

Loftsgard addresses state officials, urges more legislative support

Addressing a group of state senators, representatives and other state officials of Legislative Tour Group No. 2 Tuesday, President L.D. Loftsgard indicated that this is a time for higher education to be able to demonstrate that it can do what it has been saying it is capable of doing for many years, but never quite had sufficient money, people or physical facilities to do.

"Enrollments consistently outran the resources we had available to deal with them," said Loftsgard. "Now we see on the horizon an opportunity to catch our breath after 35 years of running as hard as we could just to keep from getting further behind."

Loftsgard sees this as an opportunity to do a better job with all the things that have been traditionally done, with lower student-teacher ratios, more adequate physical facilities and greater per-capita resources devoted to the vital process of helping North Dakota's people learn how to learn.

The key to achieving all of this, Loftsgard told the state officials, will be the continued support of the North Dakota State Legislature. Past examples of legislative support include the decision two years ago to have SU permission to hire 40 new full-time faculty members and legislation, which allowed the SU Development Foundation to undertake the private fund drive for a new Music Education Center.

Loftsgard feels that the Music Education Center continues to be the top priority in terms of physical facilities needed at SU. Visiting officials toured South Engineering in an effort to demonstrate the inadequacies of present music facilities.

Loftsgard is confident that the $2 million goal will be reached by the time the legislature convenes in January.

Other projects thought to be important during the coming legislative session are new student housing and an addition to the Engineering and Architecture complex, which would house the University Computer Center.

The acquisition of the Graver Hotel three years ago, which currently houses about 180 students, was intended to be a stop gap situation and did not solve the problem.

Since the University would prefer to have the students housed closer to campus, SU plans to request permission to spend $2 million in self-liquidating funds to build additional housing in University Village.

Although this housing would be used for single students, it could easily be converted to married student apartments, should enrollment patterns shift.

The Computer Center has been located in one corner of the Electrical and Electronics Engineering Building since the Engineering and Architecture complex opened in 1964. Since that time, The Computer Center staff and the use of the computer have grown tremendously.

Ade Sponberg guides the Legislative Tour Group through the Old Field House, which was one of four stops on the campus tour.

As a result of that growth, Loftsgard feels that more space is needed for the Computer Center and more space is needed for instruction.

Included on the tour of the campus was a visit to the Old Field House to demonstrate to the officials the benefits of a newly remodeled facility. They also inspected Hultz Hall, again to demonstrate the advantages of a modern facility.

According to Loftsgard, two major areas which constitute serious problems for SU are inflation and the high cost of complying with government regulations.

Due to the number of people who leave the college seeking positions that pay more money for comparable duties and responsibilities, Loftsgard feels that colleges must try to remain competitive in the employment market.

Loftsgard indicated that he feels most government regulations appear to be fully justified, but that people must remain aware that they do cost money. Jump to page 2

Deadline for Senate race extended

Due to a generally slow response to fill student government positions, the filing date for student government applicants has been extended to Wednesday, September 27. As of Wednesday, only seven students had filed applications for the available offices. There are 17 positions to be filled.

Student Vice President Dave Vipond expressed disappointment over the low turnout, but was hopeful that more people will file as the extended deadline approaches.

The following six students have filed for Senate positions: Jane Yseth, a senior for University Studies; Scott Malmberg, a junior representing the Greeks; Bonnie Buckeye from the Graduate School; freshman David Carlson and sophomore Mike Deluca both from Reed-Johnson; and Kursten Lass, a freshman from Dinan.

Douglas Dunford is seeking a position on the Board of Campus Attractions.

Positions for which no one has filed included, an office on the Board of Student Publications and senate openings representing Stockbridge, the High Rises, Graver Inn, off campus and married students.

Elections will be held Oct. 4 from 9 to 4 with voting booths in the West Dining Center, Residence Dining Center, and the Memorial Union.

New student housing may be available by spring 1980

New student housing may be available to students by the spring quarter of 1980, provided the legislature approves funding.

