new parking lot

Additional parking is available for students and faculty starting this week. A new parking lot has been leveled to the west of the High Rises. Holders of R, RF, W, Staff and Student parking permits may park here.

Although there wasn't time to hard-surface the lot, it has been leveled and compacted. Drainage and lighting has also been installed.

The lot will not be graveled and no other improvements will be made this fall. Next summer the lot will be paved, curbed and new lighting and sidewalks will be installed.

The lot is being added to help relieve the parking pressures that have increased this year. It also gives the workers and residents in the High Rises a closer parking place.

Walter Mondale addresses convention at Concordia

Vice President Walter Mondale believes the wish of the American people is to have a government that "tells the truth and obeys the laws and fulfills the fundamental principles of compassion and brotherhood."

Mondale, in addressing the ninth general convention of the American Lutheran Church at Concordia College, Saturday, said these were fundamental religious principles the government tries to use in setting moral examples in the issues of peace, foreign aid and human rights.

He cited the recent peace initiative at Camp David as an example of these principles at work. "The leaders, who were long-standing enemies, were able to change hate to understanding and then understanding to love because of their strong religious convictions," Mondale said.

"If they can do it on the basis of love and brotherhood, we all can," he said.

"Christian moralities should also be employed in deciding upon armament policies, especially since the money now used to increase weaponry could be put to better use elsewhere," commented Mondale.

With specific reference to the talks on strategic arms agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union, Mondale said. "There is no reason for our two great nations to sit there glowering at each other when by using common sense we can put a cap on their use."

Mondale also expressed concern about the plutonium age, and with increased use of the substance, the danger of nuclear weapons being created by unauthorized people.

"The Christian concept of human worth and dignity is the basis of American foreign policy and it is necessary to make other countries realize this," said Mondale.

Holding Africa up as an example of blatant misuse of human rights, he said that if we as a nation stand neutral in confronting the questions of human subjugation, destruction of freedom and the discrimination against people because of their color or religion, we don't deserve the respect of decent human beings.

"To remain silent on the issue of human subjugation is to be an unwitting approver of that policy," Mondale said.

Mondale emphasized that foreign aid is not only a personal, but a national obligation.

Governmental intervention has often received heavy criticism due to incidences of waste and corruption in the organization and execution of aid programs.

"Unfortunately, these things will always exist," Mondale said, "but there is no avoiding our responsibility as Christians to use a decent proportion of America's resources to try to help the dispossessed and the impoverished peoples around the world."

Dr. Dannison's request for tax files denied by Fargo City Commission request for a copy of the electronic record of the public files of the city of Fargo. Dr. Charles Dannison, associate professor of home management and family economics, was recently denied by the Fargo City Commission.

Dannison, who teaches a course in family housing, planned to use the electronic record as part of a class project using the SU computers to analyze the equity of the Fargo city tax structure.

"What I expected to find was a vindication of the local tax structure," said Dannison, "I assume the system is fair and I hope to develop techniques to make it easier to run this kind of check."

The Commission denied the request by a vote of 4 to 1, with Mayor Jon Lindgren being the only vote supporting Dannison's efforts to obtain the electronic record.

The printed record of the public tax files is currently available and accessible for inspection during reasonable office hours, in accordance with the N.D. Century Code.

Dannison wanted to use the electronic record in order to run statistical tests through a computer, which would analyze the tax structure of the entire city of Fargo rather than using a random sampling of individual pieces of information from the printed record.

"Instead of looking at the individual, we wanted to look at the aggregate," said Dannison.

City Commissioner Roy Pedersen gave two reasons for the commission's denial.

"It was such a far reaching request, the City Commission wanted to be cautious about setting a precedent. If we allow access to computer printouts where will it all stop?" He added that the commission would then have to make the electronic record available to any other group making the request.

Pedersen also said he felt the reproduction of records amounts to a "mass invasion of privacy."

Gib Bromenshenkel, also a city commissioner, expressed the same type of concern. "If we were to give the electronic record out, even to SU, we would have no control over that list."

He added that if the list was given to SU, the private citizens may be more reluctant about allowing the city assessor into their homes to evaluate their property.

