

Students walk out of Faculty Senate

When arguments by the students and a move to table the resolution by Dennis Walsh failed, all but two student members left the meeting as a protest.

"If the situation stays as it is now, there is a possibility that we may not attend any future meetings," said Bellis. The absence of the students prevented a quorum which was needed to ratify the amendments.

A 10 minute recess was called in which other faculty members present were contacted. When the quorum was again reached, the amendments were ratified.

Joe Staples, one of two members who did not leave the meeting, apologized for the actions of his fellow student members.

The amendment in question states, "membership in the University Athletics Committee shall consist of one faculty member from the Cooperative Extension Service and each college except University Studies."

Two students, the Director of the Division of Athletics and Physical Education, a representative of the Alumni Association to be appointed the President of the Alumni Association, the International representatives to men's and women's inter-collegiate athletic conference, one member of the Team Makers club to be appointed the President of the Team Makers Club."

Also, setting the guidelines for the formation and operation of sports club activities was added to the committee responsibilities.

"They're trying for a minimum amount of student participation and a maximum amount of faculty control," said Rick Bellis, "This faculty control is then turned more and more over to administration."

Bellis was referring to faculty members of the Faculty-Senate. The senate was meeting to give final approval to proposals from the Executive Committee to amend the By-Laws of the Senate.

The amendment met strong resistance from student members when a change was proposed which would permit a member of Team Makers to be on the committee.

The students felt, since the Team Makers donates money to the athletic association, the financial interest of the member might cause a conflict of interest when judging an athletes eligibility.

Bellis asked, "Are we going to create a new seat on the committee every time someone contributes money?"

The students also opposed a proposal which stated "the committee will set the guidelines for the formation and operation of sports club activities." They felt, since sport clubs are completely funded by the student senate, the Faculty Senate was infringing on an area controlled by the students.

Bellis said, "Faculty refuses to allow student participation in areas which govern faculty. And yet, when the situation is reversed, they feel it is alright to include the faculty on decision making."

A lone fire truck waits outside the Family Life Center as firemen search the Center for Childhood Education for a fire. An automatic smoke detector had gone off but no sign of smoke was found.

President Bellis says Student body to incorporate

According to Rick Bellis, SU student president, he is considering a proposal which would incorporate student government.

Bellis got the idea from the last meeting of the North Central Conference Student Association (NCCSA), held late last month at SU.

"If we were incorporated, we would be considered a legal entity," said Bellis, "It would give us more power to deal with faculty and administration, especially on issues such as raising the dorm deposits."

As a corporation, proposals adopted by the Student Senate but vetoed by President Loftsgard could be taken to court.

Other benefits of incorporation would be the possibility of student government ownership of the Varsity Mart. One of the goals then would be books sold closer to cost.

Other proposals from the meeting included the control of violence by fans at sports events and inter-school admission to games for students.

An issue at the meeting was cross-funding of student organizations. There are many organizations, such as Campus Attractions and the committee that provide lectures and types of entertainment, which do the same kind of jobs but are funded separately.

Psych. Dept. joins consortium

SU's Department of Psychology has been elected to membership in the Minn-Kota Personnel Training Consortium, an alliance of several schools in western Minnesota, the Dakotas and the Southeast Mental Health and Retardation Center in Fargo.

The consortium, supported by federal funds, is developing training and instructional programs for students, professionals and parents involved with children considered handicapped.

The consortium sponsors a practicum program for students, academic courses dealing with the handicapped child, and workshops for both laypersons and professionals interested in the education and treatment of children with problems.

Also participating in the consortium from SU is the Department of Child Development and Family Relations.

Two faculty members receive appointments

Two faculty members from SU's Department of Psychology have been appointed consulting psychologists by the Southeast Mental Health and Retardation Center in Fargo.

Dr. Janice Hastrup, visiting assistant professor of psychology, and Dr. Robert Klepac, department chairman, will be working in the Children's and Adolescents' Services, directed by Dr. William Hoehle.

They will be working in program development and direct client services. Hastrup will consult with Charles Schroeder in the Battered Children's program, and Klepac with Dr. John Scott in Adolescent Services.

Klepac has been consulting with adolescents at the center on an informal unpaid basis, with the formal appointment. Klepac said, "I hope to obtain greater clinical involvement and experience."

Klepac will not be teaching as many classes but said change is not a result of new appointment.

The appointments represent an important step in ongoing efforts of the Center and Department of Psychology to share expertise by increasing the involvement of researchers and instructors in programs and drawing on the Center's professional research and instructional programs.

Project aids parents of handicapped children

Some very special friendships among parents of handicapped children were made during a meeting last September at SU.

About 30 parents, mothers and fathers, attended the meeting. Following a film and speaker, the parents visited each other about their common concerns and also with consultants who have training in the field of working with handicapped children.

The program back in September was part of a year-long monthly series for parents of handicapped children. The project, "Support and Education Program Parents of Young Handicapped Children," is funded through a grant from the Opportunity School Board and made through the Development Foundation.

Director of the project is Harriett Light, SU associate professor of child development and family relations.

