BIOGRAPHY

Dennis Colliton was born January 24, 1951 in Niagara Falls, New York. The family moved to Minot, North Dakota and Dennis graduated from Minot High in 1969. He received his bachelor's in Architecture at North Dakota State University [NDSU] in 1974. He earned a master's of landscape architecture from Cornell University in 1976 and his initial professional registration as a landscape architect in 1980.

Colliton joined the faculty of architecture at NDSU in 1976. In 1983, Dennis, with Cecil Elliot, the Chairman of the Architecture Department, founded the landscape architecture program. In 1986 he became the Program Director of landscape architecture program, and except for 1997-1998 when he served as department chair, he served continuously in the position. He oversaw the initial accreditation process for the program in 1991. In addition to his academic responsibilities, Dennis was also owner of Dennis Colliton Landscape Architects, Fargo.

Dennis was honored at NDSU for his teaching, faculty service, and advising eight times. These honors included teaching excellence awards from both the department and College of Engineering and Architecture.

He was named a Fellow in the American Society of Landscape Architects in October 2000. He was widely published, “and he provided community service design work that benefited communities throughout the Great Plains region, including his work for the Sheyenne River Scenic Byways. On a grant basis, he assisted the North Dakota Department of Transportation on highway beautification and transportation enhancements from 1990-2003. As a practicing landscape architect, his creative design work included the ceremonial landscape garden at the NDSU Alumni Center.” (It's Happening at State, August 27, 2003, p. 4)

He served on boards of advisers for the International Peace Garden, the North Dakota State Capitol grounds, the NDSU campus, and the Clearing Landscape Institute in Wisconsin, as well as on the executive board of the Great Plains Chapter of American Society of Landscape Architects.

After the tearing down of the old Mechanical Arts building in 1993, which was adjacent to the northwest of the South Engineering building, a fountain was constructed, but due to leaks and numerous maintenance problems, ideas about replacing it we discussed. In 2002, Dennis spearheaded a landscape architecture competition and ‘babbling brook’ concept won the competition. Unfortunately, on August 17, 2003, Dennis passed away unexpectedly. Nevertheless, construction on the ‘babbling brook’ began in May of 2004. In the spring of 2005, the ‘babbling brook,’ now renamed the Dennis C. Colliton campus Memorial was dedicated/

Dennis married Kathleen O’Flaherty in 1981 and they had one son, Brett.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Dennis Colliton papers are made up of nine series, which provide a detailed overview of Colliton’s professional life from the mid-1970s through the early 2000s. In particular, the courses, accreditation, and professional business series provide in-depth information on courses taught by Colliton over a twenty-five year period, the process and background on the establishment of the landscape architecture component of architecture and landscape architecture at NDSU, and the wide and diverse variety of projects that Colliton worked on as a professional landscape architect. The other six series provide additional material and insights into Colliton’s professional life. Although a restricted series, the design theses series gives an excellent overview of what many of Colliton’s students were working on.

The nine series are: Conferences, Professional Organizations, Courses, Design Theses (Restricted), Research, Department of Architecture and Landscape Architecture (DALA), Accreditation, Professional Business, and Plans.

The Conferences series (1987-2001) contains correspondence, abstracts, and occasionally notes and papers relating to conference presentations. Most of these are for the annual Council of Educators in Landscape Architecture (CELA) conference, although Colliton was a participant in several others as well, often with NDSU professor Josh Walters. The majority of the presentations took place in the 1990s.

The Professional Organizations series (1989-2003) pertains to the organizations of which Colliton was a member. Some of the organizations, most notably the American Society of Landscape Architects, distinctly relate to his professional life. Others, like River Keepers, involve Colliton on both personal and professional levels. Primarily correspondence, the series also includes meeting minutes, blueprints, and both nominations and awards he earned.

The Courses series (1977-2002) contains the syllabi, examinations, assignments, and lecture notes for the courses Colliton taught, were in his possession as Program Director of Landscape Architecture, as well as related courses that landscape architecture students might have taken as electives. Most of the files are specific to a given course; however, some relate to a subject or theme. The course numbers and titles included in this finding aid are those used at the time the course was taught. Consequently, some of the course numbers or titles may have changed and some of the courses themselves may no longer exist. In particular, the Roman numerals appended to a course title (i.e., Landscape Architecture II) changed frequently over the years.

The Design Theses series (1988-1995) is a restricted series and the Archivist must be contacted for viewing. The series is made up of undergraduate theses proposals and theses. They provide a brief overview of what some of Colliton's students were working on under his tutelage.

The Research series (1975-2003) includes preparatory work relating to courses, lectures, and personal, non-course-related scholarship. Containing some of the oldest documents in the collection, this series dates primarily from 1975 to 1985, with only a handful of files including material that is more recent. Of particular interest are the two "Research" files from 1976 and the two "Computerized Selection of Upper Midwest Plant Materials" files, the latter group including a rough draft and evaluations of a manual.

The Department of Architecture and Landscape Architecture \(DALA\) series (1976-2003) contains all the documentation Colliton saved regarding departmental events, regardless of the extent to which he was personally involved. However, most files do contain material specifically relating to Colliton. Of particular applicability are the two files entitled "Application for Promotion to Full Professor," which include rough drafts.

The Accreditation series (1982-2002) contains departmental correspondence, memos, and notes relating to the accreditation process, particularly as they pertain to the Landscape Architecture Accreditation Board. Colliton was the leader of the department's first attempt at gaining accreditation, which was ultimately successful in 1991. He was also involved in subsequent renewals of accreditation.

The Professional Business series (1976-2003) consists of the documentation relating to Colliton's private landscape architecture practice. Most notable is his work for the North Dakota Department of Transportation, but Colliton was also involved in a number of smaller projects, both commercial and residential. Most of the files include blueprints and drawings in addition to any correspondence.

The Plans series (1977-2001) consists of plans and blueprints separated due to size and format. The plans and blueprints correspond to various projects Colliton worked on and these are noted, when applicable, after the file description. This series is located in map case drawers 91-100.

NOTE: All of the materials for the Dennis Colliton Papers have been integrated intellectually, but due to the addition of materials in 2009, physically, the materials may be located in multiple boxes or multiple map case drawers. For instance: information on the LaVelle Residence is located in Box 7, Folder 13 and Box 12, Folders 27, as well as Map Case Drawer 99, Folder 16.
