The North Dakota Masonic Temple Collection was given to the North Dakota Institute for Regional Studies in 1967 when the Grand Lodge of North Dakota building was razed. This collection is a valuable reference collection covering almost all facets of Red River Valley history and to some extent North Dakota. It is comprised mainly of newspaper clippings although there are some pamphlets, brochures and manuscripts. Unfortunately, many items are not dated or the source is not indicated.

This collection was gathered and maintained by the Masonic Temple library over many years. The index was also compiled by the library although some additional indexing has been done by the Institute staff. This printed index follows basically the format of the original card index and very little changes have been made, although the Institute staff is aware there are some inconsistencies and backward phrases used. Hopefully the user of this index will keep these factors in mind.
