

A week of Homecoming activities starts today

Homecoming activities "Aurochs Delirium" translated from Latin meaning "Bison Fever" began this morning with a Music Marathon and will run through Saturday ending with a midnight Bison Basketball Intra-Squad scrimmage and breakfast. Jacques Vallee, the world's leading expert on social and psychological aspects of the UFO phenomenon, will be speaking at the Old Field House this evening. Dr. Vallee serves as the model for the character "Lacombe" in the film "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," and the presentation is free to students.

Your Favorite Era Dance" with the Uglier than Ever Band" there will be a Gong Show. Five acts will be performed by SU Students between the band breaks and they will be judged by members of the administration.

The winning act receives $25 and a small trophy. Acts not worthy of hearing or seeing will be "gonged" and not allowed to continue.

The best dressed couple will receive a trophy and students who dress in their "Favorite Era" garb will not have to pay the $2 admission charge.

The Fund Fair begins Wednesday morning and students and faculty will have a chance to enter a cookie walk, have their fortune told, kiss their favorite cheerleader or jail their best friend.

Students sponsored by SU organizations will be "Eating for Epilepsy" at the annual ATO Pancake Eating Contest on Wednesday evening. A $200 gift certificate will be given to the person who eats the most pancakes, $100 will be given to the organization with the most sponsors and $50 will go to the individual with the most sponsors.

Following the Pancake Eating Contest there will be the annual Punt, Pass and Kick contest on Dakota Field. The Alumni Association has invited faculty, students and Fargo businesses to join in the competition.

On Thursday, the Memorial Union Celebrates its 25th birthday. After the pep fest and crowing of Homecoming Royalty on the East Mall there will be a birthday party for students, faculty and alumni with free cake being served.

Wild West Days begins on Friday. Everyone is invited to wear their favorite Western style apparel for the days scheduled activities. There will be hayrides throughout the campus taking students on rides or to classes.

A slave auction with noted celebrities, including L.D. Loftsgard, a hog calling contest, a cow chipping contest and many more events have been scheduled for afternoon activities.

The "Cowboy Cookout" will feature a barbecued pig

Midnight tolls first practice for SU basketball team

Jane Yseth

Meet Erv Inniger, SU's head basketball coach at the Bison Basketball game at midnight on Saturday, Oct. 14, when they have their first scheduled practice of the 1978-79 basketball season.

NCAA rules state that scheduled practices cannot begin until Sunday, Oct. 15, so Inniger has scheduled an Intra-Squad scrimmage that will begin at 12:01 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 15, in the New Field House.

Along with the continental breakfast being served during the scrimmage, students and faculty will get a pre-season opportunity to meet the new coach and basketball team. Inniger will be showing some of the Bison's new strategy, techniques and warm-ups that will be used during the upcoming season.

All students and faculty are welcome to attend. The breakfast will consist of coffee, juice, rolls, doughnuts and fresh fruit. It will be free to contract students and $1 for those without a food contract.

Slave auction to sell the SU famous and infamous

SU celebrities, both famous and infamous, will be auctioned off Friday afternoon as part of the Homecoming festivities.

Student favorites will be sold to the highest bidder in the slave auction, sponsored jointly by the Rodeo and the Saddle & Sirloin Clubs at 2:30 Friday in the East Mall by the Union.

Groups across campus have been approached by representatives of the sponsoring clubs to gather funds to bid on the various persons who will be up for sale. All funds brought in through the action will go to the music building fund.

Persons who have agreed to be sold Friday include:

L.D. Loftsgard, SU's university president;
 F. Leslie Pavek, vice president of student affairs;
 B. Charles Bentson, dean of men;

Dennis Walsh, student president;

Dave Vipond, student vice president;

Stevan "Doc" Tanner, rodeo club adviser;

The Homecoming King and Queen, yet to be named; Irv Inniger, head basketball coach;

Andre Stephenson, Spectrum editor

The groups hope to secure other celebrities by Friday.

Also raffled off will be three copies of the SU "Rectum." The "Rectum," an off-color version of the Spectrum, was last published in May of 1976. The copies were donated by Gary Grinaker.

The auctioneers for the sale will be Kirby Josephson, of the S & S Club, and Les Ohlhauser, of the Rodeo Club.

Terms of the sale will be available at the auction.

on a spit in front of the Memorial Union. During the cookout there will be the Willie Nelson Hat Raffle and the Bison Promenaders will be providing live dinner entertainment.

