

SU Co-op Ed program receives federal grant

A U.S. Office of Education grant of $43,266 has been awarded to the North Dakota State University Cooperative Education Program for its third year of matching students and employers in educationally valuable field experiences beginning in September.

The SU Co-op Education Program provides students with opportunities for alternating outside work experience with on-campus learning by assisting in arranging field experiences for students in work situations related to their field of study.

Both business and education are increasingly recognizing the importance of practical experience in professional settings for students prior to graduation from colleges and universities," said Dr. Robert L. Sullivan, director of the program. "Students have been quick to pick up on this and we fill the jobs as rapidly as we come up with them. During the next year we hope to more than double the number of opportunities to our students."

Since the program began two years ago, the Co-op Education Office has assisted in providing 400 placements for students in jobs closely related to their fields of academic study. Since March alone, 127 placements have been made in spring and summer field experience jobs through the Co-op Education Office. Each placement runs from one to two academic quarters—from 10 to 20 weeks.

"The difference between Co-op Education and other field experience educational programs is that we attempt to find increasingly challenging work experiences for the students as they increase their theoretical and practical background in a given career field," emphasized Sullivan. The positions students take as sophomores become more complex each year and many of the final field experience positions are assigned with the idea that they could easily become full-time jobs after graduation.

Students have the option of taking full-time or part-time assignments. Salaries range from $500 to $1,200 a month for full-time work and academic credits given for assignments range from one to 12. Working closely with Co-op Education Program leaders and academic advisers, students more readily learn to relate theoretical information provided in the classroom to everyday work situations.

Sullivan indicated the program not only helps students to decide whether they are enrolled in the field of study for which they are best suited, but also helps employers decide which individuals would make the best employees. The program is a logical system for students to fund their education while building their credentials and provides an ideal mix of practical and theoretical education as they earn a university degree, according to Sullivan.

Assignments have been made in the past few months to such local and state businesses and agencies as Fargo Implement, Steiger Tractor Company, General Nutrition, Daytons, the USDA Metabolism and Radiation Laboratory, Twin City Testing, Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Foss, Englestad, Foss Architects, all of Fargo; the State Health Department, Bismarck; Consolidated Coal, Stanton; the Carrington Experiment Station, Central Dakota Nursing Home, Jamestown; the Jamestown Water Plant; Inter-Mountain Implement, Timber Lake, Mont.; the Soil Conservation Service, Dickinson; Farmer's Home Administration Offices in North Dakota, South Dakota and Colorado; KFYR Radio, Bismarck; Migrant Health Offices in North Dakota; the Army Corps of Engineers; Social Conservation Services Offices throughout North Dakota, and numerous implement dealers and other organizations.

Anyone interested in learning more about the program can call the Cooperative Education Office at 237-7237.

Filing for student elections starts today

Student elections will be underway once again for positions open across campus. Filing begins today at 1 p.m. and closes at 3:30 p.m. next Friday.

A meeting will be held Sept. 21 at 4 p.m. in the Forum Room to explain campaign rules. Petitions holding 25 signatures will be due at that time.

Poster and banner campaigning starts after the meeting and must be taken down by midnight, Tuesday, Sept. 25. Campaign expenditures and receipts for material are to be turned in by 4 p.m., Sept. 25, in a designated mailbox in the Student Government office. Students running for Senate may spend up to $35.

Elections will be held Wednesday, Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. with voting booths in West and Residence dining centers and Alumni Lounge.

Positions open are: Married Student Housing - 1, High Rise - 2, Reed-Johnson - 1, Graver Inn - 1, Burgum, Ceres, Dinan, Weible - 1, Churchill, Stockbridge - 1, Off-Campus - 7, Greek - 1. In order to file for the different positions, the student must live there.

Debate workshop to be held Saturday

The Lincoln Speech and Debate Society is hosting the annual Tri-College High School Debate Workshop this Saturday, Sept. 15, at Askanase Hall.

Workshop sessions on the process of debate as well as other activities will be held in the morning. A demonstration debate will be held at 1:15 in Askanase Auditorium where two teams will argue if the United States should significantly change its foreign trade policies.

Tom Kraemer and Janelle Bohr from Wadena High

School (Richard Carpenter, coach) will be arguing the affirmative issue while Lori Bymark and Robyn Rime from Grand Rapid High School (Merle Bauder, coach) will be arguing the negative issue.

Everyone is invited to attend the demonstration debate.

The workshop, coordinated by Dr. C.T. Hanson and Robert Littlefield, is sponsored by the forensics programs at SU, Concordia College, and Moorhead State University.

SU will host accounting workshop Oct. 5

A one-day workshop, "A Method for Managers: Accounting for Non-Accountants," is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 5, in the States Room of the Union at SU.

Designed specifically for the non-accounting manager or for professionals in general management, manufacturing, research, engineering or in other fields, where a knowledge of the fundamentals of accounting are necessary, the workshop will focus on practical, easily understood accounting concepts.

Concepts to be covered include principles and definitions used in accounting, balance sheets and income statements, funds flow and cash flow statements, accounting methods, internal control procedures, analysis of financial statements and departmental accounting.

The workshop will be taught by Jerry G. Wegenast, director of the Uniform Accounting Study for the North Dakota State Board of Higher Education. A Certified Public Accountant, Wegenast has conducted numerous workshops and seminars in management accounting and has taught several courses in accounting.

For further information or preregistration contact the NDSU Division of Continuing Studies, Ceres Hall, 237-7015.

Lincoln Speech and Debate schedules meeting

Current members of the Lincoln Speech and Debate Society will be holding the first meeting of the school year. The meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 12, at 4:30 in room 301, Askanase Hall. The present officers are as follows: president, Pat Morriss; vice president, Deb Farrell; secretary, Ann Manlore; treasurer, Ward Tenius.

