HISTORICAL NOTE

The first mention of women's track is found in the June 1 1897 issue of The Spectrum in an article titled, "Agricultural College Athletics." In preparation for the intercollegiate track meet to be held at Wahpeton, a meet was held at North Dakota Agricultural College to determine who would represent the College. In the "Ladies' Contest," Lizzie Olson won the 50 yard dash, Marrie Edwards the ¼ mile bicycle race, and Damia Peck the Base Ball throw. Pp. 4, 5.

In 2002 the Women's Track Team won the NCAA Division II national championship. After making the transition to Division I, in 2007-2008, into the Summit League, the women's track team won both the 2008 indoor and outdoor league championships.