Willie Nelson will

U Union celebrates 25 years; birthday party planned Thursday in the mall

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Memorial Union will be celebrated this week in coordination with the upcoming festivities at the Union.

The Union was first formally opened to students, faculty and friends during the upcoming weekend—October 29-31, 1953.

Some of the activities planned for the celebration include a birthday party, to which all students are invited. The party will be held at the East Mall of the Union at 8 p.m. Thursday. Birthday cake will be served to all students, faculty and staff of

A commemorative breakfast will be held Saturday in the Union for the past directors, board members and service personnel. The breakfast will honor several persons who have been affiliated with the Union for more than 20 years.

Honored will be John Carlson, Jr., 25 year member of the Union Board of Directors; Gladys Eisinger, 20 years of service in the Union Food Service; Les Hirschert, 25 years as barber and proprietor of the Union Campus Barber shop; Richard Kasper, 20 years of service as manager of the Varsity Mark and Paul Teichman, 21 years as a member of the Union custodial staff.

The idea of a Union was first conceived in 1943 as a memorial to commemorate the SU men and women who died while serving their country. On June 5, 1947, the student body voted to recommend a five dollar quarterly assessment to all students for the union building fund.

The next step was to form the "1000 Club" to solicit donations. As funding increased, Dale Brostrom was appointed as director. An architect designed the facility, and soon construction had begun on the 50,000 square foot building.

In 1958, the south end of the present building was added and the bowling lanes were relocated into their present position.

In 1964, the Union was again enlarged, this time annexed to the south and east walls of the original building. The total square footage was then at 100,000 square feet.

The year 1971 saw another addition, this time in the form of an expanded west entrance and exterior patio area. Air conditioning was added to areas of the Union and remodeling was completed on the main floor lounge and hallway area.

The addition of the Family Life Center as an adjoining building was completed in 1975. This addition included an art gallery and the 4-H Conference Center complex.

The latest renovation was in 1976 when the food services facilities were remodeled and renamed the Twenty After.

The future plans for the Union have not yet been finalized, but the Union Board of Directors hopes to change the Union to make it more assessible to handicapped students. Plans are also in the making for a remodeling of the present Crow's Nest in the lower level of the Union.

Tours of the Union will be conducted between 10:30 and noon on Saturday.

"And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb."

SPECTRUM EDITORIAL

Petitions show candidates willing to work

Last week's Student Senate election was a different sort of affair. It was a surprise because a relatively large number of candidates turned out to run. In fact, only a few races went completely uncontested this time.

But the main difference from this election compared to past elections was the great number of people who signed up to run, but then dropped out before the ballots were printed.

"They were dropping like flies," is the way we would characterize the attrition rate as our reporters called up the candidates for interviews. Some even dropped out after we had interviewed them and written the stories.

It's safe to say the reason was because of the petitions the candidates were required to submit. Those desiring their names on the ballot must submit to the election officials a petition signed by 25 of the candidate's constituents.

Even though Student Court was very generous in allowing candidates to turn in their petitions late, many dropped out rather than go to the effort of getting the signatures. With so many dropping out, we wonder if Student Senate was not deprived of some decent talent.

Probably not. Those who aren't willing to work to get into Senate, surely won't be willing to work after they get into the Senate.

But the main advantage of the petitions is that it gives constituents a chance to know their senators. The students in the dorm or in the legislature represented by the senator have already met their representative when they signed the petition.

Off-campus students are at a disadvantage because it's so hard to track down their constituents, but some inventive candidates resort to passing petitions around in class, and gathering signatures in T-lot.

For years, without the petitions, anybody could get on the ballot and through campaign posters and Spectrum interviews, have a good chance of getting elected, without any substantial personal campaigning. And the Student Senate suffered for it, with senators who knew little and cared less.

It's sad to see so many people drop out of a Student Senate race. Student government needs all the people it can find. It also needs the enthusiasm it can find.

Fortunately, those people who dropped out rather than hunt down 25 people to sign their petitions weren't very fired up about joining the Senate in the first place.

The Spectrum is published Tuesdays and Fridays during the school year except holidays, vacations and examination periods. Opinions expressed herein are not necessarily those of the university administration, faculty or student body.

Editorial and business offices are located on the second floor, southside of the Memorial Union. Phone numbers are 237-8929 or 237-8995. The Spectrum is printed at Southeastern Printing in Casselton, N.D.