Any undergraduate students who are interested in speech and debate activities are invited to attend. Those students unable to attend may contact Dr. C.T. Hanson or Robert Littlefield for further information.

Yes Virginia, there is a Dinan Hall.

Although Dinan Hall was inadvertently left off of the campus map in last week's Spectrum, it does officially exist.

To avoid further confusion, please paste this official Supplement Map supplement north of Festival and south of the mall on your copy.

SPECTRUM EDITORIAL

Everyone has paid their new tuition rate, including the $33 tuition increase and the $4 activity fee increase.

It's inflation, right? Everyone has been hit. It's tough, financially to be a college student. Right?

But it seems that students at SU are being pinched a little harder than other students in town, especially the patrons of the Twenty After.

In the letter to the editor on the facing page, numerous comparisons are made between food service centers at SU, Concordia, and Moorhead State. Each time, SU comes out on the high side.

Is there a reason for this? Is there some logical thought process behind prices anywhere from 20 to 120 percent higher on this side of the Red River?

According to Twenty After manager Penny Rebsom, the major reason for higher prices here at SU is the "higher quality of food used here." The fact that SU has its own food service instead of being served by a food center chain, she says, makes SU Food Service more open to changes, special meals and student requests.

She also mentioned the Dakota Inn as being a further service of SU, describing the facilities of the Memorial Union as being one of the best unions she's seen for providing services to the student.

The other colleges in town, seem to say the same thing, but say it at a lower price. The spokeswoman for Concordia's food service emphasized the fact that they are comparing their food prices with other fast food chains around Fargo-Moorhead and setting prices accordingly.

Moorhead State, which is served by ARA Slater Food Service Inc., was not available for comment.

Some differences in size of food exist. For example, Concordia serves a two and a half ounce burger instead of the three ounces at SU. It is doubtful, though, that half an ounce or even a full ounce of meat would create that much of a difference in price.

So—do something about it. Don't patronize a place that consistently sets prices higher than necessary. Boycott the Twenty After Thursday, Sept. 20. Bring your lunch. Bring a thermos of coffee for you and your friends.

Remember—Thursday, Sept. 20, 1979. Boycott the Twenty After.

There is a word that strikes fear into the heart of any person who applies for housing at SU, OVERFLOW! Immediately one's head is filled with thoughts of sleeping on pool tables, no room for the suitcases, and other such tragedies. The inexperienced freshman has no idea of what to expect. Believe it, I know.

Alas, finally the big day arrives and it is time to journey to this magical place known as North Dakota State University of Agriculture and Applied Science. When I checked in at the dorm, I made the mistake of wearing a T-shirt from our inferior "counterparts" in Grand Forks. This drew several obscene comments from the upper classmen who were checking us in.

After all the red tape of checking in was done with, I was escorted up to "Reed Overflow." It turned out not looking as bad as I thought. It was a study lounge and it even had carpet! There was one aspect of the situation that was poking at the back of my mind—who are my five other roommates? That is absolutely correct. There are six of us in the room. This creates many interesting occasions. For example: two need to study for a calculus quiz one day, but the others want to party. What to do? We have thought several times about quietly murdering each other in the middle of the night, but realized that the R.A. would not appreciate the mess it might make. The two of us finally conceded to go to the library to review for the quiz, thus disposing of a possible murder charge.

One other problem that is encountered when in overflow is lack of closet and desk space. There are only four closet for all six people and there are also only four desks. There is no possible solution for the problem with the closet, but the desk problem can be grappled with. Solution: the first four in the room get their desks, and the others are out of luck.

Seriously, the roommates that I have are a great bunch to be around, and even though we get on each other's nerves, I couldn't ask for a better bunch to be with.

and eat at MSU or CC than to eat on our campus.

These price increases are especially confusing in light of the fact that several national fast food chains have been reducing prices on items that the Twenty-After raised in price. Also, the raises themselves were far beyond any reasonable increase, usually being about 20 percent, but often 30 to 60 percent.

I would strongly urge any student to keep his purchases at the Twenty-After to an absolute minimum until three problems are explained. I believe these three problems, or requests for information, are: 1. A detailed accounting of why the Twenty-After's prices are so much higher than those at MSU or CC [what makes our costs to operate so much greater than theirs?]; 2. A detailed accounting of why such a large price increase was instituted at this time; and 3. An explanation of why these price increases went into effect the day before students arrived, leaving new students on this campus with the impression prices were always like this.

Sincerely,
Kevin J. Kosse

NEWS BRIEFS

Carter vs. Kennedy

Amid all the talk of a possible Kennedy challenge to a re-election attempt by Carter, First Lady Rosalyn Carter has said it's time for Democrats to unite behind the President. Apparently, the top Democrat in the House didn't hear her. When asked today whom he would support if Sen. Edward Kennedy challenges President Carter for the Democratic nomination, speaker Tim O'Neill did not answer directly. Instead he stated that he supports the party "Every day of the week." He also said he assumes that Carter will be re-nominated without much trouble. However, if Kennedy decides to challenge Carter, the speaker said he does not think the Senator could lose.

Meeting of the Minds

President Carter held a meeting of his reshuffled cabinet Wednesday. This was the first meeting since the shake-up last July. The new members include two who have not received confirmation from the Senate. They are Neil Goldschmidt, Transportation, and Moon Landrieu, Housing and Urban Development. Carter said he hoped their confirmation will come soon. He also asked the new members to assess their responsibilities and functions.

Soviets Negotiate

The United States and the Soviet Union are beginning what the State Department says may be a long series of negotiations about the Soviet troops in Cuba. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will be meeting with Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin. Before that, Vance met with members of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Terrorists Released

Four Puerto Rican nationalists imprisoned more than 20 years for terrorist activity were released last Wednesday. All had been granted clemency by President Carter last week and pledged today to continue fighting for liberation of their homeland from U.S. domination.