"Many of the mothers are worried about subsequent pregnancies and the physical condition of future children," said Light. "Mothers seem more concerned about developing potential in their handicapped children. In North Dakota we have very limited access to sheltered workshops for individuals beyond the age of 18. So fathers are worried about what will happen to their children in later life, and when the parents die."

become totally devoted to their handicapped child with the mother usually bearing the burden of physical labor in caring for the child, according to Light. In many cases parents are over-protective and cater to the whims of their children, often giving them foods that are not really good for them. Programs offer nutrition information to help overcome this problem.

Parents of a handicapped child often experience guilt feelings, Light said. A mother who is able to verbalize these feelings will say, "I often think back in my mind to when I was pregnant and what I might have done that caused this." Often the guilt feelings are subconscious and that is when parents become over-protective and make martyrs of themselves, Light said.

"By and large, the handicapped child does not want to be protected. They want to do things on their own. Some even resent being called handicapped. The thing that is so difficult is to not feel sorry for them. You can have empathy for them, but feeling sorry for them can be so damaging," Light said. "Sympathy can prevent one from recognizing the worth and potential in the handicapped person."

Studies have shown that handicapped children have a lower self-concept and this can be a particular problem in our culture because we place so much emphasis on physical beauty and physical fitness. Depression is a very normal situation especially among handicapped teenagers." Light advises parents to teach their handicapped children independence and thus to do things that will make them feel good about themselves.

On the basis of what they have learned from parents this year, project coordinators will be putting together printed information and a slide presentation which will be given to parents when they learn their child has a handicap. This information will tell them where to go for assistance.

There are very few other programs in North Dakota that provide services for parents of handicapped children. "We're beginning to realize that we can't just simply help the children. We have to work with the parents as well," Light said.

"We are finding that these handicapped children, if they are worked with and given opportunities, can develop into very useful citizens. The parents are now taking the place of these institutions and saving the taxpayers millions of dollars by keeping the handicapped children in their homes. However, many parents won't and can't leave a handicapped child with a babysitter who has not had special training. Therefore, the parents are likely to become isolated at home with the child and the pressures become tremendous," Light said.

"We do have a very active committee in North Dakota, the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. But they deal primarily with adults. We are going to try to put together some legislative bills calling for state funds to train caretakers for handicapped children and other types of family support systems."

Public Law 94-142, a federal law, states that schools are going to have to find and begin educating all handicapped children ages three to five. "The younger we can get handicapped children into a therapeutic program, the better chance they have of becoming self-sufficient." However, Light predicts several problems of "mainstreaming" or instructing handicapped children in the existing school system.

"We run up against some very negative attitudes on the part of teachers who do not want to have handicapped children in their rooms. You can't give these teachers a couple of courses and expect them to change their attitudes. Many teachers have more children in their rooms than they can handle and taking a handicapped child is frightening to them. Only teachers who are receptive and empathetic to children with handicaps should be given specialized training. Teachers with negative attitudes can do a great deal of damage to handicapped children."

The project's programs at SU are designed to provide information on topics parents request, provide consultant services, and provide fellowship and support. Previous topics have been on developing talents and abilities of children with handicaps; developing strong family relationships, preparing the child for questions and teasing, and importance of parents not becoming martyrs; a discussion of how music can be used both as therapy and developing talents, and background information on how to go about drafting legislation.

Future topics include specific ideas for developing muscle and motor skills, March 14; specific ideas for developing talents and skills in children with handicaps, April 18, and causes of birth defects occurring during prenatal development and the role of genetics, May 16.

Meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. in the Founders Room of the Home Economics Building at NDSU. Any interested persons are welcome.

Fargo welcomes tournament fans

New classes and sloppy streets—it must be spring! But an even better sign of spring than returning robins is the North Dakota Class A High School Basketball Tournament at the New Fieldhouse.

Fargo and SU again play host to a swarm of screaming high schoolers that painfully remind us of what we once were. But then, that was a long time ago—wasn't it? We were never that bad—were we?

Half the state of North Dakota seems to be in Fargo this weekend and the city's merchants have geared up for it with sales and special tournament promotions.

Every other car from the campus to West Acres is from out of town, while orange buses, with the name of their school emblazoned on the side, are multiplying out in the New Fieldhouse parking lot.

And just try to get a seat at the Country Kitchen. This weekend is better than Christmas for McDonalds and Burger King.

But while SU plays host, there is always a minority of students here who don't extend a full welcome to the tournament. They are those who get caught up in traffic, can't find a parking place and can't use the fieldhouse for free play.

Of course, in this world there'll always be those quick to complain whenever their routine is interrupted. But making sacrifices is part of the role of any host. We must accept the fact that the high school students and their families are here and do our best to make them feel welcome.

Their visit to SU is our chance to put on our best manners and show off our school. We should remember that many of the visiting high school students are either future SU students or potential SU students. Let's try to make their first impression the best we can. Let's give the students and their parents a hearty welcome.

 pretty much new, they should be quite impressionable.
 One new aspect that I would personally like to see in the Spectrum would be an ad-

 propriately called 'Dear

 With all the great problems of our times facing us, I believe that this column would serve a great many.
 The three main areas of con-and grades (what else is there in life?).

