Faculty rejects Constitution by a vote

Thursday's vote on the proposed change in the Faculty Senate Constitution has been declared void by the Executive Committee. Needing a two-thirds vote to pass, it was rejected with a tally of 137 for and 69 against.

However, one professor, who is not employed on a full-time basis, voted during the election. Before the error was caught, the ballot had been deposited. Under the current rules, only full-time professors may vote.

Members of the Faculty Senate Executive Committee met Monday to resolve the issue. During the discussions it was pointed out the single ballot could have affected the outcome. Dr. Catherine Cater, chairman of the Faculty Senate, noted that if the ballot had been a no vote, the constitution would have passed, 137-68.

Commenting on the snafu, Cater declared "it was not realized at the time. It was noticed after the ballot had been deposited."

After the meeting of the Executive Committee, an official release was made declaring the "May 4 ballot vote on the Faculty Senate amended Constitution is null and void." After citing "Robert's Rules of Order" as the basis of the decision, it called for a new ballot vote to "be scheduled for May 18."

Considerable controversy had been generated over the document. The local chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) urged its members and other faculty to vote no. Given as a rationale was the incorporation of the Grade Appeals Board (GAB) in the new constitution. However, even if the new document is rejected GAB will remain, since it is in the old policy statement.

When asked if AAUP action had any effect on the closeness of the vote, Dr. Cater replied, "The AAUP may have had some effect for some people who may have not been working with the problem all along."

"From the AAUP statement some faculty members feel the constitution and GAB are linked. In actuality GAB and the constitution are separate issues. Regardless of the state of the constitution, GAB continues to exist," added Dr. Cater.

During the March 20 meeting of Senate, bylaw 18 in the proposed constitution was deleted. The bylaw, which called for the establishment of GAB, was referred eventually to the Student Affairs Committee.

At the time of removal, main complaints of the document centered on lack of due process. One faculty member declared, "The run-around could easily be given to students by the board. Also, the academic reputation as well as the personal integrity of an unaccused faculty member is at stake."

GAB, once shifted to Student Affairs, was open for general discussion. According to committee chairman Howard Peet, the series of meetings were designed to arguments on all provisions prior to sending the document to the May 15 meeting of the Faculty Senate.

At last check, action had been almost completed on the provision. Important clarifications were that it would take a three-quarters vote to change a grade, the sending of a proxy, in addition to spelling out the procedural steps any student contesting a grade must make.

In addition, all GAB meetings should be closed "except where by mutual consent, the parties involved request an open meeting."

Dr. Cater noted during the April meeting of Faculty Senate the meeting "was designed precisely to incorporate a statement on GAB into the bylaws. The statement, which if approved would be incorporated into the bylaws, had its first reading last month and second reading will be on May 15."

Robert Olson, an assistant professor of music and president of the local AAUP chapter, had been urging a "no" vote to the balloting.

The outgoing AAUP president declared the group objects to the GAB provision and the group had sent a memo to AAUP members to vote against the constitution because of this.

In presenting his opposition, Olson noted the chapter has a committee studying alternate proposals and favors a University of Minnesota plan which among other things would permit students to drop a course at any time, even after they have taken the final examination.

In a final note, Dr. Cater stated the place for balloting would not be determined until the middle of the week. The second vote will be held May 18.

Drill teams' funds deleted

By Dave Lande

Funds for the Army and Air Force Drill Teams were cut from the budget by Finance Commission at an unofficial meeting Saturday.

Commission member Steve Sperle said he would rather see one drill team than two and Craig Geise added, "I don't care whether there are one or two, but only one should be funded."

A proposal for funding one team next year, the other team the year after, and so on was made by Jan Edam. Roger Whitney countered, saying, "There's no rationalization for funding either team. Why should we give them any money?"

Duane Lillehaug pointed out that this is the only case where two organizations with similar purposes are both being funded.

Geise agreed saying, "There's not that much difference. Marching has never benefited anyone," referring to the general student body.

A question directed to the other commissioners from Sperle as to why any drill team should be funded received no answer.

Further opposition to funding the drill teams came from Lillehaug when he said the drill teams are directly related to department functions, substitute for academic credit and don't have open membership.

The commission voted 5-0 against any funding for the drill teams. A request for funds from Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight was also turned down as the commission thought its membership is just as closed as the drill teams.

Sperle did not consider this meeting to be an official Finance Commission meeting because there were only five members present. He explained the whole commission should vote on these decisions before the final budget recommendations were made. He said he hoped this could be done the following day.