Oil Conference

The 70-nation petroleum conference is under way in Bucharest, Romania. Officials of Amoco and Tenneco told the conference that the price of crude oil from American wells could jump nearly four dollars a barrel by 1985. They attribute the increase to environmental protection laws, which, they say could cost them up to $25 billion.

Budget Bunglings

The House Budget Committee began writing a final 1980 budget. If chairman Robert Giaino has his way, there will be no tax cut. The Connecticut Democrat says a cut now would be "a disaster" in the fight against inflation.

Returning to the Pits

by Gyle Peterson

to the editor:

Once again the students of this university have been subjected to another round of price increases at the Twenty-After. This time, however, we must take a closer look at these price hikes, especially in light of the prices at the ala carte food services on the MSU and CC campuses.

In a survey of prices I conducted on September 12 the following prices were observed: hamburger: .40[MSU], .45[CC], .85[NDSU]; cheeseburger: .45[MSU], .55[CC], 1.00[NDSU]; quarter pound hamburger: .85[MSU], .85[CC], 1.05[NDSU]; grilled cheese sandwich: .55[MSU], .40[CC], .80[NDSU]; french fries: .35[MSU], .45[CC], .65[NDSU]; coffee: .20[MSU], .25 with free refill[CC], .25[NDSU]. In terms of percentages, the Twenty-After is 23.5 percent to 122 percent, with an average of 72.6 percent, higher than either of the other two food services. Another way of viewing these price differences is to look at a typical lunch, for example, a cheeseburger, fries, and two cups of coffee. The cost would be $1.20[MSU], $1.20[CC], or $2.15[NDSU]. The conclusion is obvious: if a student has the time, it would be far cheaper for him or her to use the Tri-College Bus System

Let me just start out by saying welcome back to all the masochistic students who have returned for another sadistic year at SU, the great institution of higher learning—or the great institution of learning to get high, whichever turns you on. As to the newcomers to SU...well, may the Force be with you.

The sight of live forms back on campus again may be an exciting experience to many students, but for me it is very dispiriting. Whereas the end of the spring quarter marks the beginning of summer, the start of the fall quarter marks the end of summer. Start preparing for the season of winter coats, fir-lined boots, gloves and ear muffs. I guess winter has one good thing going for it, though. What better time of the year is there to just sit around and watch the old tube to see how Fred Silverman can make us throw up this season?

But don't let me drown in my own tears; instead, reminisce with me down Memory Lane at some of the newsworthy things which occurred this summer.

I think most of us were surprised at the realization that this country wasn't really experiencing a shortage in oil; when in fact there was a great supply laying on the formerly white, sandy beaches of Texas.

It was also amazing to see how much gas there was after it reached a dollar per gallon. I mean, hell, we can all take a bath in it now it's so plentiful. Maybe the prices can be reduced since they now found all of these mysterious resources of petro. Naw, on second thought, it would be too much to ask those poor souls to climb their ladders to lower prices, especially since they worked so hard all summer climbing their ladders every other day to raise them. What's money? We're all rich, right?

Another interesting newsworthy item to take note of was a survey conducted as to see if people would vote for former President Richard Nixon if he were to run for office again. A resounding 71 percent said no. If these same 71 percent would have said no back in 1972, this country probably wouldn't be in the irratric state it is now in. But then, Nixon had such an honest face.

Switching from a former president to a current president, we all watched as Jimmy Carter took a merry cruise down the Mississippi on a riverboat. What was learned from the trip was that the presidency is not all hearty handshakes and a Pepsodent smile. Watching as Carter jogged with fellow vacationers, it looked like he had aged ten yeears in only the mere three years he's been in office. In my opinion the only antidote to arresting Carter's aging process would be to let Senator Edward Kennedy take over the throne [or maybe it should be thorn.]

On the lighter side of the news, there's good news for die hard "disco sucks" rockers. On July 13 Steve Dahl, of radio station WLUP-FM Chicago, orgrastrated in a devastating breakage of disco albums between a scheduled double-hitter at Comiskey Park between the Chicago White Socks and the Detroit Tigers. The event ultimately set the stage for a small riot as thousands of enthusiastic rockers stormed onto the playing field resulting in considerable damage to the baseball diamond and eventually causing the cancellation of the second game. Let's all shed a tear for Sister Sledge.

Turning to the local scene rediscover that Fargo will eventually have cable television. As it turns out Fargo is one of the last major cities in the U.S. to receive cable [that figures].

An organization called Cable Comm received the nod by the City Commission to install the cable in our community, but this decision was later disputed by other cable bidders who said that the commission made a wrong decision in choosing Cable Comm because they could deliver more stations at a cheaper price. So why did the commission choose Cable Comm? Well, it seems that there is some prominent local citizens who have a big investment in Cable Comm. Ah, yes, democracy at work.

Finally, on August 27, Fargo police made a major marijuana bust in the parking lot of the Oak Manor Motel. Over 200 pounds of the illegal [killer weed] were confiscated.

If 200 plus pounds of pot were broken down into ounces and half ounces, it adds out to a lot of people. You don't know how this absolutely horrifies me! Now I want you all to be good citizens and take your reefer [and it better be good] and leave it on my door step, then go bravely turn yourselves in to the local police. Thank you.

Now get your finger out of your nose and hit those books.

Series of five astrology shows to be shown at MSU planetarium

Astrology versus science, the possibilities of life in outer space, the Christmas star and the brilliance of Albert Einstein will be examined in a series of five shows scheduled at MSU's planetarium this school year.

The planetarium, located in Bridges Hall 153 on campus (near the intersection of South 11th Street and 8th Avenue), seats 60 and offers striking lifelike images of space projected on a suspended 30-foot wide aluminum dome. Admission is open to the public: $1.50 for adults, $1.25 for students and one dollar for senior citizens and children under 12.