The State Board of Higher Education approved a request by SU that asked permission to sell $2 million in bonds to finance new student housing.

Should the request be approved, the university plans to expand the University Village by about 68 units.

"The new addition would be of an apartment type with one, two or three bedrooms each and housekeeping facilities in each," said Donald Stockman, vice president of business and finance.

The housing would be set up to accommodate both married and single student housing, but would preferably be used by single students.

"We're hoping that we can keep the rent low enough that it will be cheaper for students to live in campus housing, rather than in off-campus housing," said Stockman.

The problem with setting the village addition up for single student housing is that more multiple bedroom apartments would be constructed than would be needed for married housing, if the units were converted to married housing.

"It would be nice to know that we could use the units for married student housing, because we always have a waiting list for them," said the vice president.

According to plans, the addition would house 204 single students in 68 units.

"Everyone keeps telling us our enrollment will decline in the near future, so we don't want to take the route of a fourth high rise," said Stockman.

If the units are set up for singles, larger parking lots would have to be included than in the present village.

"If we have three single students in a unit, it's very possible they will have three cars," said Stockman. "The present village has a car-unit ratio of between one and two."

"Single bedroom units are far more popular for married student housing than multiple bedroom units. We'd like to make more single bedroom units," said Stockman. "It's one of those things we still have to work out."

The university has applied for a federal loan to finance the project. If the loan goes through, and if the legislature approves the project, bids could be let as early as July of next year. The units could be ready for occupancy as early as winter quarter of 1979-80, but "more realistically", would be ready for spring of 1980.

Students occupying the units would probably be upperclassmen, and would have to sign up for the housing like any other dorm.

forbidden fruit

Apples have never been a safe fruit. Apples were bad for Adam and Eve's morals, bad for William Tell's offspring, bad for Isaac Newton's headaches and especially bad for the worm (or should we say "half" a worm?) in teacher's apple.

So my naughty little child, if on the way home from school you yearn for a taste from these succulent orbs near Shanley High School, beware, you may become part of this infamous tradition.

$200 Value lost in Minard break-in Five cassette tape recorders, valued at approximately $200 were taken from Minard Hall last Friday evening.

"None of it makes any sense to us," an authority in the burglarized department commented. The recorders would serve no useful purpose to anyone outside the department since all five were directly monitored to a central computer terminal, also located in Minard. The operational keyboard of each recorder was rewired so that it would be completely dead unless hooked up to the computer.

As a direct result of the break-in, other departments in Minard are locking up its computerized equipment as early as 5 p.m. daily.

A candidates' meeting will be held Sunday, September 24 at 8 p.m. in Meinecke Lounge in the Union. The meeting will discuss all rules the candidates must abide by during the campaign. "Any candidates who file after the candidates' meeting are responsible for what is discussed at the meeting," said Paul Overby, Student Court Justice.

"In a strictly economic context, we have lost our right to be efficient," said Loftsgard. "For example, we now find that it is mandatory to have our own attorney spend approximately a quarter of his time staying on top of the new regulations and telling us how they should be implemented."

Loftsgard also touched upon the attention that has been given in recent years to the concept of back to basics. "During the past couple years, we have tripled the number of our freshman English sections in an effort to spend more time on writing and other communication skills," said Loftsgard.

He also mentioned the Concentrated Approach Program for students who need additional personal attention.

Also mentioned to the visiting officials was the growing number of students who take advantage of the Tri-College University Program.

Engineer says passive solar energy will be used extensively in future

by Nancy Payne

In North Dakota, the use of passive solar energy could supply 40 to 50 per cent of the total heating need, according to Laird Parry, lecturer at last Thursday's conference entitled "Solar Short Course." Parry, an engineer who works for an energy research firm in the state of Washington, lives in a house he designed using the passive solar-heating system. "It cost about the same to build—maybe a thousand dollars more—than a conventional house of the same size. But the heating bill is one-half to one-third of what other homeowners are paying in that area," he said. "However, the building industry changes very, very slowly. They need to sit back and observe an innovation until they are sure it will work." Parry and another engineer, Mike Morgenstern, led the conference lectures which were held in the Union last Thursday and Friday. The conference was sponsored by SU's department of Architecture, the American Institute of Architects, North Dakota Chapter, and the North Dakota State Energy Management and Conservation Office.