Requests for funds from several other organizations including the American Institute of Industrial Engineering (AIIE), Engin-

Senate studies allocations

Views concerning Finance Commission's proposed budget for next year were aired at an informal Student Senate meeting Sunday. The greatest disagreement surrounded proposed allocations to the Athletic Department.

Byron Jackson, administrator of St. Luke's Hospital, urged Senate to give greater support to athletics. "A few years ago there was almost a sterile attitude in Fargo concerning NDSU athletics," Jackson said.

"Then, as NDSU started to win, all of a sudden interest took hold. People like to be identified with a winner."

Jackson said the school should fire up regardless if the team wins or loses. "I think SU has the finest coaching staff in the United States today," he noted.

Coach Ron Erhardt has asked for $125,000, but Finance Commission has proposed giving his department $110,000. In a straw vote, Senate asked Erhardt to be present at the next meeting.

Student Body President Paul Bernier took the side of Erhardt. "Men's intercollegiate athletics cannot operate on less than last year," Bernier said. "Expenses simply are increasing."

The question of what athletics will do if the budget is cut was brought up. "I think the budget is tight," commented Finance Commissioner Steve Sperle, "and there just is not enough slack to make up for a $15,000 cut. They will probably have to chop out some clubs."

Athletic scholarships were also discussed. There was some debate on whether it is right for

The girls chosen for Angel Flight April 24 were Synneva Horvik, Julie Retzlaff, Susan Bradburn, Doris Adams, Deborah Larson, Beth Lang, Bette Libbrecht, Mary Honek, Paulette Rehling, Betty Garness, Beth Pfeifer, ReNee Caulfield, Bobbie Hamkens, Lori Olson, Paulette Hendricks, Shirley Rindy, Lucinda Schmit and JoAnn Brorson.

Kalk scholarship awarded
The Arlene Kalk scholarship was awarded to Linda Dodgson on April 20 at the Physical Education Club banquet.

This $50 scholarship, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kalk of Fargo in memory of their daughter who was a phy ed major at NDSU, is given each year to an outstanding junior male or female phy ed major at SU.

Music program

A music program will be performed by some 300 students at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in Festival Hall. Proceeds from the fourth annual Scholarship Concert will be used to give financial assistance to outstanding music students.

Tickets for the concert are $1 and may be purchased from NDSU music students or at the door.

The musical groups performing and their directors include the Choral Society and the Varsity Men's Glee Club, John Trautwein; the Women's Glee Club, Mrs. John Trautwein; the Concert Choir, Dr. Edwin Fissinger; and the Varsity Band and the Concert Band, Orville Eidem.

Backpacking and Canoeing meeting
Backpacking and Canoeing Club will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Crest Hall.

Ecology guide list assembled

Editor's note: This guide was compiled by Barb Engleter and Linda Martinson as a Biology 103 project for Dr. Donald Scoby. The resources used were "Everyman's Guide to Ecological Living" by Cailliet, Setzer and Love; "Ecology at Home" edited by Jacqueline Killeen; and numerous interviews with people in Fargo. More suggestions will be printed in the remaining issues of the Spectrum.

For our project we compiled a list of ways the individual can help the environment. It pertains particularly to NDSU students and those in the Fargo area, as we have researched what is available in this area. We hope this guide will be used to locate similar services in other areas.

1. If taking part in SU's major activity of beer drinking, buy beer in kegs, tappers or returnable glass bottles instead of cans which will clutter up the world.

2. Take aluminum cans to Johnson's Salvage Co., Industrial Park, West Fargo. They pay 7 cents per pound. Aluminum cans can be identified by lack of side and bottom seams.

Note: people really should be using tin-free steel cans which are better than aluminum and returnable bottles as it takes less energy to wash them than to make new cans.

Johnson's will also take other metal items like heavy car parts (batteries and radiators), copper, brass and heavy iron scraps.

3. Buy only returnable glass bottles and return them.

4. Bundle up newspapers and take them to Fargo's Salvation Army. Also take unwaxed corrugated cardboard, phone book directories and old clothes. These are sent to Minneapolis to be recycled.

There are dropping posts for these items at supermarkets throughout the city. The Piggly Wiggly on North University Drive has a dropping post in its parking lot.

This will also cut down on the large amount of garbage being taken each day to Fargo's land fill.

5. Put paper to good use. Write on both sides. For letters, use French notes which fold to make the envelope as well, or make envelopes from scrap paper. When shopping ask for recycled stationery and other paper products—create a demand. Varsity Mart sells recycled paper—it's a good place to start.

6. Magazines are not being recycled, so share them with a friend and donate them to places such as schools and hospitals where they will be appreciated.

7. Make good use of your old books. Sell them or give or sell them to those who will use them. Also make good use of books provided by libraries.