The first feature of the season is "Footsteps," a documentary tracing fact and fancy about the moon that commemorates the 10th anniversary of man's first step on the lunar surface. "Footsteps" has been showing at the planetarium this summer and will continue until Sept. 21. Shows are Thursdays and Fridays at 7:30 p.m.

Other planetarium shows at MSU this season, expected to run weekdays evenings and some weekend afternoons: "The Universe and Dr. Einstein," Sept. 26-Nov. 16 profiles Dr. Albert Einstein's life and his contributions to science and humanity. It is part of an Einstein Centennial Celebration at Moorhead State this fall.

"The Star of Bethlehem," Nov. 26-Dec. 24, takes the planetarium back nearly 2,000 years in search of the wise men and a scientific explanation for the Christmas star. Was it a comet, supernova or planetary conjunction?

"Little Green Men and Big-Eyed Monsters," Jan. 14-March 21, peers into the possibility of other intelligent life in our galaxy. The show examines the social consequences of contact and techniques of communicating with extraterrestrial beings and looks at how people throughout history have pictured creatures from outer space.

"The Age of Aquarius," March 31-June 26, traces the intimate connection between astronomy and astrology from ancient Mesopotamia to renaissance Europe. The show explains how horoscopes are put together and used to map out the future and presents arguments for and against this resurging form of forecasting.

Check with the university's physics department for exact times and dates of these shows. They will change throughout the year.

Private group showings at a reduced rate may also be arranged by calling the physics department at 236-2141.

In addition to the regular season shows, the university will present a group of special children's features during the year. Children under five years old will not be admitted to the regular season shows but will during the children's features.

The MSU planetarium is under the direction of Denis Mudderman, who produced the last three shows in the season's series. The other programs—"Footsteps" and "Einstein"—were put together by the Hansen Planetarium in Salt Lake City with a grant from Rockwell International.

Loftsgard announces seven new staff appointments

Several new faculty and staff appointments at SU have been announced by President L.D. Loftsgard following approval by the State Board of Higher Education.

Dr. Jacqueline H. Voss has assumed duties as associate dean for research, curriculum and graduate programs in the College of Home Economics and as associate professor in the Department of Child Development and Family Relations.

Dr. Donald Sandness has been named chairman of the Department of Speech/Language Pathology and Audiology and assistant professor of speech pathology.

Joining the SU faculty as assistant professors of speech pathology are Janice Alm and Michael Michela.

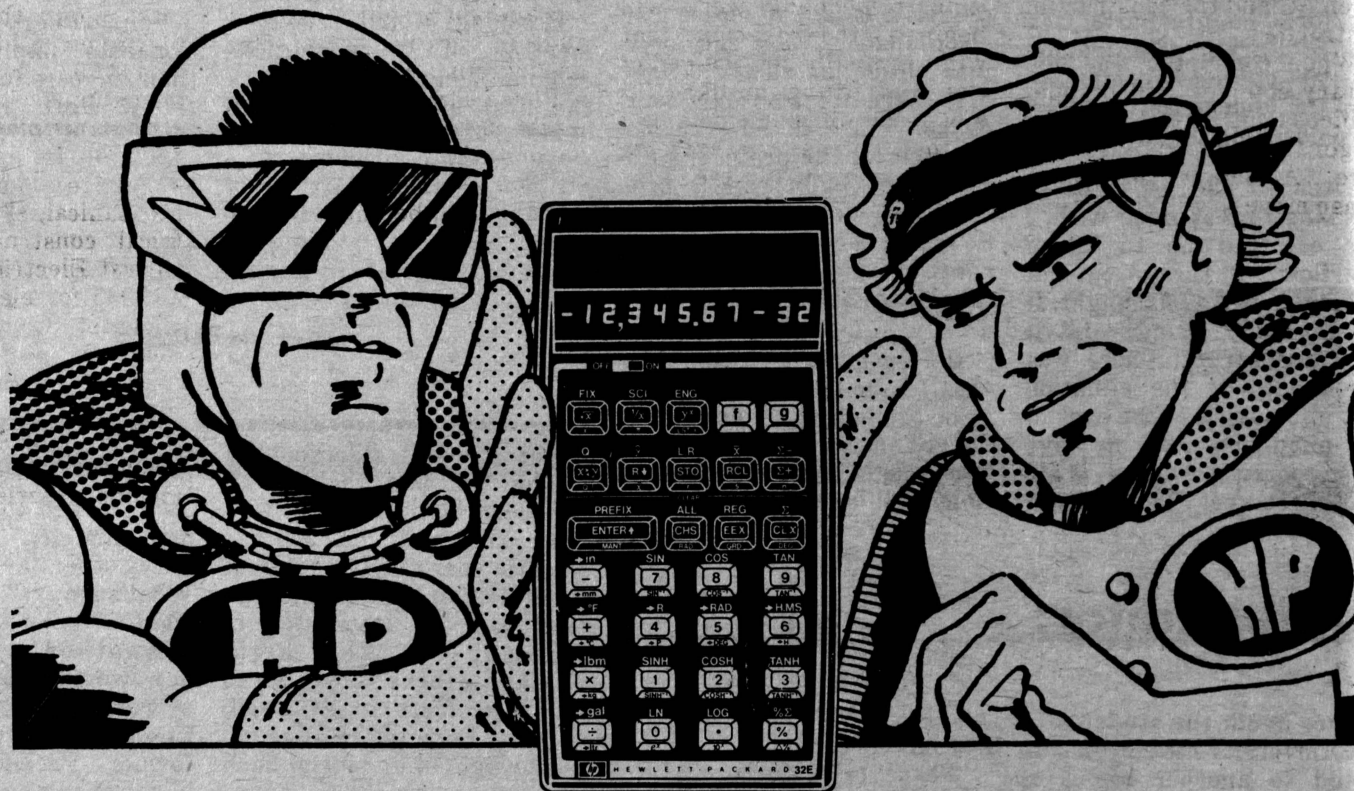

An SU graduate, Alm, has previous experience in speech pathology with the SU Speech and Hearing Clinic, as hospitals and the Moorhead Public Schools system.

