Further Readings on Korea and the Korean War

Here is a brief list of publications for additional reading regarding the Korean War and Korea in general. The publications specific to psychological operations during the war provide good background as well as some of the technical aspects of producing and dissemination the propaganda leaflets that are found in this online digital collection. For those books that are part of the NDSU Libraries, the call number is provided at the end of the citation. A special thank you to Dr. Tracy Barrett of the NDSU History Department for providing many of the titles listed.

On Korean War Psychological Operations:

Linebarger, Paul M.A. Psychological Warfare. New York: Duell, Sloan and Peace, 1954. (UB275.L5 1954) This work provides a broad overview to the history and development of psychological warfare, emphasizing World War I and II and includes a chapter on post-World War II conflicts.

On the Korean War:

Voices from the Korean War:

On General Korean History:

On North Korea:

Myers, Brian R. Han Sorya and North Korean Literature: The Failure of Socialist Realism in DPRK. Ithaca, N.Y.: East Asia Program, Cornell University, 1994.

Women:

Japanese Colonialism:

