tuition will go up by 8 percent N.D. colleges and universities

By Kevin Cassella
News Editor

Students will be paying more to attend North Dakota's colleges and universities next year. The North Dakota State Board of Education made the decision to increase tuition by about 8 percent during its meetings Thursday in Fargo. But, it shouldn't surprise SU students, as the board gave approval to budget decisions during the fall of 1982.
Board members also decided not to raise the $45 annual surcharge applied to tuition rates at the state's colleges and universities.
Undergraduate resident tuition at the two universities will be increased $60 a year to a total of $906. Students at the state colleges will pay $45 more, raising tuition to $771.

Non-resident undergraduates will be paying $1,812, or an additional $120 at the universities, and $1,488, $117 more, at state colleges.
Resident graduate students face a $72 increase, which raises tuition to $1,050. Non-residents will pay $2,100, an additional $144. Tuition rates at the colleges have also been increased, with residents paying $1,002, a hike of $72, and non-residents paying $1,638, or $117 more.
Non-voting board member Brad Johnson, SU student president, protested continuing the tuition surcharge.
He said it was unfair and students object to it. Johnson also asked that some of the money be returned to students.

According to staff members, the surcharge is still needed at UND.
They also said it has been board policy to keep tuition at SU and UND equal. A motion to lift the charge at SU failed.
The 1983 Legislature imposed the surcharge to pay for additional faculty at the two universities which were not funded under the formula used by the state.
Tuition for Minnesota students on reciprocity will be determined when that state finalizes tuition levels for the next year. The reciprocity agreement between the states calls for the averaging of the resident rates in both states.

Cheerteam appears in local commercials

By Bob Schlomann
Staff Writer

Professional athletes often supplement their income and gain wider recognition by endorsing products and performing in commercials.

While NCAA rules prohibit players from doing them, members of the Bison cheerteam have appeared in several successful commercials.

Cheerteam members have appeared in commercials for Pepsi Cola, Interstate Seed Company, WDAY radio, Cass-Clay Dairy, and Davis Chevrolet and Toyota.

"The Bison were hot after winning the championship," said Jay Davis, president of Davis Chevrolet and Toyota, "and while NCAA rules are such that you can't use the players, (using) the cheerleaders worked even better as it turned out."

The commercial generated a lot of positive responses in the form of calls and letters, Davis said.

"We enjoyed doing it and getting the exposure," Ted Hanson, cheerteam member, said of the Davis commercial. "People come up and say, 'Hey you're in a commercial,' and there's some guff that goes along with it, but it's all in good fun."

The message in the Davis commercial was carefully structured to avoid giving the impression the cheerteam was promoting Davis Chevrolet, said Jackie Ressler, cheerteam adviser.

"The university is for the community as whole, not for one individual necessarily."

The emphasis of the commercial is that Davis Chevrolet supported the Bison rather than the fact the firm sells cars, Davis said.

The Davis firm was one of more than 100 contributors that enabled the cheerteam to go to McAllen, Texas for the championship game.

Part of the proceeds from the Davis commercial went to the cheerteam for the SU uniforms worn in the commercials.

That is not usually the case though, according to Ressler. Businesses usually prefer performers in their commercials wear T-shirts or other clothing that bears their name, logo, or some promotional message.

This was the case in the Interstate Seed Company commercial and cheerteam members who appeared in it were paid individually for efforts, Ressler said.

Although he didn't get paid, Lonpy Wilkinson said the Davis commercial was good experience.

"I'd never been in a TV commercial done anything like it before," said.

Tammy Lies said the commercial was fun to do but hasn't seen she worked on it.

Crimes of the Heart' displays incredible set

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Mona Christenson
Lynn Dyrhaug
John Carroll
Joan Kantorowicz
Dawn Lisell
Steve Froehlich

By Dan Berger

The first thing that struck me as I stepped into MSU's Thrust Stage Theater for "Crimes of the Heart" was the incredible detailing of the set. The performance, however, overshadowed the set.

"Crimes of the Heart" is a funny, warm depiction of the struggle of three Mississippi sisters to throw the influence of their grandfather, their busybody cousin Chick Boyle, and the town's expectation that they will follow their mother to "shameful" behavior and suicide.

In Review

Lenny (Mona Christenson), the plain, eldest sister of the family, is intimidated by her grandfather and cousin to point that she is afraid to have anything to do with men.

Meg (Joan Kantorowicz) has gone to the opposite extreme, but has never found a man she could truly sch, art instructor at Fargo South High. The many creations are all hand-made in glazed stoneware ceramic and range from the literal to the literally surreal.

love and is hiding the shambles of her life behind a veneer of bravado.

Babe (Dawn Lisell), the youngest sister, the angle of the family who seems destined for a perfect life, has shot her brutal, domineering husband who happens to be a state senator.

The beautiful portrayal of the three sisters was not lived up by the supporting cast, with the possible exception of Steve Froehlich, who had some good moments as Babe's lawyer, Barnette Lloyd.