In a passive solar heating system, the house itself collects the sun's radiant energy in the form of heat. The heat is distributed throughout the building by natural circulation.

Active solar insulation, in contrast, uses mechanical devices to collect, retain and circulate solar energy.

One advantage that the passive solar heating system has over an active solar heating system (which uses mechanical devices such as collectors, fans and pumps) is that it uses the materials that are used in traditional building methods.

There are two main types of passive solar heating: the direct gain system, and the thermal storage wall heating system.

The direct gain system utilizes the sun's heat as it comes through a large south-facing double-pane glass wall. A good deal of mass is needed to absorb and retain the sun's heat. The massive material is usually masonry but other materials such as containers of water may be used. The low altitude winter sun illuminates the south wall most of the day, but the high altitude summer sun is prevented from reaching the wall by an overhang. The heat stored in the masonry circulates through the living space as temperature drops, thus minimizing temperature fluctuation.

The second basic type of passive solar heating is the thermal storage wall. It is a thick south-facing concrete wall covered by glass, with an air space in between the wall and the glass to prevent heat loss. When sunshine comes through the glass it is immediately stored in the wall. The stored heat radiates through the building at night, and the heat may be regulated with vents at the floor and ceiling.

Insulation is widely used in all types of solar designs to keep out excessive heat as well as to retain heat within the building. Insulators may be ordinary shutters or blocks of styrofoam, but climbing vines or a greenhouse outside the south wall may also be used.

Passive solar heating has been in use at least since the Pueblo Indians in the Southwest built their dwellings with thick adobe walls which absorbed the sun's heat during the day and radiated heat into the house during the cold desert nights. The Arizona cliff dwellings, built by Indians circa 1100 A.D., used the cliffs as a natural overhang to block out the summer sun.

The Southwest still leads the nation in the number of passive solar homes. The homes in New Mexico represent about ten per cent of the total number of passive solar homes in the U.S., even though the state has only two per cent of the nation's population.

This prohibition of discrimination in education programs and activities operated by the University extends to a wide variety of areas,

Homecoming candidates sought

A new Homecoming King and Queen will be selected as part of the traditional homecoming activities.

Any SU organization is eligible to nominate one person to represent their organization but nominees must be SU students and they must accept the nomination before their name is submitted.

Nominees will be interviewed on Monday, Oct. 9, and the final 10 candidates will be selected by a panel of eight judges, representing faculty, administration, residence halls, student government, athletics, Greeks, religion and the homecoming committee.

Candidate names can be submitted to Room 204, Student Affairs Office, in Old Main or call 237-7701.

SPECTRUM EDITORIAL

Homecoming needs your help

Homecoming week is fast sneaking up on us and is only two weeks away. And now is the time to get in the spirit so that the week really comes off well.

Student President Dennis Walsh says many more people and organizations are needed for "Fund Fair Day," a carnival on the mall to raise money for the music building fund drive. People are needed to run the Kissing Booth, Turtle Races, Dart Throwing Contest, Bean Bag Throwing Contest and the Fortune Telling Booth.

Whether you're a helper or a player, this afternoon in the sun should be a lot of fun for everybody and even raise a couple of hundred dollars for the music building.

Another activity this year is Wild West Day, which should be fun even for those who don't wear cowboy boots. There'll be a slave auction, cow chip-chuckin' contest, a tobacco-spittin' contest, a cussin' contest, square dancing, hayrides, and to top it all off, dinner of roast pig turned all days outdoors on a spit. In the evening Campus Attractions is going to present Willie Nelson and Pure Prairie League.