 Of course, we would solve or discuss lively topics such as which way should toilet

to the editor:

I agree with your conclusions that it is outrageous to discriminate against persons because of color or sex, but you forgot a minority that numbers anywhere from 20-50 million in the U.S.
 Members of this group also suffer beatings, are jailed on trumped-up charges, and are destroyed by lies. They might also lose their jobs, be evicted from their apartments have their wills contested, be denied government clearance, have their children taken from them—all because they happen to be a member of this minority. Yet, they pay taxes, serve in the armed forces, and contribute to the economic well-being of this country.
 I am, of course, referring to the homosexual. In order for your list to be complete, you should have added "sexual preference." (This is not a good term because the latest thinking is that a gay person does not have a choice in his sexual preference, nor is it possible to change this orientation, but it is the term that is currently used.)

 I have a dream too, but I fear that I'd better sleep a long time if I am to wake up to find that I, too, am guaranteed justice and freedom by the U.S. constitution! I guess society needs a "nigger," and the gay person is the current whipping boy.

Change made in library addition entrance

New changes to the library plans were presented last week to the library committee by architect Harlan Ormbreck and Library Director K.L. Janacek.

The changes, resulting from a redesigned entry, include a new north face and lobby as well as a different configuration to the circulation and after-hours study areas.

Consultation between the architect and the library staff determined that it was important to position the entrance for a better view of the reference section.