Lynn Dyrhaug, as Chick Boyle, fell into the trap of Chick's character type and came across as a two-dimensional stereotype, whose presence was quite unimpressive in spite of her bluster.

John Carroll, as Doc Porter, an old flame of Meg's didn't even project two dimensions. Doc, a character of great sympathy and warmth, was played as flat, unempathic and just plain boring.

The set and blocking were well-done and focused firmly on the kitchen table, where much of the play's action took place. The interludes between acts were quiet, alto sax solos by Glen Byford.

The one major problem with MSU's production was the accents. Apparently, no one put much work into that aspect of their character. The accents wounded synthetic, and were inconsistent. The show would have played as well, I think, with only a light accent.

"Crimes of the Heart" is playing at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday in the MSU Center for the Arts Thrust Stage Theater.

People needed to donate blood on Thursday and Friday

By Jeff Pudwill

United Blood Services will be at SU from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Those wishing to donate blood should register by calling Peg Lommel, Blood Drive Coordinator for Circle K.

All donors will be requested to report to the States Room of the Union at a specified time Thursday or Friday for their donation.

Three percent of the people in this country give all of the blood donated. If 1 percent more became donors, it would add more than 30 percent more blood to America's blood supply, according to Janet Gallagher of United Blood Services in Fargo.

Price of roses thorny problem for suitors

Jean Hoaby

Roses. No other flower has been mentioned so often by poets. Its blossoms are the symbol of love.

When these cherished words are encribed on paper, does the writer realize that these precious flowers now cost $45 a dozen. Who can afford love at that price?

Roses have been especially meaningful on Valentine days of the past. A woman has to consider herself pretty lucky to get a dozen roses this year.

According to the local florists, the price of a single rose ranges from $4 to $4.50. Two florists claim that this price does not affect sales to a great extent. An increase of 1,800 roses were ordered to cover the holiday demand at a southside floral shop.

The price of heating the green houses, supply and demand, and the rose growers greediness were all reasons given as to why roses rise in price so much over the holiday season.

The great influx in demand means the grower needs to supply more to the consumers. This raises the price of labor and many other factors that make it possible, or impossible, to have that lovely bouquet of roses in the house.

A bouquet of flowers, according to Mary Anderson of Three Keys Floral, is just as nice as a bouquet of roses, without the added expense.

"We can add three or four rose buds," she said, "so you can get a touch of the roses."

John Shotwell, of Shotwell Florists, encourages the purchase of other bouquets rather than roses. "They are just as nice as a dozen roses, and have much more lasting power," he said.

Men and women alike are sending floral arrangements. Young men, according to Anderson, tend to stick more to single roses. While older men and women send bouquets.

Are diamonds and roses, two expressions of love, going to be in the same expenses category? Will anyone be able to afford roses?

A dozen roses will easily pay for a nice dinner for two and a bottle of wine on that special evening.

Not a bad idea for men and women alike. At least that way both benefit.

THREE-YEAR ROTC SCHOLARSHIPS HAVE MUCH TO OFFER

There are sophomores at North Dakota State University who should be saying "I might have had a three-year scholarship this fall if I had taken the time to apply" for one of the more than 2000 Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps awards open to them last spring.

Army ROTC scholarships are generous. They pay for tuition, certain academic expenses, include an allowance for books, supplies and equipment, as well as a subsistence allowance of $1000 for each year the scholarship is in effect. There is no requirement that the applicant be currently enrolled in ROTC. In fact, 40% of the scholarships are reserved for students not presently taking part in ROTC, although those students do have to make up the classroom work missed during their freshman year.

Scholarship cadets, in addition to their regular studies, must complete the prescribed military science courses, and successfully complete the six-week Advanced Camp. Cadets usually attend camp the summer between their junior and senior years.

When they have completed requirements for a baccalaureate degree and their military science courses, scholarship cadets will be commissioned in the Regular Army, the Army National Guard or Army Reserve, and assigned to one of the branches of the Army such as Infantry, Engineer, Armor, Medical Service Corps, or Military Intelligence.

As Second lieutenants, they will be required to serve for four years on active duty or for eight years in the Army National Guard or Army Reserve depending upon the needs of the Army.

Basic eligibility requirements include U.S. citizenship, be under 25 years of age as of June 30 of the year in which the officer is to be commissioned (veterans may qualify for an extension of the age requirement), and show potential to become effective Army officers. Applicants must also meet established medical standards.

Since the Army is placing new emphasis on officers with highly technical backgrounds, special consideration goes to students majoring in engineering, physical science, business, or nursing.

Historically, most successful applicants have academic grade point averages of 2.9 to 3.3 on a 4.0 grading scale and score 1100 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Further details on how to apply for 1985 scholarships may be obtained from the Department of Military Science located in Room 103 Old Fieldhouse or call Cpt. Joe Legato, 777-7575 for an appointment.