News stories or features for publication must be typewritten, double-spaced, with a 65-character line. Deadline is 5 p.m. two days before publication.

Letters to the editor are encouraged. They must be submitted typed, double-spaced and cannot be more than two pages in length. Letters must be signed but signatures will be withheld on request. The Spectrum, due to space limitations, reserves the right to edit letters for length, without destroying the writer's major thesis, and to correct spelling, style and grammatical errors.

The Spectrum is published by the NDSU Board of Student Publications, State University Station, Fargo, N.D. 58102. Second class postage is paid at Fargo. Subscription rates are $2 per quarter or $5 per year.

by Sick and Tired

any years ago, back in days of the Wild, Wild West when the Bison numbered so many that you could run across their backs and not touch the ground local natives had to be resourceful because though everything was in abundance things were scarce. The Indians used to hunt bison for food and shelter. They used their hides for clothing and teepees, bow strings, rope and probably dental floss. The inner organs such as innards and guts were used for wine flasks and fire per containers. The bones they used for tools, good luck charms, amulets, bad luck charms, etc. The Vikings showed them how to make trumpets and drinking glasses out of the horns. The Indians used every part imaginable, even the horns for the young. Every part except the best (s) which weren't covered until the honkies showed the forked tongues moved in. With them came beer, deep fat fryers, cowboy and indian movies, rodeos, stampedes, wagon tracks and wax paper. The best thing the settlers brought with them were oysters. Not those that come from deep in the ocean but rather the kind found in the higher regions of the earth—the mountains.

They found the largest and best oysters in the Rockies and so named them "Rocky Mountain Oysters."

This delicacy has survived the test of time and is still popular in many areas. Unfortunately many people have led deprived lives and haven't had the chance to try them—until now that is.

The Association of Veterinary Science is offering all you deprived persons a chance to try these famous "oysters" on Wednesday (that's tomorrow) during the Fund Fair in the Ballroom of the Union.

Their slogan is —Have a "Bison Ball" during Homecoming—and I would suggest stopping at their booth before going home.

While in the Ballroom you might want to try the kissing booth (run by the cheerleaders), the water fountain, the massage parlor, etc.

You can even buy a slave (sorry Abe) at the Slave Auction on Friday for doing those chores you don't care to do. You know, things like cleaning your bathroom, washing your dirty clothes, taking your Penicillin shots, cleaning your fish tanks, returning your overdue books to the library, sitting in for you at the dentist, take all your tests or get a Pap smear.

Enough is enough.

Student Senate holds first meeting to orient new senators

The first Student Senate meeting held Sunday night was mainly organizational as Student President Dennis Walsh outlined the duties and responsibilities of the senators throughout the coming year. "We oriented the senators to the important issues and got them thinking about what they want to work on," said Vice President Dave Vipond.

Senators were asked to volunteer to man petition booths in the Union, the Residence Dining Center and the West Dining Center. "Right now that tuition increase is our main objective," said Walsh.

Scott Grosskreutz, Walter Moser, Kris Lass, Brian Thom and Dino Denio were elected to the appointments committee, which will interview applicants for various government committees and bring its recommendations to the next Senate meeting.

Homecoming royalty honors 12 candidates

For the first time ever, 12 young men and women are being honored as 1978 Bison Homecoming Royalty.

Previously, only 10 people were chosen as candidates, but due to the large turnout and difficulty in deciding, the panel of judges increased the number of candidates by two.

The 12 include six finalists each for King and Queen. The group was selected by a panel of eight judges representing administration, faculty, campus ministry, student government, Greek, residence housing, Homecoming Committee, athletics and last year's Homecoming royalty. Candidates were chosen on the basis of academic performance, campus involvement, poise, neatness and ability to communicate.

Students vote for Homecoming King and Queen from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Union, Residence Dining Center and West High Rise.

Coronation will be at 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 12, at the East SU Mall.

Joan Stenehjelm

Joan Stenehjelm, 21, a senior majoring in fashion merchandising is from Watford City. She is a member of Rho-Lambda, Kappa Delta sorority, a Sigma Chi little sister and a home economics student advisor.

Stenehjelm is sponsored by the Kappa Delta sorority and she enjoys snow skiing, biking and swimming.