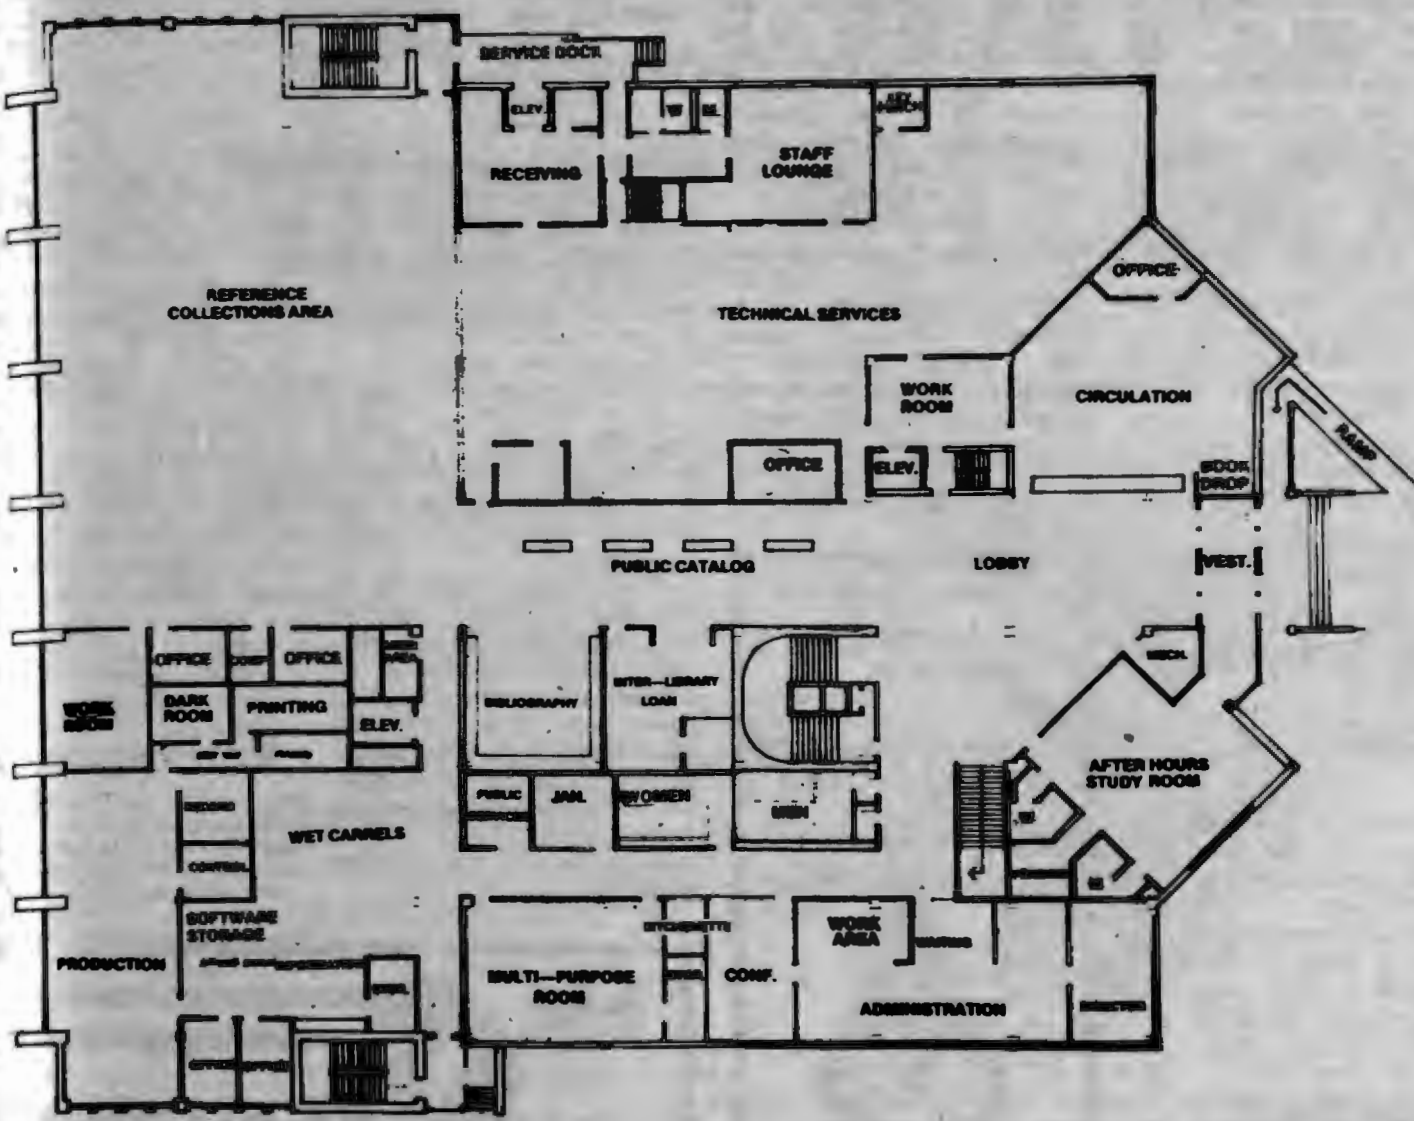

By moving the entrance one architectural bay to the west, a person entering the library is able to look immediately past the public catalog into the reference area.

However, this had the effect of isolating the steps to the lower level from the entrance area. This was remedied by placing the after-hours study lounge at a 45 degree angle, with the walls of that room acting as a funnel to guide persons toward the stairs.