One of the best changes made this year is to scrap the parade floats in favor of lawn displays. With cooperation from grounds personnel and the various academic departments, the many clubs on campus will be able to dress the campus up with displays all over campus. This will heighten the homecoming spirit by exposing more people to the displays than what usually see the floats, considering the floats say in some garage all week until the parade, a lot students work on weekends, and most of the rest are still in bed on the Saturday morning of the parade.

It is hoped that with the Wild West Days, Fund Fair Day, and especially the lawn displays, Homecoming will turn into a week-long spirit event and not just another weekend of activities.

Being "impatient" can really make the first few weeks of school difficult.

Seems everywhere you go — everything you do — everywhere you look — there are lines.

You can't imagine how many hostile students I encountered in the Varsity Mart while waiting in line to buy books.

I mean, most students didn't get their books until two minutes after their class had started, and then, of course, they had to skip class because who wants to walk in late?

Walking in late is like finding out your zipper was down the whole time you were giving your first 108 speech and, besides, it's much easier to Xerox your roommates notes for only 5 cents.

Or, how about the lines for paying tuition? It was so long and frustrating waiting in line that the only way one could relax is by forgetting about that late afternoon class and retiring to one of the local establishments for happy hour.

After two hours of happy hour, only a few students could still be found mourning over the $175 deficit in their checking account.

Or, what about the lines in the dining center on Sunday? By the time you get to pick up your food, you may not be hungry, but know what table to sit at because you've scoped out where all your eligible prospects are sitting.

Or, what about the lines to get into the T&T, Eastgate, Lamplight or any other wild and crazy place? By the time you get in, you have time for one dance and what a disappointment when you have 20 invites from all the people you met while waiting in line!

Yes, if you're one of those people who hate waiting in lines, just remember the worst of it is over. I mean, there's only football games, movies, selling back books, signing up for dorms...

Although Stavn has an optimistic view of the year, she said, "I really don't know how things will go until I get started."

If the first cross country meet of the year is a predictor, things look good.

Stavn, women's athletic director at Bismarck Junior College before coming to SU, said she wanted a new challenge.

She wanted a program where she would have the chance to work with individuals for four years rather than two, she said.

Stavn received her undergraduate degree from Minot State College and earned her master's at the University of Idaho.

Her job at SU started two weeks ago and she is already very busy with coaching.

There are seven cross country meets left for the season. "Spectators are always welcomed and encouraged," said Stavn.

Carters Spend for Vacation

The First Family's vacation this summer cost the taxpayers $114,298.39, as estimated by the Associated Press.

This amount includes hotel expense for staff, transportation for staff and the Carter family, and security.

The trip cost Carter himself $2,232.82. This included the family's hotel rooms and personal entertainment, including a 3-day raft trip down Idaho's Salmon River.

Teachers Strike

Six hundred teachers in the Burnsville, Minn., school district went on strike Tuesday.

All classes in the nine elementary, two junior high and one senior high schools were called off for an indefinite time.

The Minnesota Education Association authorized the Burnsville strike on Sept. 5, as allowed by the 1978 Minnesota State Legislature in the case of a school board refusing to go into arbitration or refusing an arbitrator's decision.

The issue of salaries has been disputed in the district for 17 months and the teachers requested the dispute go into arbitration earlier this year, but the board refused.

The board has offered the teachers a 15.2 percent increase but the teachers are asking for a 22 percent increase.

Saudi Arabia also has reservations about the summit agreements, saying the agreements did not come up with an acceptable "final peace framework."

Milk Prices Rise

The North Dakota Milk Stabilization Board has authorized milk price increases for whole milk in seven cities in the state. Skim milk prices will stay the same or even go down a cent in the near future.

A 6-cent increase was authorized for whole milk half gallons in Fargo, Minot, Bismarck and Grand Forks.

Fine Arts Series starts new season featuring the Gary Burton Quartet

A jazz concert featuring the Gary Burton Quartet will be presented as the first performance of the 1978-79 North Dakota State University Fine Arts Series at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, in Festival Hall.