Dannison said he was surprised by the commission's reaction. "I had hoped for permission with certain stipulations or at least discussion of the possibility of obtaining it in the future," he commented.

He went on to say he felt there was an adversary relationship from the beginning. "I felt I was dealing with a private corporation apart from the people they govern and there was no question that their mind was made up" said Dannison.

According to Dannison, the issue is not dead. Although he does not want to pursue the matter through legal effort, he indicated that it does involve legal questions. He has been doing some independent study on the subject and has written to tax watchdog groups to find out if this situation has occurred elsewhere in terms of the printed record vs the electronic record.

"Part of our job as citizens is to be watchdogs of the people who are hired to do the watching," said Dannison.

Mrs. Mondale advocate for the arts

Joan Mondale, wife of Vice President Walter Mondale, was the honored guest at the opening of an exhibit at the Rourke Art Gallery in Moorhead Saturday.

Mrs. Mondale accompanied the vice president to a convention of the American Lutheran Church during the weekend, and included the art exhibit as part of her visit to Moorhead.

Escorted by James O'Rourke, director of the art gallery, Mrs. Mondale was shown the various clay and ceramic works being exhibited and was able to meet with many of the prominent artists of the area.

Mrs. Mondale is a potter herself and holds a great interest in ceramic art, as in all art. She has traveled throughout the United States expressing her commitment to the arts and searching for the best ways for government to help the arts.

"I think community art centers are exceedingly important—people want art," she said.

President Carter recently named Mrs. Mondale Honorary Chairperson of the Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities. The council was established by Congress to promote coordination between the programs of the Arts and the Humanities Endowments and the cultural programs of other federal agencies.

Mrs. Mondale has been called the Carter Administration's "arts advocate." She has turned the vice president's house into a showcase for contemporary art, filling it with paintings, sculpture, photographs and crafts on loan from museums. She has also written a book entitled "Politics in Art," which discusses the link between modern art and politics.

Working independently, Mrs. Mondale has been instrumental in influencing a number of government decisions that have been greatly beneficial to the arts.

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequaled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later. (But we don't think you'll want to.)

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus or contact your Navy representative at 800-841-8000 (toll-free). If you prefer, send your résumé to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312-B537, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203, and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college: it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.

SPECTRUM

EDITORIAL

The North Dakota Student Association's big chance for unity came Thursday, and they blew it. The events of Thursday point out the serious problems that exist in the statewide student group.

SU Student President Dennis Walsh had been told the group was to present its petition signatures against the tuition increase in Minot Friday at 1:30. At noon Thursday he called UND to find out how the petition drive was going and to inquire about tickets for Saturday's Sioux-Bison game, only to find UND's student leaders on their way to Minot for NDSA's 1:30 appointment before the board.

Needless to say, he and Vice President Dave Vipond had trouble making it to Minot in an hour and a half, but they did make it by 3:30, thanks to a private airplane flight—and they would have reached the meeting sooner had they not looked for it at the Holiday Inn, where they had been told it would be held.

They made it to the meeting, where the board members told them the $100 a year tuition hike was out their hands because the recommendation had already been sent to the Executive Budget Committee of the Legislative Council.

But the actions of the board are not what is at issue here. Rather it is the bungling antics of the NDSA. Only UND, NDSU and Dickinson State College sent their student leaders to the meeting. Mayville, Wahpeton, Valley City, Bismarck Junior College, and even Minot, did not make the meeting.

Why? What are the reasons?

Is it apathy? Is it a weak student organization at these schools? We think not. In talking with Walsh, most of the blame has to be put on John Power, student representative on the board, and also, the president of NDSA.

Though it was his responsibility as NDSA president, it seems Power didn't notify the schools of the 1:30 Thursday meeting. UND and Dickinson student governments found out from the presidents of their schools. Walsh could have got the dates wrong, but what about the other schools? Representatives from Minot didn't show up because, according to Walsh, Power told them the meeting was at 8 p.m. Thursday, and Mayville was told the meeting was 8 a.m. Friday. Power is a Mayville student and didn't even get the meeting information to his own student government.

We can say from the poor showing, and the mix-up in times, that Power failed to notify anybody correctly. The only one to make it to the meeting was Power.