Julie Carlson

"I was more than surprised!" said Julie Carlson, 20, after finding out that she was one of the finalists for Homecoming Queen. Carlson, a junior majoring in nursing, is a resident assistant in South Weible and a member of Phi Eta Sigma. She is being sponsored by South Weible and is from White Bear Lake, Minn.

Pam Peet

Pam Peet, 21, a senior majoring in Spanish and secondary education, is from Wolverton, Minn. Peet is a member of Mortar Board, Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Sigma Delta Pi, and the Spirit Committee. Peet is also SU's 1978 Bison Booster Queen, a football and basketball cheerleader, a SAE little sister and a CAP counselor.

She is sponsored by the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and enjoys sailing, tennis and collecting owls.

Sandy Neidhardt

"It's great, and I feel it's really an honor," said Sandy Neidhardt about her selection as a Homecoming Queen Candidate.

Neidhardt, 21, a senior majoring in animal science with a minor in communications; is from Hebron. She is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, Saddle and Siroin Club, Mortar Board, Rodeo Club, Judging Club, Alpha Zeta, the Homecoming Committee and she is an off-campus student senator.

Neidhardt is sponsored by Mortar Board and enjoys horseback riding, photography, sewing and dancing.

Joan Todtleben

"Being involved in the Homecoming Committee, and having prepared some of the week's activities, makes the honor seem even more special," said Joan Todtleben about her Homecoming Queen candidacy.

Todtleben, a junior majoring in food and nutrition with a minor in communications is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, the Spirit Committee, the Homecoming Committee, the Thundering Tenth football team, a Spectrum reporter and she is also President of the Panhellenic Council. She is from Mankato, Minn., and enjoys jogging, racquetball and tennis. Her sponsor is the Panhellenic Council.

Cowboys unite with the music of Willie Nelson

by Louis Hogland

Several years ago, about 1973, I was working in a local department store pushing inexpensive, "ideal graduation gift for only $199.99" — type stereo systems.

We also dealt with a limited supply of albums. A few albums were opened, (usually warped and scratched factory defects returned by customers) that we utilized to demonstrate the audio eloquence of the stereos. The selection was real grim. My first month of employment was spent celebrating "Dick Clark's Anniversary of Rock and Roll" via the album of the same name.

Well, I was a pseudo-hip teenager, and my attention span for the Four Seasons and Neil Sedaka was quite brief. Soon I was bringing my Vanilla Fudge, Cream Iron Butterfly and Led Zeppelin albums from homes.

Needless to say, the women in Home Furnishings thought I was on drugs, the head stockman called me a hippie and the department manager a national guardsman resembling a pre-puberty Sgt. Snorkel) told me to take that "weird music" home.

Perhaps he had nightmares of coming to work Monday morning after a weekend Guard drill to find incense burners by the cash register, black light posters on the walls and smoking paraphernalia in the calculator display case.

Whatever the situation, he promptly added Neil

Diamond's "Hot August Night" to our demonstration album library, and I went oppressed state of depression.

One day, another factory-defect was returned. We added it to our "playlist". The artist was a relatively unknown (at that time) cowboy by the name of Willie Nelson. The younger clerks loved it, including a "hippie" like myself. The women called it "real music". The stockmen and even my manager enjoyed it. It would have remained on our "playlist" indefinitely, if I hadn't laid down the cash and bought the damn thing.

That was my first introduction to cowboy music. I liked it. Sure I had heard the country-western of PORTER Wagoner, and Dolly Parton but I didn't buy that glitter-infested Nashville scene.

It took somebody special, a Willie Nelson, to bring virtually that entire department store in agreement. And today, five years later, Willie seems to have everybody on his side. His disciples are universal; they have no age barriers.

In fact, Willie's SU concert could draw a cross-over audience age-wise as massive as B.B. King did several years ago when busloads of blacks came in from the cities.

Willie's mass appeal is probably a result of forty-five years of experience. He wrote songs that were hits for others in the Nashville establishment, but his recordings went nowhere. He taught Sunday school in Fort Worth, Texas, considered preaching and sold bibles. He tried for a baseball scholarship, spent time in the Air Force, taught guitar lessons, was a disc-jockey, has performed many a beer joint and sold his first song in Houston during the fifties. He then headed for Nashville. They weren't ready for him. His songs weren't commercial enough, they were too deep, you actually had to listen to appreciate them.

Well, that was earlier in his career. It took through the fifties, and the sixties before Nashville came around and saw the light. It was probably "Red Headed Stranger" and the "Outlaws" albums (Willie, Waylon Jennings, Jessi Colter and Tom-pall Glaser) which sold a million copies that made Nashville work for Willie.

Now, Willie damn near rules country-western. In 1975, the Texas Senate voted July 4th as "Willie Nelson Day" as a result of his incredibly popular annual Fourth of July Picnics. His latest album, "Stardust" has spawned two and soon three hits on the C&W charts.

Willie is one of the last of the real cowboys. His Fargo appearance should unite the cowboys that grew up listening to the "Grand Ole Opry" radio program during the fifties with cosmic cowboys who were introduced to contemporary style CW through the Byrds, Flying Burrito Brothers and Gram Parsons during the 60's and 70's. Let us not forget cowgirls of all ages.

Jack Hasbrouck, disc jockey for KFGO, has been keeping up with the contemporary country scene for years and he predicts an audience of "burning leaves as well as older folks". He also reports a lot of out of town callers checking into the details of the Willie concert.

There are a lot of people looking forward to this concert, and it's gonna be a diverse crowd. A crowd that requires more than just a Nashville stud to suit their tastes. They need a real cowboy, somebody who understands, somebody who writes and sings with conviction than a singer with a fat recording contract. Willie has been called "Wandering Gypsy" by Bill Joe Shaver, considered a Mexican because of his south of the border guitar style, compared, (because his facial profile) to a "prince Indian chief" by Rolling Stone writer Chet Flippo, but there's one thing you can bank on, he's one of the real cowboys.

Dr. Jacques Vallee to speak on UFO's tonight in Festival Hall

Dr. Jacques Vallee, author of five books on Unidentified Flying Objects (UFOs), will give a lecture entitled "UFO: Impact on Consciousness" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 10, in Festival Hall. The talk is open to the public at no charge.

Vallee, an astrophysicist and computer scientist, will discuss the way in which social consciousness is affected when UFO reports enter the public arena.

In an examination of the UFO phenomenon on personal and social consciousness, Vallee will speak about what happens to witnesses during a UFO experience, the effect on society when UFO reports become public, and whether UFOs constitute a modern myth.

"Perhaps we're dealing with some kind of control system that is subtly manipulating human consciousness—perhaps it is human belief that is being conditioned," said Vallee.

He suggested that those interested in UFOs shouldn't jump from the notion that UFOs are nonsense to the notion that they are visitations from outer space. That, he contends, does not explain the facts. He prefers to look at the phenomenon as to what it does rather than where it's from and who they are.

Vallee was born in France. He received a bachelor's degree in mathematics in 1959 from the Sorbonne, master's in astrophysics

Jacobsen named women's sports info director

by Kim Keacher

Three years and a lot of work later, NDSU's women's sports program finally has a devoted, full-time information director.

Lani Jacobsen, who joined the SU staff this fall, said the job rose out of the needs of SU's developing women's sports program. In the past, there had only been an assistant to deal with the happenings of SU's women's sports.

The needs of the women's program are great. Brochures have to get out, statistics compiled, press releases written and more. Jacobsen said the job gives her an opportunity to work in two of the areas she likes best, sports and journalism. She's had much experience in both areas in the past.

Just out of the U of M law school last spring, Jacobsen will become a lawyer after finishing a senior writing project and taking her bar exams. She said, however, that she has no desire to practice law at present.

All her energy right now is focused on her job; to inform and help people understand athletics.

"When I was in high school we didn't have women's athletics," she said. But despite this handicap, she managed to get into sports.

While attending the U of M at Morris, Minn., for her undergraduate degree, she played intramural softball and played basketball her senior year.

Much of her sports involvement came through a different channel however.

She worked on an athletic committee and for a year and a half was a sports writer on the college newspaper, she said. Jacobsen also did public relations work related to sports at the U of M.

Finding that she wasn't ready to quit school after receiving her undergraduate degree in sociology and psychology, she decided on law school.

Law school brought her more experience in journalism. She wrote for the U of M law school paper and eventually became editor of "Quaere", one of the finest student-run law papers in the country," she said.

Jacobsen also did free-lance writing while in school.

The Women's SID at SU is her first job out of college and she said she's enthusiastic about it.

Does she miss school? "Not at all...but I feel my education was very worth it."

She's ready to devote her time to one thing, rather than three or four, she said.

Previously listed activities keep her busy most of the time but, in her spare time, Jacobsen is "striving to play racquetball everyday." She also reads a lot, she said.