Members of the quartet are Gary Burton, vibraphone; Steve Swallow, bass; Toru "Tiger" Okoshi, trumpet, and Gary Chaffee, drums.

Burton made his professional debut at the age of 17 on recordings with Nashville guitarist Hank Garland, and through Chet Atkins this ultimately led to a long association with RCA records. Burton's musical coming of age occurred between 1964 and 1966 while working with the Stan Getz Quartet. In 1967 he formed his first quartet which became successful with both rock audiences and traditional jazz fans. Downbeat chose Burton as Jazzman of the Year in 1968 and has named him "best vibist" every year since. His album "Alone at Last" won the Grammy for best solo album in 1971.

Swallow's contribution has been a major influence in the Burton sound. His unique soloing and ensemble playing, now exclusively on electric bass, is well-known to followers of the quartet.

Okoshi's style and sound is a considerable contribution to the new Gary Burton Quartet, the first to feature a horn soloist. He is an exceptionally talented musician, and one of the new stars on his instrument, sure to become even more important to the jazz scene in the future.

The quartet's percussionist, Chaffee, began his career both as a teacher and a performer. As an educator, he soon became department chairman at the University of Western Illinois and then later department chairman at the Berklee College in Boston. In recent years, Chaffee's name has become well-known for his several books on drumming.

A clinic for college students interested in jazz, and musicians interested in theory and history will begin at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 27, in the Memorial Union Ballroom. Conducting the clinic will be Burton and members of the quartet. For further information contact Orville Eidman, 237-7873.

Season tickets for the seven SU Fine Arts Series programs are available from the Memorial Union Director's Office for $15 or $9 to faculty and staff. Flexible ticket use allows season ticket holders to use any number of tickets at any given performance. Tickets for individual performances are $3 each ($1 for students and senior citizens) and may be purchased in advance at the Memorial Union or at the door the evening of the performance. For more information call 237-8241.

Nancy Stavn named new women's track and cross country coach

by Kim Keacher

Nancy Stavn, the new women's track and cross country coach, has large hopes for the team. Stavn wants to get the SU women's track team up to the national level.

"The numbers have been weak," said Stavn about the women's track team in the past. She wants to encourage more individuals to participate with national competition as a goal.

"We may possibly have some national types this year," she said. Before going to nationals however, Stavn's first goal is to win the state meet.

"Dickinson has won state for the last seven years. I'd like to take that away from them."

Track hasn't technically started yet, but she'd like to get the team working out within the next couple weeks, "off-season type stuff," she said.

At present, her coaching energies have been focused on the women's cross-country team, new to SU this year.

The nine regular members of the cross country team are Deb Ardolf, Becky Clairmont, Anne Fogarty, Julie Glasoe, Kathy Kappel, Kitty Lemm, Shari Ludvigson, Therese Vogel and Cindy Wagner.

The team won its first meet of the year in Grand Forks Sept. 15.

Stavn is happy with the size of the cross country team and would be pleased if the cross country women would also go out for track because it would give the team a good base.

"There are a lot of talented kids if we can convince them to come out," she said.

Indoor track, which is different from outdoor track, starts this fall.

"Because a lot of people don't like running indoor track, that team is considerably smaller than the spring outdoor team," Stavn said.

The track work outs are held every afternoon in the New Field House with the men's track team.

"Many of the women going out for indoor track are also on the women's basketball team and therefore have to double up on the practicing," she said.

"Some of the track women are phy ed majors but they're definitely not the majority," she said.

The first indoor track meet is scheduled for the first part of December.

Stavn said she would have the team working outside as much as possible this winter.

"We'll be outside even when it's still pretty cold."

She came from a school with no indoor track and has always had to run outside so she's used to it, she said.

The regular outdoor track season starts with the first meet in late March or early April.

The state meet will be held at SU this year on May 4.

"The national meet is in the middle of May, so the team will be through just when it's getting nice out here," Stavn said.

