HISTORY

According to the North Dakota State University Media /Recruiting Guide for Men's Basketball, North Dakota Agricultural College (NDAC) began playing competitive intercollegiate basketball in 1897-1898, with 6 games (3 each against the Fargo YMCA and Fargo College [a private Congregational college located in Fargo from 1887-1922]). NDAC lost all 6 games. The following is excerpted from the February 1898 issue of The Spectrum: "Since the last issue of THE SPECTRUM a basket ball [sic] league has been organized consisting of the Y.M.C.A., Fargo College and this College. ... A series of nine games was scheduled to be played in the Armory of Co. B. as follows: Jan. 22 ...YMCA vs. NDAC,

Jan. 20 ... YMCA vs. Fargo College, Feb. 4 ... NDAC vs. Fargo College, Feb. 11 ... NDAC vs. YMCA, Feb. 18 ... Fargo College vs. YMCA, Feb. 22. ... Fargo College vs. NDAC, Feb. 25 ... YMCA vs. NDAC, March 4. ... Fargo College vs. NDAC, and March 11 ... Fargo College vs. YMCA. The first four games have been played with results somewhat discouraging to us, but when we consider that this is our first appearance with basket ball, and that some of our players have never seen a game before this winter, while the Y.M.C.A. team is the champion of the state and the Fargo College team contains men of several years experience, we have reason to feel encouraged with the progress thus far made." pp. 12-13

During its first year of eligibility for post-season NCAA Division I play, NDSU won the Summit League championship and advanced to the NCAA Division I Tournament, where they took on last year's winner, Kansas and after a hard fought game in Minneapolis Regional, lost to the Jayhawks 74-84. NDSU finished the season with a 26-7 mark.