8. Plastics are bad because they are made from limited petroleum products and are not biodegradable. Avoid buying those plastic items which will be thrown away after a little use. If you must use these, use them over and over.

As Dr. Scoby pointed out, those plastics which are made into durable products which will be used for many hundreds of years and then recycled probably a justifiable way to use petroleum.

9. Plastic bags are more convenient for the garbage men, but are not biodegradable. There is a paper garbage bag available put out by St. Regis which can be obtained in this area from Saul Cossette, phone 235-9228. Paper bags still add to the garbage but are preferable to plastic bags.

Help the garbage men by keeping garbage cans in good condition and the garbage in the cans. This is a city fine for unkempt garbage cans, so watch out.

Remember we must cut down on our garbage consumption by reusing, recycling and eliminating what we can.

10. Without much effort one can keep the environment cleaner. Take your garbage home or pick up someone else's on the way. Put this garbage to good use.

11. A recycling center is needed in this area. Help bring this about.

Self-develop programs offered

Students may enroll in six different self-enrichment programs available next fall by obtaining a class card for Education Department, Room 321, Minard. The programs are Developmental Reading, which has always been offered; Study Skills; Decision Making; Career Development; Human Sexuality; and Im-

All courses except Education have been offered for the past years, but were more general in nature.

The Study Skills program is designed to assist the student in developing techniques and habits essential to effective study.

Among the topics scheduled are listening and note taking, physical environment for study, preparation for taking exams and physical health and study.

Decision Making is designed to provide students with training and practice in decision making. Factors involved in this seminar are scheduled to include recognizing and clarifying personal values, risk taking and developing strategies for decision making.

The program in Career Development will be geared to meet the specific needs of the students who register for it.

Attempts will be made to examine some concepts of human sexuality in the Human Sexuality program. Historical treatment of the subject will be included in the course.

The main focus of this course will be the exploration of the meaning of masculinity and femininity.

Readings for the course include "The Art of Loving" by Erich Fromm, "Youth, Marriage and the Seductive Society" by Frank Cox and "The Humanization of Man" by Ashley Montagu.

The program entitled Impact Listening is designed to foster positive experiences through the practice of effective listening and sharing.

The purposes of the course are to stimulate creative thinking about oneself, to learn to hear, understand and accept the feelings of others and to exchange ideas on subjects that may or may not normally be discussed.

The topics to be discussed include sidewalk communication, friendship, depression and belonging.

No academic credit will be given and grading will be on a pass-fail basis.

After fall quarter, the programs will be evaluated. Courses will be added or deleted depending on students' needs.

Parking stickers

Students may reserve a parking sticker for the 1972-73 school year at the Traffic Bureau. The reserve list will be open until September 15; you need not pay for stickers until next fall.

Horticulture Club meeting

The NDSU Horticulture Science Club will have a recreation program in Oak Grove Park following the business meeting at 6 p.m. tomorrow in Morrill 212.

Great Race results

The following are the results for the "Great Race" held on Friday. In the Men's Beginners—3 miles—the first three places were taken by Mike Johnston (9:40), Mike Mroz and Tom Clifford. In the Men's Advanced—10 miles Alan Korslien took first in 28:36, followed by Prof. Ronald Mathsen and Al Scholz. In the Women's Two Mile the first three places were taken by Mary Nelson, Erlanne McMahon and Pat Gray.

Engineering and Architecture Council, NDSU Summer Seminar and Mechanized Agriculture Club were denied down.

The commission didn't allocate any funds to AIEE because funds were to be used for travel which was part of a required course and it was thought the department could finance this.

Lack of student involvement in Engineering and Architecture Council was the commission's justification for denying it funds. The consensus among commission members was that the NDSU Summer Seminar could not try to get funds from external sources. Mechanized Agriculture Club was denied any funding until it came up with specific uses for which the money was to be used.

Finance Commission maintained its previous stand of denying the Alumni Association $1000 of the $12,000 it requested. The commission advised eventual independent, not dependent, financing of the Alumni Association.

The commission made no other changes on previous budget grants. Sperle noted the judging teams get their transportation from the department, referring to the fact that other organizations requested and were granted transportation funds from the budget.

Sperle again emphasized the final budget recommendations would not be made until the next day when the whole commission could meet.

Hamm's beer kegger planned for Saturday

By Mary Wallace

Students from NDSU, UND, Mayville, Wahpeton and other colleges throughout the state will be following the big Hamm's Beer to Cuba, N.D. May 13, according to Chris Selvig.

Selvig is one of the initial planners of the festivity and member of the newly-formed IDM (Impossible Drinking Mission) Squad. According to Selvig, the Cuba trip was planned by a group of people to liven things up for spring.

