

Bar bus to make rounds beginning tonight

SU's first night recreational bus for students will begin making its rounds tonight, free to students with IDs.

The bus will start its route at University Village at 6:30 p.m., stop in front of the High Rises at 6:33, at Festival Hall at 6:35, and will then go downtown to the Graver Inn for a 6:45 stop.

Its next scheduled stop will be at West Acres at 7:15 and it will return to University Village at 8:00, continuing in 1 1/2 hour cycles for the remainder of the evening. After its 11:45 stop at West Acres, the bus will return there only on demand and will make its final return to campus at 1:30 a.m.

The scheduled stops on campus, at the Graver Inn, and at West Acres are only check points. Students are encouraged to request other stops anywhere in Fargo and can then ask to be picked up later at the same spot.

Again, all that is required of students wishing to ride the bus is an SU ID, and since IDs for Winter Quarter haven't been distributed yet, last quarter's ID may be used. Guests of students are also welcome to ride the bus free of charge.

Student President Dennis Walsh said the bus system's success is dependent on communication between the students and the bus driver.

The driver's name is Dan and students will have to tell him when they board where they want to go and when they want to be picked up. The bus will then return for them as soon after that time as possible.

Walsh said students will probably have to wait only 10-15 minutes, but if it should happen that the bus hasn't arrived after 30-45 minutes they should call 235-5535.

All a student needs to do in such a case is tell the dispatch office that he or she is an SU student who was dropped off by the student bus, but hasn't been picked up and needs a ride home. The dispatch office will then contact the bus to pick up the student.

"The bus is by no means a taxi cab," said Barry Samsten, the city's coordinator for bus services in the mass transit system, but he said it is intended for the students' recreational use.

Samsten said the buses are city property and must be treated as such—anyone who causes trouble on the bus will be subject to city rules. Vandalism and open drunkenness can result in arrest.

"The people I really think could make excellent use of this are groups of people—Greeks, campus organizations, groups from the dorms," said Walsh.

He said the bus will be operating on a trial basis this year and encourages students to voice their opinions of the system.

"If people have complaints, we want to hear them so we can do something to correct them," he said. Senators to contact with complaints are Teresa Joppa, Jeff Mattern, and Peggy Messer.

Another option that is open to SU students beginning today is free transportation on Fargo's daily buses.

This bus system has routes that cover the city and all will be free to students with IDs. Here, however, guests will be required to pay the regular fee.

One of the daily buses connects SU with the downtown area, coming through campus in a route similar to that of the night shuttle bus, stopping first at University Village, then going past the High Rises and stopping at Festival Hall every half hour, on the hour and on the half hour.

Students with questions about the night shuttle bus or the daily city bus should call the Student Government office.

Architect students robbed of $300 worth of equipment

More than $300 worth of architecture equipment was stolen from the second floor of the Architecture Building during Thanksgiving break.

According to Lonnie Laften, a second year architecture student, drawing lights and parallel rulers were reported stolen from five architecture students.

Development Foundation acquires $516,000 farm from Fossum family

The largest single gift ever acquired, a $516,000 farm, has come under the control of the SU Development Foundation through a formal association with the Fossum Foundation, Inc.

In addition, the Board of Directors of the Fossum Foundation met Nov. 22 and agreed to use $1,000 of the foundation's cash assets as a gift to the SU Music Education Center.

Members of the Fossum family contacted the Development Foundation more than two years ago about possibly transferring to SU the Fossum Foundation assets, primarily consisting of a 1,200 acre diversified farm located approximately 46 miles north of Minot.

"Since the very start the Fossum family members have indicated a strong interest in maintaining the Fossum Foundation as a non-profit organization dedicated to humanitarian and philanthropic endeavors in North Dakota," said SU President L.D. Loftsgard. "They have been particularly concerned that these endeavors allow the family farm to remain intact and that the work of the foundation continues to focus on educational, agricultural and religious activities."