But as the student representative to the board, and the president of NDSA, Power is not the one we students want. When the board proposed the increase in August, no students except Power knew about it because student governments were disbanded for the summer. Power was our only representative, and he didn't fight the increase.

Since then, in the face of total opposition from the other student leaders around the state, Power has still defended the increase. "Inevitable" is the word he uses, as he explains how thankful we students should be in that the increase is being held to only $100.

He may personally believe these things, but as the representative of all the students in the state, and the president of the North Dakota Student Association, he should express the wishes of his 20,000 constituents, not his own ideas. That is the nature of politics, and the role of the public servant.

The answer is simple. Since Power no longer represents the interests of the NDSA in the single most important issue to confront that group in four years, NDSU should ask Power to resign when NDSA meets here on Nov. 4. If he refuses, NDSU should lead a drive to remove Power from office, and failing that, our school should drop out of the organization.

So your loan didn't go through. And your summer earnings have dwindled. You still have a chance to replenish your checking account by using your creativity.

How? Well, you can earn $1,000 for an imaginative idea, according to Raymond H. Andrig, president of the Puffy-Mott Company. He will pay that much (plus second and third prize awards of $500 and $250) to the college student who comes up with the winning answer to the musical question, "What is a Clamato?"

You may describe where it is found...how it grows...who invented it. Where do you buy it? In a flea market? In the University Mart? At the Pink Pussycat? On Rodeo Drive? At the UND Field House?

This unusual challenge has been offered to America's college students to find the most humorous and intriguing definition of a Clamato.

A panel of "famous judges" will select the winners, according to Mr. Andrig, who said the competition will last until Dec. 5, 1978.

The contest is open to any current full-time college student in the United States.

The answer to "What is a Clamato?" may be submitted in the form of an article, short story, fable, a painting, cartoon, jingle, photograph, sculpture, or just about any kind of means you can think of. You may enter as many times as you wish and no proof of purchase is necessary. Entries may be sent to: What is a Clamato Contest, 17th Floor, 1212 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10036.

Be sure to provide your name and address as well as the name of your college with your entry.

And hey, by the way, if you plan to enter this contest, please feel free to bring your finished product up to the Spectrum office. We may just publish it. It would look great on your resume.

I've already thought up an idea that I'm sure will be the winning entry. It goes like this:

"Once there was a very handsome young prince. He happened to be the Prince of Clams. He was artistic and lonely. One day, while walking with his girlfriend named New England Style Chowder, he realized how boring and futile his life was. "All my life," he thought morosely to himself, "I've been mixed up with nothing but New England Style Chowder. There has to be more to life than this!"

The Prince of Clams returned to his castle. He got a phone call from a reporter from Gourmet Magazine. Although he was weary with boredom, he consented to an interview with the reporter. "At least, it will be a bit of a diversion this afternoon," he yawned.

That afternoon when the reporter was ushered into the royal chamber, the Prince of Clams was thunderstruck. The reporter was the most beautiful young tomato he had ever seen. He had definitely been hit by "the thunderbolt." It was love at first sight.

This fairy tale ends in the typical way, as the Prince of Clams abdicates his crown, marries the tomato and goes to write for Gourmet Magazine as an investigative reporter. And, as you may have guessed, they had a large happy family, all of which were Clamatoes.

MSU Theater presents a historical drama

VIVAT! VIVAT REGINA!, a prize-winning historical drama by Robert Bolt, will be presented this week by the Moorhead State University Theatre as its first main-stage production of the 1978-79 theatre season.

The two act play will open Thursday and continue through Friday and Saturday in the Center for the Arts on the university campus. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. and tickets are now on sale at the University Box Office. (236-2271).

Written by the author of "A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS," the play is based on actual English history as it recreates the colorful era of the late sixteenth century when Mary, Queen of Scotland played by Jan Maxwell, Chicago, IL, was brought into a head-on collision with the razor-minded Elizabeth I of England played by Jaclyn

Ross, Fisher.