Michela has worked as a speech, hearing and language pathologist for the Waukesha County Handicapped Children's Education Board from 1976 until this past summer when he served as a speech pathologist for the Ethan Allen School for Boys Juvenile Detention Center in Wales, Wis.

The new assistant professor of pharmacy practice Dr. James D. Carlson, is teaching clinical pharmacy practice and conducting research into drug therapy for pulmonary diseases and alcoholism and trace elements in nutrition.

Drs. Helen Beckman and Ronald Huff have received joint appointments as assistant professors of pharmacy practice with SU and as clinical pharmacists with St. Luke's Pharmacy Department. Beckman is a graduate of South Dakota State University. Huff was graduated from HOLY HYPERBOLICS!

HP makes professional scientific calculators students can afford.

Bet that bit of news really elevated your equations! Hewlett-Packard, the people who make some of the world's most dynamic calculators, now makes models just for your needs and budget—Series E.

Wow! The first one is the HP-31E Scientific, now available at a NEW LOW PRICE—$50*. It's a real corker of a basic scientific calculator. It has all the trigonometric, exponential and math functions you need most. Not only that, it handles metric conversions. And if that's not enough, it has both Fixed and Scientific display modes and 4 separate user memories.

Want more? Then take the HP-32E Advanced Scientific with Statistics, also at a NEW LOW PRICE—$70*. It's everything the HP-31E is—and more! More math and metric, comprehensive statistics, decimal degree conversions, Engineering/Scientific/Fixed display modes and 15 user memories to boot. Sufficient to handle any "would-be" brain busters!

And now, for those who meet the challenge of repetitious riddles, problems, and scientific equations—the HP-33E Programmable Scientific! Likewise available at a NEW LOW PRICE—$90*.

A multi-faceted scientific, math and statistical calculator with the added punch of programmability. It gives you at your command:

49 program lines of fully merged keycodes; a dazzling array of program control keys; and 8 user memories. Never again shy away from a sinister calculation!

And listen to this: every Series E calculator comes with a new larger, 10-digit display with commas to separate thousands for easier reading; diagnostic systems to help you catch and correct errors; a low battery warning light; rechargeable batteries and more.

Surely, there is a Series E calculator that is right for you. Which one? I suggest that you stop by your HP dealer for a "hands-on" demonstration and a free copy of "A buyer's guide to HP professional calculators." Library work 60 days behind, Phase II to begin

by David Staples

Construction on the new library at SU is proceeding steadily, about four to eight weeks behind schedule. Unlike last year, when a wall between the old and new addition prevented most of the noise and dust from disturbing library patrons, there will be only a plastic sheet to minimize inconvenience this year. If all goes well, the first of a three-phase move into the library and chief liaison between SU and the construction contractors.

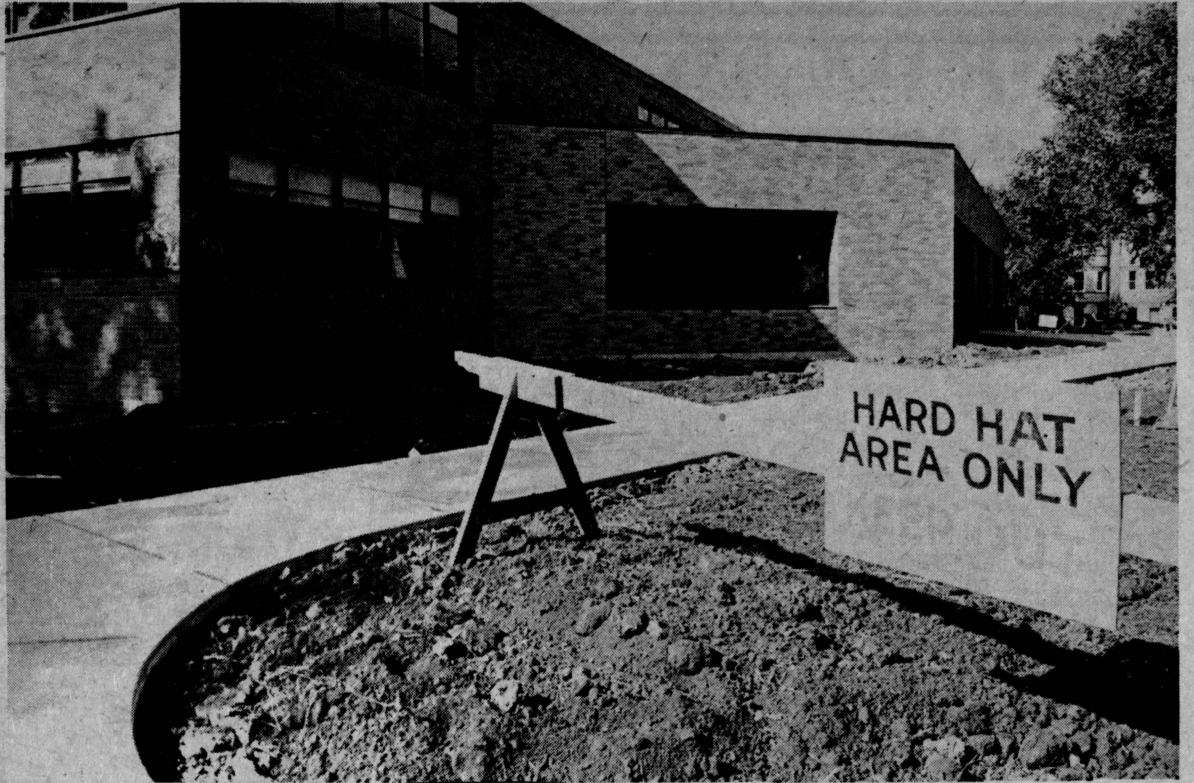

When completed, the new library complex will be open to the public, some 75 to 80 percent larger than the existing structure. Although the three-phase move-in will cause some inconvenience, by this time next year, it should be completed.