The family includes seven living children and their mother, 90-year-old Gussty Fossum, Fargo. They are Truman Fossum, Washington, D.C.; Gladys Fossum, Racine, Wis.; Donald Fossum, Albuquerque, N.M.; Ruth Fossum, Fargo; Geraldine (Fossum) Watland, Fargo; Chester Fossum, Minot, and Jean (Fossum) Nicholson, Sheridan, Ind.

The late Minnick Fossum, who died in 1948, first came to North Dakota as a Bottineau County pioneer farmer in 1902, and married Gussty Fossum in 1911.

Under conditions of the agreement in restated articles of incorporation, the Fossum Foundation, Inc., Maxbass, has been reorganized under the control of the SU Development Foundation, a non-profit organization with offices on campus. The Fossum Foundation officers are Loftsgard, president; Truman Fossum, vice president; Donna Fossum, Chicago, Illinois, secretary and Roy Johnson, West Fargo, treasurer. The Foundation's Board of Directors also includes William Marcell and Paul Gallagher, both of Fargo, as representatives of the Development Foundation, and Ruth Fossum, Fargo.

The foundation is tax exempt and anyone interested in making contributions to it for ultimate benefit of the University can deduct such contributions from their income tax returns.

The Fossum Foundation was originally created and developed in 1959 to recognize the North Dakota pioneering spirit through furthering agriculture education and research in the broadest sense possible, according to Truman Fossum. Modest grants from the foundation have been given in recent years to the SU Bottineau Branch, the International Music Camp and the North Dakota Heritage Center.

Bill opposes change in drop, registration dates

Changes in the drop date and the registration date were two of the proposals made by the Academic Affairs Committee and submitted to the Student Senate for discussion at a special meeting held Nov. 16.

One proposal would move the drop date up to the second week of the quarter; the other would change the registration date to the day before the start of each quarter.

Senators Bryon Thom and Don Pearson have written resolutions opposing both of these proposals.

The resolution opposing the change in drop date states that it is important that students be given a fair chance to make judgment on the value of a given class and that one week of classes is not enough time to judge a class with regards to the benefit of taking it.

It also says that there are long waits with the current system and that the waits would be even longer if all students, including new students, were forced to register at the same time.

Another advantage of the current system that pointed out by the resolution is that students are able to avoid lengthy waits at the Varsity Mart by purchasing their books before the new quarter begins, which wouldn't be possible under the committee's proposal.

These resolutions will be submitted to the Student Affairs Committee for consideration.

The committee also proposed to the Senate that SU's quarter system be changed to a semester system. This proposal has also been opposed by the Senate.

Daily coach train service proposed between St. Paul and Winnipeg

A daily coach train to be operated jointly by Amtrak and Via Rail Canada between St. Paul, Minn., and Winnipeg, Manitoba, has been proposed by the Upper Great Plains Transportation Institute at SU.

Via Rail Canada has restructured transcontinental service with Winnipeg, which now occupies the same transfer position in Canada that Chicago does in the United States. "We think a coordination of North America's passenger railroads is in order," said William E. Thoms, associate professor of law at the University of North Dakota and an associate with the transportation institute.

Thoms proposed the new service to Alan S. Boyd, president of the National Railroad Passenger Corporation, Washington, D.C. and T.F. Roberts, chairman of the board and president, Via Rail Canada, Montreal, Quebec.

The train would be routed through Fargo, Grand Forks, Crookston, Minn. and Emerson, Manitoba.

The proposed train would operate on the line of the present Empire Builder between St. Paul-Minneapolis and Grand Forks, and then on the Burlington Northern to the border at Emerson and follow Canadian National track into Winnipeg. It would leave St. Paul after connecting with the Chicago-Duluth North Star, and would arrive in Winnipeg with enough time for the scheduled departures of both transcontinental trains for the west about 11 p.m.

Since this would be a daytime short-distance train, one locomotive with head end power, and two or three Amfleet coaches with dining facilities would be sufficient to operate the service. As an alternative, surplus coaches or rail diesel cars owned by Via now stationed in Winnipeg could be used. The turbo trains, formerly utilized by Amtrak for the New York and Boston route - and now in mothballs - are another possible source of equipment.