Torn between their hearts and their crowns, the two women are confronted at the same time with the men around them who threaten to seize their power in a number of fiery confrontations. Kim Moerer, Wheaton, as the wily Scotsman, Bothwell, and Ricardo Sanchez, Hialeah, Fla., as the ruthless Robert Dudley portray the lovers of the two queens while Daniel Leonard, Colorado Springs, CO, as Elizabeth's councilor and Wayne Ramsey,

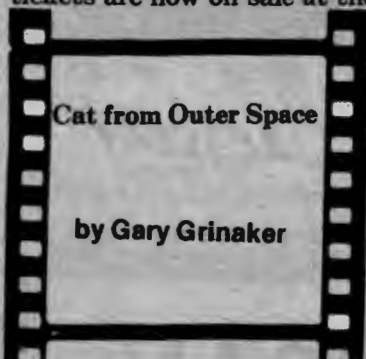

Moorhead, as Mary's closest adviser complete the roster of principal players.

The bloody chronicle, which brought fame to its original stars, Sarah Miles and Eileen Atkins, is an accurate and factual picture of the tempests which raged throughout England when the two women used people and countries as pawns in their life and death struggle.

Dr. Delmar J. Hansen is production director for the two-act play and Robert Mond designed the stage setting for the play. Roy Hedges is technical director, John Justad, Minneapolis, is stage manager, and Bert Watkins, Minot, is assistant director.

The Elizabethan costumes are furnished by Brooks-Van Horn of New York City.

This year our movie screens have been invaded by everything from tin-plated monsters to spindly looking eggheads. After all this serious science fiction, it's about time for Walt Disney to send us "The Cat from Outer Space."

As you may have guessed, the movie's plot is a variation of the old "visitor from outer space" theme.

An extraterrestrial scoutship is passing through our neck of the galaxy when it has engine troubles. After making a forced landing on Earth, the pilot, nicknamed Jake, goes looking for help.

The catch is that Jake is a cat, a very special cat. With the help of a mental amplifier in his collar, Jake has tremendous powers that include mental thought transference and molecular mobilization (telepathy and telekinesis for non-Disney science fiction buffs).

Two Disney stereotypes are pitted against the cat to try to steal his powers, a group of bureaucratic yet semi-intelligent military types and the bungling bad guys. For help, Jake calls on a young, kindhearted and somewhat eccentric genius (Ken Berry) who tries to dig up $120,000 for a spare part for the spaceship.

As with many Disney movies, the leading actor is not a man or even human. Yet, Jake comes across as intelligent, sensitive, and capable of a wide range of emotional responses to his relatively primitive human friends. His only weakness is a fondness for female felines, especially Sandy Duncan's lovely white Angora cat.

Whether Jake is a born actor, or just has an excellent trainer, we'll never know. But he does give a realistic performance—a welcome change from the faked sort of performance seen in TV cat commercials.

The special photographic effects, while not in the same ballpark as "Star Wars" or "Battlestar Galactica," are very good.

They are realistic, without that noticeable fakey appearance that has characterized many Disney special effects in the past. The only noticeable fault is the use of a stunt cat in some of the hazardous scenes.

As an added attraction, a second feature is being shown with "The Cat From Outer Space." It is the re-release of the animated feature "Winnie the Pooh."

The characters of Pooh Bear and Tigar are so loveable and lively that even members of the over-10 generation can't help but enjoy them.

review
Pretty Baby
by Gary Grinak

Like an old and yellowed portrait, "Pretty Baby" brings us back to the year 1917. But if life in 1917 goes as slow as this movie, it's hardly worth going back for.

The center of the production is the "pretty baby" Brooke Shields. Shields plays Violet, the daughter of a New Orleans prostitute working at a warehouse in the Naval district.

Life in a warehouse is explored from the amoral eyes of young Violet as she goes about the business of being a child. But that passes quickly as plans are made to launch her into the business of whoring, just as her mother and her mother's mother did before her.

The elements of Pretty Baby come together in what could have been an interesting plot. Shields has talent and energy surprising for such a young actress and is well balanced by the sensitivity of Carradine. But the movie has a major flaw that causes it to drag.

The film seem to be unedited. Long panning shots of the house, long slow character developments and an overabundance of pretty pictures of Violet water down the movie.

The result is a plot that seems to drag on forever, a lack of action and an inability to bring any emotion to a peak.