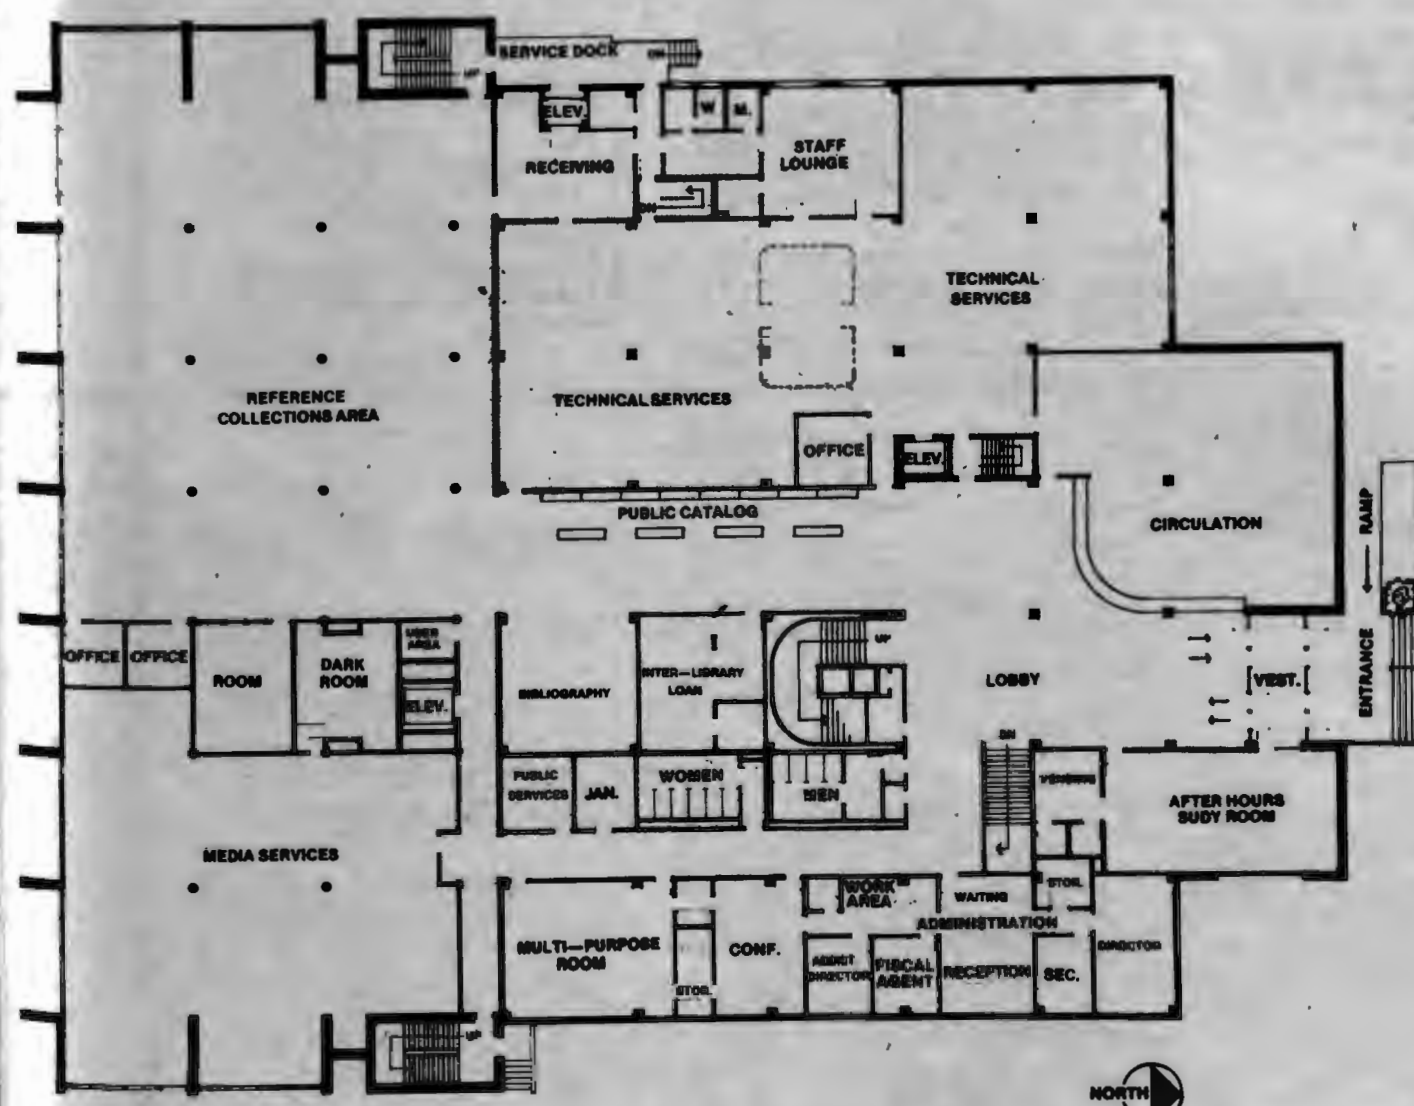

By also placing the circulation area at a 45 degree angle, Ormbreck was able to create what he termed a broader, more visually appealing north facade.

Ormbreck also reported that budget limitations had forced him to reduce slightly the size of the addition.

At the meeting the library committee also learned that WK Associates of Minneapolis have been retained by the architectural firm of Kohnlein, Lightowler and Johnson as interior decorating and furnishing consultants for the new library.

Bob Hope schedules shows at UND and SU in April

Bob Hope

Comedian Bob Hope is on the road again and will be making two personal appearances in North Dakota in April. His program, "Music 'N Fun," has been scheduled at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 8, in the Memorial Field House at UND and at 8 p.m. Sunday, April 9, in the New Field House.

Tickets, $9.50, $8.50 and $7.50, will go on sale Monday, Feb. 6, by mail order only. All seats will be reserved.

The shows will be produced in the round at both locations with the stage surrounded by seating on all four sides. Sound systems will be suspended from the ceilings so no obstructions will be on the stages. Excellent vision can be expected from all seats. Ticket orders will be filled on a first come, first served basis. Jerry Lingen, director of the SU Alumni Association, reports that there are approximately 4000 tickets still available.

For tickets to the SU show, send checks or money orders to the SU Alumni Association, Box 5144, State University Station, Fargo, N.D. 58102. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Allow two weeks for the return of tickets. For ticket and show information call the SU Alumni Association, (701) 237-8971.

Choir starts spring tour like a big family vacation

by Jane Yseth

"We're like a big family—two weeks we eat, sleep and work together," said Barbara Redlin of SU's Concert Choir tour during spring break.

The choir left on tour March 3, performing first in Bloomington, Minn. at the Bethany Fellowship Training Center.

"The choir performed well, said Dr. Fissinger, director of the choir and head of the SU Music Department, "The most difficult part of the first performance is just getting into it and performing it from beginning to end."

The long bus rides from one concert to another not only give the students an opportunity to see other parts of the country, but more importantly they give the student a chance to perform in a professional atmosphere and also time to sit, talk, play cards and relax after a hectic week of finals.

"Besides the performances, the long talks are what I remembers, enjoy and look forward to most," said Redlin. "It's amazing what we talk about and find out about each other—things you really enjoy discussing but never do because you're just too busy."

Most of the students seemed tired but pleased with their performance. Redlin said, "I'm glad we're like a big family. In the morning the girls can just put on "grubs" and don't have to worry about make-up. We accept each other as we are. There's a special and unexplainable bond between us all."

Design Dept. faculty exhibition begins Sunday

Three Design Department faculty members will have works on exhibition from March 12 through March 30 in Gallery 1 of the Art Galleries at the Memorial Union. The opening of the show is scheduled from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Thomas Wagner, lecturer, will have graphic designs (posters and logos) on exhibit; Tomas Gondek, assistant professor, a series of paintings in lacquer on plexiglas and some drawings, and Ron Raetzman, chairman and associate professor, interior and exterior environmental design of two structures, including photographs and diagrams, and environmental design works.

Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

A second show, an architectural exhibit, "Purcell & Elmsile architects: designs for Minnesota 1901-1917," will be on display in Hultz Lounge, Memorial Union. The exhibition consists of photos, floor plans and objects relating to buildings designed by Purcell and Elmsile for Minnesota.

The opening reception, including a special program presented by architect Gerald Allen, "Where Shall We Put the Kitchen? Solving Architectural Design Problems Then and Now," will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 14, in Hultz Lounge.

The architectural exhibit is co-sponsored by the SU Department of Architecture. Exhibit hours are the same as for Gallery 1.

The public is invited to attend both displays at no charge.

movie review

Heroes

by Jeanne Larson

If you're looking to see the "Fonz" in Henry Winkler's new movie, "Heroes," don't bother to go. And if you want comedy, forget this show. But if you want to see a movie with high emotion and good acting, this show is for you.

Henry Winkler stars as a Vietnam veteran, bent on keeping the rest of the world from suffering from the bad effects of war that he has suffered from.

After being committed to the local veteran's hospital for observation of his unstable mental condition, he escapes and begins a bus trip across the United States contacting his Army buddies to help him begin a worm farm. On the bus he meets a young woman (Sally Field) who is running away from her own wedding.