A proposed schedule connecting with both the North Star and the Via trains might be as follows: leave St. Paul, 8:45 a.m.; leave Fargo, 1:32 p.m.; leave Grand Forks, 3:05 p.m.; leave Crookston, 4 p.m.; leave Emerson, 7 p.m.; arrive Winnipeg, 8:30 p.m.; returning, leave Winnipeg, 10 a.m.; leave Emerson, 11:30 a.m.; leave Crookston, 1 p.m.; leave Grand Forks, 1:47 p.m.; leave Fargo, 3:40 p.m., and arrive St. Paul, 9 p.m.

An alternative plan would be to reschedule the Empire Builder to a daily service along this proposed schedule. Needed would be one train set to protect the Grand Forks-Winnipeg connection. If the current pattern of alternate day service through North Dakota is retained by Amtrak, this connecting train would have to originate and terminate at Fargo three days a week.

EDITORIAL

Unless you just came out from under a rock, you know the State Board of Higher Education has proposed a $100 a year tuition increase starting Fall 1979.

You may also be aware of the position many of the student government leaders announced when informed of the increase: after four years of stable tuition some increase for inflation is justified, but $100 at one time is too much of a financial burden to students.

When the legislature meets next month to consider the board's proposal, some possibility exists that the increase can be reduced.

But don't think that someone else is going to lead the fight against it. Your elected student leaders are choosing to fight the increase by uniting with the other schools in the state. The group is called the North Dakota Student Association, which has been around for some years, but which hasn't really amounted to much.

Take NDSA's actions on the tuition increase. Its president is also the student representative on the higher education board. But he didn't oppose the increase. Not only that, he didn't notify the other schools that the board wanted to raise tuition.

In September the NDSA members met in Valley City and tried to get their organization together after hearing of the proposed increase. In October NDSA met, argued for four hours on whether to oppose the increase or an increase, and unresolved, decided to fall back on its Valley City position. It also resolved to develop a concrete strategy at its November meeting.

In November NDSA met in Bismarck. Only SU and Bismarck Junior College showed up. Some of the other schools said they couldn't make it because of the weather, others because of finals and still others because they didn't want the weather to strand them in Bismarck during finals. (And without finals to worry about because it is on the semester system, UND came up with a classic excuse: nobody went to Bismarck because only BJC and SU were there.) Despite weather and finals, five SU students were able to drive out there in the weather after Friday finals and return Saturday night with enough time to study for Monday finals.

NDSA has one more meeting before the legislature convenes, and if past performance is any indication of the future, the smart money will not be on NDSA.

And the tuition increase? The answer is obvious. If you want anything done, you will have to do it yourself. Write your hometown legislators. SU has students from every legislative district in the state. We should contact them all. When you go home for Christmas, call or visit your local legislators.

There's little choice. NDSA's not doing so well. I think it hurts and has a temperature.

If you want something done, do it yourself

After fall quarter, with my finals finished and my life free from the rigors of studying, I was able to escape. Totally.

Not only was I able to leave the pains of school behind, but also the cold weather, the snow, everything that makes out-of-staters cringe at even the sound of North Dakota.

To the jealousy of those who knew, I was escaping to Hollywood, Calif.

It was a vacation my family and I had been planning since last February and looking forward to since our first bout with freezing temperatures this season.

We stayed in North Hollywood where our hotel room overlooked the city with the Hollywood Hills in the distance. The days were sunny and warm and the nights pleasantly cool. This is where famous people can be spotted to the editor:

In reference to your Nov. 28 editorial "Draft Registration is Dangerous to Our Freedom," I believe your reasons for the prohibition of the reinstatement of the draft registration are the result of shallow, uninformed thinking.

First of all, your assumption that a major armed conflict naturally leads to a nuclear conflict is fallacious. Today's technology hasn't changed very much since Vietnam where the United States deployed up to 500,000 servicemen at one time. Did we use nuclear weapons? Was the "army" too small?