Jacobsen has no plans to leave SU. She's impressed by the people and coaches here, she said.

She works closely with the coaches in devising efficient systems in the women's sports program.

But she does think of the future. "As long as dreams are cheap, I like to dream. I think every journalist has the desire to do their own publishing."

She would like to publish a national women's sports magazine or write a national women's softball newsletter.

"Most sport magazines fail, you need to find the right people to work," she said. "It took Sports Illustrated 10 years just to break even."

Besides publishing, she would like to work public relations for a pro women's sports team, Jacobsen said.

For the moment she is enjoying her work at SU. "I think writing is one of the most rewarding things I've ever done. It's so nice just to write something really good...to write for people who say thanks a lot."

And although press releases aren't the avenues of creative writing, she said she enjoys any chance she gets to tell something her way. "Doing it so well that no one could have done it better."

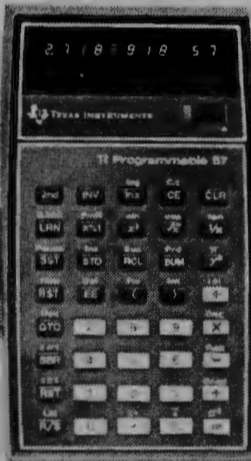

Often putting in long hours six or seven days a week, she could keep herself and two assistants busy, she said. "You can always do more on this kind of job." She doesn't have two assistants however.

Some of the great writers have been sports writers and this stays in her mind as a reminder, she said.

"Conveying to people how it feels becomes as big a part as the actual event," she said.

Johnson's coffeehouse mood captures crowd & standing ovation

by Nancy Payne

Fargo-Moorhead music lovers were treated Saturday night to the music of Michael Johnson, a folk-blues singer who currently enjoys Top 40 status with his hits, "Bluer Than Blue," and "Almost Like Being In Love."

The audience at MSU's Nemzek Fieldhouse was quiet and well-mannered, responding well to Johnson's mellow coffeehouse mood.

A country-western singer, "Fats" Johnson, started off the concert with a number of rollicking country tunes, liberally mixed with off-color jokes. Occasionally he would break up his lyrics with comments such as "Gee, he's a damn good singer," and "Boy, that fat boy can sing!" Physically impressive, "Fats" admitted that he stands 6' 6" and weighs from 250 to 300 pounds, depending on lunch."

The audience responded enthusiastically when Michael Johnson and his band walked on stage. Johnson played an acoustic guitar and was accompanied by lead and bass guitar players, a drummer and a pianist.

He held the audience spellbound as he sang his songs, most of which were ballads, in his strong yet casual voice.

The pianist, Billy Barber, kept the audience well pleased with his excellent solo pieces on the piano, as well as on the electric organ, flute and trombone.

Johnson admitted that he doesn't write many of the songs that he performs, but he is "lucky to have friends who do."

When Johnson and his band went into the beginning chords of his hit, "Almost Like Being in Love," the audience went wild. Their stage version of the song was more drawn-out and melancholy than the version on the album. Especially noticeable was the addition of a lyrical flute solo. Johnson bestowed an especially big smile to the audience in response to the exuberant applause after the song.

He mentioned that a problem for acoustic guitar players is that they tend to play mostly ballads, "which are called 'bummer music' by some of my friends."

When Johnson began to chat about how he "used to make fun of the Top 40, but now..." the audience knew that his current hit, "Bluer Than Blue," was about to be sung. As with "Almost Like Being in Love," Johnson and his group gave the song a haunting mood that never comes across on AM radio. The audience gave him a standing ovation after "Bluer Than Blue," and he finished the concert with what he "hoped" would be his next single, "Sailing Without Sail." This song was a light jazz-influenced ballad, mood like many of his other songs.

Volleyball team reaches .500 after winning tri-match

The SU Volleyball team traveled to South Dakota last weekend to participate in a tri-weekend match with Northern State and South Dakota State.

They defeated both NS and SDSU at Brookings on Friday by winning two games, and on Saturday they traveled to Vermillion to defeat SDSU by two games.

This leaves them with a record of 10-9 matchwise and 26-26 gamewise.

Coach Donna Palivec said, "we reached 500 for the first time, this leaves us with more wins than losses."

According to Palivec, SDSU was the toughest, tallest and scrappiest team. They played five games, with SU winning when they served and losing when they didn't.

to the pattern we should have lost. But I made an adjustment in the reception pattern and it helped a lot.