The Illusion Theater, an ensemble of six performers, mingles mime, mask and music in "Orlando Orlando," the story of an Elizabethan poet who ages just 50 years in a 400-year span. Orlando the poet, spends his first 30 years as a man, but on his 30th birthday wakes up as a woman and remains a woman for the next three centuries. The Illusion Theater is the first in the Series for the Performing Arts at MSU and will open Friday at 8:15 p.m. in The Center for the Arts, MSU.

Little Country Theater, announces tryouts for "Mules, Men and Other Properties," an original play, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Askanase Annex.

"Parker Adderson, Philosopher," by Ambrose Bierce, the first film in the American Short Story Film Series, will be shown at 7:30 on Tuesday at the Fargo Public Library.

"Gifts to the Museum", an exhibition of donations made towards the Permanent Collection by various donors of the Plains Art Museum/Main Gallery, is continuing through Sept. 30. Gallery hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday and 12 noon on Sunday.

The Rourke Gallery is continuing a three-person exhibit with woodcuts by Gordon Mortensen, ceramics by Gail Kendall and metal sculptures by Terence Larson. Gallery hours are from 12 to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Sunday.

Rachel Dittmer, a junior at NDSU will present a vocal and piano recital at 8:15 p.m. Sept. 29 in Festival Hall. In addition to her accompanist, Julie Simmons, Grand Forks, about 12 other SU students will accompany her. The recital is open to the public at no charge. A reception will be held in Festival Hall following the program.

Health Insurance

Check with home to see if you are included in your family health policy, because if you aren't SU has a deal for you. Students are eligible for the Health Center Insurance Policy offered through SU. This year, the services covered by the policy have been expanded to cover almost any medical emergency.

Although the price of the policy has gone up to cover the increase in services, it is still the best deal around for the single college student. However, a married student with a family is better off going with Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

Also, a $5 premium dental health policy is also available to cover emergency dental care. For more details, stop by the Health Center, just north of Old Main.

Photocopies and other stuff

The least expensive place on campus to get a photocopy of notes or papers is the Activities Desk, just up the stairs from the front door of the Union. Photocopies, costing 5 cents each, are made by the Activities Desk attendant. Bad copies are reshot for free and, if you have a lot of pages, they can all be paid at one time so you won't need a pocket full of nickels.

The Activities Desk also has several other functions. Classies for the Spectrum are purchased at the Activities Desk for 5 cents a word. The deadline for Classies is three days before the paper is published.

Line Art Series Tickets, which are free to SU students, can be picked up there. And both the Freshman Register and the Bison Annual, which will be out soon, will be distributed at the Activities Desk.

Free mail service for on-campus letters is available at the Activities Desk. Just write "campus mail" where the stamp usually goes, to mail a letter to anywhere on the SU campus. Regular mail can also be mailed from the Activities Desk.

A lot of free magazines, pamphlets, brochures and information are available at the Activities Desk. Bus schedules, Sports schedules, TAPE program catalogs, Nutshell, campus maps, and informational brochures are all available.

Also, if you need a Union custodian during the evening, the Activity Desk can call him.

Today's Events on TAPE

The taped program outlining events scheduled in the Union was available over the telephone last year. The tape was used every morning to give the time and place of the day's events. It was hooked into an automatic telephone answering machine in the Union.

This year Today's Events has been turned over to the TAPE program. TAPE is an information and referral service for SU and the Fargo/Moorhead community. It provides current information dealing with commonly-asked questions, as well as information of general interest. To use TAPE, call 237-TAPE, ask for the number of the tape you want to hear, and the operator will plug in the tape you want. TAPE has hundreds of 2 to 4 minute cassettes on everything from SU Admissions (No. 1025), to preserving chini (No. 5155). The most popular program is on congas (No. 1121), usually requested on party nights. Today's Events doesn't have a number yet, but a special program on TAPE is No. 900.

The TAPE program runs from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday and from noon to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Stop by the Activities Desk in the Union for a free pamphlet listing all the TAPE programs.

Rachel Dittmer displays her talents in two part vocal and piano recital

Rachel Dittmer, Casselton, a junior at SU, will present a vocal and piano recital at 8:15 p.m. Friday, Sept. 29, in Festival Hall.

