SU Choral Ensemble along with two Symphony soloists will be featured at the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony's second concert of the season on Sunday Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. in Festival Hall. The concert, under the direction of Donald Thompson, is free and open to the public.

San Francisco tenor James Schwabacher is rated among America's finest vocalists. He is considered by many critics as "the most expressive Evangelist" for his performance in Wagner's St. Matthews and St. John Passion. His repertoire is prominent in every field: opera, oratorio and lecture-recital. He has sung 14 different operatic roles with the San Francisco Opera Company. He has appeared at the Philharmonic Hall, the Lincoln Center, Carmel Bach Festival, Spoleto Festival of Two Worlds and with major orchestras throughout the United States.

At the Nov. 9 concert, Mr. Schwabacher will sing two works, "The Soul, a Slave of Sin," in German, and "Ich armer Mensch, ich Sundenknecht (A wretched soul, a slave of sin)," in English. The first will be accompanied by Cantata No. 55, "Ich armer Mensch, ich Sundenknecht (A wretched soul, a slave of sin)," in German, and the concluding Chorale will be sung by an SU Choral Ensemble under direction of Dr. Ed. R. Fissinger, chairman of the Department of Music. Erling

Marching Band

Will Present

Bison Bandwagon

The NDSU Marching Band will present its annual concert at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 11 in the SU Fieldhouse.

Entitled, "The Bison Bandwagon," the concert will feature the Marching Band, Concert Band, Jazz Band, Stage Band, Studio Band and the Bison Brass.

James Thornton, a junior at Johnson High School, will be the concert soloist. Thornton was chair baritone horn at the National Music Camp and has performed with Harold Brasch, from the University of Minnesota, as a euphonium soloist with the band.

Tickets are $1 and may be obtained from the Music Department or at the Fieldhouse the evening of the concert. SU students will be admitted on their regular activity tickets.

Linde will be flute soloist.

A Vaughn Williams work — "Four Hymns for Tenor, Viola and String Orchestra" — will also be sung by Schwabacher, with Mary King of the MSC Music Department as the viola soloist.

The program will also include the "Academic Festival Overture" by Brahms and "Pictures at an Exhibition" by the Russian Composer Moussorgsky.

Lyceum Series To Open

"Set by Swann" will open the 61st Lyceum Series at 8:15 p.m. Monday Nov. 17, in Festival Hall.

Originally scheduled for Nov. 5, the program was recently postponed until Nov. 17 by a representative from the program.

This concert entertainment comes to SU from England in the form of musical settings for J. R. R. Tolkien's celebrated "Lord of the Rings." Donald Swann and a troupe of three began offering the show for the first time in the U.S. during the 1969-70 season.

Swann and Michael Flanders toured together for 11 years, presenting "At the Drop of a Hat" and "At the Drop of Another Hat," before Swann organized his new show. The team of Flanders and Swann gave more than 1700 performances, had two successful Broadway runs and presented a CBS Special in 1967.

"Set by Swann" ranges from the lyrical and elegaic (Froissart, Pushkin and Francis Scarfe) to the comic (David Climie's "Passionate Trencherwoman").

Piano-playing, song composer Swann chooses lyrics from the wittiest literature of English poets, Suckling, John Dryden, Lord Byron and Oscar Wilde, among the older poets, and John Betjeman and C. Day Lewis among the new and living.

He has set several of the poems from Tolkien's "Lord of the Rings" to music, and this venture led him into a meeting with Tolkien. The two subsequently collaborated in writing "The Road Goes Ever On," a song book scheduled for publication soon.

Other members of the Swann group are William Elvin, a Scottish baritone; Marion Studholme, a soprano who has appeared in Tyrone Guthrie productions at Stratford, Ontario, New York and London, and Andrew Downie, an actor-singer who has appeared in London's West End the Edinburgh Festival and numerous films and television productions.

Problems with over indulgent spectators at the first three home football games finally resulted in the presence of four Fargo policemen in addition to seven campus policemen at last Saturday's game.

As we see in this series of photos, one man was escorted from the game at half-time. In the first two photos one campus policeman accompanies him and carries a partially filled pint of Southern Comfort, apparently taken from the man. After being described as belligerent by the campus policeman, a Fargo policeman came to the aid of the campus police. A squad car from downtown was called and he was taken to the station.

One other person, charged with minor in possession, was removed from the game. (Spectrum Photos)

In court Tuesday, he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was fined $35.

Council Altered AWS Under Reorganization

The Association of Women Students (AWS) has gone under a major reorganization this year.

"We were not justly representing the organization. There were too many women to efficiently operate, and they decided to do something new," said Ginger Culpepper, AWS president.

Previously every women's organization and dormitory on campus had a representative to AWS. They all made up the executive council.

Now the executive council is made up of four committees and four officers. Each committee has five to 15 members. The committees are Rules and Evaluation, Publicity, Special Projects and Fund Raising.

"We will be sponsoring several new special projects this year," said Miss Culpepper. "There will be a Ski and Christmas Style Show, survival kits for final week and a special party for all the Fargo girls who will be entering NDSU next fall. There will also be the traditional singing valentines, Honor's Day and the big and little sister program."

HOTLINE

"Hot Line," a weekly program on KDSU, will play tapes from a recent interview with two area drug users at 9:05 p.m. tonight. The University FM radio program at 91.9 mhz, is hosted by Jeff Levy.

Listeners may make comments on the interview by calling the "KDSU Hot Line," 237-8215.

Levy invited the two drug users to call in during the show with any comments they might have about reactions to the recorded interview.

The Thursday program is the first in a series about drugs that will also bring medical experts and police in for programs during the remainder of the fall quarter.