The first phase will consist of moving out of the existing wing into the new south edition. At this time, all of the floors above ground will be closed off for extensive remodeling. The basement level will continue its present use and the entrance will be temporarily moved to the south.

The second phase is scheduled to commence some 60 days after the first. At this time, remodeling work will begin on the basement that will eventually see the end of the old dungeon-like atmosphere of open ducts and rafters. All but the extreme north side [with the low-hanging insulated ducts] will eventually be opened to the public. The remainder of the storage space will exist here and in newly constructed underground vaults.

Phase three will require at least seven more months beyond that, although it is still anticipated that the new complex will be entirely complete by fall of 1980.

Base bids approved two years ago by the State Board of Higher Education include $1,474,000 for general construction by Twin City Construction Company of Fargo, $402,700 for mechanical construction by Midwest Mechanical, $296,042 for electrical construction by Northwest Electric of Fargo, and $34,335 for elevators by Otis Elevator Company of Minneapolis.

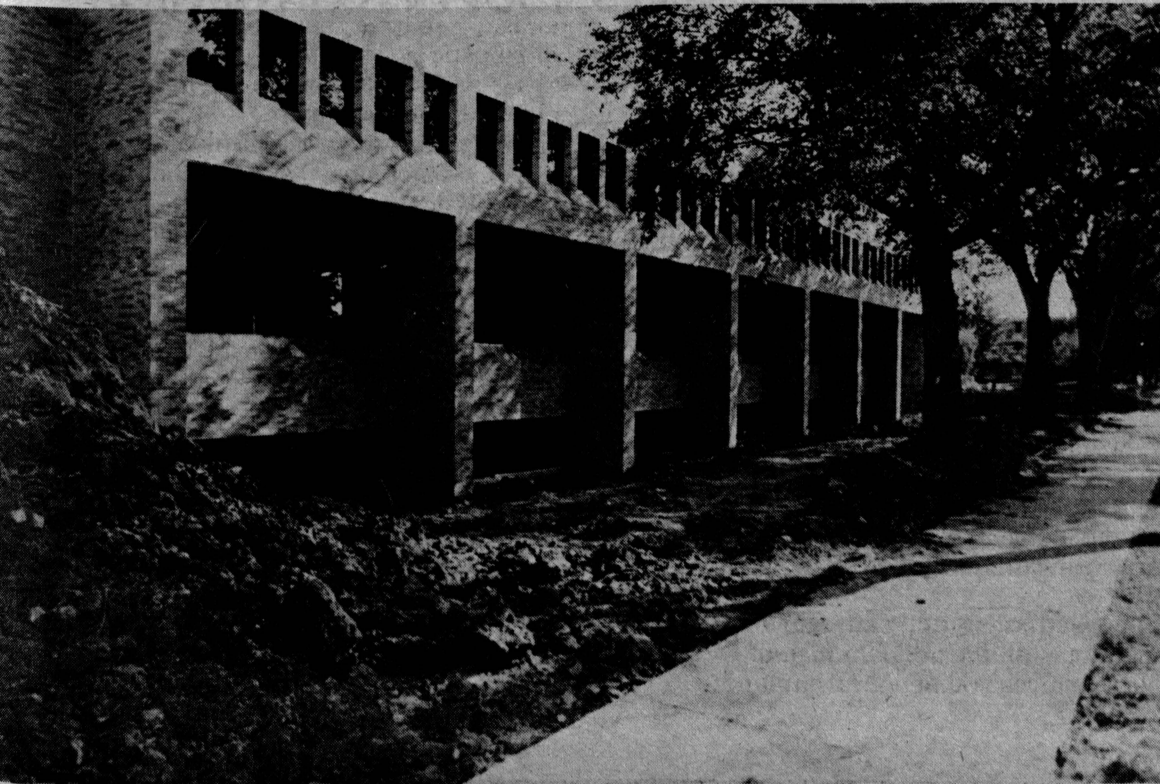

In the addition of the added versatility of an expanded facility, the boundary between the old and the new will include a series of skylights and plants. Dick Barton has been spending considerable time planning how the new space will be utilized, and expects to release it to the Spectrum in the near future.

Other major construction to begin on campus includes the new $5 million music facility. At this writing, architects have drawn up plans, and preparations are being made prior to bid-letting, according to Dr. Edwin Fissinger, chairman of the SU Music Department. Two million dollars of construction funds was raised through private sources in order to obtain the $3 million of appropriations from the North Dakota State Legislature.

A $2,500 annual scholarship program at SU has been renewed for the sixth time by the North American Coal Corporation. The scholarship is awarded to SU students in the colleges of Engineering and Architecture, Agriculture and Science and Mathematics. Since 1974, a total of $15,000 has been awarded.

DR. RICHARD R. CHENOWETH, associate director of the Division of Continuing Studies, has had his dissertation, "Francis Case: A Political Biography," published in the Historical Collection of South Dakota.

DIANE M. STICKEL, a senior in the Coordinated Undergraduate Program in Dietetics, has been awarded the $600 Golden Plate Scholarship award.

LEWIS LUBKA, associate professor in the Graduate Program in Community and Regional Planning, has completed a new publication, "Manual on the Role of the Forester in Land-Use Planning." Lubka also ran a pilot-program training session on the role of the forester in land-use planning at St. Paul, Minn. this summer.