Just like an old portrait, it may be pretty, but it sure does dull as time moves slowly on.

Sioux clip the Bison 24-21 as SU chokes in the second half

Story by Mike Jones Photos by Don Pearson

The North Dakota Sioux came from behind to edge SU 24-21 Saturday in Grand Forks.

UND dominated the second half of the 60th Homecoming game as the defense held the Bison to 47-yards passing and 38-yards rushing in the second half.

The Sioux scored with just one minute and 16 seconds left to seal the victory—the first over the Bison in the last three years. Quarterback Mark Hustad passed to tight end Paul Muckenhirn for the winning touchdown.

Muckenhirn, a 6-foot-3, 205 pound junior from Mahanomen, Minn., led the Sioux rushing department with 64 yards on three carries—all on reverses. He also caught two touchdown passes.

UND started the scoring in the first quarter in a 39-yard field goal by Jim Lipsiea. The fighting Sioux drove 81 yards in 13 plays on their first possession of the game—the big play a 24-yard screen pass on third down and 11.

Mark Sperial replaced Mark Rudrud as quarterback in the second quarter and led the Bison 45 yards in 12 plays for SU's first touchdown.

It appeared as though running back Jim Baudry was stopped just before the goal line, but Sperial pulled the ball from his stomach and dove in for the score.

Later in the second quarter, Sperial reinjured his elbow and Rudrud came back in. With about one minute left in the first half, Rudrud passed 34 yards to Mike McTague to cap a 99-yard drive.

McTague made a spectacular diving, twisting catch deep in the end zone. The Bison led 14-3 after his kick.

UND started the second half by kicking off to the Herd from the 10-yard line. The Sioux were charged a delay-of-game penalty because the half time show ran too long. 15 yards back to the 25.

Then kicker Walt Cook teed up the ball and kicked off. The ball went out of bounds—another five-yard penalty. This happened not once, but three times. Finally Tom Biolo ended up kicking off from the 10.

UND scored twice in the third quarter on a pass to Muckenhirn and on a one-yard dive by Justad. UND led 17-14 for the second time.

Baudry returned the ensuing kick-off 53 yards to the 11 to set up the next Bison touchdown. Gordy Sprattler bulled over from the one and McTague's conversion was good. The Herd led 21-17 with 11:33 left in the game.

The Bison had another chance after UND scored, but Andy Dahlen intercepted a Rudrud pass to seal the victory for the Sioux.

UND held Baudry and Sprattler to 11 yards rushing in the second half and only allowed the Bison 47 yards passing.

UND is now 2-2 in the North Central Conference.