Together they travel from state to state, contacting other members of his platoon. The movie climaxes with Winkler is forced to come grips with his memories of war and the outcome of the war. Winkler and Field give outstanding performances.

The movie closes and the audience is silent. The viewer is left with the question: Who are the real heroes of war and what really happens to them after the cheering has stopped and the medals are no longer shiny?

But no answer is given. The viewer must draw his own conclusions.

News Briefs

Farm strikers picket warehouses

Members of the American Agriculture Movement picketed food warehouses and attempted to stop the movement of food in North Dakota cities, Tuesday.

The shipments were halted for only a few hours to make people aware of the problems of the farmers.

Corps flood operation center in Fargo

If forecasts by the National Weather Service predict flooding in the Red River Basin, a flood operations center will be set up in Fargo by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The center will provide sandbags, hire equipment and operators, and provide technical assistance once a flood is imminent.

Deer still in trouble

Efforts by private groups and state officials in Northwest Minnesota have failed to stop the widespread starvation of about 50,000 deer.

Hay, corn, oats, and deer pellets have been provided by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. These efforts, along with providing natural food, were unable to compensate for the large populations and scarce vegetation in the area.

Natural gas price controls

A three month long deadlock on President Carter's energy bill was broken Tuesday with energy conferees agreeing on a compromise proposal to lift controls from natural gas by Jan. 1, 1985.

The compromise was the first major break by the House-Senate energy conferees agreement on the energy bill since Dec. 2.

The proposal also allows the price of natural gas to double by the time the prices are lifted.

Course explores Oriental Religions

In response to numerous requests from persons interested in transcendental meditation and Hindu philosophy, a new course, "Oriental Philosophy," Philosophy 496 or Religion 496, will be offered spring quarter at SU.

The course will be offered from 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays in Room 224 of Minard. The first meeting date will be March 13. Interested persons may attend the first class meeting and register at that time.

Serving as guest lecturer for the three-credit course will be Dr. Larry Alderink, associate professor of religion at Concordia College.

Alderink has studied under Kitagawa Eliade and Jonathon Smith, professors of histories of religion at the University of Chicago. He has published and delivered numerous papers at professional societies. He is regarded as a nationally known expert on Orphism, and ancient Greek religion.

For further information contact Dr. Jovan Brkic, chairman of the SU Department of Philosophy, 237-8654.

Evening courses offered spring quarter

Among courses at the undergraduate level are Scout Leadership, Business Correspondence, Communication for Health Personnel, Creative Writing, and Studies in Regional Literature.

At the graduate level are Intergenerational Relations in Later Life, Administration of the Secondary School, and Counseling the Disadvantaged.

A complete list of evening courses is available from the Division of Continuing Studies in Ceres Hall or call 237-7014.

tend the first class meeting the time and place design on the schedule. Registrar's Office will process registrations from 7 to 10 p.m. March 13, 14, 15 and in Room 320 of Minard. Students will complete registration and pay fees this time.

Resident tuition fees are $14 per credit hour for undergraduates and $17 for graduate students. Students pay a matriculation fee.

Several non-credit activities including Reading, Performance, and Assessment are offered at SU in Minard. For further information on these courses contact the Division of Continuing Studies.

'Sociology of Sport' offered at SU

Violence and aggression in sports, particularly in hockey and professional football, and development of women's sports program are topics receiving widespread publicity today.

These issues will be among several controversial topics discussed in a new course, Sociology 496, "Sociology of Sport," offered spring quarter at SU.

The course instructor, Dr. Daniel Klenow, said numerous questions arise when looking at sports from a sociological perspective but very little research has been conducted. SU is one of few schools throughout the country offering the course.

Topics included in the course will be the role of sport in temporary society, sport aggression, intercollegiate and professional sports, collective behavior, women and minorities in sport, audience effects on performance, and occupational cultures in sport.

A faculty member at SU for two years, Klenow completed his track and cross-country during his undergraduate years and presently runs about six miles every day. His main research area is medical sociology.

"Sociology of Sport" will be offered at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Spring is a many splattered thing, especially for students trying to cross campus.

Why? Because the first sign of an SU spring is the winter snow slowly melting into spring slush. Yet, the puddle-crossing bravo of students such as Unni Melethil (center photo) isn't the only sign of spring.

Peggy Smith's bare toe emerged during a lazy afternoon break on the front steps of Old Main. And Larry Krieger bared his skin to the elements atop the FarmHouse roof to try for an early tan.