ROY H. JOHNSON was named foundation coordinator for the SU Development Foundation this summer. Johnson, the manager of the Southwest Branch of First Bank in Fargo, is primarily responsible for long-range gift development and the deferred giving program at SU.

Rare Earth conference, KDSU satellite news during summer

During the past summer, the SU campus not only supported the hapless summer students but also supported a variety of activities and happenings.

The international conference brought some 250 scientists from 22 different countries together.

The 14th Rare Earth Research Conference was held June 25-28 and was chaired by Dr. John Gruber, dean of the College of Science and Mathematics. Even Governor Link was there to welcome the group to SU.

On July 27, the SU campus saw 22 high-ability high school students present their suggestions for conserving oil supplies. These students studied for six weeks under a special National Science Foundation (NSF) program in engineering. Dr. Kenneth Ebeling, associate professor of industrial engineering here, agreed that any extensive changes in the country's dependency on foreign oils will come much more slowly than the Carter administration have indicated.

KDSU was featured in the summer news quite well. In mid-August, a satellite earth station linking KDSU-FM Stereo 92 to a multi-channel access and distribution system for public radio stations across the country was erected just south of Campus Avenue. The satellite will allow the radio station to provide its listeners live, high-quality stereo programming from the National Public Radio and other public radio stations, starting sometime in October of this year.

KDSU will also be receiving direct input for program selection from a ten-member Community Advisory Board. Named to the board were Dianne Myers, Rev. Grover Diemert, Catherine Cater, Mayor Jon Lindgren, J. Robert Hanson, Richard W. Blaine, Jennifer Paulsrud, Lester Moe, Ed Christianson and John Giese.

SU's Department of Speech and Drama was chosen this summer to host the North Dakota High School Activities Association State Debate Tournament Feb. 8 and 9. Dr. C.T. Hanson and Robert S. Littlefield will be directing the tournament.

Eleven high school graduates from North Dakota and Minnesota were awarded the Cupler Scholarship of $500 each during this summer, contingent upon enrollment at SU.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974

In accordance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 and implementing federal regulations, North Dakota State University has adopted a policy that guarantees the following rights to students attending the University:

1. The right to inspect and review education records maintained in their name by the University;
2. The right to seek amendment of education records which are inaccurate or misleading or which violate the privacy or other rights of students;
3. The right to have disclosures of those records to other parties limited to those situations authorized in the Act;
4. The right to have a record maintained of certain kinds of disclosures to other parties; and
5. The right to refuse to permit the designation of any or all of the following categories of personally identifiable information as "directory information," which is not subject to the above restrictions on disclosure:
 - a. name, campus address, home address, and telephone listing
 - b. age, and date and place of birth
 - c. sex and marital status
 - d. name and address of parent(s)

CA: Services for the student

Part 1

by Deb Farrell

Every Sunday night, a free film is shown in the Memorial Union's Ballroom for the SU Students. Last week, "Heaven Can Wait" was shown three times to a record attendance of 850 students and this week, "Jaws" will be shown to, hopefully, another large crowd.

Many other films, including some big names like "The Goodbye Girl" and "An Unmarried Woman," will be shown in the Ballroom this year. Also there is a Homecoming Drive-In Triple Feature planned on Wednesday, October 10, and an All Night Film Fest is scheduled for Saturday, October 27.

Such big names and big plans...where do they come from? From the Films Division of a campus organization that brings a lot of entertainment into SU.

The films division is the oldest part of CA and the strongest "because it is every week," said Roger Hein, its director and an SU architecture student. "However, because of that, it is often overlooked."

Films are shown at 5 and 8 p.m. every week, usually on Sunday nights. However, not many people come to the early show. Even with a record attendance last week, only 230 students came to the early show while 490 attended the late show and 130 returned for the extra showing.

Hopefully, with a lot of well-known films being shown this year, students will begin to attend the early show.

"If not," said Hein, "we're going to try to reschedule them."

The films shown this year were chosen by last year's film committee, which consisted of interested students willing to volunteer some of their time. These students looked through countless (actually about 30) film catalogs, viewed a number of film previews and endlessly discussed the pros and cons of each film.

After the committee made their final decision, Hein ordered the film by phone from several film-rental companies. These companies either buy the rental rights of the movies or are a part of the corporation that produced the film.

Costs vary according to each company and according to how many orders are placed. For example, "Heaven Can Wait," ordered from Paramount, cost $600 while a more demanded movie like "Superman" would cost $700 from the Swank Company.

The money paying for these films comes from, of course, the Student Activity Fund. "That's why numbers are so important," said Hein. The fewer people attending, the less demanded movies will be shown, he added.

Besides deciding what films will be shown, the committee also helps set up for the film—which includes checking the film and audio systems, setting up chairs and the screen in the Ballroom, putting up posters and checking the cash box.

"I don't have a committee yet this year," said Hein. "Whoever wants to be on it just has to come in or call me." Hein added that students do not have to represent a campus organization to be on the committee.

Tripoli Steel Band heads Fine Arts Series beginning Sept. 20

SU will open its 1979-1980 Fine Arts Series Thursday, Sept. 20, with a performance by the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band at 8:15 p.m. in Festival Hall.

From the steps of the White House to eight straight World Fair appearances, the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band featuring the Family Borde has played a repertoire of music ranging from classical to rock and roll on oil drums. Born out of the desperate days following World War II, when it was not possible to get either instruments or money to play their beloved Calypso music, the natives of Trinidad discovered that abandoned oil drums could be used for musical tunes.

Liberace introduced the band to the North American Continent during a two-year tour. Subsequently, the band has played numerous engagements in Las Vegas, Disneyland, Disneyworld, and before the Queen of England, as well as hundreds of major college and university concerts.