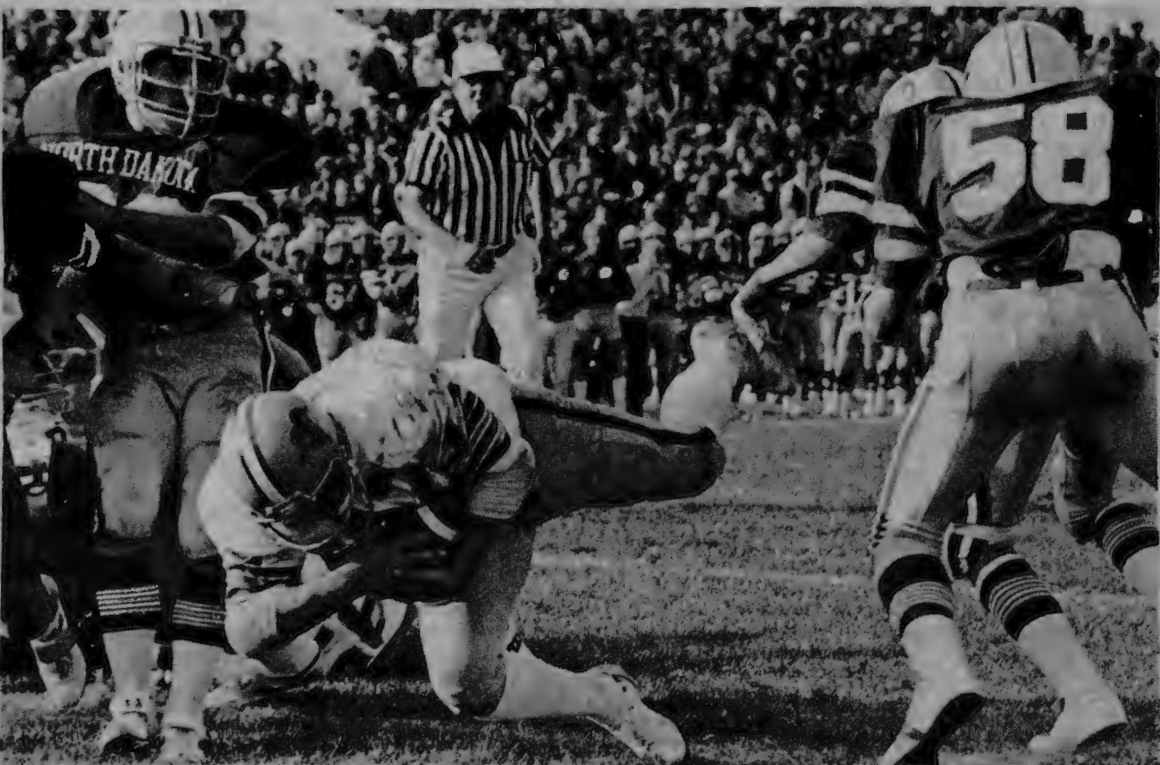

SU slipped to 1-3 in the NCC and is 4-4 overall. The Bison take on NCC foe, Morris, at 1:30 p.m. on Oct. 28, at Dacotah Field for the last home game.