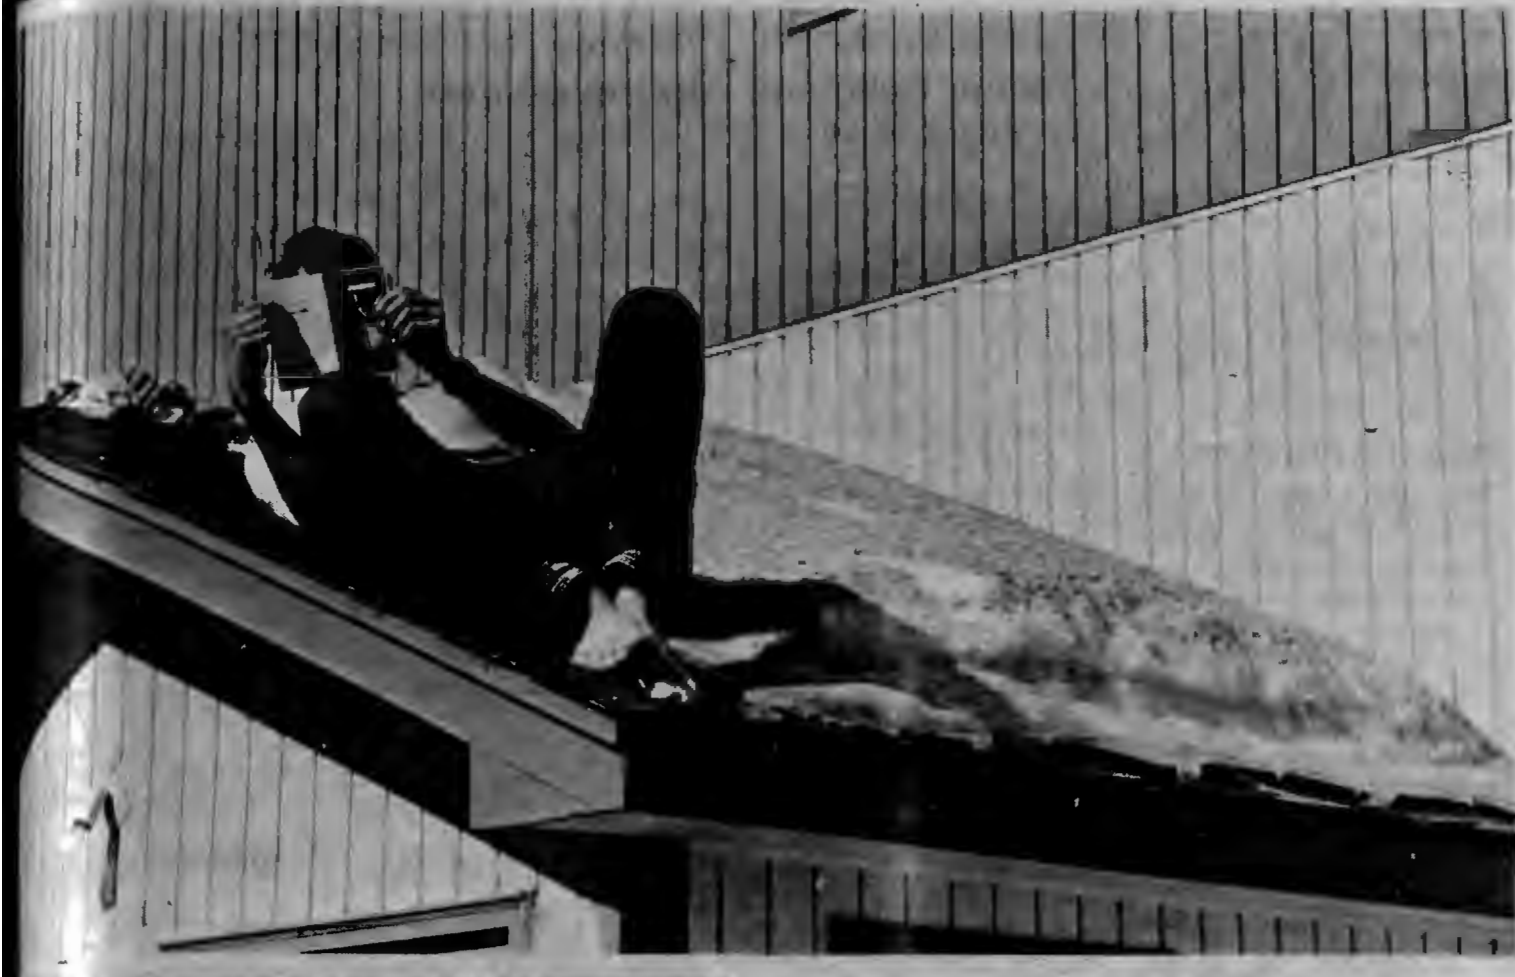

Sweaters, flannel shirts, and even a few short sleeve shirts have been adopted as suitable outdoor wear, replacing the heavy parkas of January. And, thank heaven, a few dresses have even survived the long hard winter.

The birds are back, grass is showing through the snirt, and the sun is even rising before the students. Well, most students.

So, with all this in evidence, the Spectrum is happy to announce that....

Thomas Pritchard, SU senior in math education, is one of 280 college seniors chosen to receive the George C. Marshall ROTC Award.

The award, in honor of General George C. Marshall, former Army Chief of Staff, Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense, and winner of the 1953 Nobel Peace Prize, is this year being given for the first time to the outstanding senior in each of the 280 college and university ROTC detachments.

As a Marshall ROTC Award winner, Pritchard will attend the award conference on national security issues in Lexington, Va., April 20-21. Co-chairmen for the conference will be General Maxwell Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Henry Cabot Lodge, former Senator and ambassador.

Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk is among featured speakers.

The award is sponsored by the George C. Marshall Research Foundation, established in 1953 to solve twentieth-century problems and seeks to recognize leadership within the Army Reserve Officer Training Program.

Sparse turnout highlights opening of Class A tournament

The turnout for the opening round was less than tournament officials had hoped for.

It's that time of year once again as fans from across the state descend upon SU's New Fieldhouse for the State Class A High School Basketball Tournament which started yesterday and concludes tomorrow.