One must consider the benefits received from the use of nuclear or conventional (armies) forces. The nuclear force is the "trump card," to be used as a last resort. In order not to be forced to play this "trump card" too early in a conflict by a large scale conventional attack by an enemy, the United States must maintain a comparable conventional force. This doesn't mean that we must have a one-to-one ratio, but almost anywhere you go and the night life is non-stop.

Discos located atop 30 story buildings are glassed in all the way around to show off a brightly lit Sunset Boulevard as it extends to the Pacific Ocean and bars feature "nude but nice" dancers for those who'd rather observe than "shake it" themselves.

There is something for everyone in a city where it all stays open seven days a week.

Glamorous, glamorous, California.

Yes, this is where one can travel up the coast only to find one city leading directly into another to the point where distinctions are difficult to make and an empty piece of land is non-existent.

And where the traffic is exremely dense at almost all times of the day and night and one spends up to one-fourth of the working day on the freeway.

And this is where the smog lays low enough over the city that the stars aren't visible at night-ever.

Coming home to Fargo was a bit of a shock as I was greeted with a temperature of three degrees and icy winds. But here I can look into the sky and see the brilliant stars and the drive home from the airport doesn't even take 10 minutes.

This is where one doesn't have to worry about getting knifed by a "skid-row stabber" or getting killed by some psychopath in Beverly Hills.

Now, if North Dakota only had Disneyland...

that we must have access to men, material, and equipment at very short notice.

This in part is accomplished through the reinstatement of the registration for the draft. Registration for the draft in conjunction with our intelligence agencies' capabilities in reporting possible crises well enable us to cut the combat-ready status of draftees from seven months to one month.

Your argument that the registration procedure, carrying draft cards, and notification of address changes infringes upon our personal rights and freedoms is comparable to the licensing of automobile drivers. You have to qualify and apply for the license (registration). Carry the license at all times, when driving (carrying a draft card). You must notify the state at some time of an address change.

Hence the analogy between the draft registration and automobile license is essentially the same. Both are meant to prevent loss of life, the only difference is how the persons' life is lost.

As for the quality of today's recruits, I'm happy to see that you realize the problems that are facing the recruiters. Under the existing system the United States isn't getting enough men nor the quality needed, which has hazardous implications of being undermanned and increased costs of recruiting and then discharging the unqualified recruits. It is much more sensible, especially economically, to be able to screen the potential recruits from the draftees.

In conclusion, we must be capable of responding to a large scale, conventional conflict that may not escalate to the use of nuclear weapons. If we don't have the capability to respond we may be forced to concede to the threat of nuclear destruction by having to respond to a conventional attack with nuclear weapons. Also I would encourage you and everyone else to read the similar articles in The Strategic Review published by the United States Strategic Institute. I found it to be informing and of a more serious nature than the seemingly one-sided views of the media services.

President's Perspective

by Dennis Walsh

The dream of student government just six months ago will become reality tonight when the point-deviation bus makes its initial run.

After months of working out proposals and ideas the city of Fargo and student government have agreed on two innovative systems that can be used by all students.

The two systems are the point-deviation system for SU students, which will run on Friday and Saturday nights, and another system allowing free access for SU students to the regular city bus system, which runs Monday through Saturday. Both systems are common in one way - by showing a student ID you get a ride.

The point-deviation system is specially geared toward the students and their recreational interests. It will leave the campus once every 90 minutes and have scheduled stops at the Graver Inn and West Acres.

In between the three scheduled stops the bus will take students anywhere they request in Fargo, time permitting. The student tells the driver when he wants to be picked up and the bus will come back to pick him up along its normal routes.

If for some reason the bus does not return within 45 minutes of the rider's requested return time, the rider should call 235-5535 and explain where he is at and what has happened. The bus will quickly be sent to pick up the abandoned rider.

In setting up this system we did not intend to replace the taxi. It has been set up for student, and especially student group, use in going to movies, shopping areas, and other commercial establishments.