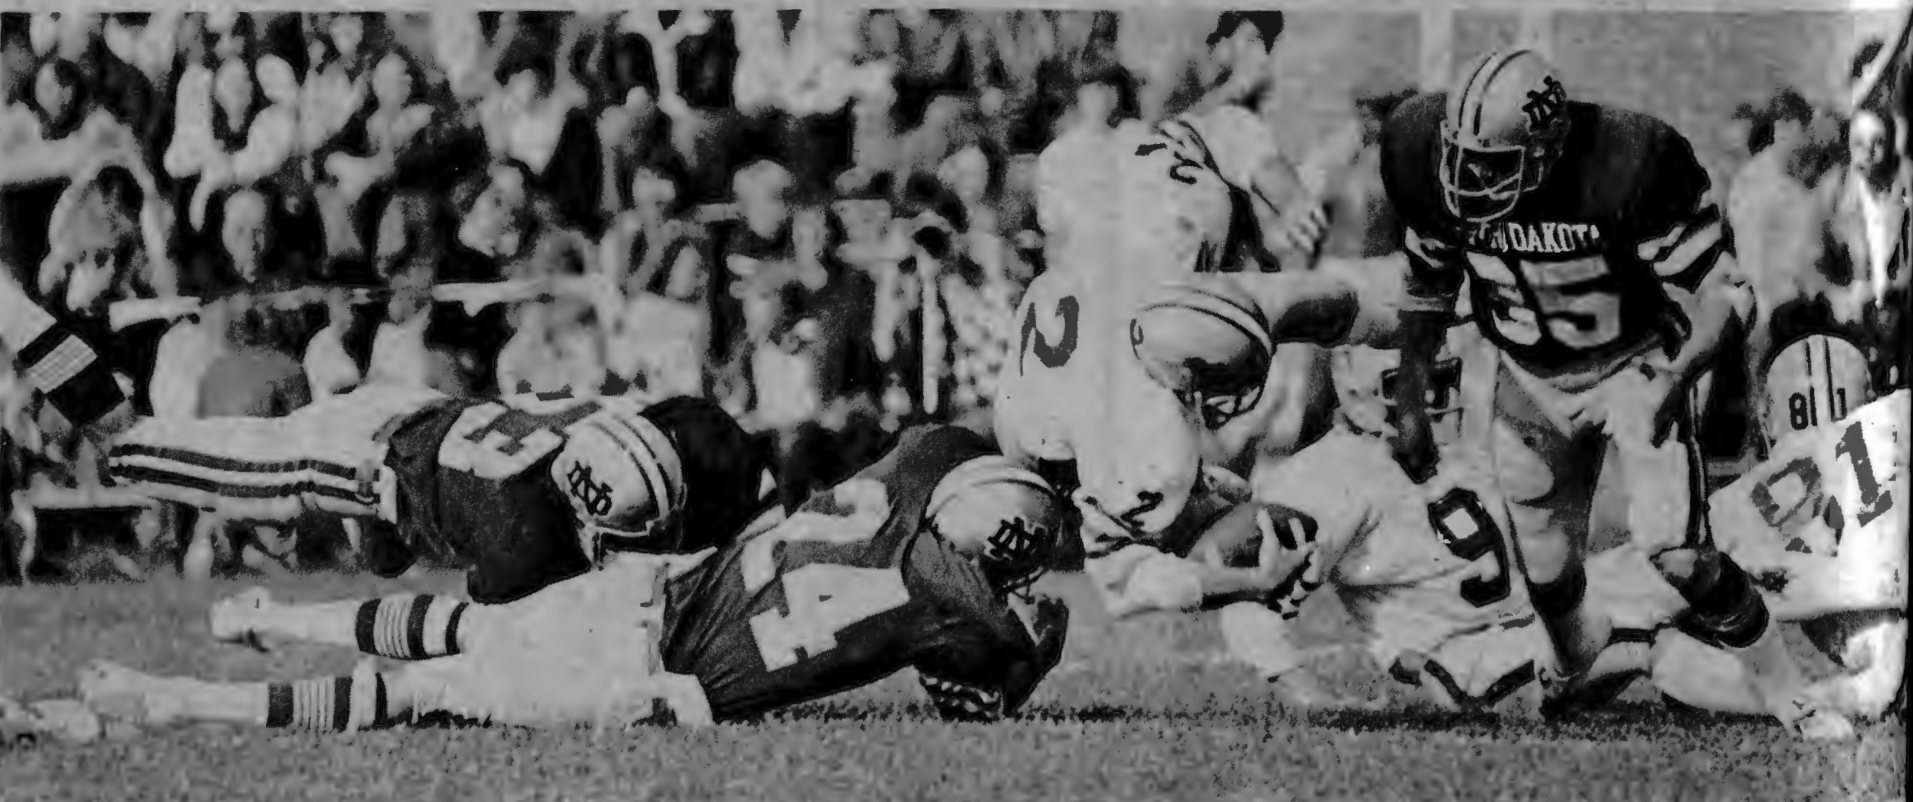

Quarterback Mark Rudrud attempts to leap over two Sioux defenders in an attempt to gain extra yardage in the fourth quarter of the game in the fourth quarter of the game.

This young Sioux fan was distraught after halftime, not only was his team behind 14-3 but he had lost his mommy and daddy too.

Runningback Gordy Sprattler keeps his legs driving as he powers his way into the endzone where he is met by tightend Lane Brettingen to celebrate the touchdown.

Mark Sperial came into the game in the second quarter to lead the Bison to a touchdown. Sperial was later removed from the game when he reinjured his elbow. Here Mark is tripped up after keeping the ball on an option play.

Rugby players upset Mankato State for the second time by a score of 3-0

by David Schneeberger

The SU Rugby Club won an exciting game over Mankato State Oct. 15 by a score of 3-0. Warren Erickson scored for SU on a fieldgoal in the second half.

Dean Dalzell, a SU player, said it was a close game from beginning to end.

"We beat them last year and we were up for this one," Dalzell said. "It was really a good game."

"We needed that game pretty bad," Hal Ensrud, president of the Rugby Club and player on the team said.

He said about 20 guys show up regularly for practice and for games. "Most of the guys who play are fired up about it. It's really catchy."

Ensrud said the money used for the referee, traveling expenses and lining the field is received through funding by the Finance Commission.

The dues for the club are $10 per season. There are two seasons during the year, winter and fall. "The dues for new members are $5 per season," he said.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

"And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into the lake of fire burning with brimstone."
Revelation 19: 20

The dues are used for the parties which are held after every game.

"One of the biggest aspects of the game is the parties afterwards," Ensrud said. "It is tradition that you set up a keg for the opposing team after the game."