Fifteen Thousand to 20,000 people are expected for the event with teams from both Grand Forks Red River and Central, Minot, Williston, Dickinson, Mandan, Jamestown and Wahpeton entered.

Jamestown is the heavy favorite with a 22-1 seasonal record and 6-6 standout Don Brugman.

Fargo North, the defending champion, failed to gain a berth in the tournament.

Area merchants are holding tournament sales in conjunction with the event. An estimated $750,000 worth of revenue is expected to be generated in the community as a result of the three day tourney.

Unreserved student ticket prices are $6 for the three day event or a charge of $2.50 per single game.

Bodies were spewing all over the court in the opening round game between Jamestown and Williston. Above Tom Gunderson files out of a pack of falling players to get a break away basket. Below Tim Anderson of Jamestown and Todd Hicfel of Williston attempt to get untangled while the ref and another Williston player look on.

Williston coach Jim McPherson gives explicit instructions to his players during a time out.

What do you do when it's the last quarter of a game and your team is down by 20 points? This young Williston fan seems to have found the solution was peering at the ref.

Basketball team sets six records

One of the youngest basketball teams in Bison history surprised all the experts and closed the 1977-78 season with a winning 16-13 record and in the process established six new school records.

The Bison listed 10 underclassmen on the 12-man traveling roster, including eight freshmen or sophomores. SU has had five winning seasons in the last six years under Marv Skaar's coaching.

Despite a three-game losing streak at the end of the season, the 16-13 record nearly collected a post-season playoff berth for the Bison. SU lost five games by a total of 11 points and just two more wins would have put the Bison cagers into playoff ac-

The Bison established two single game team records along the way. SU posted a record with a .691 shooting mark against Cornell College. The Bison hit 47 of 68 shots from the field in the 101-64 win. The other team mark was established when the Bison went 17 for 17 from the free throw line against South Dakota State.

Junior forward Paul Shogren set four individual records. The 6-6 forward set season marks in the number of field goals made, field goals attempted, points scored, and personal fouls committed.

The biggest mark was the 586 points Shogren scored to surpass the 576-point total set by Mike Kuppick in 1971-72. Shogren connected on 249 field goals in 518 attempts to set records in both those departments. Steve Saladino held the old mark in field goals scored with 231 in 1975-76. Ron Schlieman held the record with 445 attempts in 1967-68. Shogren erased Gerry Suman's foul record with 103 fouls committed. Suman set the old record of 101 fouls in 1964-65. Shogren finished the season with a 20.2 scoring average, one of three Bison in double figures. Freshman forward Mark Linde ended the season with a 16.9 scoring average while senior guard L. Moore averaged 10.6 points per game.

Senior center Warner H. pulled down 256 rebounds, an 8.8 rebounds per game average to lead the team in rebounding. The 256 rebounds gave Huss seventh place on the all-time single season rebounding chart at SU. Linde was second at 7.6 rebounds per game and Shogren third at 6.1.

Freshman guard Bill Lipp was the top field shooter with a .531. Freshman guard Mike Driscoll topped the free throw shooting with a .902 mark on 37 attempts. Shogren Driscoll finished 1-2 in assists with 89 and 85 respectively while Shogren led the team with 71 steals.

The Bison outshot (.462) opponents from the field, from the free throw stripe (.719) to outrebounded opponents (43.2 to 39.7), and outscored opponents (77.3 to 75.2) in 1977-78. The .719 percentage shot by the Bison in free throws narrowly missed breaking the record of .719 set by the 1976-77 team.

Bison grapplers lose in Division II tournament

SU defensive back Rodgers has been offered a free agent contract by the Washington Redskins of the National Football League. Rodgers was drafted by the Redskins a year ago, but was cut after two weeks of training camp. Rodgers plans to sign a one year contract with an option year and will report to the Redskins the second week in training camp. Rodgers claimed that at the end of the 40-yard dash he was the fastest one so far.

SU's freshman Mark Linde and veteran forward Paul Shogren have been named to the 1978 all-North Central conference basketball team. Linde is the only freshman named to the cage team and is the first freshman selected since Augustana's Davor Rukavina in 1973. Linde and Rukavina are the only freshmen that have been chosen for all-cage honors in the past 30 years. Junior forward Shogren set four individual records at SU during the 1977-78 season.

The Bison wrestling season ended last Saturday in Cedar Falls, Iowa and on a sour note for most of the team's wrestlers. SU's top contenders, Mark Reimnitz and Lon Brew, for the national championships were dumped in early rounds at the NCAA Division II tournament. Reimnitz, the returning champ and number one seeded wrestler in the 150-pound division was clipped 8-7 in the second round. Andy Wilson of Sacramento State was the winner. Brew was disqualified from the tournament after six minutes into his opening bout. SU's coach Bucky Maughan said, "He was getting beaten badly and took a cheap shot at the other guy." Brew was the number two seed at 142 pounds where he met Dave Herman of Youngstown, Ohio. Mark Anderson (126) and Kevin Andvik (158) both won their first two matches by falls, but lost in the quarter finals. Andvik dropped a 5-2 decision and Anderson fell in overtime.

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequaled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later. (But we don't think you'll want to.)

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus on March 14-16, or contact your Navy representative at 701-237-9297 (collect). If you prefer, send your résumé to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312-B468, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203, and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college: it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.