The site was chosen because the planners knew some people in the Cuba area, and were given assistance by the County Sheriff and the president of the township.

The basic format for the day includes hijacking a Hamm's beer truck. According to Selvig, the truck will drive around Fargo and campus before making the trip to Cuba.

Selvig gave directions to the Cuba site, saying "Cuba is 47 miles west of Fargo on Interstate 94. You take the Cuba exit off 94 and head south or follow the Big Hamm's Bear all the way."

Selvig explained the 80-acre site will open at dawn and close at dusk, but added, "You never can tell."

He said the people in Cuba area have been very receptive toward the idea. "If it goes off well, maybe we can have it again," he said.

Entertainment will begin at noon. "I promise at least three or four bands," Selvig said. The bands booked are Bob E. Sox and the Sneakers, Nyala, Deerskin and Buffalo Alice. Selvig added the bands will be playing in a natural amphitheater located at the site.

According to Selvig, the concessions include a beer garden for those over 21, hot dogs, popcorn and peanuts. Bathroom facilities will be provided.

There will be a small cover charge upon entering the site. "We're not out to make money, but we have to pay the bands and buy the beer. The only way we will make money is if enough kids come," Selvig said.

Selvig said he feels Cuba won't be another Zap. "There's nothing to wreck. We don't care how much hell is raised. There's 80 acres of land to run on, scream and yell without hurting anything except maybe a gopher or two," Selvig said. "The only thing we're worried about is people leaving drunk," he added.

Selvig concluded by saying, "It's (Cuba) aimed at the good ol' public. Anybody and everybody is invited to come. It's going on rain or shine."

Slack breaks mile run record

By Vince Hjelle

Mike Slack's 4:06.8 mile run highlighted the Bison track team's showing in the Macalaster Relays Saturday in St. Paul, Minn.

One of five individuals to win events for the Herd, Slack established a new school record in the mile run. He broke Dave Kampa's record of 4:07.7 set in last year's College Division nationals. Kampa paced the field in the 880, winning the race in 1:55.4. Mike Gesell was victorious in the 440 with a time of :48.6 and Doug Sorvik won the 220 in :21.8.

NDSU athletes swept the first three places in the 220 with Gesell (:22.3) and Dean Merihy (:22.4) finishing behind Sorvik.

In the javelin throw, Bison hurlers finished one, three, four with Duane Erickson first (199' 8"), Jeff Burgess third (194') and John Dixon fourth (184').

An unexpected bonus seems to have appeared on the Bison track team in the person of Warren Means long jumping for the Herd, although more renowned for his leaping ability on the basketball floor.

Means flew 23 feet even in his first long jump competition for the Bison good enough for second place in the meet. His presence may take up some of the slack in the jumping events at SU created by the loss of Ralph Wirtz through graduation.

In the relay events, the 440 relay team of Bob Shook, Gesell, Randy Huether and Sorvik won with a time of :42.5 and the two mile relay contingent of Tom McCormick, Pete Hetle, Randy Lussenden and Kampa came in second. The mile relay unit consisting of Sorvik, Keary Krause, Huether and Jeff Sperry took third place.

Other place winners for the Bison were Sorvik second in the 100 (:10.0), Roger Schwegel second in the three mile (14:22) and Shook third in the 100 (:10.2). Sperry ran a fine :49.6 in the 440 to finish third in that event.

John Bennet won the high jump event for the Bison with a 6'3" leap.

Surprisingly enough, the Age of Aquarius seems to be mixing progressively larger doses of sport into the potpourri of insurgent humanism.

Random eyesight evaluation provides conclusive proof that cycling is making its biggest comeback since Lillian Russell graced a two-wheeler back in the Gay (remember Oscar Wilde?) 90s.

Of subsidiary interest is the inroad backpacking is plowing into the campus culture here at State. What do all of those freakish cats haul around in their canvas conveyors?

For the answer, a task force asked a smattering of State's counter-culturalists to submit their backpacks and tote bags to a qualitative analysis.

The test subjects were, by and large, eager to submit to informative scrutiny. (Example response: "Like sure. Like you noticed the book bag? Far out, right on, left out, etc.")

Space prohibits the complete enumeration of contents found, but the following list is indicative of the mobile possessions of the 20 persons responding to the survey.

Assorted copies of "Rolling Stone," "Ramparts" and "The Sensuous Hippie" in various states of decomposition.

Nineteen copies of the "Polyethylene Short Cut to Counter-Culturing."

Tissue paper and newsprint filler used as pack stuffing.

One textbook.

One half of one pencil (the eraser half).