As with any public system the students will have responsibilities to act orderly and use care in riding the bus. Disorderly conduct, public drunkenness, and vandalism will quickly grant anyone a free trip to the slammer for the evening.

The city in turn has responsibilities to live up to also. We are paying for a system that should be on time, consistent in its routes and geared toward the student interests. If you are not happy with the way the bus is run, or you have complaints about the service, please let us know. The system is only on a trial period and we would like to work out all the problems to make it a permanent system.

The second segment of the contractual agreement between the students and the city will allow all SU students to ride the city buses free.

The city buses run from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The inclusion of this system opens up a tremendous opportunity for students, especially those living off campus. The students will be able to ride the city bus to and from school and they won't have to pay for gas or worry about where they are going to park.

The bus could also be used to go shopping or even to go to work at a part time job. On Friday and Saturday, a student could ride the city bus down town or to West Acres and they could come home later in the evening on the point-deviation bus.

Dave and I are happy that we have had the help of all of student government and countless other people in getting these two bus systems initiated. We have been able to come up with a plan that we feel can serve the students. It won't be perfect, but with continuing work and student-city cooperation these systems could become a permanent service to the students.

Now it is your turn. I hope you will try the buses and leave your cold car in the parking lot.

Haak enjoys working with animals at SU Dairy Barn

by Jeanne Larson

Tim Haak has been on his job for four quarters, and his job is our quarters.

Haak has been employed at the SU Dairy Barn for two years. The biggest part of his job is "pulling udders," working in the milking parlour, but he also has other tasks.

When he works mornings he goes to the barn about 4:30 and starts the feedings of both the cows and the calves at the dairy setup. About the same time, he, another student worker and the herdsman get the milking parlour going. The parlour, recently expanded to six units, has cut milking time from one and a half hours to a little more than a half hour.

Haak isn't quite sure what he gets paid per hour, but feels it is satisfactory. He is always interested in a raise, though, he said.

SU dairy herdsman Tim Martens said they are always taking applications for new help.

"We have students on work study who are running out of funds, so, sooner or later, we'll be open to new help," said Martens.

Martens said the work is not limited to males and would welcome applications from any student who is interested in the work.

According to Haak, the job is "good for people who are interested in working with animals."

Haak, a fifth year student majoring in animal science, has also worked at the barn during the summer for the past two years and feels his working during the school year helped him get that job.

During the summer, he helped stack bales and prepare the crops for harvest in addition to milking.

Haak usually works three days a week, either in the morning or the evening, and then alternates weekends with the other four student workers at the dairy barn.

And according to Haak, he's not kidding when he says he has an "udderly" good time at his job.

Students manage to find many types of jobs to provide a little cash while going through school. In his search for employment, Tim Haak found an udder kind of job in the Dairy Barn. (photo by Gary Grinaker)

New student handbooks now in Union

New editions of the Student Policies Handbook are being distributed at the Activities Desk and in the main lobby of the Union.

The handbook contains statements of those university regulations and policies thought to be relevant to student life. The contents have been developed by the Office of Student Affairs, reviewed by the Student Affairs committee of Faculty Senate, and approved by Faculty Senate. Dick Crockett, SU legal advisor, served as editor of the publication.

An attempt has been made to summarize federal, state or city laws that complement university rules. Copies of these laws may be obtained in the Student Affairs Office, along with copies of university groups, and other documents containing regulations, procedures and policies of importance to SU students.

'College Night' plans film and music for students

by Nancy Payne

In a continuing tradition, the Plains Art Museum invites all area college students to its annual "College Night," an evening of music, film and conversation tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the museum.

"It's an unstructured, comfortable get-together," said the museum's assistant director, Susan Hunke.

The entertainment will start off with an unusual film, a documentary of Bulgarian artist Christo and his widely-publicized "Running Fence," which was literally a curtain of nylon material 18 feet high stretched across two California counties and into the ocean. Noted film critic Judith Crist calls this film "an exhilarating piece of Americana."