They tried a quick attack and it didn't work. A quick attack or "jap" requires the hitter to almost hit the ball out of the setter's hand. It is used as a surprise tactic and has to be done fast.

Palivec said they will practice it this week and try it in their next game.

"Laurie Javorina and Laci Jacobson, two freshmen kills at the end of the game which was really nice," said Palivec. "I put Javorina in at the end of the match, and Jacobson played the whole game."

The volleyball team played their home match with Moorhead on Thursday. They defeated them before in the College Tournament.

Golf team wins NCC tournament

The SU men's golf team won the North Central Conference golf tournament by 10 strokes Saturday in Sioux Falls, SD.

Mark Amundson of South Dakota State birdied the first hole of sudden death to defeat Joe Bofferding of SU for individual honors. Amundson won the NCC crown last year also. Both Amundson and Bofferding ended regular play with scores of 220.

SU finished with a total score of 899, while South Dakota State finished with 919.

Clay Boelz of UND took third in individual competition with a 225 and Ken Sweeney of SU tied with others for fourth with a total of 227.

Kloster named SU's new swimming coach

"I feel that I've got a lot of energy and I want to use it up on this program," said Paul Kloster about the SU swim team.

Kloster, a former SU student, is the new swim coach. He has been a Fargo resident for eight years and it was when first moving here from Minnesota that he really got into swimming.

"Aquatics is my favorite... if I could ski everyday I would," Kloster said.

Before graduating from SU with a degree in University Studies, Kloster earned two letters while on the swim team and was involved with the team two other years as team manager and student assistant coach.

He also earned letters for the two years he swam in high school at Fargo North. Along with these accomplishments he also is a qualified Water Safety Instructor.

During the two years since he graduated, Kloster spent his time working for a construction company in Fargo and some time visiting in Arizona. While in Arizona, a highlight in his career occurred when he was able to officiate a swim meet between Southern California and Arizona State.

Kloster had previously inquired about the available coaching position last spring, when he decided to return to school for a major in recreation. At that time there was another prospect for the job, but he was offered the job early this fall when he again inquired about it.

Kloster is excited about being the coach and feels it is a good chance for him to gain experience to enter the field of recreation, in which he would like to concentrate on aquatic sports.

"I'm really enthusiastic and looking forward to a good year. This is what I've wanted to do and feel it's a real challenge," said Kloster of his coaching position.

He feels certain that some previous SU swimming records will be broken by this year's team, and their conference will be a well matched one.

The swim team consists of 20 men and two women who will be traveling with the team to compete in diving.

"The outlook is good with the backbone being freshman swimmers, and competition wise we have more depth than in the past," Kloster said.

New this year to the swim team are some isotonic exercising machines, which when used act like an "effective free-style stroke" to tone up arm muscles. Kloster is in the process of making what he calls a "swimming machine" which also strengthens arm muscles.

He is also interested in beginning a women's swim team for next year and urges anyone with previous competitive experience and interest to contact him at the New Field House.

SU begins its season Dec. 2 with the Jackrabbit Relays in Brookings, SD. The first home meet is Jan. 16 with UND and the U of M-Morris.

FOX 'N' HOUNDS

The Fox 'n' Hounds is the Fraternity-Sorority that you haven't been waiting for — but should have been.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will be a fun social organization that reaches out for a variety of experiences.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will be open to everybody who wants to join. You can live in the dorm or off campus, be a Greek or a GDI.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will be inexpensive to join at fifteen dollars. Half price the whole month of October. Five dollars cash to any Fox or Hound who brings in a new member at full price.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will sponsor a variety of parties to spice things up. From normal keggers to Halloween Parties to hayrides to Saturday after-hours affairs to its own formal and much, much more.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will reach out to participate in school activities such as intramurals, Gong shows, talent shows, homecomings - - - you name it.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will make attempts to be involved in areas such as the arts, crafts, and academic areas if some members so desire. An example of this will be trying to coordinate a Tri-College two-day seminar consisting of sixteen one-hour lectures in differing subject areas. The proposal would include getting one credit for just attending the lectures. Its objective would be to expose students to new topics which would broaden their scope and possibly kindle a new interest which would induce the student to take regular classes on that topic.

