HISTORY

“To permit the public generally to share the findings of college scientists and schools in fascinating realms of human knowledge, NDAC is launching an annual faculty lectureship at the college union at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 13. The committee who is arranging the first lecture has referred to the program as ‘an intellectual social hour.’ After the program, refreshments will be served.”

The Sunday Fargo Forum, January 27, 1957, p. C-1
SCOPE AND CONTENTS

There is information on all the lectureships included in this series, as well as an assortment of nominations sought and criteria forms. From its inception in 1957 through 2008, twenty-nine academic departments have been represented in the lectureships. Seven of the 50 lectureships have been presented by women. In 1985 there were two recipients and there were no lectures in 1989 and 1993.