The music of Michael J. Olsen and Dan Hart, both museum members and KFME employees, will be the evening's main attraction. Their music, which could be described as "prairie-folk," is largely written by themselves, and they have a newly-recorded album to their credit.

All college students are invited to this event. There is no admission charge but seating is limited so early attendance is advised.

The museum is offering membership to anyone who is interested.

They offer a special student rate which is $10 a year. Students who sign up for membership tonight will receive a free museum T-shirt (there are many interesting graphic designs to choose from.)

A member also receives a free signed original graphic print and certain services such as picture framing, and discount prices on merchandise on the museum's shop merchandise and art work rental as well as discounts on museum-sponsored concerts and trips.

In the past two years the museum sponsored a trip to Winnipeg to see an exhibition of Picasso's work and also a trip to Chicago to see the King Tut exhibit.

"The student membership is an important way for a young person to get in the habit of collecting art," said Hunke. "The original print alone is usually worth triple the price of membership."

Each showing of art works is usually coupled with a special workshop, lecture or film in order to combine the strictly visual interest with other aspects of fine art.

The museum is located at 521 Main Avenue in Moorhead.

December TV brings entertaining movies and specials to the screen

December will bring some interesting and entertaining movies and specials on TV.

The following three programs are coming up soon on Channel 13.

Tomorrow night at 10 p.m.: "Isadora--The Biggest Dancer in the World." Vivian Pickles portrays the flamboyant Isadora Duncan, who was an innovator in modern dance. The program looks into her scandalous and tragedy-filled life.

Thursday at 8 p.m.: "Monty Python and the Holy Grail," the delightfully absurd version of the legend of King Arthur.

Thursday at 10 p.m.: "The Best of Laurel and Hardy." This double feature will include "The Music Box," in which Laurel and Hardy try to deliver a piano to a hilltop home with disastrous results. This film won the actors a 1932 Oscar. It will be followed by "Tit for Tat," where Laurel and Hardy set up an electrical supply store and compete fiercely with an unscrupulous competitor.

Naturally, competition results in mayhem.

The Dec. 10 NBC Sunday Late Night Movie at 10:30 p.m. features all your favorite people: Mick Jagger, George Harrison, Paul Simon, Monty Python star Eric Idle, Bianca Jagger, Rolling Stone Ron Wood, Saturday Night Live's Dan Akroyd, Gilda Radner and Bill Murray all star in "All You Need Is Cash," a parody of the music and movies of the Beatles.

On Monday the 11th NBC's Monday Night at the Movies at 8 p.m. will be "Woman Called Moses," starring Cicely Tyson. It's the story of a slave who escaped to freedom in the North and set up an "underground railroad" to help other slaves. The second part of this movie will be shown Tuesday, Dec. 12.

Wisconsin-Eau Claire down Bison Cagers 77-56 on free throw shooting

by Mike DeLuca
The SU basketball team was beaten by Wisconsin-Eau Claire on Monday night 77-56 in Eau Claire.

Eau Claire jumped to a 16-point lead four minutes into the game, but the Bison closed the gap to six points several times in the second half.

Bison head coach Erv Ininger was pleased with the play of the team against Eau Claire.

The big difference in the game was the free throws. The Blugolds made 29 of 34 while the Bison were 10 of 20 from the charity line.

The Blugolds had only one more field goal than the Bison, but pulled ahead on the 19 extra free throws, with 12 of their last 18 points coming from the line.

Gibb Hinz, Eau Claire's seven-foot center, was the game's high scorer with 19 points. Bruce Shockman, a 6-8 junior from LaMoure, ND, was the leading scorer for the Bison with 11 points.

The Bison slipped to 1-1 on the season while Eau Claire remains undefeated in five games.

The next game for the Herd is Saturday against the Moorhead State Dragons at MSU, who lost their first game to UND Wednesday 76-63.

The Bison have won 10 of their last 12 games against the Dragons, having won the last four times the two teams have met.