The program will be a combination of classical and contemporary music. She will sing and play selections by Hugo Cole, Mozart and Debussy during the first part of the program. The second half of the program will include music by Paul McCartney, Weber and Rice and selections from the musicals, "Annie" and "A Little Night Music."

In addition to her accompanist Julie Simmons, Grand Rords, about 12 other SU students will accompany her.

Dittmer is a vocal student of Dr. Robert Olson and studies piano under Andrew Froelich, both of the SU Music Department.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Dittmer, Casselton, she is majoring in anthropology and minor in music.

The recital is open to public at no charge. A reception will be held in Festival Hall following the program.

HEWLETT-PACKARD INTRODUCES PROFESSIONAL SCIENTIFIC CALCULATORS FOR A STUDENT'S BUDGET.

THE PRICE OF EXCELLENCE NOW STARTS AT $60*

Now you can get the same quality, durability and many of the features found in Hewlett-Packard's professional calculators—at a price you can afford. Introducing Series E for science.

DESIGNED FOR STUDENTS.

Easy-to-read displays. Larger, brighter LED display with commas to separate thousands, easier on the eyes during those long hours of study.

Built-in diagnostic systems.

You'll now be working on many new, challenging problems—that's why Series E has diagnostic systems that tell you:
1) when you've performed an incorrect operation; 2) why it was incorrect; 3) if the calculator isn't working properly.

Accuracy. Improved algorithms give you confidence that your answers are more precise and complete.

FROM BASIC SCIENCE

TO ADVANCED PROGRAMMABLE.

The HP-31E—Scientific. $60*: Trigonometric, exponential and math functions. Metric conversion. Fixed and scientific display modes. Full 10-digit display. 4 separate user memories.

The HP-32E—Advanced Scientific with Statistics. $80*: All HP-31E functions plus hyperbolics and comprehensive statistics. More math and metric capabilities. Decimal degree conversions. ENG, SCI and FIX display modes. 15 user memories.

HEWLETT-PACKARD IS WITHOUT EQUAL.

All Series E calculators use RPN logic exclusively.

If you've never tried it, you're in for a big surprise. It lets you solve problems the way you naturally do in your mind. Straightforward. Logical. No worrying about complicated hierarchies or parentheses. RPN is the shortest possible distance between the question and the answer.

SEE FOR YOURSELF.

To help you select the calculator that's right for you, we've prepared a booklet entitled, "The Student's Choice... the Logical Choice." Pick up a copy at your bookstore or nearest Hewlett-Packard dealer, when you stop by to see Series E. For the address, CALL TOLL-FREE 800-648-4711 except from Hawaii or Alaska. In Nevada call 800-992-5710.

When you stop by your dealer to see Series E, be sure to see our other professional calculators: the advanced programmable HP-29C and HP-19C with printer; and the HP-67 mag-card programmable.

But do it soon. A Hewlett-Packard professional calculator priced for a student's budget is something you can't afford to pass up.

Bison in defense of their NCC crown as they meet Sioux Falls Vikings

The Bison travel to Sioux Falls this weekend for their first North Central Conference game. The game against Augustana has been termed as a "must" by the Bison coaching staff.

The Bison will be out to defend their NCC crown against a team that had them on the ropes until the fourth quarter of a game last season. Gone from that Viking offensive unit of last season is All-American quarterback Dee Jay Donlin who set numerous passing records.

The Viking running game is sound with two returning backs—Scott Magnuson and Bill O'Conner. O'Conner was sixth in the league in rushing last year.

Terry Egger, leading receiver in the NCC last year, is Augustana's biggest threat if they can get the ball to him. The entire offensive line also returned this season.

The Bison defensive will be put to the test to control Egger and the Viking rushing game. Unfortunately for the Bison, injuries have taken their toll in a few key spots.

Last Saturday's loss to Montana may have a far-reaching effect on the Bison. Senior free safety Perry Kozlowski was injured late in the game while chasing Montana State quarterback Paul Dennehy.