In all fairness, it should be noted that one subject did have a sleeping bag, a boy scout mess kit and the pamphlet "Edible Herbs Readily Found in Campus Locales."

Kappa Tau Delta presents award to faculty member

The members of Kappa Tau Delta (KTD), a local honorary architecture fraternity, established and presented a new award designated the Valued Educator Recognition at their annual award banquet Thursday.

The Valued Educator Recognition award provides a channel for students to show appreciation for faculty members. Dedication, involvement, exceptional personal contribution and educational input of essential and intrinsic worth were given to be the award's criteria.

Harlyn Thompson, Architecture Department chairman, was chosen to be the first award recipient.

Thompson was credited in the presentation with being the leading figure behind a number of department improvements including the establishment of Friends of the Department and getting the National Architecture Accrediting Board to fully accredit the existing five-year program.

It was also pointed out Thompson has helped establish an entirely new curriculum for the department, the active Guest Lecture Program, and he has played a large role in the major expansion of the architectural library.

The presentation said Thompson has stressed the integration of students in the decision-making processes of the college as well as his instigation of a major change in the attitude, approach and training of the architectural students.

"In the four years since professor Thompson came to SU," the presentation went on to state,

"a virtually new Department of Architecture has been created. As chairman, he has consistently resisted the safe, traditional approach of a 'one-man show,' and has stressed by example his principles of teamwork and cooperation."

The award is not anticipated to be given annually. It will be given when members of the architecture school unanimously agree that a formal expression of appreciation is warranted.

Link discusses statewide problems

By Sandra Sathre

Congressman Arthur Link believes the immediate concern to education is the Aid to Higher Education Bill of 1971, presently stalled in conference committee between the House and Senate.

He says it is imperative this bill be improved before June 30, otherwise programs in some institutions of higher learning will be in jeopardy.

It is the issue of busing incorporated in the bill that is holding up its approval. "If time runs out we may have to approve a one year temporary extension of present funding," noted Link.

Other areas of interest for North Dakota that Link, candidate for democratic gubernatorial nomination, emphasizes include opportunities for employment and fair income for all people, improving state and local government, opportunities for recreation and preserving human and natural resources.

He also stresses fairness in student activities fees to be used for scholarships. There was also a question as to whether gate receipts should be used.

"If you don't want the Athletic Department to use gate receipts for scholarships, we will have to cut the budget by $15,000, to $20,000," remarked Sperle.

"There is a desperate need for scholarships at SU," President L.D. Loftsgard said. "We are way down in scholarships compared to UND. You've got to look at these things as an investment," he continued.

Dick Danielson, chairman of SAB, said he believed homecoming is not receiving enough money in the proposed budget. "SAB would like to see the budget revised," he said. "I see no reason for the cut."

Many other senators also said homecoming is an important event and deserved more funds. One of them, Chuck Johnson, said, "Cutting appropriations for homecoming would hurt this whole institution."

There was a rather heated debate between Sperle and Senate President Bill Clower on Finance Commission's relationship to the executive and legislative branches of student government.

Sperle maintained it was a standing sub-committee of Senate, and Clower said it was an advisory board to the executive branch. The matter will be presented to the Judicial Committee to be resolved.

In a straw vote, Senate decided to ask all of Finance Committee and Spectrum Editor Bruce Tyley be present at the next meeting.

taxes, improving opportunities in agriculture, adequate senior citizens programs, opportunities for youth and veterans, adequate rural transportation, medical facilities and housing and opportunities to learn.

Link believes in a "people's program" for North Dakota.

On the subject of the environment, Link said he felt a broad new range of studies and research is necessary in order to fully understand the effects of pollution and methods of control. He said, "This opens up a new field that demands the best of our knowledge and ingenuity in a wide range of subjects such as chemistry, biology, and engineering."

"I believe the study of our environment and conservation of human and natural resources should be a required subject in our school systems beginning in the primary grades," commented Link.

Water and stream pollution control as well as air and noise should be continued with adequate legislation.

Link favors continued efforts for a fully-integrated Land Use Program which encompasses a wide range of activities in view of the expanding Garrison Diversion and Water Use Program as well as strip mining activities of the state.

Link believes attention should be placed on processing North Dakota's own raw materials. This would include more livestock feeding operations and encourage the expansion of the sugar industry in the state.

Organizing a citizen's committee to recommend changes in the state constitution was a recommendation of Link.

He favored increased efforts to achieve better coordination between federal, state and local agencies for better future programs.

Increasing job opportunities in North Dakota is another area of interest important to Link.

The number one issue nationally, according to Link, is the end of the Viet Nam war. He has introduced a bill in the U.S. House of Representatives to shut off all funds.