SU bowlers compete in national tournament

The SU bowling team took part in the St. Louis National Collegiate Bowling Tournament held Nov. 25.

The men's team consisted of Larry Schweitzer, Jerry Slusser, Larry Bormann, Doug Dunford, Bill Grover and Bill George and placed seventh out of 24 teams.

Schweitzer was the high scorer for the men's team with a 211 average for the nine games.

Kathy Schwehr, Debbie Lee, Sandy Koppelman, Vicki Carlson, Pam Hesse and Tammy Thompson represented SU in the women's division.

Lee was high individual from SU in the women's division with a 166 average.

The women's team placed eighth out of the 12 teams competing.

THE FACTS:

1 HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF WOMEN USE ENCARE OVAL™

Encare Oval™ was introduced to American doctors in November 1977. Almost immediately, it attracted widespread physician and patient attention.

Today, Encare Oval is being used by hundreds of thousands of women, and users surveyed report overwhelming satisfaction. Women using Encare Oval say they find it an answer to their problems with the pill, IUD's, diaphragms, and aerosol foams.

2 EFFECTIVENESS ESTABLISHED IN CLINICAL TESTS.

Encare Oval™ was subjected to one of the most rigorous tests ever conducted for a vaginal contraceptive. Results were excellent—showing that Encare Oval provides consistent and extremely high sperm-killing protection. This recent U.S. report supports earlier studies in European laboratories and clinics.

Each Encare Oval insert contains a precise, premeasured dose of the potent, sperm-killing agent nonoxynol 9. Once properly inserted, Encare Oval melts and gently effervesces, dispersing the sperm-killing agent within the vagina.

The success of any contraceptive method depends on consistent and accurate use. Encare Oval™ is so convenient you won't be tempted to forget it. And so simple to insert, it's hard to make a mistake.

If pregnancy poses a special risk for you, your contraceptive method should be selected after consultation with your doctor.

3 NO HORMONAL SIDE EFFECTS.

Encare Oval™ is free of hormones, so it cannot create hormone-related health problems—like strokes and heart attacks—that have been linked to the pill. And, there is no hormonal disruption of your menstrual cycle.

Most people find Encare Oval completely satisfactory. In a limited number of cases, however, burning or irritation has been experienced by either or both partners. If this occurs, use should be discontinued.

4 EASIER TO INSERT THAN A TAMPON.

The Encare Oval™ is smooth and small, so it inserts quickly and easily—without an applicator. There's none of the bother of aerosol foams and diaphragms. No device inside you. No pill to remember every day. Simply use as directed when you need protection.

You can buy Encare Oval whenever you need it...it's available without a prescription. And each Encare Oval is individually wrapped to fit discreetly into your pocket or purse.

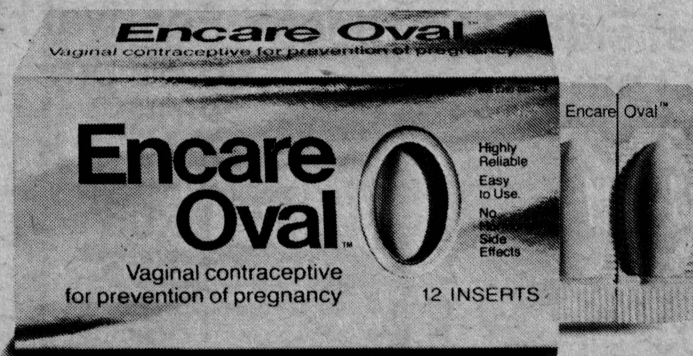

5 BECAUSE ENCARE OVAL IS INSERTED IN ADVANCE, IT WON'T INTERRUPT LOVEMAKING.

Since there's no mess or bother, Encare Oval gives you a measure of freedom many contraceptives can't match.

The hormone-free Encare Oval. Safer for your system than the pill or IUD. Neater and simpler than traditional vaginal contraceptives. So effective and easy to use that hundreds of thousands have already found it—quite simply—the preferred contraceptive.