The Fox 'n' Hounds puts no burden on a member's time. One can choose to come just to a few parties or become extremely active.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will be organizing weekend excursions as well as quarter-break and Christmas trips. Examples include a Sunday afternoon ski trip to DL, going to away sports events, a camping trip to Northern Minnesota, going to Florida for Spring Break. The list goes on.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will be sponsoring the craziest tournaments you've ever been to. Already a Minn-Dak Collegiate Monopoly Open is in the makings for sometime in November.

The Fox 'n' Hounds will be a friendly bunch of people. You are invited to attend most Fox 'n' Hounds parties even if you're not a member. You may have to pay just a bit more, but that should be understandable.

The Fox 'n' Hounds organizational party is on the lucky day of Friday, the 13th of October, starting at 10:00 p.m. There will be a pre-party sloppy-joe and stuff get-together before that for those who like to get an earlier start. Bring a buck for that. There will be lots of strong Kool-Aid with foam on it. The party starts in Apt. #128 (3rd Floor West Wing) of West Acres Village and will spill over to the Party Room when necessary. Just go west at Sher's out past West Acres.

The Fox 'n' Hounds has the potential to be the most fun organization on campus. Its success depends on you and people like you. Don't wait to join when it is a success, but help make it a success.

The person who's organizing this crazy venture is called Gerk and he asks that if you want to help or just plain have some questions, just give him a call at 282-0222 anytime.

Remember, come to the parties, etc., even if you don't think you want to join, but do want to have a good time.

One more thing. Starting in November there will be "Fox 'n' Hounds Nite on the Town" on Thursday nights at a watering hole in Moorhead. Hopefully we can get a good deal on something Lite and maybe a reduction on the cover charge.

It is so true that if nothing is ventured, nothing can be gained. Become a Fox 'n' Hound!

LÖWENBRÄU

Football team loses third game of season

The Bison lost their second NCC game of the season in as many weeks to Nebraska-Omaha 19-12 Saturday night in Omaha, Neb.

The Mavericks have given SU a rough time in their last three meetings. Last year the game ended in a 17-17 tie.

The loss for the Bison makes the NCC title a distant hope with South Dakota State at a 3-0 mark in the league. SU is now 1-2 in the NCC and 3-3 overall. This is the first year under coach Wacker that the Bison have lost three regular season games.

Nebraska-Omaha scored first in the game on a 32-yard pass from quarterback Mike Mancuso to Joe Noonan in the second quarter. Noonan, a wide receiver, caught five passes for 100 yards.

The Bison scored two points on a safety when Dirk Kroeze tackled running back Bobby Bass in the endzone.

The Bison offense sputtered throughout most of the game. After recovering a fumble on the UNO 45 quarterback Mark Sperl moved the Bison to the 11 before fumbling a pitch out, which the Mavericks recovered.

Neither team scored again until the fourth quarter when Nebraska-Omaha picked up a touchdown on a 1-yard run.

SU took the kickoff after Omaha's second TD and marched to their 42 but stalled on a fourth down gamble. Sperl was thrown for a three-yard loss on the conversion attempt.

The Mavericks scored three plays later on a pass from halfback Bass to Kirt Anderson. SU's Kevin Donnalley blocked the extra point attempt and UNO led 19-2 with 10:42 left in the game.

Sperl converted two fourth-down situations to keep the Herd's next drive alive. They covered 75 yards in 11 plays, the last one being a nine-yard pass to Mike McTague for the touchdown.

Curt Jones later recovered a Bass fumble at the Herd's 33. The Bison drove to Omaha's 24, but had to settle for a field goal by McTague.

SU tried an onside kick but failed to recover the ball and the Mavericks ran the clock down to 1:18 before giving up the ball.

Sperl and McTague connected on three straight passes before facing another fourth down test. McTague caught a pass long enough for a first down but was ruled out of bounds.

The Bison went into the game with the idea of shutting down explosive running back Bass and did limit him to 40 yards. Bass, 5-160 lbs., was the second leading rusher in the NCC last season.

They failed to contain quarterback Mike Mancuso and his receiving corps however. Noonan and Anderson combined for 206 yards in 11 catches.

The Bison return home next Saturday to face the Panthers of the University of Northern Iowa at 1:30 at Dacotah Field for SU's Homecoming game.

They must contend with All-NCC running back Keith Ellis and quarterback Terry Allen. Allen scored four touchdowns as UNI crushed UND 35-17 last weekend in Cedar Falls, Iowa.