Hugh Borde, leader and developer of the band, directs a group that wears several hats in one performance—concert, dance and show—and often takes time to allow audiences a close look at the unique steel drums, as well as to demonstrate the technique of producing sounds and chromatic scales by touching separate sections of the heads of the steel drums.

Typical of reviews and letters of thanks is one from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale that, in part, reads, "The band presented a superlative performance, offering a diverse program ranging from "Jesus Christ Superstar," to old favorites like "I Wish You Love," and "The Man I Love," to Calypso, and a rousing virtuouse rendition of the "Poet and Peasant Overture," which brought the audience to its feet. These men are superior musicians who extract from steel drums music so incredible that the audience had to go on the stage at intermission to look for themselves, believing that there surely must have been recorded background of the melodies."

The band recently achieved the number 1 ranking at the International Festival for Steel Bands in Trinidad. The two numbers performed, the classical "Midnight in Moscow" and "The Man I Love" received 98 out of a possible 100 points. The band's quality also resulted in a Grammy Award in 1972 for a Gold Album, "Liberace Presents."

Tickets for the performance, $3 each in advance or at the door, or season tickets for all six 1979-80 SU Fine Arts Series performances, $15, are available through the SU Memorial Union Director's Office, 237-8241. SU students are admitted at no charge and other area students may purchase tickets for $1.

The band has also challenged the SU soccer team to a match during its Fargo-Moorhead visit.

MSU music department will host faculty recital

The music department at MSU will host its first faculty recital of the school year at 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 16, in Weld Hall auditorium.

Violinist Amie Casey will open the program with a piece written by Eugene Ysaye followed by Dave Ferreira singing two Guillaume de Machuat works accompanied by Robert Pattengale playing the base recorder and John Tesch the sackbut [a medieval trombone].

Mark Fasman, trumpet, Daniel Meckel, low percussion, and Tesch, trombone, will feature a five-movement piece by David Van Vactor, "Economy Band," and flutist Lise Mann will play "Ballade" by Frank Martin accompanied by Nancy Harris on piano.

Also part of the recital, Barbara McMeed, cello, Ruth Dahlke, oboe, and Pattengale, harpsichord, will perform "Partita Number 2 in G Major" by George Phillip Tellemann and vocalist Ricardo Visus will present a selection accompanied by guitarist Mary Osterfield.

Sioux Indian photography on display

"Crying for Vision: A Rosebud Sioux Trilogy," a collection of photographs taken by three photographers on the Rosebud Sioux Indian Reservation in South Dakota during the 1920s and 1930s, will be on display as the first fall quarter art exhibit Sept. 11 through Oct. 1 in the Union Art Gallery at SU.

The opening reception for the exhibit is scheduled from 3 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 11, at the gallery located in the SU Union, according to Carol Morrow Bjorklund, director of the gallery. Refreshments will be served.

Hours for the Art Gallery are from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Dancers needed for local group

The Red River Dance and Performing Company is looking for dancers. Auditions for their 1979-80 season will be held at 7 p.m., Tuesday, September 14, at the FM Center of Dance and Performing Arts. The center is located in Suite 500 on the 7th floor of Block 6, 620 Main Avenue in Fargo.

The artistic director of the Company, Kathryn Gasper, said there will be performances, classes, workshops, and concerts during the season. For further information call Gasper at 236-9483.

Bison beat Concordia in last match of meet

SU came back in the last match to beat inner-city rival Concordia 15-8 and 15-10 to win the last match of the triangular volleyball meet held at the Old Field House Tuesday night.

SU lost earlier in the evening to Bemidji State after taking the first game 15-13 and then losing the next two games by identical score of 7-15.

Head coach Donna Palivec said after the meet that she was very pleased with the team's performances and that she feels the team is more advanced than at this time last year.

SU, which has won the NDAIAW eight of the last nine years, goes into this year with a fairly young team with only one senior, but shows experience with four returning starters from last year's NDAIAW championship team.

Some of the key plays that helped SU beat Concordia was the middle hitting of Jennifer Miller, a freshman from New York Mills, Minn., who had 10 hits from the middle and a total of 14 for the match.

Laura Jacobson, a sophomore from North St. Paul, had an outstanding night in the attacking department for SU as she came up with 13 total hits and 7 from the middle.

SU's serves and settings were exceptional as the whole team put on a good performance to beat the Cobbers. The game results were as follows:

SU vs. Bemidji State:

In game one, SU came up with the first point of the night behind the serve of Jan Peterson, but the Beavers took off from there and put the next four points on the board. SU kept battling back and finally took a 7-6 lead and never trailed the rest of the way to win 15-13 in the first game.

Games two and three never really had the Bison in the game, except early in the second game when the Bison took a quick 5-1 lead. From there on in the Bison couldn't muster up much of a long offensive scoring splurge and lost the next two games by identical scores of 7-15.

Coach Palivec said the big reason the Bison lost the match was due to the fact that the players lost their concentration.

SU vs. Concordia

In a very well-played game, the Bison came out on top by a score of 15-8.

Peterson took the serve to start the scoring for the Bison and wrapped off six quick points to put them ahead 6-1. Miller came through during this period of the game with some good spikes. With the score 10-7, Jacobson took over the serve and recorded the next four points for the Bison to make it 14-7. After the Cobbers scored, SU finished the game when Miller blocked a spike that fell to the floor for the final point for the Bison.

In game two, the Bison once again ripped off four quick points behind the serving of Miller but the Cobbers took the lead right away for the first time in the game by a score of 6-4 and held on until Teresa Washut, a junior from Buffalo, N.Y., hit a nice change of pace shot that fell to the floor untouched for a score of 11-10. Julie Hollenhorst then took the serve and collected four straight points to make the score 14-10, but lost the serve on a side-out due to four hits by the Bison. Jacobson got the serve back and promptly won the game for the Bison when Concordia failed to set-up the ball.