Kozlowski underwent facial surgery Monday to repair four fractures of his cheekbone. It may be two weeks before he is able to return to the lineup.

Kozlowski earned all-NCC honors last season and was considered a definite All-American candidate for this year.

Greg Krueger will fill in for Kozlowski tomorrow. Krueger, a senior from Bloomington, Minn., is a regular on the Bison specialty teams.

Where the Bison are hurting the most is at defensive end. They lost Robert Spaeth before the season even started.

Fred Cooperwood, a sophomore from Omaha, Neb., had knee surgery yesterday and is lost for the season. Cooperwood came on strong during spring drills to challenge for a starting spot on the defensive line.

The Bison moved Dirk Kroeze from the middle guard position to defensive end and placed junior Tom Rausch in Kroeze's spot. Kroeze is the defensive point leader for the Bison so far this season with 160 points.

Don Meyer and Don Hutson have amassed 157 points each and Kozlowski has 155.

Mike McIntyre and Flint will probably see a lot of action against the Vikings tomorrow night at the old defensive end position.

Offensively the Bison has been awesome in the first three games and all the games against Big Sky opponents. SU is averaging 30 points per game and 425-yards total offense.

Last year the Bison offense finished the season fourth in total offense nationally with 427.4 yards per game. They also finished fourth in scoring at 34.7 points per game.

This is due largely to the efforts of sophomore quarterback Mark Sperl. In the first three games he has rushed for 42 yards and passed for 42 yards. His total offensive average is 84 yards.

The Bison rushing attack finished second in the nation last year. It is led by Gordy Sprattler with 292 yards. Sprattler finished last season with 562 yards but was second to Baudry with 815.

So far this season Baudry has compiled 250 yards rushing and 35 yards on 10 receptions. Baudry also passed for SU and has a 41.7 percent punting average.

The Bison passing attack has also been a pleasant surprise. They are averaging 141 yards a game and Sperl's completion rate is .522. He has thrown only one interception this year.

SU soccer team to replace the great American pastime

by Trina Eitland
Are you sick and tired of watching the same old thing that holds all of America spellbound? The great American pastime of watching football each weekend and Monday nights, has for a long time dominated the sports enthusiasts' viewing. Now offers an opportunity to watch something else. If you want a change, why not try soccer?
The SU soccer season continues on Saturday, Sept. 23, with a tournament on the soccer field, south of the New World House. The team ended its season with a match against Moorhead State yesterday.
Those teams participating this weekend along with SU are Mankato State, U of M-Luth, Grand Forks Air Force Base, UND, Moorhead State, Concordia and St. Cloud State.

Club president, Kevin Wold, says that the competition should be good, because all of the teams are tough.
"With our short season, this is one of the best ways to get in a lot of games before the snow falls. We can get close to five games in, in a short time."
"Both Mankato and St. Cloud State have already won a match this season so they're probably looking for another win," Wold said.
The tournament play will be on the soccer field on Saturday, with the possibility of a new location for the finals and semi-finals on Sunday.
"This isn't going to be the only tournament we'll have this year. We are planning for a few more," he said.
So here's your chance to get acquainted with soccer. Who knows... you might even like it.

Women's X-country defeated

The women's cross-country team lost to Concordia of Moorhead last Wednesday by a score of 24-31. The meet, which took place at Edgewood Golf Course, covered a distance of 5,000-meters.
Becky Clairmont of SU took first with a record time of 18:40. The old record of 20:30 at Edgewood was set by Anita Anderson of Concordia.
In second place was Barb Cartford of Concordia in a time of 19:14. Tammy Benson, also from Concordia, placed third with a time of 20:12. Anita Anderson, Concordia, was fourth, Kathy Kappel of SU fifth and Pam Stamness of Concordia in sixth.
Kim Rehousky and Jackie Wager of Valley City State ran fast enough to place sixth and seventh respectively, but didn't place because a full team was not present.