"Having a party for the opposing team after the game," he said, "is an act of sportsmanship toward the team. It really helps in getting to know them personally and to cool down after the game."

"Another of the finer points of the game," Ensrud said, "is the 'Rugger Huggers', girls that follow and really enjoy the game. There are about 10 to 15 girls that really get into the game and enjoy the parties."

New record set by Clairmont in fifth cross country meet

Becky Clairmont of SU set a new record at the Edgewood Golf Course during the Intercity meet against MSU and Concordia on Thursday, Oct. 12.

Clairmont covered the 5,000-meter course in 18.11, breaking her old record of 18.40. She has taken first place in four of the five meets SU has participated in this season.

Concordia won the Intercity meet with a score of 34 points as they captured third, fourth, sixth, ninth and twelfth place finishes. The score is figured by adding the top five places of each team.

MSU placed second with 39 points and SU third with 50.

Mary Meilke, MSU, placed second with an 18.33 clocking. Barb Cartford, CC, third place, Tammy Benson, CC, fourth, Micki Liptrap, MSU, in fifth and in sixth place Anita Anderson of CC. Only two seconds separated the fourth, fifth and sixth place finishes.

The Bison also competed in the Iowa State University Invitational cross country meet in Ames, Iowa on Oct. 6.

ISU easily defended its three-time national crown by taking the top four places for only 18 points. The U of M came in second with 86, Wisconsin-LaCrosse third, Illinois fourth and Illinois State fifth.

Clairmont placed 21st individually for SU with a time of 19:30.

SU stands at 16-4 after finishing fourth in a round-robin tournament

The SU volleyball team traveled to Des Moines, Iowa, last weekend for a round-robin tournament at Drake University. The Bison finished in fourth place with a 3-5 record.

The ten teams were split into two pools and each team played each other within their pool twice. The games had a 15 minute time limit and the team with the most points at the end of the timed period won.

The games began on Friday when SU played the University of Nebraska-Omaha, losing both games 14-13 and 15-9. In the afternoon session the Bison played Wichita State and lost 14-7 and 10-9.

SU head coach Donna Pavelic said, "We were having a real problem with the 15 minute time periods. Our first encounter with stalling tactics was with Nebraska-Omaha. They were deliberately slow getting the ball back to the server when they were ahead; simply running the clock down."

The second day of the tournament was a little better for the Bison. They split two games with the University of Iowa, 8-15 and 9-8 and won both games against South Dakota State 15-9 and 12-11.

Pavelic explained that the team wasn't playing up to par. "We didn't look like ourselves out on the floor. I think the long drive took a lot out of the players and on a better day we would have been right up there at the top."

"It was a good tournament, with good competition," she continued. "It was excellent experience for us and I think we're really ready for the Minn-Kota Conference tournament."

The Bison are 16-4 overall and 4-2 and in second place in the Minn-Kota Conference race.

Bison Harriers defeat MSU 26-30

by Nancy Unruh

SU took the top three placings to defeat MSU 26-30 in a dual meet on Tuesday, Oct. 17, at the Edgewood Golf Course.

1st place by running the 10,000-meter course (6.2 course (6.2 miles) in 32:01.

Teammates Scott Hoaby and Jed Kreig placed second and third, respectively, with times of 32:07 and 32:10.

Moorhead runners Bob Beeson, Tom Jabens and Mike Neiman rounded out the top six places.

"So far we're about where we want to be. We spent the month of September just training," said coach Bruce Whiting.

"Before, we had too many meets and that resulted in a lot of injuries. Now we've cut back and spend more days between meets training and only compete once every 10 to 12 days," he said.

The Bison have one meet left on Oct. 28. SU will host the North Central Conference-NCAA Regional meet at the Edgewood Golf Course.

The NCC sponsors the top four teams in the national meet at Indiana, Penn., on Nov. 11.

"South Dakota State has an excellent cross country team and should be first. It looks like it will be a dog fight between four teams for the other three spots," said Whiting.

In reference to the meet on the 28th, Whiting said, "We would like to see a lot of people come out and watch. It would be a big boost for the team. Come out and watch it in the morning (around noon) and you can still go to the Harvest Bowl that afternoon."