Falling...and being...in love

By Julie Stillwell

Nosy bystanders cluck with curious speculation when a young couple is swept up in a whirlwind romance.

Judi and Dave Forbes don't think of themselves as impulsive, romantic types. They didn't worry about gossip when they married after a courtship of only 11 weeks.

Those who are waiting for a fall should know one thing—that's what brought them together in the first place.

Judi Argo had been at SU only six weeks in her new job as assistant personnel director when she slipped on a patch of ice and injured her knee in December of 1982.

New friends and acquaintances at work offered rides to and from work to save her from exorbitant taxi fares, but the inconvenience of cast and crutches were her companions for many months to follow.

One day in late March, arrangements for her ride home fell through. Dave Forbes, associate professor of pharmacy administration, was the first person she found in the staff directory who lived near her and was able to give her a ride home after work.

Dave continued to transport Judi although his alleged reasons were more noble than romantic.

"I couldn't see anyone taking a taxi all the time. I felt I was doing something worthwhile," he said.

The resilient good spirits Judi maintained while coping with surgery, a staph infection and self-care IV treatments impressed Dave.

Judi didn't give much thought to the relationship until Dave arranged for a student driver's services for one week through a student fraternity auction.

"That's when I started to get interested in him," Judi said.

Talk of marriage eventually followed. Rather than adding wedding plan problems, the couple decided to get married right away.

Friday is the eighth-month anniversary of their June 17 marriage and today is the first Valentine's Day they've celebrated together.

Judi watches her step when crossing campus this winter. She's had enough excitement for one year.

Peace Corps

Being a Peace Corps volunteer means taking what you know, sharing it with others, and learning about life in another country, another culture.

- Developing nations want to grow more food to feed their people . . . improve schools and expand public education . . . provide adequate shelter and clean drinking water . . . insure good health care and basic nutrition . . . build roads and transportation systems.

The person who becomes a Peace Corps volunteer must have a strong commitment to helping other people. He or she must be willing to learn their language . . . appreciate their culture . . . and live modestly among them.

If this sounds like you, we'd like to show you the many opportunities beginning soon in 60 developing nations. You can apply now for any openings beginning in the next 12 months.

Robinson utilizes talents in SU track and football

By Bamson Fadipe
Staff Writer

Some people call him a football star, while others think he is a track star. Stacy Robinson is both.

This talented young man was a wide-receiver on the Bison football team that won the national title this season at McAllen, Texas. He was also on the track team that won the indoor and outdoor North Central Conference titles last year.

Robinson won the 60-yard dash indoor and 100 meters outdoor for the Bison in the conference meet last year.

Robinson is off to a good start in track this year as well. He set new school records in both the 55 meter and 200 meter indoor during the Intercity meet held two weeks ago at the New Field House. His times were 6.38 and 21.75 respectively.

How does he manage to compete in two different sports in one year without resting or injury? Robinson said he is used to doing that since high school.

"I played football, basketball and ran track in high school," he said.

Robinson is in his junior year, majoring in business administration.

He transferred to SU two years ago from Prairie View (Texas) A & M University. Robinson says he disliked Prairie View for its weak football team and also because it is too far from his home in St. Paul, Minn.

Robinson credits God for his accomplishments.

"Many times people take for granted some of the things that they are blessed with, as I used to do myself," he continued. "But I really realized that my talents are truly a blessing from God."

Robinson believes Bison football coach Don Morton and the track coach Don Larson are also big contributors to his abilities.

"One thing that pops up in my mind when you mentioned Coach Morton is how real and sincere he is. It would be very easy for a guy in his position to talk out of both sides of his mouth, but he has always been a straightforward person," Robinson said.

Robinson said one of the reasons why he came to SU is because of Larson's quality.

"He has a great relationship with people. Whenever something goes wrong — athletically or personally — he's always available to help."

One of Robinson's goals is to defend his NCC title in track and he also hopes to get into pro football when he finishes his education.

SU's Peter Wodrich claimed second place at St. Cloud with a jump of 6 feet, 6 inches. (Photo by Scott Johnson)

Tracksters show potential at St. Cloud Invitational

By Ray Maloney

Tom Leutz and Stacy Robinson both won two events Saturday to place SU in the eight-team St. Cloud Invitational meet.

Leutz, a junior from Hebron, N.D., topped the field in the 44 meter high hurdles in a time of 7.7. He also captured first place in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 6 inches. Leutz also added a fourth-place finish in the pole vault.

Robinson, a junior from St. Paul, Minn., won the 55-meter dash with a time of 6.51 and captured first in the 300 meters in 35.24.

The only event the Bison failed to place in was the shot put competition and there were 13 events. No team scores were kept, however.

Coach Don Larson of SU was pleased with the performance of the Bison and said they performed well.

The next action for SU is this Saturday when it hosts the Bison Open in the New Field House beginning at 2 p.m. before defending its conference indoor title Feb. 24 and 25 in Vermillion, S.D.
